French Govt. Falls In Close Vote Over Algerian Policy

Premier Agrees to Stay Until Successor Appointed

PARIS (AP)—A caretaker government ruled France today after the National Assembly defeated Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury on his proposal to give partial self-rule to Algeria.

Bourges-Maunoury, 43-year-old middle-of-the-roader who has been in office only since June 13, immediately handed his resignation to President Rene Coty.

Coty refused to accept the resignation "at this time and in the present circumstances." Bourges-Maunoury agreed to stay only until his successor can be found.

The no-confidence vote of 279 to 253 was short of the absolute majority of the total 596 deputies which would have forced Bourges - Maunoury to resign. The 11th Coty free to ask the premier to stay in office.

The assembly's rejection of even partial self-rule for Algeria promised France a rough time in the current United Nations General Assembly, where Arab demands for Algerian independence have been heard.

AS EVIDENCE

Bourges-Maunoury had hoped to present his plan to the assembly as evidence that France is trying to meet the demands of Arab nationalism at least in part.

Coty began his search for a man to head France's 24th government since the war against a background of economic uncertainty.

The unpopularity of Bourges-Maunoury's austerity program to control inflation, particularly his price-fixing measures, certainly contributed to the defeat. Butchers, vegetable growers, metal workers ship yard hands and railroadmen all voiced anger on strike or threatening to walk out. They were angry over either the price ceilings or the government wage freeze.

PLEASED FEW

The Algerian bill pleased few in France's wide political spectrum.

It would have created six or seven local assemblies in the Algerian territory, each with territorial autonomy. At least two would have been dominated by French settlers who fear they may be submerged by the Arabs in any form of self-rule. Others would be on military or civil reconstruction control sovereignty.

The bill, having opposed the measure for fear it would give the Algerian Arabs too much autonomy, could not allow them to secede from France. The leftists and Communists also opposed the bill because the Algerians were not consulted in drafting it.

ARMY SHIFTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Col. Harold E. Brown, 45, of Brandon, Man., until recently commander of the headquarters contingent in the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, has been posted at army headquarters Nov. 4. Col. Willis J. Moogk, 47, of Watrous, Sask., now on military attache at The Hague, will become chairman of the army establishment committee on his return from the Netherlands next month.

Queen's Critic Hits Fellow Peers, Calling for House of Lords Reform

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Altrincham, critic of the Queen and her court, today hit out at his fellow members of the British House of Lords for "all afford to subsidize hereditary mediocrities."

The controversial peer urged that the House of Lords should be reformed, including the admission of women to its seats.

In the first issue of Crossbow, a quarterly magazine to be published by an independent group of young Conservatives, he suggested that peerages should be selected for the House of Lords, like life peerages, which are awarded to encourage more lefty-wing representation.

Altrincham's attack of his fellow peers: "Many of these gentlemen are fit only to be district or county councillors.

"As such they can do valuable work, but they have no aptitude for national politics, and far from embodying a spirit of independence they have in general shown themselves to be even more subservient to the party line than members of Parliament—and that is a high standard of servility which must be selected for the job."

Altrincham, who is entitled to a seat in the House of Lords, has never taken up the option because of his belief that he has no democratic and inefficient.

Altrincham suggested a method for choosing hereditary peers to act as "lords of Parliament."

Altrincham's article comes after a small, representative and highly-reputable committee of Conservatives had advised the party which peers to summon, he said. Altrincham, who is campaigning for women to the House of Lords, he said: "At present this, together with the Queen's Household, is the only field of public service from which they are debarred."

Altrinchan caused a stir among royalist ranks in August when he attacked the Queen's way of speaking. He criticized the court set as a "tweedy group out of step with the multiracial, multi-national concept of the Commonwealth.

BARRIEFIELD WOMAN DIES OF AXE-WOUNDS

Son Critically Hurt, Police Arrest Father

KINGSTON (CP)—Mrs. Edith Jean Hess, 39, of nearby Barriefield died of axe wounds early today and her 19-year-old son, William, was taken to hospital in critical condition.

Two other Hess children were treated in hospital. Barbara, 16, suffered cuts and a concussion and Patricia, 8, cuts. Neither was considered serious.

Provincial police said Bernard Ambrose Hess, 36-year-old husband, was arrested at his home early today and is being held in custody pending further investigation.

Police said Percy Beckett, a neighbor, called police after eighth-year-old Patricia Hess ran to his door and said "something is wrong with daddy."

Mrs. Hess died of axe wounds in the head as they said there was no apparent reason for the slaying.

FIRED AXE

A blood-spattered axe was found leaning against a chair in the kitchen, police said.

Mrs. Hess was still alive when taken to hospital but died there within half an hour.

Police said Patricia awoke after hearing a disturbance and aroused her sister, Barbara, with whom she was sleeping. Police said Patricia's arm may have caved the lives of both girls.

First Privately Owned Atomic Fuel Firm Opens

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's first privately - owned plant to turn out fuel for atomic reactors has hummed into operation at Port Hope, Ont.

To mark its first shipment—fuel rods for two nuclear reactors at Atomic Energy of Canada Limited's Chalk River project—two owners, A.M. Wilkins of Cardinal Limited, Monday night gave a dinner here.

Wilkins heard a warning about over - optimism concerning nuclear power prospects. It came from Mansfield Patterson chairman and president, of the American-Canadian Uranium Company, AMF's parent firm.

Said Mr. Patterson:

"We could be at present in what we know as the shirt-lining stage. That is the very precarious stage. I don't feel the amount of money we'll earn will upset the balance of power in the Canada and the United States."

He said the firm has been oversold to the people of the world in the most extraordinary fashion. On average, he said, he has foreshortened the period in which the benefits of atomic power will accrue.

James S. Duncan, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, said there is a sense of urgency about development of the nuclear power in Ontario.

He said by 1962 if Ontario does not have other energy available it will have to import about $500,000,000 worth of coal from the U.S. every year.

Today's Chuckle

"It's being rumored around town that you and your husband aren't getting along too well!"

"Nonsense! We did have some words, and I shot him. But that's as far as it went."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Cooler air from Northern Ontario is spreading today across the southern part of the province. Temperatures early this morning ranged from the low 30s in south to the low 38s in extreme Northern Ontario. The cool weather should be over by Thursday when the warmer air, now over the Prairies, is expected to reach Southern Ontario.

No significant amount of precipitation is forecast in central Ontario anywhere in the province, although a few spotty showers are possible in Eastern Ontario.

Use of Informers by Police At Peterborough Criticized

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The report of last July's inquiry into the activities of the Peterborough police force criticizes the use of bootleggers and other lawbreakers as police informers.

In his most strongly-worded paragraph, Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay who conducted the royal commission investigation, said bootleggers were "openly, flagrantly and for their own profit" allowed to operate in return for information supplied to police.

The 49-page report, which contains no recommendations, was read in city council Monday night. The inquiry was ordered by Attorney-General Roberts and Ontario following widespread complaints that the force permitted unrestricted bootlegging, engaged in wiretapping, had an admittedly high unsolved crime rate and was poorly administered.

Mr. Justice MacKay was appointed to investigate administration of the force and Deputy Chief N. A. (Bud) Clarke.

Council referred the report to police commission without comment. Some councillors, however, expressed disappointment that no recommendations were made.

The commissioner found that Clarke did not follow the instructions of John de N. Kennedy in 1954 to discontinue use of informers.

He said Clarke had assisted bootlegger Geoffrey (Gyp) Feeley in a plan which led to the arrest of three men on an attempted extortion charge and later tried to protect Feeley from prosecution for liquor offences.

On the other hand, Mr. Justice MacKay said Clarke was a man with "considerable ability" who has put in many extra hours at his duties.

The report criticized the use of bootleggers as informers on the grounds it violated British principles of law.

Gunmen in Two-State Chase Kill Two Policemen, Wound 4

NORTH VERNON, Ind. (AP)—A killer calmly surrendered in a thicket today in a manhunt that ended a night of gun battles that killed his companion and two state troopers.

The gunman, Victor Wayne Whitley, 36, of Granger, Tex., was taken when a mile-long line of policemen flushed him out of thick woods where he had fled from the car in which earlier he had held hostage.

Police have not identified Whitley's partner who was killed in a gun battle with police Monday night near Columbus, Ind., after they were stopped at a blockade.

Dead after the gun battles in two states were trooper Dupont A. Pellot, 23, of Clinton, Mich., and Wilford Kellems, 27, of Scottsburgh, Ind.

Michigan trooper Douglas A. Vogel, 27, was reported in serious condition at Ann Arbor, Mich., with head wounds in his back, face and arms.

Lester Kenoch, 38, a North Vernon farmer, was in satisfactory state trooper Robert Pond, 28, was released from a Seymour hospital with the gunmen near North Vernon. So was Clyde Perkins, a Jennings County, Ind., deputy sheriff, who was held hostage for a short time.

The killing spree started about five miles south of Clinton, Mich., Monday afternoon.

Trooper Vogel stopped two cars—one a station wagon—to check an apparent traffic violation. Vogel was shot by one of the motorists but radioed his post for help. Responding troopers intercepted the two vehicles about two miles west of Clinton area.

Commonwealth Trade Parley Proposal Wins Endorsation

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP)—Canada was reported today to have scored a victory in her plea to win support for public ownership of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Delegates at a Commonwealth conference to develop ways of expanding trade among the partners and turn them into more powerful economic units.

The four-day meeting of finance ministers, held to consider the Canadian proposal, is scheduled to wind up today with public ceremonies and an official communique which, it is understood, will indicate tentative Commonwealth approval of the Canadian scheme.

ASKS ACCEPTANCE

Events moved quickly to a climax in the Commonwealth meeting here after Finance Minister Donald Fleming's plea for support for plans for acceptance of the conference idea.

A lengthy evening session was held later, apparently to approve of the communique and the agreement to open the final minutes of today's talks. Before playing host to delegates at dinner, Mr. Fleming told reporters the talks had proven "very satisfactory."

Some delegates said later that Canadian proposals were put forward only in a general way. One specific idea was that Canada expressed willingness to aid in commonwealth trade expansion by perhaps providing capital for British West Indies expansion and to increase the tariff preference on sugar, one of BWI's main exports.

Anglican Clergy May Still Marry Divorced People

LONDON (Reuters) — The Archbishop of Canterbury said today any Anglican clergyman "may still by the law of the land marry divorced people if he wish to do so."

The church's declaration that no person who has a former partner living shall be married in church "is not so statutory force and is not a law, said Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, 70-year-old head of the Church of England.

But the declaration had "that spiritual force which properly belongs to the church's highest instrument of spiritual authority," he said. "Clergymen who disobey it do so at their own spiritual peril."

Archbishop Fisher spoke at the opening of a two-week session of Convocation of the "misunderstanding" and "much distress" caused when an Anglican clergyman recently married a divorced woman.

HAMILTON (CP) — William Thompson, 19, was killed Monday when the truck in which he was riding collided with a car. Chief Const. Ernest Hall said Thompson died instantly.

LIBERALS MEET IN JANUARY TO CHOOSE LEADER

Ottawa Appears Likely Meeting Site

OTTAWA (CP) — A national Liberal convention to choose a new leader likely will be held in Ottawa next January. It may also consider a reappraisal of party principles in the light of the June 10 election defeat.

President Duncan K. MacTavish of the National Liberal Federation Monday said Ottawa appeared in prospect as the site of the convention and late January as the likely time. He said Monday following a one-day meeting of the federation's 32 member executive committee.

Mr. MacTavish said the meeting was to hear the question of a reappraisal of party principles. Certainly, he said, the question would come before the convention called to choose a successor to Opposition Leader St. Laurent. The former prime minister has announced he is resigning his leadership as soon as a successor is chosen.

NO MAJOR SHIFT

The federation president said, however, there will be no major shift in what the party stands for. He said the party believes its basic principles appeal to the majority of Canadians. The party was modern and would make any changes needed to keep pace with the times.

He said the committee came to no firm recommendation on an actual date, although the Ottawa locale appeared firm enough. It was the most likely site because the federation does not feel it should move its substantial staff to another city for the convention.

Sighting Sub Not Reason to Start Firing

HALIFAX (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes said today Canada will defend her coasts but sighting a strange submarine isn't a signal to start firing.

He spoke to reporters on his arrival here for a three-day inspection tour of east coast defences.

Reports of unidentified submarines seen off Newfoundland have brought the country's defences into the news recently and I don't think the navy chiefs have."

Certainly they are going to start dropping depth charges if a submarine is sighted — but not by defence ministers, nor merchant and fishing vessels if need be."

He said it is the right of Canada to "interfere with foreign vessels so long as no overt act is taken which puts the right of Canada to "interfere with foreign vessels so long as no overt act is taken which puts the right in question." But he announced the government hopes to add anti-submarine squadrons at Greenwood, N.S., and Summerside, P.E.I., with the new submarine Argus aircraft. He said the Argus will be used to "police the 200 mile limit."

Mr. Pearkes accepted the first four-engine Argus for the RCAF at Montreal on Monday. The last largest aircraft ever built in Canada, will join the RCAF Maritime Air Command.

Covent Garden Saloon Is Invited To Attend Swankiest Charity Ball

LONDON (AP) — Sponsors of London's swankiest charity ball of the year faced up gamely today to the fact that a saloon named the Marquess of Anglesey has received an invitation to attended for the peer of the same name.

The saloon is in the Covent Garden area, centre of the London vegetable trade. It is frequented largely by porters, who drink beer and eat pies standing around. If they accept in a body, the ball will be something to see.

It is the annual ball in aid of the stage, screen and television shiring charged in aid of the Central Council for the Care of Crippled. The Queen Mother is its royal patron.

Somehow, the invitation for the marquess was mailed in an envelope bearing his name, but no address. The postal sorters had heard of the saloon, but not the peer. The glossy, gold-printed card was delivered Monday to Reg Grist, proprietor of the drink emporium.

The regulars would love to go," Grist said. "Of course, they might have a little trouble finding the dress suits stipulated in the invitation."

Mrs. Anna Harries, chairman of the ball committee, was mildly dismayed but decided to grin and bear it.

"I think the only thing to do is to have the saloon redecorated," she said. "Our porter friends and the landlord would be most welcome. Perhaps we could make the everything really jolly."

It is believed the invitation went out unaddressed because a typist panicked at the name of the peer's home town. The longest place name in Britain is the Welsh village of Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerych - syrndrobwllllantysiliogogogoch.

The address of the saloon is Bow Street.

Canada, Panama, Japan Elected To Security Council

Czechoslovakia Defeated Resoundingly on First Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Canada, Panama and Japan won election to the United Nations Security Council on the first ballot today after Czechoslovakia's Communist-supported bid for a seat was resoundingly defeated.

Canada received 72 of the General Assembly's votes in the secret ballot. Panama had 74 and Japan 58.

The two-thirds majority was necessary for election. Czechoslovakia mustered only 25.

Seventy-eight of the 82 assembly members cast ballots.

Because the U.S. was supporting Japan—a new UN member—for a Council seat, most of the Soviet - bloc opposition was regarded as being aimed against the former enemy state. But last week Russia's deputy foreign minister, Vasily Kuznetsov, made some pointed remarks about the validity of Commonwealth representation on the council on a geographical basis.

Since a "gentlemen's agreement" was reached in London in 1946 on geographical distribution of seats on the Security Council, conference, many Commonwealth countries had achieved independence and the Soviet bloc had failed in the Asian and African geographical areas.

But neither Kuznetsov nor Czechoslovakia's delegate, Josef Ulrich, who addressed the press conference Monday, would say directly whether they would protest to our either Canada or Japan to win a seat for the east European contender.

Ulrich repeatedly stressed at his press conference that the only issue was that eastern Europe should be represented on the council, and that the Western powers had for the last several years been their efforts to exclude these representatives.

Swam Niagara To Enter U.S.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) Immigration officials are holding a 20-year-old Toronto youth who says he entered U.S. Sunday night by swimming the Niagara River just below the Niagara Falls International Bridge.

The youth was identified as Claus Kirchhof, who entered Canada from Germany about a year ago.

Police said Kirchhof battled his way across a 500-foot section of the river between the bridge and the Niagara gorge. Jkrvement consider it almost certain death before he was pulled ashore.

The youth said he had to rest for three hours on land before he had the strength to climb the gorge. He was picked up by a policeman here who became suspicious of his bedraggled appearance.

Kirchhof said he wanted to go to New York to look for a job but did not want to waste a visa.

Immigration authorities said he probably will be returned to Canada.

Blast Rocks Toronto Plant

TORONTO (CP)—An explosion followed by a fire rocked the offices and refining building of the strikebound Lever Brothers Limited plant early today, but there were no injuries.

Several employees left the offices about 10 minutes before the blast. Several windows were blown out and a number of fiber presses were destroyed. Damage was estimated at $12,000.

Police and fire department officials were satisfied the explosion was accidental. Investigation showed overheated oil presses were touched off by a spark.

The plant has been shutdown since last May over a wage dispute.

Mayor Buys First Ticket

Mayor Jane Forrester is seen purchasing the first ticket for the Rotary sponsored Oberammergau Passion Play to be staged at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium. Making the sale is A.F.E. Jarrett, manager of the Bank of Montreal who is acting as general chairman for the Rotary Club Passion Play committee.

In a message to Belleville citizens, Mayor Forrester said it seemed fitting and desirable that residents of the community should avail themselves of seeing the Collegiate presentation and designated the period as "Passion Play Week."

Mayor Forrester's message to the citizens follows:

In a well to pause and remember that there is nothing new about the problems of the present day. Events at times seemingly threatening, are the history of the human race.

Two thousand years ago the humble Nazarene inspired by a deep understanding of the eternal verities of being, said: "In the world ye shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Throughout these two thousand years the life and teaching of this Man has been a source of inspiration and comfort; have kept the flame, the beacon light of faith and hope; have pointed the way to peace, in the midst of disaster, want and woe. The story of His life, His betrayal and agony, His supreme triumph over the forces of evil, even the last enemy itself; the Truth He lived and represented, cannot too often be brought before us, cannot too indelibly be imprinted upon our hearts and minds.

Starting Thursday evening at 8.15, October 10th through 12th, the Oberammergau Passion Play will be presented in the Collegiate auditorium in this city. At 2.00 p.m. on Friday, October 11th, there will be a special student matinee for the children of Belleville public and parochial schools. This great production comes to the city for the first time and is sponsored by the Belleville Rotary Club.

It seems altogether fitting and highly desirable that the citizens of this community should avail themselves of this opportunity to refresh their vision and strengthen their faith in contemplating the life of Jesus, the Christ and Prince of Peace.

I hereby declare this period as "Passion Play Days" and hope that as many citizens as possible will see this sincere portrayal.

Jane Forrester, Mayor.

Growth in Pharmaceutical Industry Outlined at Rotary

The vast growth in the Canadian pharmaceutical manufacturing industry was described by Rotarians at their weekly meeting yesterday. Gerald A. Wishart, vice-president of manufacturing at Mead-Johnson Co. Ltd., discussed the "Miracle Drugs" of the last ten years.

He opened his address by telling the group many people think of his company as "the baby food company." He said the company can actually be broken into three parts, manufacturing baby cereals, nutritional products and pharmaceuticals, including vitamin preparations and other drug products.

Mr. Wishart said the pharmaceuticals is the fastest-growing part of the company. The reason the public hears so little about this phase of industry is because there is no advertising except to doctors who prescribe certain drugs for their patients.

In describing the changes which have taken place during the last ten or 12 years, he said in 1945 or 1947 the pharmacist would have a difficult time filling prescriptions since many of the drugs were unfamiliar and unavailable. "Over 90 per cent of the prescriptions filled now couldn't be filled ten or 12 years ago," he stated.

He went on to say that every day in Canada 90,600 prescriptions are filled. Due to the introduction of new drugs the mortality rates of diseases have been reduced. He quoted figures to back up his statements. "Today's so-called wonder drugs," he remarked, "can have a proenvironmental impact on his best in a few days."

The gathering heard about the work of the research department, where new drugs are developed. Mr. Wishart said the important aspect of the research scientist is production techniques which allow drugs to be manufactured at lower price.

He remarked that people are often shocked by the price of drugs, adding that they could a lot more expensive in the public than they are. He pointed out that after penicillin was discovered at a university, $20,000,000 was spent by the pharmaceutical industry to discover new drugs on a large scale at low cost. The speaker went on to say that where it cost $8 ten years ago, the same amount costs 20 cents today. Manufacturers must remain constantly on their toes to discover new methods to keep the costs as low as possible. In bringing the drug prices down to a level, Mr. Wishart, said one of the raw materials used here, vitamin B-12, costs $25 a gram.

"Basically we all prefer to spend our money on items we want rather than things we need. But that box of pills represents an investment in health and happiness," he declared.

In his closing remarks the speaker said the pharmaceutical industry is doing well with the guidance of the medical world; striving to provide the most drugs at the lowest possible price.

IN MEMORIAM

BULPITT. — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Madelaine Bulpitt, (Toodie Girl), who passed away ten years ago, October 1st, 1947.
She had a smile, a pleasant way.
A helping hand to all she knew;
She was so kind, so generous and true.
Oh earth has nobler and her best,
Grant her, dear Jesus, heavenly rest.
—Loved and remembered and sadly missed by Mom and Dad, brothers Thomas, Franklin and William, sisters-in-law Evelyn, Ella and Gerald.

BULPITT. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Madeline Bulpitt (nee Woodcock), who passed away October 1st, 1949.
God made a wonderful mother,
He made her heart full of love;
He made her a smile and sunshine,
He made her heart of pure gold.
It is sad but true, we wonder so,
Why God takes those we love.
There are others, yes, we know,
But not as dear as you to us so.
Ten years ago we had to part
But I'll meet you in heaven with all our heart.
In heaven there will return to us,
In heaven together, all reunited.
Loved, remembered and sadly missed by her two sons Stanley and Gerald.

HAIGHT. — In fond and loving memory of our dear brother, Ernest Haight, who died suddenly October 1st, 1938.
He wished good-night and left us,
Nor even said goodbye;
He had gone before we knew it,
And God only knows why.
—Sadly missed by sisters and brothers.

HAIGHT. — In fond and loving memory of our dear son Joseph Allen Haight, who died October 1st, 1953.
Sometimes it's hard to understand,
When God takes those we love,
But this wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to know.
God gave us seventh to fight it,
He gave us strength to bear it,
For what it meant to part with him.
Only God above knew.
—Sadly missed by mother and dad.

Theatre Guild Members Hear Kingston Speaker

At the first regular meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild, Mrs. Norma Edwards of the Domino Theatre, Kingston, was the guest speaker. She chose directing as her subject.

Mrs. Edwards, a former member of the Vancouver Little Theatre, the University of British Columbia Alumnae Players and the University of Toronto Alumnae drama group, has acted and directed. Following her address there was a question period.

Miss Ruth Nightingale gave a report on the weekend conference held in Ottawa recently. Seven Belleville members were present. Lectures and practical demonstrations were given on lighting, directing and stage movement, while panel discussions were arranged on financing, membership, publicity and programming. The Ottawa Little Theatre members acted as hosts for this occasion.

The conference was open to all groups registered in the Eastern Ontario Drama League.

The Belleville group has selected two one-act plays to be presented to the public in November. These plays will be directed by Betty Sadler, Dolly Cain and John Ryan. Plans are also being made to participate in the Coventry Pageant at Christmas time. About 40 people will take part in it. Jean Rickards has been asked to bring before the executive some plans and recommendations for this project.

Arrangements have been made to hold future meetings the first Wednesday of every month in St. Thomas' Parish House on Bridge Street East.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market displayed little trend today in dull, listless morning trading.

The first-hour volume of 480,000 shares was exactly the same as Monday at 11 a.m.

Industrials and western oils were narrowly higher while golds put price changes in both sections were small. Base metals and golds eased slightly.

Canadian Ingersoll-Rand lost four points at 45 on a single sale among Industrials and Page-Hersey Tubes lost a point at 110.

High-priced mines, including uraniums and golds, were fractionally lower. Grandue lost 20 cents at a new low of $1.80 among coppers and Opemiska was off 20 cents to $8.50. Other changes were less than 10 cents.

Western oils moved in a narrow range. Okalta climbed 30 cents to $5.40 and then settled back to $5.25.

Demorestville Fair Features Horse Show, School Parade

PICTON — Demorestville Fair on Wednesday, favored by bright though windy weather, was one of the best in some years. Exhibits overflowed the building with a exceptionally fine horse show. In spite of the busy season there was a large attendance, including pupils of every school in Sophiasburg township who took part in a colorful opening parade.

At noon, the Women's Institute served a delicious chicken dinner in the village hall and this was followed by the parade of children, decorated bicycles and ponies. Judging was based on marching, manner and appearance. Senior room of Demorestville school took first place, the pupils headed by two drum majors wearing tall blue hats with tassels and red capes. Dressed as Muonties, Bethesda school was second; S.S. 5, Solmesville, carrying huge pencils and large books carried on a litter and wearing mauve and yellow bands and hats, was third; Big Island, south, S.S. 23, waitresses in pink and blue outfits, fourth; Bethel pupils wearing flags of the United Nations, fifth. Others in order were Elmbrook, as Canadians of the future, Demorestville as representatives of various walks of life; Doxsees, featuring Doxsee milk and canned goods; Northport with picture of Queen on banner, carrying flags; Hillcrest, in colored caps and capes; Big Island, north side, whose banner had a large picture of their school. Other schools parading were: junior room, Demorestville, as Indians; Jericho as clowns; Mount Carmel in green and yellow; Crofton as farmerettes, S.S. 10, in green and yellow.

BAND PLAYED

A popular feature was the baby show with a large entry judged by Miss Ruth Millville, the colored Health Unit assistants. Sweepstakes baby was Lorraine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carter, Demorestville. Winners in the year class, Bruce Picton; Lowell Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prudhomme, Picton; Susan Gordon, daughter of Mrs. Ivan Struthers, Demorestville. Winners in under one year class were, Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stewart, Demorestville; Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Nelson, R.R. 2, Picton; Jim, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mitchell, R.R. 2, Picton.

SCHOOL EXHIBITS

Schools of the township had a fine display of fruits, vegetables, grains, murals, art, flowers, mineral, tanning and other articles. The Eston awards for most points in the school exhibit to Diane Gorsline for the girls and David Semple for the boys.

Under the direction of Noah Trumble, a program of music and dancing was held on an open stage. Winners were, boys' solo, Wayne McFaul, Crofton; girls' solo, Nancy Harvey, Elmbrook, Jacqueline Bailey, Jericho; girls, 9 to 12 Diane Gorsline, Demorestville, Joyce Howard, Mt. Carmel, Gergina Toccock; boys 8-12, Garnet Woolmore-Goodwin, Mt. Carmel; Wayne Lyons, Woodville. Duet winners were Linda Miller and Gayle McFaul, Crofton, Rosemary Rosborough and L. Doxsee, Doxsees; Lynne Harvey and Joyce McMullen, Jericho. Lynne Harvey was winner in novelty dance, Jericho, with Joyce Lyons high school students; Linda Doxsee, piano solo; Janice Langley and Lois Rosebrough, in special class.

In the Sophiasburgh calf club competition, winners of awards on calves were Tom Ditchburn, Dale Rosborough, Ken Ditchburn, Calvin Young, Freddie Newcombe, Dick Ebbers. In showmanship, members finished as follows: D. Snider, C. Young, T. Ditchburn, D. Rosborough, D. Ebbers.

A county calf club competition was held with two entries from each of the eight clubs, undertaken by Harold Werkhoven, R.R. 7 Belleville, second by Bob May, R.R. 8 Picton.

A program of sports was keenly contested. Results of the field games added to the fun and color of the Fair.

Winners in the horse classes included Morris Parks, R.R. 7 Belleville; Walter Snider, Picton; Douglas Morden, Demorestville, Charles Culmer, Picton; B. C. Rosebrough, Picton. The many ponies almost stole the show from the roadsters and saddle horses.

There was an excellent display of fruits and vegetables. Flowers and plants were also in abundance and ladies' work offered a wide variety. Many exhibits were of poultry added to the bedlam of sound from that corner.

President of the Society is Harold Munro with Harry Gorsline as secretary-treasurer.

Test of Strength Looms for Hoffa At Convention

By JIM THOMASSON

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The first major test of strength in the battle for presidency of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was in prospect at the Miami Beach Auditorium today.

Two of the leading contenders for the job were located by Dave Beck — Vice-President James R. Hoffa of Detroit and Thomas J. Haggerty, Chicago milk truck drivers official—probably will collide head-on today as committee makes its final report on contested delegates.

A coalition moved to unite the strength of three candidates in an effort to block Hoffa, the heir apparent of Beck, showed new signs of significant gains.

Representative John S. Shelley (Dem. Calif.), attempted to get a coalition drive under way Monday night when he announced as for president with an appeal to the other candidates to unite to defeat the rally of strength.

IGNORED MOVES

But Vice-President William A. Lee of Chicago ignored overtures from Haggerty and Vice-President Thomas L. Hickey of New York, who wanted Lee to engage in some conversation about such a move.

Lee and Haggerty are banking heavily on the threat that the Teamsters may be expelled from the AFL-CIO if Hoffa is named to succeed Beck.

Lee, Hickey and two other vice-presidents, Frank Brewster of Seattle and Einar Mohn of Minneapolis, are named by the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee in the group's inquiry into ethical practices on which the AFL-CIO ultimatum is based. The committee's house within 30 days is based.

Lee is unsuccessfully to force Beck to invite Georgeto Meany, AFL-CIO president, to address the teamsters convention. The convention schedule is tight to permit an invitation to any outsiders, Beck replied.

As a battle over validity of the 1,500 votes sparked by Haggerty forces, neared the convention floor, Teamster John McClellan (Dem. Ark.), chairman of the committee investigating labor-management affairs told the teamsters evidence which he said indicate 50 per cent of the delegates were illegally named.

He cited a total of 68 locals including four in Detroit, which are 962 locals eligible for participation in the convention. The 68 locals represent were 106 Montreal, 230 Windsor, 936 Toronto and 70 Vancouver.

In an exchange of telegrams, Beck said the information offered by McClellan is inconclusive.

Hoffa remains supremely confident. "I'll get a majority on the ballot. In reply to questions about the possible coalition, he said: "I'll wait and count the buttons out there," referring to Hoffa for president" button worn by many delegates.

At a-meeting of the conference, liberal group handling union funds, which has come under some criticism, was unanimously approved as was given a virtual blank cheque on future spending.

Police Blotter

Theft, of an electric sander, electric drill and a set of taps from the Canadian Canners at Frankford has been reported to Provincial Police. The theft is believed to have taken place some time on Sunday night.

City police reported a quiet night-watch. Two minor accidents were reported, both of them resulting in damage of less than $100.

Hospital Auxiliary Holds Successful Fall Bazaar

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. Ross Burtt, wife of the mayor of Trenton, together with other prominent Trenton ladies, poured tea at the successful Fall Bazaar held by the Trenton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary on Friday afternoon.

Receiving the guests in the brilliantly decorated auditorium of the Trenton Community Garden were Mrs. Murray Dinon, Mrs. A. S. Oliver, Miss Hazel Farley, Miss G. S. Moores, and Mrs. H. Forbell.

The Carousel, which was conveyed jointly by Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. J. T. Fuller, attracted crowds of Trentonians all anxious to share in the tea and goodies, and as expected flew from the gaily decorated stalls.

Balloons filled the vacant air and hung overhead, and the tables were decorated in the hospital colors. At the head table, tea was poured by Mrs. Burtt, Mrs. R. H. Hakes, Mrs. J. Kerr, Mrs. S. Graham, Mrs. W. Ireland and Mrs. K. Couch.

During the afternoon, youthful pupils of the Esther Lillian Dancing School gave a ballet performance. Miss Mary Kerr arranged the musical items, which included numbers from "Carousel" and other popular music.

Mrs. Aziz was in charge of the candy stall, which was such a great success that it was soon empty, and Mrs. S. Sales and Mrs. J. McClintock were in charge of the apron table. Children's novelties were conveyed by Mrs. R. McGill, Mrs. W. Jones and Mrs. R. Wright.

Mrs. Clyde Mason was the convener of the very effective decorations, and Mrs. Richmond was the ticket convener. Other conveners were Mrs. Thorne Spear, Mrs. C. McInnes, Mrs. Harold Keefer, Mrs. E. Little.

TAG DAY SUCCESSFUL

With a response of $1,659 to date, the tag days held by the Trenton Welfare Committee on behalf of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind promise soon to reach the objective of $2,500, as there are yet some donations to be received.

A. J. Boorne, treasurer of the committee, announced yesterday that he had every confidence that the rest of the donations to the tag days would be received as those already received. Several industrial companies and stores have yet to send in their contributions.

The all-out effort to collect funds for such a worthy cause in Trenton was convened by Mrs. Boorne, assisted by Mrs. Claude Graham, Miss Alicia Hayes and Miss Olive Wood. All are ladies who have given much time and trouble to the welfare of the blind since withdrawal the gift of sight. Mr. and Mrs. Boorne have been active in the members of the White Cane Club in Trenton and frequently take them into the meetings of the club in Belleville. There are about 20 blind persons in Trenton.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED

A small fire of unknown origin, was extinguished by the ceiling of the cellar of an apartment at 114 King Street, owned by F. Filion, was put out by the owner on the arrival of firemen before much damage could be done. Trenton Fire Department, which were called to scene reported a loss to explain the start of the fire, as no wiring was near the portion of the flooring which caught alight.

Doctors Taxed On Kickbacks By Optical Firm

OTTAWA (CP) — Seventeen Vancouver physicians must pay income tax on $325,000 in kickbacks they received from Simard and Optical Company Limited of Toronto.

The income tax appeal board has turned down a plea by the doctors—all eye specialists—that the money be considered a capital gain on sales of shares in an optical company.

The board, in a judgment made public Monday night, ruled that the transaction between the doctors and the company "was not a bona fide sale of shares" but "an ingeniously contrived scheme to pay extra sums of money for a period of 10 years to the co-operating doctors and thus to assure a continuing rich volume of profitable business to Toronto enterprises concerned."

The board ruled that $33,754 received by Dr. Allan Hall Simard from Standard Optical Company Limited in the years 1947 to 1953 inclusive constituted "income properly assessable to income tax." It made the same finding in connection with appeals by 17 of his fellow eye specialists in Vancouver, to which they had previously abandoned their appeals.

The ruling, made public Monday night, said complications in the case dated back to 1924 when a group of eye specialists set up an incorporated business known as Prescription Optical Company Limited.

Number of shares a doctor was permitted to hold in the company generally was based on the number of prescriptions turned in to the company.

The judgment says that in 1931 Prescription Optical Company Limited, Toronto, bought out the doctors' company and, in turn, agreed to pay the doctors who were members of Prescription Optical $4.50 for each and every prescription or repair.

Sept. Wetter And Warmer Than Average

September will go down in the records as being a rather wet month.

Records at the water filtration plant on the Trent Road show that 5.16 inches of rain fell last month nearly double the amount for the average month. Average rainfall for September over a 10-year period is 2.82 inches, it was stated.

September also was a bit warmer with a mean temperature of 60 degrees as compared with a mean reading of 59 over a 10-year period. High temperature for the month was 90 degrees with 31 degrees listed as the low. A year ago the high was 87 and the low a cold 33 degrees, and a mean temperature of 55 degrees.

3 Children Die As School Bus Spins off Hill

LOS ANGELES (CP)—A school bus, its brakes apparently gone, spun off a hill and landed on its side in a flood ravine Monday, killing three youngsters and injuring 24 others.

The big vehicle was returning students home from All Saints Roman Catholic School when it plunged over the ravine and somersaulted into a shallow creek at the bottom of the ravine.

Steven Malorca, 8, and John de Santis, 7, were killed outright. Edward Ulwelling, 6, died two hours later. Some of the injured were in critical condition. Bus driver Meldon Smith, 53, also was hurt.

Liberals Meet

That would mean the "convention was on the floor of the Ottawa Coliseum where Mr. St. Laurent was picked as liberal leader in 1948 and Lester B. Pearson in Ottawaker as Conservative chief last December.

A federation announcement said the date will be finally set by a conference between a subcommittee of the federation executive and representatives of the liberal group in Parliament.

The Liberal parliamentary group meets Oct. 11, three days before the opening of Parliament. A decision on the contention date will be expected about Oct. 15 or 16, informants said.

WILL CONTINUE

Monday's developments made it clear Mr. St. Laurent will continue as Opposition leader through the coming parliamentary session.

Mr. St. Laurent, who is not a member of the executive committee, visited Monday's gathering to meet with the members.

Two prospective candidates at his successor — former external affairs minister L. B. Pearson and former health minister Paul Martin—were in Ottawa but did not visit the meeting.

Afterwards, the federation issued this statement with respect to Mr. St. Laurent:

"Many touching tributes were paid to Mr. St. Laurent at the meeting today. Many members of the committee spoke of the sincere affection and high regard in which he is held in all parts of Canada and referred to the outstanding attributes he displayed as prime minister of Canada and leader of the Liberal party."

Mineral Riches Seen as Canada's Freedom Title

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's northern mineral resources were described as "title deeds of freedom" by Prime Minister Diefenbaker in an address to the Commonwealth Mining and Metallurgical Congress.

Mr. Diefenbaker used the phrase in speaking to a dinner given Monday night to congress delegates by the government of Canada, and added:

"You have met us once more conscious of the great potential of our mineral resources. We propose to use those resources to bring about peace and a higher standard of living everywhere in the world."

Price of Milk Here Increased Cent a Quart

The price of milk went up one cent per quart in the city today as local dairies passed along a 19 cents per hundredweight increase to the farmers, effected last week.

In Belleville only the per quart price was increased, there being no change in the price for pints and half pints.

The cash and carry price for milk at the four city dairies, where home delivery is stopped through strike action, is now 20c per quart. Price at stores is 23c per quart. Price for pints at the dairies is 12 cents.

One dairy official commenting on the price increase said dairies had no alternative than to pass the increased cost of milk along to the consumer. The new 19 cent per hundredweight increase to farmers was ordered to go into effect October 1st.

Over Quarter Of Students Ill

OWEN SOUND (CP) — There were 340 students of a total of 1,317 absent from Owen Sound collegiate and Vocational Institute today, the majority suffering from influenza. Eight of 51 teachers were also absent.

Officials said few were absent from the public schools.

Dr. L. S. Middleton, medical officer of health, said the flu appeared to be attacking teen-agers and young adults mainly.

Visits to the General and Marine Hospital have been restricted.

BELLEVILLE'S TURN NEXT

A. M. Snider, chairman of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, has announced the signing of an agreement with the Town of Trenton for the preparation of plans and calling of tenders for the first stage of a sewage treatment plant there.

This action removes Belleville's last excuse, if any such excuse existed, for delay on a similar project here.

Sewage treatment plants are necessary at both Trenton and Belleville if the present polluted state of Bay of Quinte waters is to be remedied. It might have been pleaded that there was little to be gained by Belleville residents from the construction of a sewage disposal plant here if Quinte waters were already polluted by the time they reached here on their journey to the sea. But, with action at Trenton now assured, we can be certain that the Ontario Water Resources Commission will not long delay requiring Belleville to take similar action. If there was little to be gained by treatment of sewage here while Trenton still polluted the waters of the Bay, it is equally true that the united the waters of the Bay, it is equally true that the Commission will see no reason to permit Belleville to continue to pollute water which is "delivered" to us polluted.

STRANGE RESULTS

In economics and in politics, actions often have results far different from those anticipated and sought.

A striking example of this is provided by the current meeting of the International Monetary Fund, from which India is seeking large loans to save its industrialization program.

Pakistan is opposed, saying that loans to India would be unfair to Pakistan. The Pakistan view, put bluntly, is that the Fund is being asked to "bail out" India from a situation resulting from the Indian Government spending its own funds on armaments, which Pakistan considers a threat to its security. The Indian view is that the purchase of these arms was made necessary by the gift of NATO arms to Pakistan. Pakistan and India are at odds over Kashmir. So the U.S., in seeking to safeguard Southeast Asia against the threat of Communism, has produced a situation where a vitally important industrialization program in a heavily-populated and relatively poor country is threatened with disaster. And nothing would do more to promote the spread of Communism in Southeast Asia than for production in India to fall behind in the race to match the rapid increase in population.

FARMERS' INCOME DECLINES

The cash income of Canadian farmers was lower in the first six months of this year than during the same period in 1956.

The Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa reports that from June to January inclusive this year Canadian farmers received $1,207,000,000. During the first six months of 1956 their cash income was $1,213,000,000. The Bureau says that farmers' cash incomes this year were "slightly below" those for last year, and the use of the word "slightly" might be justified by the $6,000,000 decline was the first in history. After all, $6,000,000 is less than half of one, per cent of $1,213,000,000. Unfortunately, though, farmers' buying power declined much more sharply than this figure would suggest. The consumer price index stood at 122.6 in July, 1957, compared to 119.1 in July of last year. Canadian farmers thus needed $128.60 this year to buy the same amount of goods they purchased with $119.10 a year earlier, and instead of receiving the additional $3.50 they got some 60 cents less. They were thus "short" not a mere 60 cents but $4.10 for every $119.10 they made last year. Their real cash income declined not half of one per cent but almost 3½ per cent. There is quite a difference.

It may be argued, quite correctly, that farmers were not the only Canadians who saw the purchasing power of their dollars decline this year, compared with a year ago. That is all too true, but the record shows that many of the other Canadians were able to offset this loss in the purchasing power of the dollar by increasing their cash incomes. The farmers, through no fault of their own, did not enjoy this compensation.

This decline in farm income is bad news not merely for farmers but for all Canadians, and particularly for those Canadians in urban centres who earn their living by supplying the farmer with his needs.

LOST THRILL

Time was a turkey used to be Served only on some special date.
It was reserved, and never served
Until we wished to celebrate.
But now when we go out to dine,
By noon or night and anywhere
That rich delight, dark meat or light,
Is often on the bill of fare.

Time was when I was just a boy—
And long ago that seems to be,
At table I would jump with joy
A turkey on the board to see.
I had to be a special day
For which without the year we'd looked—
A say event which something meant Before a turkey would be cooked.

But always time and customs change
And all such changes have to face.
I like it still, and eat my fill,
But turkey now is commonplace.
And, sad to state, on any plate
One joy we've lost that I deplore,
The youngsters stare and eat their share,
The thrill of drumsticks is no more.

Can a Rebel Be Healthy?

Peterborough Examiner

The declining physical fitness of modern youth has prompted one Manitoba newspaper to publish illustrations and instructions for the Knaus-Weber physical fitness tests. In case the front page invitation to test yourself, one, printed by the Winnipeg Free Press gets into your hands, we would suggest we strongly advise them not to try it on their children. A child try it on their children. A child with its hands clasped on the nape of its neck; the instruction reads that someone should hold the child's feet and the child should be able to raise himself to the sitting position. We are sure that this hyper-extension of the spine could be beneficial.

But we are mocking an obviously innocent mistake: the illustration is intended for test number four—head and chest off the ground for ten seconds. What is surprising however is the statement of the Director of Physical Education Department at the University of Manitoba who gives seven reasons for being in "good shape. They range from happiness to long life — "the possibility of a rebel," he says, "usually has a happier disposition and is less inhibited."

This is probably so; but what of the other warnings about being happy and contented. We hear echoes of the graduation speeches of July.—"Don't be content with the status quo." A rebel.

If these injunctions make it necessary to be a rebel by what goes on around us, students at University this year will have to have no easy decision to make.

Adolescents Pick the Hits

The hit parade listings that dictate a constant flood of "irritating, startling, disquieting and nauseating noises" are "unrealistic" on Canadian radio stations are the result of a monstrous lie, according to an article by a radio station executive in the current issue of MacLean's Magazine.

The current hit parades are dominated by "the most degraded forms of popular music yet devised" — Rock 'n' Roll and Western—but this latest and cheap masquerade is formed on us by a fraudulent but influential minority, writes J. D. LeBlanc, program director of radio station CJCH in Halifax.

Popularity listings are compiled from record-store sales and listener preferences, and disc-jockey requests. These three outlets, he says, are "controlled exclusively by fad-ridden teenagers. The result is that adolescent tastes are being forced exclusively by fad-ridden teenagers. The result is that adolescent tastes are being forced on the entire record and music played on most of the country's radio stations. Adults are compelled to songs with "oversimplified melodies, monotonous accompaniments and unsanitized lyrics," because these are preferred by the seven percent of the population between fourteen and nineteen years old.

There has been at least one practical test of the biased choice made by popularity listings. Radio station CKCW in Moncton, N'fld., solicited 3,000 musical requests from listeners in a district of 50,000 souls. Not more than a dozen hit parade tunes showed up among the 3,000 answers.

LeBlanc's article makes a pointed conclusion: "We are constantly listening to the worst most of us don't like, because we think it's our favorite music."

Says Potato Not Fattening

Winnipeg Tribune

Recently, the potato industry in Ontario held its first annual conference in Guelph. One of the speakers at the conference was the chief nutritionist of the federal department of health, Dr. L. B. Pett.

He had a mouthful to say about the potato and its relation to overweight. Corpulence is the old-fashioned word for overweight. According to Dr. Pett, the potato is a greatly maligned vegetable and does not deserve the stigma of being more fattening than most other garden produce.

Dr. Pett declared, "No food is fattening in itself, only in the way it is used."

This statement should take its place with the classic comment about hot weather — it isn't the heat, it's the humidity.

Like whipped cream and double maltedes, potatoes are strictly non-fattening — provided they are left on the plate. This is true of everything that tastes good.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

October 1st., 1937

The Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., was honored at a banquet which was held in St. Michael's Academy Wednesday noon in connection with the observance of the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. The function was given by the members of the Catholic Women's League. At the conclusion of the banquet the Very Rev. A. J. Hanley acted as chairman for the brief addresses of congratulation, on behalf of the priests of the diocese of Kingston, the Very Rev. D. A. Cullinan of Tweed presented to Monsignor Nicholson a handsome gold watch. Those attending were His Grace Most Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Co-adjutor Archbishop of Kingston, Mr. Thomas Nicholson and Mrs. A. E. Barbeau of Ottawa, the father and sister of Monsignor Nicholson; Mr. Jos. Haberson of Kingston, priests of Kingston, and the neighboring dioceses of Pembroke, Alexandria, Peterborough and Toronto and representatives of various religious orders.

Among those from this city who have left for Queen's University, Kingston, are Misses Margaret Laidlaw, Betty Wells, Mary Davidson, Joan Maracks and Messrs. Douglas Bankier, George Hamilton, Arthur May, Don Sprung, Bill Rutledge, Jim Moon, Arlo Pitcher and Frank Mitchell.

Sugar Ration Reduced in Class From our file copy at this time in 1897: Belleville is a town over which not much of the post office is concerned. The change was made today reducing the office from a city office to the class of a town office. Inspector Merrick of Kingston was in town today and made the transfer of the office from John Taylor, late postmaster, to Thomas Dunean, the new postmaster. The following will compose the staff under the new regime: acting postmaster, Thomas Duncan; clerks: Alfred Taylor, Lynch, J. Reeves, Walter Taylor, Miss Mary Kennedy and Miss Dora Frost. The following are retiring as members of the staff: W. B. Wallbridge, C. E. Fralick, B. L. Hargrove and Miss M. I. Newbery. The only new member is Miss Frost. Miss Dora Frost and Mr. Walter Taylor.

Send Faubus To Bronx Zoo?

Ottawa Citizen

A recent civil rights case in New York was settled with one dispatch and manifest justice that it surely offers an example of what can be done anywhere, given the will.

The baby walrus (the only one of its kind in captivity in North America) in the Bronx Park Zoological menagerie was being bullied by two elephant seals with which it shared a pool in the park. The walrus weighed 1,000 pounds and the seals 800 pounds and 2,500 pounds respectively, but the walrus' tusks had only begun to grow, and it had virtues of defenceless.

Since last summer, the seals had been trying to nudge the walrus off the raft, but the walrus, aided by its flippers, refused to be pushed off. Then the seals tried violence, and began nipping at the walrus with their teeth. They were immediately hailed in the Bronx Zoo, which is apparently one of the worst things that can happen to an elephant seal. So the Bronx Zoo they will have time to reflect on this when given some form of proposition that, in a democracy seals and walruses are created equal.

The obvious question now arises: Is there the equivalent of the Bronx Zoo somewhere in the Southern United States? If there is, it should be closed. We would be easier to do something about Governor Faubus of Arkansas.

Here's a List Of What's New

Wall Street Journal

What's new: Chocolate-flavored vodka that's a dark brown color and smells like a chocolate bar. A Wisconsin distillery also offers vodka in wild cherry, orange, lime flavor. A Wisconsin brewery offers beer which, no fooling, has such non-brew-like tastes as Tom Collins, gin and bourbon punch.

Among things to look for are new-type individual-service, drive-in theatres in cold climes. Meanwhile, today's up-to-date church service is equipped with not individual microphones over which worshipers can transmit their orders from the car to the kitchen; waitresses bring back the requested food.

"Last word" department. A Kansas City firm says it's developing a vending machine which will handle paper money and make change. But it's struggling with the knotty problem of teaching the machine to distinguish counterfeit bills from the real thing.

A University of California biochemist says a growth hormone isolated in whales can be given to children to make them grow.

But Do Sheep Count Properly?

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Much of the world of science seems so dedicated to the destruction of man that one is apt to be startled when a man of science is doing to make life easier.

For instance, Dr. Joan Munro of Aberdeen University has answered perplexing problem that appears a question that has apparently perplexed countless other persons for years: Do sheep sleep? Dr Munro says decisively, that sheep undoubtedly do sleep. It is impossible to say with certainty that a sheep is asleep, but when it has done so, there are many signs indicating that sheep do sleep, Dr. Munro says.

Among the signs: A sheep will stop grazing, walk a few paces and will "several times," stand still again, shake itself, stretch, bow its head, stretch out, then stretch out, breathing "loudly and abruptly." The sheep will then idle, gently chew the cud, suppress lip and yawn.

In this condition a sheep has been approached by a dog which nuddled against it. A sheep has been disturbed by a camera flash bulb. It has not responded to a ticking alarm clock or the smells of linseed oil or chocolate. One sheep has been found which will awaken to the scrabbling of a match, but most sleep soundly.

If this settles a problem of importance Dr. Munro, you're welcome to it. Personally we've never counted sheep when sleepless, indeed had we ever thought about it. But Dr. Munro does use his time on something that has bothered lots of people.

Is there something sheep count people?

Personal Health Talks

Booster Pump for The Circulation

In one sense it's comical, in another sense pathetic, the way the average person tries to breathe deeply at the examiner's request. The poor misguided one usually pushes out his chest pigeon-fashion and pulls in his belly a la Charles Atlas. The effect of these antics is to restrict the breathing, and make not only the normal breathing sounds but also significant access audible.

An individual who has no knowledge of physiology breathes better than one who has been taught "deep breathing," "chest expansion," drawing in the "stomach" and other tricks devised by physical culture freaks.

Standard textbooks of physiology still describe, as normal, two types of breathing, namely costal (referring to the ribs) or chest breathing and diaphragmatic or abdominal (belly) breathing.

The physiologists assert that

"In quiet breathing in the erect posture the respiration of man is the abdominal type and that of woman is the costal type" — and then mumbles vaguely as to whether this difference is a genuine sexual distinction or depends solely on differences in dress.

Baloney! The breathing of an unconscious, sleeping or anesthetized man is not all different from that of a woman. Sedentary persons are certain to have more or less stagnation of blood in the veins, especially in the veins in the abdomen" that's the larger, lower body cavity) "even though they may not show fullness or prominence of veins on the surface. They are likewise certain to have their bellows (belly) breathing if they practise it.

Well then?

You are equipped with a booster pump for your circulation. Use it. Let the stagnant blood back into circulation.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PEOPLE

People are the backbone of every great enterprise. They make this newspaper possible. A newspaper without readers would be dead. It would have to close. newspapers all my life. I believe that a newspaper's features are among its most important contributions, but the one feature that is distinctive of the paper in which it appears is entitled: "Letters from the People." Every day, when I get a newspaper to read, I always look for this one. It helps to give me a real idea of the kind of people who read such a newspaper. Such communications give life to a publication and give it added interest. I think the comparison, however, should be brief. Running these daily comments enlivens a town itself, and makes that newspaper more than ever a servant of the People.

"Some newspapers have reporters go among the people and get their opinions on the daily discussed problems and important news items. This "stuff" creates interest and attracts readers to such a newspaper.

I was amazed at the recent interest in the meetings of the Rev. Billy Graham in New York. I have never looked upon such tremendous crowds in attendance at religious meetings. The greatest crowd in the history of the Yankee Stadium was at a Billy Graham meeting there. And for weeks Billy Graham preached to huge crowds at Madison Square Garden. It was the people who interested me — their spiritual hunger and their sincerity.

You will recall the statement, concerning the ministry of Jesus, that they recorded the words "and the people heard Him gladly." People are always the rulers, if they are let alone!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A couple of years ago, I was coming home from Texas by train. Before dinner, I was sitting in the club car where the usual prosperous assemblage of American businessmen was gathering for a cocktail or snifter before proceeding to the diner.

The waiter now which could state we were passing through; but it was in the upper tier of the diner. When I got a late seat, one of the states where drinks can be sold on the train.

Just before the car was filled, a party of three service men came aboard. Two were army men, one a n.c.o., one was a navy petty officer. They were the only men with that characteristic crew-cut, detached, leathery look of the Korean-theatre U.S. forces. The naval petty officer was a lieutenant, for I realized that as their tunics a nice array of service ribbons, possibly decorations, shone quietly.

The negro came in between his two companions, and found himself seated at one of the army n.c.o's pleasantly asked a man across from him if he would mind moving to a single chair across the aisle. The three sat down to a table for two between his khaki comrades. It was a moment or two before I realized that a sudden tension had gripped the whole car.

Conversation practically ceased. On faces across from me and elsewhere I saw a mixed expression, stiff, strained, uneasy. Where men were in groups, I noticed a few glowers and could see them muttering. I realized I was witnessing a moment of that tragedy that involves vast areas of the United States.

There was no question, however, where the power and the authority lay. The two big men in khaki were not colonels or generals, but senior n.c.o.s. Their cool gaze swept the car. Their eyes met mine. The negro petty officer was superb in his serenity, as he shared with his two friends the hamburgers, for such, in a way, they were, the easy, faintly smiling, faintly menacing declaration of the rights of man. In a moment or two, however, the tension somewhat relaxed, the waiter brought three beers, the slender rows of ribbons on the khaki and the navy blue glowed softly. With nothing more than a level, the service men had quelled the whole car.

This is one fleeting moment I remember now.

Levy Worse Than Taxes

Windsor Star

There have been many complaints about high taxes, and rightly so, but these have been high. But it is startling to think that price increases which would have been taken much more out of the pockets of the people during the past few years than have tax increases.

Even though taxes have been high they are, in most countries, somewhat lower than during wartime years. The same is not true of prices. An United States economist figures out that the postwar inflation has been equivalent to a tax of $300 on every man, woman and child in that country.

In return for taxes we do get some value in services or other advantages. But money spent due to inflation is just money down the drain.

Harvest thanksgiving services were held Sunday in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene. Fruits, vegetables and flowers were evidence of the bounty of nature. Rev. R. B. Wright was the preacher.

Labor Laws Motion 'Too Hot To Handle,' View

VICTORIA (CP) — A controversial resolution on labor legislation was described as "too hot to handle" and referred back by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention to its national policy committee.

The declaration, submitted on Monday by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, concerned employer-employee relations.

The contentious part of the declaration dealt with strikes, a subject under major discussion at the convention, keynote of which is Productivity, Key to Prosperity.

The more than 700 delegates attending the convention heard the arguments that followed presentation of the declaration before it was referred back to the committee.

WOULD HALT STRIKES

The Edmonton declaration, as presented to the national committee, proposed that "all strikes be prohibited during the term of a collective agreement."

The legislation would, if approved by the federal government, render sympathy strikes, jurisdictional strikes, mass picketing and secondary boycotting illegal. The resolution said that such strikes and labor-stoppages "are inconsistent with the Canadian way of life."

Committee discussions Monday also touched on a Canadian version of the United States right-to-work acts on a resolution from the executive council proposing that every person be allowed to work at his chosen job "regardless of his membership or non-membership in a labor union or employers' organization."

The election of Ralph C. Pybus of Vancouver as president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was announced today.

Anti-Red Group Makes Bid to Rule San Marino

By RICHARD EHRMAN

SAN MARINO (AP)—Guarded by armed Christian Democrats as it met in an abandoned steel factory, an anti-Communist government bid today to oust the Reds from rule of this smallest republic in the world.

Quick backing from the Italian government appeared to promise victory to the anti-Reds seeking to take over the independent country located in the Appenines of central Italy.

The anti-Communists, mainly Christian Democrats, met through the night in the factory to form a government. They hung San Marino's blue and white flag at the entrance to the building, which was guarded by Christian Democrats packing pistols and machine-guns in the style of wartime partisans.

ISSUES DECREES

The new government issued two decrees, calling for allegiance from the pocket-size armed force and government employees and requisitioning the factory.

Domenico Morganti, interior minister of the Red regime which has governed the 14,000-population, 38-square-mile republic since the war, ordered the police chief, Ettore Sozzi, to arrest members of the new government. Sozzi conferred with the Italian consul-general, Giovanni d'Allessandro, and swore allegiance to the new regime.

Two captain-regent and a Communist-controlled grand council of 60 elected members had governed San Marino. The terms of the captains-regent, one a Communist and the other an extreme left Socialist, expired last midnight.

The grand council had been scheduled to name new captains-regent Sept. 19. But defections from the Communists that day gave their opponents a majority and the Reds declared the council dissolved.

The anti-Communists did not immediately disclose who was in the new government. The members apparently did not want to risk arrest.

Quebec Farmer Strings Wire Across Highway

SUTTON, Que. (CP)—An irate Quebec farm owner has restrung a barbed - wire fence across United States Highway 105 which juts into Canada for a distance of 200 feet.

Paul di Paolo, who lives in Montreal, owns a 170-acre farm along the border near here.

He said Monday the United States highway passes through his land and claims that neither the municipality of Sutton nor Vermont have ever paid for the land since the road was built 115 years ago.

Vermont Attorney - General Frederick M. Reed said Monday his department is "checking an 1842 treaty between the United States and Britain to see if the land really is in Canada.

"If it is then we will go to the Canadian courts to get settlement of this matter."

Mr. di Paolo first strung the fence across the highway Saturday. The highway joins the Vermont communities of Richford and North Troy.

Local residents on both sides of the border spent the fence down during the night. Monday he built another.

"They had it for sale," Mr. di Paolo said. "I'm here on weekends most of the summer. I've been trying to get satisfaction for my claims for three years and have been getting a run-around from both sides.

"My lawyers told me the land was my property and urged me to fence it in. So I did."

Don Hutchison, chairman of the Richford board of selectmen, said the highway "is heavily travelled. But since it's been

PLAYWRIGHT'S PEN CRITICIZES ROYALTY

To John Osborne, prominent British playwright, monarchy is a "ridiculous anachronism," and he said so in a widely read magazine article. He called the "meaningless symbol of royalty" a bar to social education and derided the British for continuing to tolerate the monarchical system. His was the third attack on royalty within the past two months and by far the most widely quoted.

blocked the mail and milk can't be transported and the children can't get to school.

"The whole problem's out of Richford's hands now," he said. "It's a matter for Washington and Ottawa."

Minister's Wife Plans to Stick To the West

OTTAWA (CP)—For the school year, at least, Mrs. Alvin Hamilton plans to stick to the west.

The attractive wife of Northern Affairs Minister Hamilton told a reporter that she was just hunting an apartment here for her husband. She quickly found one for the new cabinet minister, who was first elected to Parliament as Progressive Conservative member for Qu'Appelle, Sask., in the Dominion election last June.

But the Hamilton home will still be in Saskatoon, where 17-year-old Bob is completing his final high school year. They have a second son, Bill, 14.

Although born on a farm near Ottawa, Mrs. Hamilton grew up on a wheat farm near Kinley, Sask. She met Mr. Hamilton when in high school.

Sewing is one of her greatest enjoyments, and she makes most of her own dresses.

"I even want to make more clothes than I really need," she said. Good dress material is one of her weaknesses. "I can't seem to get out of a store without buying some."

WEDDINGS

FOX—BUSH

On Saturday, September 14, at 2 p.m., a very pretty wedding was solemnized, under an archway of white cedar, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bush, R.R. 2, Frankford, when their daughter, Patricia May, was united in marriage to Gerald Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fox of R.R. 1, Codrington. The Rev. Wm. Hockey of Trenton officiated at the ceremony.

The home was decorated with pink and white streamers, bells and baskets of gladioli.

The traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Walter Morrow.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a ballerina-length bridal gown of white lace over nylon and net with a large white satin bow at the back, and Sweetheart neckline. Her matching lace shoulder-length veil was held in place by a headdress of nylon tulle with sequins and she carried a bouquet of crimson red roses.

Miss Gail Patrick of Peterborough, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a ballerina-length gown of wild honey nylon with matching feathered headdress and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. Ronald Leavitt, of Wooler, was the groomsman and Mr. Earl Bush of Peterborough acted as usher.

The bride's mother received the guests at the reception wearing a two-piece twilight blue dress with beige and dark blue accessories and corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a light brown doeskin dress with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's table was adorned with a white linen cloth with a three-tier wedding cake, topped by two doves holding a gold wedding ring.

For the wedding trip to New York City, U.S.A., the bride donned a light brown suit with beige and turquoise accessories with corsage of bronze roses. The young couple will reside at R.R. 2, Frankford.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Trenton, Brighton, Port Hope, Peterborough, Hamilton, Orillia, Toronto, Minden and Wooler.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Way.

MONTGOMERY — BRUMMEL

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Friday, September 13, at seven o'clock, at the home of the Reverend T. F. Townsend, assistant pastor of Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, when Lorena Barbara Brummel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon P. Brummel, of Belleville, R.R. 7, was united in marriage to William Lorne Montgomery, of Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Montgomery, The Reverend T. F. Townsend officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Graydon Brummel, was charming in white nylon crystalette fashioned in ballerina-length, with flowing skirt and fitted bodice. She wore a shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion and carried a white Bible crested with roses and white carnations, and rose-knotted streamers.

She was attended by Miss Lillian Robertson, of Belleville, who was gowned in caribbean crystalette in ballerina-length, with matching gloves and hat, and carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Mr. George Montgomery, of Ottawa, attended his brother.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Tobe's County Gardens, where the bride's mother, in pale blue crepe with pink carnation corsage, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in brown crepe with yellow carnation corsage.

For motoring to Peterborough and other western points, the bride chose a blue velvet dress with navy duster and matching hat, and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery will reside in Barrie, Ontario.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Kingston, Deseronto, Halifax, and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained in Kingston to a miscellaneous shower at the home of a friend, also at another shower in Belleville.

MOODY — DOWNTON

Of interest is the marriage which took place in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, last Saturday morning of Miss Theresa Mary Downton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Downton, Kingston, to Mr. Stanley Albert Moody of Kingston, son of Mrs. E. F. Moody, Belleville.

Pink gladioli made a floral setting for the double-ring ceremony at which Rev. L. C. Walsh officiated. The bride's brother, Master Bart Downton was also her page.

Wedding music was played by Prof. L. Nourry, and Mr. Peter Nourry sang Gounod's "Ave Maria."

The bride was attended by Miss Lorraine Stewart as maid of honor, Miss Pamela Cooper as bridesmaid, Miss Holly Downton as flowergirl, and Master William J. Downton as ringbearer, all of Kingston.

Attending the bridegroom were Mr. Marcia Moody, Belleville, as best man, and Mr. Paul Zwina of Hamilton, and Mr. Michael Roberts of Toronto, as ushers.

Mr. Downton gave his daughter in marriage. She took her vows in a lovely ankle length, fingertip veiled gown of white Chantilly lace in the original Orange Blossom pattern. The closely fitted bodice had long sleeves, and an unusual neckline which curved upwards, prettily, into a fan-shaped scallop on her throat.

A bustle of tiny rows of net ended in a large satin bow at the waistline. Her fingertip veil was caught up in a tiara of lace and sprinkled with tiny sequins, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor chose a waltz length gown of ice blue. The snugly fitted bodice of lace featured a high neckline and long sleeves, and merged into the bouffant skirt of crystalette in points of lace at the hipline. Her headdress was a crescent of matching color, and were her gloves and shoes, and she carried a bouquet of shastas and white baby 'mums.

The bridesmaid wore a similar costume, with a French headdress featuring bow detail in the back, and sprinkled with sequins. She too, carried a bouquet of shastas and white baby 'mums. The flower girl's dress was of azure blue nylon embroidered with tiny white roses, and her headdress a tiny cap of blue net. She carried a basket of red baby roses and white pom pom 'mums.

Glenarden Manor was the scene of the reception. Mrs. Downton wore a gown of royal blue French crepe with softly draped neckline. Her accessories were black and her corsage of red roses and bouvardia. Mrs. Moody chose a gown of pale blue Belgian lace with accessories of navy blue and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride and bridegroom are honeymooning in Quebec City. For her going-away costume the bride chose a brown tweed suit with tiny white pillbox hat and black accessories, and a corsage of white and yellow pom pom 'mums. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Moody will reside in Kingston.

Out-of-town guests attended from Ottawa, Hamilton and Belleville.

GET NO RIBBONS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division will get no ribbons to mark their role in enforcing the school integration order at Little Rock, U.S. troops sometimes receive ribbons for special service as well as battles but the army said Monday the work of the 101st at Little Rock will receive no such recognition.

JAKES — GALBRAITH

A lovely, late summer wedding was solemnized recently in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, at 11.00 a.m., when Greta Marie Galbraith, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Galbraith, became the bride of Robert L. Jakes, of Burlington, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jakes. The Reverend Edward Keyes officiated in the double - ring ceremony before a background of white gladioli, and ferns. The guest pews were designated by white satin bows.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Gordon Forgey, who rendered, "Ave Maria", and "One This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Arthur R. Galbraith, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white nylon net over taffeta, featuring a fitted floor-length lace bodice buttoned to below the waistline at the back, and having a bateau neckline and long, sheath-like sleeves, lily-pointed over the hands. The bodice, sleeves, and hip line were accented with sequin embroidery, and the full-length skirt was enhanced by hoops. Her circular veil was held in place by a Mozarco headpiece of lace, sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and trailing ivy. A gold cross and chain, the gift of her father, completed her ensemble.

She was attended by Mrs. Denzal Akey, of Point Anne, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, gowned in buttercup yellow net over satin with fitted strapless bodice, and Chantilly lace bolero, with feathered cloche and matching shoes. She carried a basket of Shasta 'mums and ferns.

Mrs. Thomas Belnap, and Mrs. Roland Belanger, as senior bridesmaids, sisters of the bride, were attired in colors of coral and blue respectively, made identical lines to that of the matron of honor.

Mrs. A. (Joe) Galbraith, and Mrs. William C. (Bill) Galbraith, junior bridesmaids, sisters-in-law of the bride were gowned alike, but in mauve and navy, respectively. They also carried baskets of Shasta 'mums mingled with fern.

Little Miss Janet Louise Galbraith, four-year-old niece of the bride, was a demure flower girl, frocked in mint-green nylon, with matching headdress. She carried a basquette of small white 'mums and Pinnochio roses.

Master Michael Akey, three-year-old nephew of the bride, was attired in white with tie matching the bridegroom's attendants, and wearing a white 'mum boutonniere. He carried a white, heart-shaped satin cushion centred by the two wedding rings.

Mr. Harold Jakes, of Hannan, Ontario, attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. William C. Galbraith, of Oakville, Ontario, Arthur J. Galbraith, of New Toronto, both brothers of the bride, Thomas Belnap, and Roland Belanger, both of Belleville, Denzal Akey, of Point Anne, and Douglas Robson, of Stirling, brothers-in-law of the bride, ushered the guests.

The R. C. C. wedding breakfast was held at the Army, Navy and Air Forces' Veterans' auditorium, Belleville, to which the Ladies Auxiliary, No. 49, catered for 125 guests. The reception was held from 4.00 till 7.00 p.m. followed by a dance.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask linen, centred by a four - tier pink and rose adorned wedding cake with white swan pedestals, was topped with a tiny bride and bridegroom. Tall, white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquet added a pretty nuptial accent.

The bride's mother received, wearing blue silk crepe and Chantilly lace, with navy accessories, and corsage of pink, Sweetheart roses. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who wore dusty rose crepe and Chantilly lace, with rose-toned accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Huntington, West Virginia, and other southern points, the bride chose a mauve silk suit, white feathered cloche, shoes and purse, and corsage of pink, Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Jakes will reside at 957 Kings Road, Burlington, Ontario.

Guests were present from Burlington, Hamilton, Oakville, Newton, Welland, Princeton, Willowdale, Lobo, Stirling, Picton, Trenton, Brockville, Lansdowne, Paris, Ontario, Buffalo, N.Y., Huntington, West Virginia, Cheektowaga, N.Y., Kingston, and Point Anne.

The bride was entertained previous to her marriage by Mrs. Ronald Sedore, Point Anne, with a personal shower; at the home of Mrs. Sheldon Smith, of Trenton, with a miscellaneous shower, and at the home of Mrs. Harry Wood, of Belleville, with a miscellaneous shower, and also at a trousseau tea given by her mother.

Recent Bride Honored by Trousseau Tea

A delightful trousseau tea was held recently at the prettily decorated home of Mrs. Arthur Galbraith, Charles Street, in honor of her daughter, Miss Greta Marie Galbraith, whose marriage to Mr. Robert L. Jakes, of Burlington, Ontario, took place in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville.

The tea table was beautifully appointed with white linen and centred by a silver basket of pink and white 'mums mingled with fern, and flanked by tall, pink candles in silver candelabra.

Presiding at the silver services were: Mrs. Carl Landberg, and Mrs. Seldon Smith. Those serving were: Mrs. Denzal Akey, Mrs. Thomas Belnap, Mrs. Ronald Belanger, Mrs. A. Galbraith, Mrs. William Galbraith, and Mrs. J. Sedore.

Mrs. Joan Wood, Mrs. Sandra Reynolds, and Georgina Desrochers, Mrs. Willis Galbraith and Miss Marie Crawford were in charge of the trousseau.

Women's Institute

SPRINGBROOK W.I.

Mrs. Malcolm McMullen, of Springbrook, was hostess for the September meeting of Springbrook Women's Institute.

The president, Mrs. Clarence McKeown, welcomed 21 members and two visitors and conducted the business.

It was decided each member would try to earn $3 or more to be turned in at the March meeting. Plans were completed for the Hallowe'en party the night of October 31, 31, and for the short course on salads, to be held in November. Delegates to the area convention, October 21 and 22, were appointed.

The program on "Citizenship" began with the motto, "Be a Booster for Better Education," given by Mrs. C. Gordanier.

Mrs. F. Cosbey read a paper on "The Hungarians" and Mrs. W. J. Barlow conducted a questionnaire on "Are We Good Citizens?" followed by a quickie quiz, "All Canadian," led by Mrs. Cosbey.

Refreshments of sandwiches, delishes, delicious layer cake, coffee and tea were served by the hostess and her committee.

MAKE-UP FOR THE MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

"The mother of the bride wore beige" — with her make-up a triumph in color harmony.

Second in popularity only to June weddings are the October weddings. And there's little wonder. Autumn foliage lends itself so colorfully to the festivities that many a bride-to-be is hard pressed to make a choice between being married beneath a bower of honeysuckle and roses or to take her vows surrounded by brilliantly toned Autumn leaves and full, rich chrysanthemums. After all, it's a picture she'll carry with her for the rest of her life. And so it is, that in recent years, the Fall wedding has become immensely popular.

The most important person, in the ceremony is, of course, the bride. But we're not going to discuss her today. We're going to talk to you — her mother. You'll want to look your loveliest for the occasion, of course. And, because you'll want your frock to harmonize with the Fall floral motif, one of your best color choices will be beige. But if "the mother of the bride wore beige" is to describe you in the local society columns, see that your make-up helps to get you over as one of the prettiest of her party.

Want to know how? Just listen to Max Factor, who says the one skin color a beige dress begs for is pink. Wear a make-up in the various subtle shadings of pink.

The subtlest, according to this Hollywood expert, should be your foundation: a pure cream color with a slight rosiness sifted in. If it is fluid and goes on meltingly to fade out any hint of lines or shadows. It will put more bloom on your face.

For lips and cheeks, the new pale pink lipstick in "hi-fi" tones and fluid cheek rouge which brings you and any dress color to life, is suggested.

Eye accent? Use a stroke of one, then of the other automatic eyebrow pencils in black and brown. That's very the pigmentation, just as nature does. Blue or green eyeshadow and a lid-liner to match drawn along your upper lashes will add more sparkle to your color scheme. If you want luxuriant thickness for your eyelashes or want to make them look as widespread as peacock feathers, use cream mascara for the build up.

Before you get ready to step behind the ribbon rope, make sure the corsage you pin on is pink, and be foresighted enough to have it matched to lipstick.

Next week Mr. Factor has promised to give us some tips to make-up for the bride herself. So, if you're planning a Fall wedding, watch for them.

MENU IDEAS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

Basic good health foods continue to form the framework of the diet for the aged. It is the form and quantity which differs from the diet of youth. Smaller quantities eaten at shorter intervals; hot drinks before meals to aid digestion and give warmth; food adapted to impaired chewing facilities—and no baby and junior foods are now senior foods. A high protein diet is a must. But the reduced intake of food may reduce the intake of minerals and vitamins which should remain high, so the older person should be sure to continue eating milk, fruit, and vegetables in full amounts and never fall prey to the insidious common fault of eating tea, toast and jam. Gelatin-containing foods are excellent.

WHEAT GERM MUFFINS

(High protein). One and one-half cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 cup skim milk powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons brown or white sugar, 3-4 cup fresh wheat germ, 1-3 cup melted butter or margarine, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup water. Butter 12 muffin tins. Sift together the flour, skim milk powder, salt and sugar into a bowl. Stir in wheat germ. Add the shortening to the eggs and water. Add all at once to dry mix and stir only enough to dampen all of the flour. Two-thirds fill muffin tins and bake at 400 deg. F. 15 to 20 minutes. Note: 1-2 cup raisins, chopped dates or blueberries may be added.

Mrs. McMullin took charge of the worship service using as her theme, "Save, and Being Thankful."

Mrs. J. A. Detlor read the Scripture.

A report was given from the executive meeting which was held at the Parsonage re. the Woman's Missionary Society rally which is planned for October 4 at Stone Church.

At this time, plans were made for serving the ladies at the lunch hour.

Mrs. J. Chisholm and Mrs. S. W. Lloyd will be in charge of registration, dinner tickets and programs at the church door. Mrs. J. A. Detlor is to give the address of welcome. Other committees were mentioned to arrange the dinner.

Mrs. McMullin invited the W.M.S. to join with the Aiken's ladies at the parsonage on October 3rd in the evening.

W.A.

The Women's Association with Mrs. G. Evans as group leader, held a short business meeting at which plans were started for the bazaar which will be held on November 20th. It was decided to clean the church the first week in October.

The meeting closed in the usual way and the committee in charge served refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

BRIDE-TO-BE SHOULD EXPRESS REAL AND PROMPT APPRECIATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me, a bride-to-be, if it is necessary for me to give a gift to the friend who is planning to give a large shower for me.

— Helen R.

It is not necessary for you, the guest of honor at the shower, to give a gift to the shower-hostess. But it is most important that the day after the shower you either telephone to the hostess to express your thanks for her thoughtful and generous plan and hospitality, or write her a thank-you note and enclose it in a box of flowers. Such kindness deserves a real and prompt expression of appreciation!

TWO WEDDING PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Do the bride's parents have to stay at the wedding reception until all the guests have left?

2. Do the bride's parents have to furnish cars for the guests from the church to the reception? Some of the guests do not have cars of their own. — Rita W.

1. Yes. Since the bride's parents are the hosts of the wedding reception, they should stay at the reception until all the guests have departed.

2. No. The guests are expected to provide their own means of transportation from the church to the place of the reception. However, usually guests who have cars are thoughtfully on the lookout to invite guests who haven't, whether or not they know them.

WHEN BRIDE HAS TWO HONOR ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For my wedding in church I am having both a matron of honor and a maid of honor (as well as six bridesmaids). I would like to be sure about whether the matron of honor or the maid of honor walks directly in front of my father and me in the processional. — A.H.

The one who is more closely related to you and so would doubtless be the actual witness, would naturally be given the position of most honor directly preceding you and your father. For example, if the matron of honor is your sister, and the maid of honor your cousin or a friend, your sister, the matron of honor, would walk in the position nearer you and your father.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Arnold T. — Doesn't a married man have a right to some freedom?

Pat T. — I feel as though I am in the way.

Arnold T. — My wife and I have been married eight months and she's already started henpecking and nagging me. Marriage is just the way my buddies said it would be — you put a ball and chain around you.

Mostly we fight about my going out evenings. I don't want to go out every evening — just a couple of times a week for a few beers with the boys. When I go, Pat raises a regular rumpus.

She particularly doesn't like my buddy Jim. We've been friends since we were 8 years old and I am certainly not going to give him up just because she doesn't like him.

What I want to know is this. Doesn't a married man have the right to some freedom? I can't sit home with Pat every evening and watch TV. I get restless. I relax best with my buddies.

Pat T. — What I'd like to know is this. What am I supposed to do while he's out with the boys? My married friends are all with their husbands. My single friends don't want me tagging along. They want to go out on dates.

Even when they get together at each other's homes for a hen party, they just want to talk about men and dates and that doesn't interest me any more.

This fellow Jim may be Arnold's best buddy, but I just don't like him. Arnold brings him up to the house dressed like a slob. The two of them sit around watching TV or just scooting the breeze" and they look at me as though I'm not there. I feel as though I'm in the way.

My mother says I should come over to her house when Arnold is away, but I don't like that either.

What did I get married for, anyway?

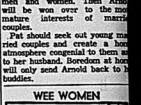
The Council: Both Pat and Arnold need to do a lot of adjusting and growing up if they are to make a success of their marriage. If they just let things slide along and don't make an effort to create a happier, more interesting arrangement, they will drift farther and farther apart.

Arnold appears to have one foot in an adolescent world, where he feels most comfortable with his own sex. His young men friends evidently have little interest in socializing with women and Arnold is more than half inclined to go along with them.



Since Arnold has taken a most important step — acknowledging the existence of the other sex, however, he'll have to go the rest of the way and adjust his outlook.

As an occasional evening with the boys is okay, but he can't expect Pat to be pleased when he brings his buddy home dressed "like a slob," or when he claims to "relax best with my buddies."

Pat, too, is at fault. Her childish helplessness and dependence upon Arnold's company is not covered with her new status in life. It is up to her to make the home interesting, to create an attractive social life, involving both men and women. Then Arnold will be won over to the more mature interests of married couples.

Pat should seek out young married couples and create a homey atmosphere congenial to them and to her husband. Boredom at home will only send Arnold back to his buddies.

Pint-Sized Railroad

A pint-sized Nova Scotia railroad whose rolling stock consists of an engine, a coal tender, and one combination freight and passenger car is threatened with extinction. It thrived in the days when three-masted schooners carried the province's products to world markets, but now is bordering almost on oblivion. The 80-year-old railroad, originally built to carry coal from Springhill to Parrsboro, N.S., for shipment by ocean carriers, is owned by the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company. The line has been losing money for 15 years and the company seeks to have it discontinued. (CP Photo) 1957 (Amherst News).

Company Seeking to Have 32-Mile Road Discontinued

By JOE DUPUIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — A pint-sized railroad that thrived in the days when three-masted schooners carried Nova Scotia products to world markets chugs incongruously today on a bleak 32-mile run. It hasn't paid for itself in more than 15 years.

The 80-year-old railway, originally built to carry coal from here to Parrsboro, N.S., for shipment to Maritime and New England ports, is owned by the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, which seeks to have it discontinued.

The rolling stock today consists of a locomotive, box car and passenger car. It makes one return trip a day and averages about five passengers a year. Up to the end of August this year, revenue from freight came to a ticket $373.14 and in the same period 743 tons of coal were handled.

Parrsboro ticket agent A. S. Tucker looks at his record of the last decade and moans: "It's a far cry from the days when we had five runs a day with 65 coal-filled hoppers on each trip." Last of these hoppers was destroyed this year.

"Those were the day when the port here was jammed with three-top schooners, 60 at a time, loading coal and lumber." Mr. Tucker has been with the company 56 years.

The original Springhill and Parrsboro Coal Company was incorporated in 1872. With a capital of $1,000,000 and a government subsidy, the company built a line costing $5,000 a mile and covering 19,000 acres.

BIG CELEBRATION

First coal car rolled from here to Springhill junction on the present CNR main line a distance of five miles, on Dec. 6, 1873. Four years later the line to Parrsboro was completed and the town's citizens were invited by the company to spend a day in Springhill. They filled even box cars and vans in their eagerness to celebrate the railway's inauguration.

Purchase and amalgamation of the railway in 1894 under the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company simplified and led to an improvement in management. For many years the train had run on written orders, or word of mouth.

It is the line's proudest boast that it has had only one collision and six fatalities.

The train follows an exposed, but scenic, route in its meandering at 20 miles an hour through Southampton Valley to Parrsboro. It has five stops but rarely makes them. The almost-empty train carries a crew of five to comply with regulations.

Superintendent Bob Howard has been with the railway 35 years. Jack Cunningham has been weighman, shipper and section hand at intervals for 40 years.

Archie Fraser, 62, has been the train's conductor for 29 years and is company man for 50 years. In the old days he earned 20 cents an hour. The passenger car still has the oil lamps and pot-bellied stove of an earlier era.

Greener Thumbs
BY JOYCE SMITH

Wisteria blooms better next season if new and straggly branches are pruned back now to within few feet of old growth. If plants bloomed sparsely, try root pruning also. Make narrow trench around plant, three to five feet from trunk. In it, drive down with sharp spade to cut long roots. Fill trench with good soil (Wisterias from seed may never bloom — always buy grafted plants).

GIVES SELF UP

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. Thompson, 21, who escaped with another prisoner from a patrol wagon three weeks ago, Thursday gave himself up to the police. William Beatson, 20, the other fugitive, hitch-hiked from Western Canada to surrender three days ago. He was sentenced to a month in jail for escaping custody.

Prairie Farmers Are Having Trouble Harvesting Crops Because of Damp Weather

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's farms are expected to produce average, or better than average, crops this fall. A lot depends on the harvest weather. In most areas farm labor is not a problem.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows that some Prairie regions, particularly in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, are having trouble harvesting their crops because of damp weather. Ontario and Quebec anticipate abundance from their farms, crops are generally good in the Atlantic provinces and British Columbia has a high fruit production.

Manitoba crops, earlier promising good yields, suffered from excess moisture. At Sept. 15 Manitoba government officials estimated only about 25 per cent of the crop had been gathered. The rest was soaking away in the fields, having lost a couple of grades in quality. Transient labor was meeting the harvest demand.

AVERAGE YIELDS

About half of Saskatchewan's wheat, oats and barley had been harvested by the middle of September with yields averaging about the same as predicted in August by the provincial agriculture department: Wheat, 15.2 bushels an acre; oats, 25.5; barley, 21.2; rye, 11.2 and flax 6.9. But damp weather was hampering the harvest.

Still, about 80 per cent of the wheat had been combined or swathed, although only about 15 per cent of flax was harvested. Despite poor weather, operations were ahead of last year.

Alberta agriculture department officials said yields this year are about average, against the above-average yield of the last few years. Poor weather again was a harvesting problem but most regions were about one-third completed and the crop in Southern Alberta was about half in.

With wages at about $7 a day plus room and board there was no shortage of unskilled labor, particularly as weather slowed harvesting.

About 5,000,000 acres were sown to wheat, 3,500,000 to barley and 2,000,000 to oats in Alberta.

LATE SPRING

Newfoundland crops were delayed this year by a late, cold spring and grass suffered during a dry summer, but yields are termed fair to good by provincial agricultural officials. Potatoes, Newfoundland's most important crop, showed no signs of blight or disease.

In Prince Edward Island the grain crop was reported unusually good and potatoes were described as one of the best crops in years.

Nova Scotia agriculture officials said crops equalled a good average year although hay, the chief crop, was down to 1.3 tons per acre from 2.2 in 1956. This was blamed on poor moisture conditions last spring.

The apple crop was estimated at about 2,000,000 bushels, an average yield.

The New Brunswick agriculture department reported crops generally as good as last year. It estimated the potato yield, main New Brunswick cash crop, at about 12,605,000 bushels, down from 15,247,000 last year; wheat, 65,000 bushels; oats, 2,445,000, down 1,000,000 from reduced acreage; barley, 152,000 bushels; mixed grains, 271,000 bushels; hay, 588,000 tons, down 170,000; apples, down to last year's 700,000 bushels but with higher quality.

GOOD QUEBEC YIELD

Frost ruined the blueberries in Quebec's Lake St. John district, but generally grains, hay and other main crops were abundant and of excellent quality. Vegetables, including potatoes, corn and tomatoes, were expected to yield a bit below average levels because of frost.

Ontario agriculture officials were confident of a near-bumper crop. Oats, barley, spring and fall grain crops were excellent, but tobacco and potato crops were down. Harvesting was almost complete except for late crops and grain in a few sections.

Pastures were good all season and hay production was normal, but hot, dry weather kept potato output down substantially. Most fruit crops were light. Apples in Western Ontario were down 15 per cent from last year's light crop but in Eastern Ontario production was down only five-per-cent. Peach production at 1,923,000 bushels was higher this year, but below two years ago.

DAMP IN B.C.

Hay crops were good in British Columbia, but quality was lowered a little by unseasonal rain. In the northern Peace River area, main B.C. grain-producing section, damp weather was hampering harvesting.

Fruit crops were very satisfactory. Tree fruit production increased an estimated 53 per cent over the previous year. Apple production was about 6,000,000 boxes, pears 700,000, plums 28,000 prunes 325,000, cherries 460,000, peaches 1,210,000, apricots 628,000 and grapes about 1,123,000 pounds.

The shortage of fruit harvesters was smaller than usual with wages about normal, at $1 an hour for men.

Barons Whip Whitby Dunlops Gagnon Off to Early Start

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Temperamental Monday night as the Memorial Cup Champion Whitby Dunlops took a 4-0 beating from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League in an exhibition game here.

Dunlop goalie John Henderson and Cleveland forward Bill Sheets were given two-minute penalties in a stormy second period which also saw Dunlops' Ray Gagnon and Barons' Pete Goegan sent off for four minutes each.

Dunlops, playing a warm-up schedule before leaving for the world amateur hockey championships in Norway, trailed 1-0 at the end of the first period and 3-0 at the end of the second.

The teams meet at Kapuskasing today.

Braves, Kansas Led Leagues In Home Runs

NEW YORK (AP) — Major League home run production fell off four per cent in 1957 with the American League champion New York Yankees suffering the greatest loss.

An Associated Press survey showed that 82 fewer homers were hit than in 1956. The total for both circuits was 2,202, compared with 2,284 per year ago.

National League batsmen collected 1,178 this year and American League sluggers 1,024. In 1956 the aggregate was 1,219 in the National and 1,065 in the American.

The Yankees, who usually lead their leagues in this department, played second fiddle to Kansas City Athletics and Boston Red Sox. Kansas City sluggers hit 166 homers and the Red Sox 153. The Yankees walloped 190 in '56 and only 145 in '57.

Milwaukee Braves, NL pennant winners, paced their loop with 199, a gain of 22. Cincinnati, which last year tied the major league standard of 221 homers, was second with 187.

Golden Gate Makes Giants Move Official

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — New York Giants now have been invited officially to come west and settle down by the Golden Gate.

San Francisco's board of supervisors unanimously approved the invitation Monday.

The document declares San Francisco's intent to sign a 25-year lease with the Giants for a baseball stadium and promises necessary quarters in the proposed Candlestick Point Sports Stadium until it is built.

The board's action gives Giants president Horace Stoneham an official offer to submit today to the National League Today is the first day under baseball law for drafting minor league territory. The period runs to Oct. 31.

Russ Johnson Hangs up Mitts

HAMILTON (CP)—Russ Johnson, one of Hamilton softball's finest pitchers, has announced his retirement after 26 years in the game.

He pitched Hamilton Jerry's to a 7-1 victory Monday night over St. Catharines Terpee Chiefs, to win the Big Four Softball League championship series, four games to one.

Now 40, Johnson started playing in Hamilton at the age of 15.

Patterson Leads Big Four Race; Schrieder Third

TORONTO (CP) — Hal Patterson does just about everything successfully on a football field except kick.

With half the Big Four season completed, the 23-year-old import end leads the point-getters and there aren't many who have a chance of catching the tall Montreal Alouette triple-threat. Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Patterson with 48 points on eight touchdowns, six points on one convert by Tommy Lewis.

Patterson scored both Montreal touchdowns last Saturday in the Als' thrilling 14-8 victory over the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton Lewis kept pace with a two-touchdown effort as Rough Riders walloped Toronto Argonauts 34-7.

Gary Schrieder, in his sophomore season with the Rough Riders, is alone in third place with 30 points. Team-mates Bob Simpson and George Brancato and Toronto's Pete O'Garro follow with 24 points, each with four touchdowns.

Don Wright of London Lords took over the No. 1 position from Gene Lekenta of Sarnia Golden Bears in the Ontario Rugby Football Union race. Wright, who trailed Lekenta by five points going into last Saturday's games picked up 10 points on a touchdown, three converts and single for a 29-point total. Lekenta kicked four converts and now has 25.

OASA Suspends Petes Bantam Softball Club

GALT (CP)—The management of the Galt bantam softball team was notified Monday that the Peterborough club which defeated them here Saturday has been suspended by the Ontario Amateur Softball Association for using over-age players.

It was alleged that eight of the 15 players on the Peterborough club were over the bantam age limit.

Oshawa bantams, eliminated earlier by Peterborough, will meet Galt Wednesday night in the first game of the best-of-three finals of the OASA southern division.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — Ned W. Brent's Polamby turned on the power in the stretch to win the $25,000 Astarita Stakes for two-year-old fillies at Belmont Park Monday.

Polamby scored by a head over Merry Lark, who finished a head in front of Lopar.

Abientot, the 2-to-1 favorite, failed to show any speed.

Polamby returned $24.60.

TORONTO (CP) — The Schreiber, owned by Miss Blanche Armstrong of Toronto, closed strongly through tre stretch Monday to win the 67th running of the $10,000 Breeders' Stakes at New Woodbine. The Schreiber established a new record of 2:04 for 1¼ miles over the grass course.

Lad Ator, purchased for $27,000 last spring by M. J. Boylen, led for one mile, then finished third, five lengths behind the favored Stinson's Boy, which was second.

Bruins Open Minor Camp

BARRIE (CP)—Boston Bruins' minor hockey training camp starts today under Harold Cotton, chief scout.

About 50 youngsters who hope to make good with Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series checked in Monday. Among newcomers were Rudolph Panaphaie of Humboldt, Sask., and Norman Jacques, a goaltender from Quebec who was in the nets when the Bruins defeated Springfield Indians 4-2 in an exhibition game. He also shot out New York Rangers for one period.

McNEIL GIVES IN

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens announced Monday that goalie Gerry McNeil has signed a two-year contract to play with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League. Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs supply players for Rochester.

Because he has his home and family here, McNeil earlier had balked at his proposed move to Rochester and had said he would retire.

Cookie Was Late For Lark Game; Is Fined $100

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League reported Monday that halfback Cookie Gilchrist has been fined $100 for reporting late for last Saturday's game here against Montreal Alouettes.

Gilchrist said he was on a business trip to Toronto Saturday morning and his car broke down. He said he hitch-hiked and rented a car to get to the stadium for the game.

Meanwhile the Hamilton club got its import strength down to 14 players with the release of tackles Frank d'Agostino and Bob Golic. Both went on waivers. Also dropped were guard Jack Davis and centre Bob Kelley. Both have been here since last week, but didn't sign contracts until their National League waiver period had expired.

Golic joined Tiger-Cats from Montreal mid-way through last season. D'Agostino, a late cut from Philadelphia Eagles, had been a disappointment in two games.

Hole-in-One Believed to Be World's Record

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Rupert M. Morris, 36-year-old aircraft worker, slammed out a hole-in-one on the 387-yard, par-four, No. 4 hole at Hagerstown municipal golf course for what may be a world's record.

Frank G. Menke's Encyclopedia of Sports shows that William A. Green of New York shot a 340-yard hole-in-one at Rye, N.Y., on Aug. 12, 1941.

Measurements are to be made to determine the distance from tee to cup of Morris' shot.

Nephew Wears Famous Uncle's Hockey Number

DETROIT (CP)—Detroit Red Wings have brought sweater No. 6 out of retirement and given it to the 21-year-old nephew of one of the greatest players the hockey club ever has had.

Wearing the number this season will be Cumming (Cummy) Burton, right winger last year with the Western Hockey League Edmonton Flyers. His uncle was Larry Aurie, who told club officials before his death that he would like Burton to have the number if he ever made the grade with the NHL club.

Red Wings still need a centre and a left winger to complete the squad. Manager Jack Adams says they will be picked after Wednesday's exhibition game with Hershey Bears at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Trapeze Artist Caught by Spouse In 35-Foot Fall

TORONTO (CP) — A 29-year-old trapeze artist escaped with only bruises in a 35-foot fall during her act when her husband leaped from the ringside and caught her Monday night.

Mrs. Betty Pasco, appearing at the Shrine charity circus in Maple Leaf Gardens was taken to hospital for x - rays and released without treatment.

She slipped in the middle of her act and plunged towards the ground. Her husband, Bud, broke her fall.

Said Mrs. Pasco: "I guess it could have been worse. I usually work from a 110-foot rigging."

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) At least eight persons were killed today when two passenger trains, loaded with commuters, collided in the railway station at nearby Bad Cannstatt. One train plowed into a waiting express.

Now "THE KING" Clark Gable opens up!

Gable never talks? He clams up at the sight of a reporter? We've just exploded those myths! For this week, in an exclusive interview with Pete Martin, The Saturday Evening Post's top Hollywood reporter, "The King" talks.

Gable tells about - his trouble with a paternity suit as a younger man • how he feels about young leading ladies for older actors • why he doesn't talk about his life with his first love, Carole Lombard • what kind of actor he thinks he is • and his reaction to TV as a medium for his talents.

Be sure to read "I Call on Clark Gable" by Pete Martin — with exciting pictures of Gable's life and a full-color photograph of Clark and his wife Kay on this week's Post.

Yanks 8-5 Favorite To Win Opener; Braves Will Take Series -- Haney

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE BIG SERIES

Starting tomorrow and lasting probably seven or eight days there will be a serious epidemic of grandmother sickness in Milwaukee and New York. It won't be serious. In Gotham it will last two days, then for the next three it will be the turn of the Milwaukee grannies to hit the illness hay.

As we said, it won't be serious.. In New York the sick grannies will be able to sit up and watch television. But in fever-stricken Milwaukee the mythical old gals will be in box seats in County Stadium.

For tomorrow Uncle Sam gives his biggest sports show of the year. Tomorrow the two top baseball teams of the nation clash in diamond combat in the 54th world series. The New York Yankees, seeking their 18th world championship, meet the Milwaukee Braves yet to win their first.

While some 70,000 New Yorkers and others will be cheering their respective favorites in Yankee Stadium tomorrow and Thursday, Gotham generally will take the event in its stride. After all, world series titles are nothing new to the biggest part of the city. Even Brooklyn with its two millions, has tasted the wine of series glory (once), although on not a few occasions it failed to drain the cup.

But Milwaukee. Ah, that's a brew with a different collar. The city, a brewer claims his product made famous, will be for three fanatical days, the series home of the Braves and the land of the "see." Right now, 'tis reported, you can't buy a County Stadium ticket for a half hundred in New Knox.

As in Canadian professional football many thrilling battles take place in baseball's scheduled games. But for sheer excitement and sustained thrills nothing can compete with the Grey Cup or the World Series. Radio and television can give you accurate mechanical views and descriptions of the games, but to get the actual color, glamor and suspense you have to be Johnny-on-the-spot. We discovered that fact last season in Ebbets Field and Yankee Stadium.

Brooklyn's famed Flatbush faithful have for over the years been kings of the color, excitement and fever that goes with the world series. The rabid Brooklyn fan with his colorful "Brooklynese," his famous Gowanus Canal and Bedford Avenues have been world series household words. Their so-called hatred of the despised foemen from across the river, the "Iynis" and the "Damyankees" have given writers reams of copy.

But this year it is different. The big scene shifts from the banks of the Gowanus to Milwaukee. And if anything the "Home of the Braves" will equal if not better the best Brooklyn ever staged in the way of wild scenes and demonstrations.

Over 100,000 shouting, cheering Milwaukeeans met their heroes on their last league homecoming. The same number massed Milwaukee streets yesterday when the Braves took off for New York and their first two battles with the Yankees. There was a giant parade with bands, cheerleaders, pretty drum majorettes accompanying the National League champions down the main thoroughfares to the city airport.

The Braves rode in open convertibles. And the hero of this parade drama, in direct contrast to Little Rock, Arkansas, was Hank Aaron, the Braves top slugger and home run champion of the National League. Hank. Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Buhl, Matthews and the rest of the Braves were the vocal targets of roaring, cheering crowds.

This will be but a drop in the celebration bucket should the Braves halt the proud Yankees' march to another world series title. And a lot of people both sides of the border will be pulling for them to do just that.

Will the Braves halt the powerful Yankee juggernaut that has claimed seventeen world series while losing only five, or will Casey Stengel roll on to further glory, and annex his eighth, world championship in the last nine starts?

This department believes the Yankee success this year hinges, like last season, on the depth of its pitching strength. The Braves, we believe, have a better balanced, more powerful team than the 1956 Dodgers. Its first string pitchers are ready and rarin' to go. Its infield has an edge on the Yankee quartet but is shaded by that powerful threesome in the Yankee outer gardens.

The awesome, airy grandeur of Yankee Stadium may have some effect on the younger warriors, but they'll soon get over that. If they split the two games in New York, their chances for ultimate victory will be greatly enhanced. If they strike down the mighty Gotham Goliaths twice in a row in their Bronx lair, all should be hunkey-dory in Milwaukee. They could lose two in New York and still have an even chance.

Always having a sympathetic turn of mind for the underdog, we'll pick the Braves to win the pennant. But they won't sweep the series, unless something unforeseen —like a Larsen perfect game—thunders out of the blue. But they should take the classic in six tilts.

Veteran Lefties Ford, Spahn Open Classic in New York Before Jam Crowd of 67,000

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees, playing in their 23rd October classic, ruled an 8-to-5 favorite today to defeat the Milwaukee Braves, winners of their first National League championship, in Wednesday's opener of the 54th world series.

A capacity crowd of 67,000 is expected to jam Yankee Stadium to witness a battle of lefthanders.

Whitey Ford, winner of four series games in six decisions, has been nominated by Yankee manager Casey Stengel to pitch his third straight opener. He will be opposed by Warren Spahn, the only Milwaukee pitcher with world series experience. Spahn divided a pair of decisions in 1948, when the Braves, representing Boston, lost to Cleveland in six games.

MANTLE, SKOWRON READY

Stengel's team is prepared to open with essentially the same lineup that teamed it to the pennant. Stengel indicated Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron both would be ready when the Yankees took the field at 1 p.m. EDT.

Skowron, who had been bothered by a sprained back during the last few weeks, worked out Monday and reported he was swinging freely.

Mantle, plagued by shin splints for more than a month, was an almost certain starter, although he admitted his left leg still bothered him when he tried to exert extra pressure.

If Skowron cannot make it, the first base assignment will go to catcher-outfielder Elston Howard over either Joe Collins or Harry Simpson, both substitute first baseman. That's because Stengel is anxious to insert as much righthanded power as he can against Spahn's southpaw pitching.

TOUGH FOR FORD

Milwaukee's starting lineup, with six righthanded hitters, is all set for Ford. The only lefthanded starters, besides Spahn, are Eddie Mathews and Wes Covington.

The probable opening day lineups:

Braves: Red Schoendienst, 2b; Johnny Logan, ss; Eddie Mathews, 3b; Hank Aaron, rf; Joe Adcock, 1b; Andy Pafko, rf; Wes Covington, lf; Del Crandall, c; Warren Spahn, (21-11), p.

Yankees: Hank Bauer, rf; Gil McDougald, ss; Mickey Mantle, cf; Yogi Berra, c; Bill Skowron, 1b; Tony Kubek, lf; Andy Carey, 3b; Jerry Coleman, 2b; Whitey Ford (11-5) p.

Only surprise in the Yankee opening lineup was Stengel's selection of Kubek, a rookie, over Enos Slaughter, a veteran of many campaigns. Both bat left but Slaughter has had as much success against southpaws as against righthanded pitching.

"Kubek has played five positions for me," said Stengel, "and he's one of those unusual youngsters who plays better under pressure and it doesn't matter to him from which side the pitcher throws."

FAVORS EXPERIENCE

Stengel's selection of Coleman to play second over Bobby Richardson was based strictly on experience. The same was true in his choice of Andy Carey at third over Jerry Lumpe.

Ford was Casey's solid selection despite his ordinary season record of 11-5. A lame shoulder kept him out of action for nearly two months in mid-season.

"Once I was certain that Ford's arm was sound again," said Casey, "I never considered anyone else."

There also was never any question about Spahn hurling the opener for the Braves. Winner of nine straight in the stretch drive, the 36-year-old veteran was the team's top winner, with the best earned-run average, and the most experienced pitcher on the staff.

The Braves, except for Joe Adcock, will be in top physical condition. The big first baseman still experiences difficulty running on the leg he broke last July and it has hampered his hitting somewhat.

Marines Meet Point Anne Wed. Night

Goyer's Marines and Point Anne Cementmen will resume their playoff series for the Belleville and District softball league championship tomorrow night.

The Marines will visit Point Anne in the third game of the three-of-five series at 5.30 p.m.

The Cementmen lead the set two games to none but both victories were by very narrow margins. The series was halted after the first two games when both clubs advanced into OASA playdowns. The Marines have been eliminated from Intermediate "AA" and Point Anne from Intermediate "A" playdowns but the Cementmen are presently engaged in the Industrial finals series with Windsor.

The winners of the B. and D. series will receive the Bill Ord Trophy as league champions.

Petes Juniors Start Training

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — All but three of last year's junior club will be on hand for the opening of the Peterborough Petes hockey training camp here today.

Not returning are Captain Ralph McNiff, John Kowalchuk and Stan Buda.

Last year the Petes finished first in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, but hope to do better this year under new coach Ted (Teeder) Kennedy, the former centre with Toronto's NHL Maple Leafs who replaces Calum (Baldy) MacKay.

Players returning include left winger Guy Black and defenceman Irvin Spencer. Both attended NHL camps, Black with Boston Bruins and Spencer with Montreal Canadiens.

Another leading prospect is Wayne Boddie of Owen Sound.

The NHL Canadiens, with whom Petes are connected, will play an intersquad game here Wednesday, and are expected to use some of the Peterborough juniors.

'Angels' Are Fighting Where Brooks Don't Fear to Tread

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — The contract that could bring Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles lies today in a municipal pigeonhole—and threats of bombs and gunfire couldn't bring it out.

The Los Angeles city council adjourned one of the most hectic meetings of its career Monday night, after nine hours of debate, leaving action on the contract hanging until next Monday.

But Mayor Norris Poulson declared confidently that the contract will be approved at its next reading.

While the longest city council session in memory was still progressing, Poulson wired Dodgers President Walter O'Malley:

"At least 10 council members . . . can be counted on without the slightest doubt to give full support to the ordinance at council session next Monday.

". . . On behalf of all the citizens of Los Angeles, I welcome the Brooklyn Dodgers and you personally to this city."

SHOUTING, FIST-POUNDING

On the council floor, meanwhile, a shouting, fist-pounding debate rolled on unabated even after council President John S. Gibson Jr. made this announcement:

"The police department says there is a bomb planted in the council chamber, and it is supposed to go off in less than half an hour."

Officers, acting on a tip from an anonymous caller, searched the chamber, but no council members and few spectators left. No bomb was found.

All the orators accomplished little. In the first hour of the stormy session, Councilman John Holland announced that he would block the unanimous vote needed to pass the three ordinances. That automatically tabled it for a week.

To adopt it on first reading would require a unanimous vote. At next Monday's reading only two-third vote will be needed to pass the ordinance.

Most of the opposition to the ordinance came because of the wording of the contract or the location of the site. Among both council members and citizens who spoke in the public hearing Monday, nearly everyone favored the idea of bringing the Dodgers to Los Angeles.

JOINS NHL STAFF

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay is sending its first hockey official to the major league, Luigi (Lou) Farelli said Monday he has been signed to a National Hockey League contract. Farelli, who will officiate at exhibition games at first, was in charge of Northern Ontario Hockey Association games when the contract was offered.

SCHEFFING SIGNS AGAIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Scheffing Monday signed a one-year contract again to manage Chicago Cubs. The salary was not disclosed. Scheffing replaced Stan Hack after the 1956 season.

Gardens Expected to Bulge When Dunlops Meet Russians

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The largest crowd to watch a senior hockey game in Canada in 10 years is expected at Maple Leaf Gardens on Friday, Nov. 22. That night, if everything goes according to plans, Russia's national hockey team makes its North American debut.

The attraction is a natural. Opposing the Russians will be Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions and the team Canada is banking on to topple the Olympic and "world" champion Russians in the championships at Oslo next February.

The Russian team will be essentially the same as the one that beat a Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 2-0 in the 1956 Olympic classic at Cortina, Italy. "There may be four or five changes and, if anything, this team could be stronger than their Olympic champions," said George Dudley of Midland, Ont., secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

PACKED ARENA

The CAHA is sponsoring the tour and Dudley, who is handling arrangements, if it here there won't be an unsold seat in the 16,500-capacity Gardens. "Those seats probably will be turned away," he said in an interview. "Amen," echoed Gardens officials.

"Four thousand fans from the Whitby area alone plan to make the 35-mile trip to Toronto for the game and the hooting and hollering will be enough to wake up the city," Dudley said in an interview.

Dudley is confident the Russians will make the Nov. 22 date. "They will leave Moscow for Canada Nov. 25 and remain until Dec. 15, but we can get the Gardens Nov. 22 and we want them to open against Dunlops in Toronto," Dudley said.

"As soon as I hear from them, we'll set up an itinerary calling for a minimum of eight games, possibly nine," he added.

TOUR CANADA

The Russians likely will play in Montreal, Ottawa, Windsor, Ont., Kitchener, Sudbury, Port Arthur, Fort William, Winnipeg and Vernon, B.C. They'll meet junior, senior and all-star teams. They would like also to meet a National Hockey League team but Dudley isn't confident that this can be done.

Ottawa Junior Canadiens, last year's Memorial Cup finalists, would like to meet the Russians in a two-game series at Montreal and Ottawa. Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are likely in for a chance to prove to hometown fans that the Russian victory at Cortina was a fluke. Winnipeg would like to put an all-star team against the Russians and Vernon be asked for two games.

Plans call for the Russians to fly to Canada from Moscow, using their own fare for the 23-man party—18 players, a manager, coach, trainer, doctor and interpreter. They'll bring their own equipment.

"Out of the CAHA revenue from the games we'll pay their fare expense in Canada and their return trip by plane. This will be the same deal when the CAHA sends a team to Moscow in the fall of 1958 or early in 1959," Dudley said.

Whitby has asked the CAHA to represent Canada in Moscow, but only on one condition: That they win the title at Oslo next February.

About 15,000 Canadians should have a pretty good idea Nov. 22 about Canada's chances in Norway.

The Russians wanted to visit the United States, but that's out. The U.S. state department said they couldn't get in the country without being finger-printed but the Reds are violently opposed to that procedure.

Giants, Dodgers Delay Official OK's on Moves

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league executives filed into another meeting today in a series of meetings today in an effort to solve some of the problems that beset the franchise shifts.

First, the two leagues met separately. Later, a joint meeting was scheduled with Commissioner Ford Frick presiding.

The National League moguls expected Brooklyn president Walt O'Malley to ask for an extension of the Oct. 1 deadline which had been set for his move to Los Angeles. While politicians in Los Angeles were wrangling over what kind of a proposition to place before the franchise, it obviously is impossible for O'Malley to meet it.

The chances are the deadline will be extended to Oct. 31, although it requires the unanimous consent of the owners.

The other formal work to be done is that Horace Stoneham of the ex-New York Giants must make it official to the other owners that his club is moving to San Francisco.

SALARY QUESTION

The executive council recommended Monday that the minimum annual salary for players who survive the June 15 cutdown date be raised from $6,000 to $7,000.

The seven-man council, representing owners and club owners of both leagues, took under study a proposal to limit to $400 the allowed moving expenses by traded players.

The council said it would make its recommendations to the owners at their annual December meeting.

A club now contributes $200 when a player is traded between clubs in the same section of the country and $600 when the trade involves eastern and western clubs.

Canny Casey Juggles Players Just to Confuse the Critics

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—We think we have discovered the reason Casey Stengel uses so many players at so many positions during the season. It's just to confuse the critics when they start to compare his club with its world series rival in the fall.

It works out that way, anyway. This year, for instance, New York Yankees are meeting Milwaukee Braves, whose lineup is pretty well set.

Just to give you an idea of what the critics are up against the Braves' infield is pretty well set with Eddie Mathews at third, Johnny Logan at short, Red Schoendienst at second and Joe Adcock at first.

Stengel has used at least five men at third, four at short, five at second and four at first base. That adds up to 18 men, although a lot of them are the same man. Tony Kubek has been an excellent example. The 20-year-old rookie has played shortstop, centre field, left field, third base and second base, and once played four different positions on four consecutive days.

15 OUTFIELDERS

So what man on the Braves are going to compare him with. Mathews? Logan? Schoendienst? Hank Aaron? Wes Covington?

It is in the outfield, though, that Stengel has concocted a special goulash. He'll use eight fielders, six left fielders and four centre fielders. He even used Yogi Berra out there one day when in a whimsical mood.

Yogi is renowned as a catcher, but that doesn't mean necessarily he'll do all the series' catching for the team, although the chances are fair that he will. Casey has used three catchers, and once benched Yogi when he couldn't buy a hit. He could do it again.

Del Crandall will do most of the catching for the Braves, so you'll have to compare him with Berra, Elston Howard, who also plays the outfield, and Darrell Johnson.

Even Gil McDougald, ordinarily a shortstop and a man certain to be in there somewhere, might play second or third, depending on which way Casey happens to look when he's making out his lineup.

Leafs Showing Scoring Punch In Practice

SUDBURY (CP)—Back at their regular training after downing Cleveland Barons in a two-game exhibition series, Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League Monday resumed their high-scoring tactics.

The Blues defeated the Whites 3-1 in the morning with the Whites coming from behind in three-goal deficit to take the afternoon session 4-3.

The line of Ron Stewart, Rudy Migay and Sid Smith fired all three goals for the Blues in the morning with Stewart getting two and Smith one. George Armstrong picked up the lone White goal.

In the afternoon Dick Duff nosed the Whites into two goals. Linemates Armstrong and Frank Mahovlich, the prize rookie from Timmins, St. Michael's College, netted the others. Migay scored two and Barry Cullen one for the Blues.

Dutchies Have Player Problem

KITCHENER (CP) — Harvey Johnson, coach of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, has a player problem for his squad's Ontario Rugby Football Union game Saturday against Sarnia Golden Bears.

Five players are injured and a sixth, defensive end Tom Mooney won't be able to play because he has to travel to Ottawa with Ontario Agricultural College for the first game in the new intercollegiate league.

The Dutchmen casualty list reads: end Dick Trafas, torn ankle muscles; end - tackle Joe Fuzesi, shoulder injury; tackle Al Finch, sore back; tackle John Smith, broken nose; and end Al Romine, cut toe. Only Finch appears a possible starter Saturday.

Blue Bombers Edge Eskimos, Lions Rally to Tie Saskys

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The defensive teams of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and British Columbia Lions were taking bows today.

The Bombers edged the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos 28-27 and Lions came from behind for 21-21 tie against Saskatchewan Roughriders in Western Interprovincial Football Union action on Monday night. The defensive lineups shone for Winnipeg and B.C.

Before 20,248 fans—a record for a league game at Winnipeg Stadium—the Bombers stopped the league's top ground gainer, fullback Jimmy Bright, on a third down on the Winnipeg six-yard line.

In Vancouver before 19,308 fans the Lions stopped fullback Vic Marks on the B.C. six-yard line with only a yard to go on third down.

ON ESKIES' HEELS

The Winnipeg win boosted the Bombers to within two points of Eskimos and sets their Saturday encounter in Edmonton into the "crucial" category. It is the last meeting of the regular schedule between the top two and could decide the lyr into the three team playoffs.

The tie left Lions in last place in the five-team loop, two points behind the Roughriders.

The Bombers, who led 21-13 at half time, got touchdowns from Gerry James, Ernie Pitts, Leo Lewis and Frank Gilliam. Buddy Leake converted all four.

Bright went over for two Edmonton TDs and Jackie Parker and Norm Kwong had one each. End Joe Mobra converted on three of his four attempts—the one he missed cost a tie.

IMPORTANT INJURIES

Leake suffered a shoulder separation and Ken Hall of Edmonton also was injured.

The Roughriders, who led 21-7 going into the final quarter, lost the services of half Ken Carpenter with what is believed to be a broken arm.

Halfbacks Jack Hill, Sam Wesley and Carpenter scored the Saskatchewan touchdowns as quarterback Ken Whitehouse converting in each case.

B.C. point-getters were Primo Villanueva, Jerry Janes and Don Vicic, with Villanueva and Ted Hunt with three converts.

64TH ARGO IMPORT

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, losers of seven straight games in the Big Four Football Union, have acquired halfback Bill Rhodes, 22, the last man cut by San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

The six-footone, 200 - pound Rhodes is Argos' 44th import this season. He averaged 8.3 yards a

Campbell Will Try Thursday

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP)—Thursday has been slated as the probable day for Donald Campbell of Britain to make a record-breaking bid in his turbo-jet boat Bluebird on Onondaga Lake.

Campbell arrived at Onondaga Monday. Space limitations prevent the greatest problem, he said, not wind and waves.

Harness Racing

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario harness horses won every race at Connaught Park Monday night.

Guy Belmar, Brantford, driven by Clarence Hilliard, captured the first race, and Bonfire C. from Sudbury, reined by Charles Belanger, won the second. Guy Belmar paid $32.40 for win tickets, and Bonfire C. $17.70.

The third race fell to Lee Mac, Penetanguishene, driven by Howard Perkins. O'Tanny Guy from Iroquois, Curt Baker driving, won the fourth.

In the fifth, Rae Chief of Brinston, Ont., was first; Sammy Barr of Penetanguishene, second and Fellow Guy of Morrisburg, third.

Eildare of Salford won the sixth race, with True Pal of Cornwall, third. A Perth entry, Hi Acres Susan, won the seventh, with Just Red of Tillsonburg second.

Billie Eigin, Battersea, reined by Don McNutt won the eighth race and paid $29. Miss Callie Rose of Turners was second and Rosedale B. Brook, Orillia, third. Scotland Harvester from Crosby was second in the ninth race.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (CP)—Howard Bramlage, joined by co-owner William Gilmour of Lucan, Ont., won the fastest miles at Lexington's Grand Circuit meeting Monday, winner in successive heats of the $3,200 pace.

The other owner is Sheridan Revington of Lucan.

BATAVIA, N.Y (CP) — Lass Parlee, owned by Jim Kerney of Ancaster and Charles Kumpf of Dundas, Ont., won her first race in two months when she captured a class C pace Monday night at Batavia Downs, paying $11.10 to win.

Maxieschief, property of Carl Smith of Harrow, Ont. won the sixth race, making it two in a row for the Jimmy Creed geldings. He paid $6.60.

MONTREAL (CP)—Driver Jim Weiner of Brandon, Man., was suspended for five days and fined $100 Monday by stewards of Blue Bonnets raceway.

He was charged with reckless and dangerous driving in Sunday's feature harness racing event. Weiner's Worthy Melody blocked off Star Volo and the horses collided. Star Volo falling.

Neither drivers nor horses were seriously injured.

Ontario horses made a clean sweep in Monday's fifth race, a C pace for $1,000 in prizes. Black Mountain Boy from Leamington was first; Jimmy Grattan H. second; and Carroll Hanover from Guelph third.

Hi Flash from Hanover, reined by Jake Geisel Jr. finished third in the first race of the evening.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma took me downtown today, and we went on the way to the buss and Dopey Shorty Judge's mother went past and ma said, Do you feel better, Mrs. Judge?

Why yes, thank you so mutch, Mrs. Potts, Mrs. Judge said, and as we kept on going, ma said, My, it werked perfectly.

How do you meen, ma? I said, and she said, Didn't you see how her eyes lit up with pleasure and how warmly she ansered me? If I had just greeted her with the proverbial how do you do, she would of scarcely heard me, but everybody has something wrong with them, or imagines they have, so if you ask them if they feel better it's like a ray of sunshine. There's a very intriting book on the subject, called Happiness and the spoken Werd, she said.

Which just then Mrs. Simkins started to go past, and ma said, Good afternoon, I hope you feel better.

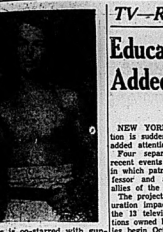
Why yes, that's very nice of you, thank you, why yes, Mrs. Simkins said.

And she kept on going smiling to herself, and I said, G, ma, it werks every time, I think I'll try it on the fellows.

Well, it might not be suitable at that age, ma said, and just then Mrs. Dunmick came out of the market, and ma said, How do you do? and Mrs. Dunmick just made a polite face and kept on going, and ma said, Goodness, I wouldn't dare try it on her. If you ask her how she feels she'll keep on telling you till you brake away by force. Oh well, I suppose there are exceptions to everything, she said.

Which there probably are.

LAND TRAWLER'S CREW



GREENWICH, England (AP)—The U.S. destroyer Hyman Monday night brought home the 10-man crew of a British fishing boat that sank off Holland early Monday with another U.S. destroyer, Capt. Martin Foley of the trawler British Columbia said his ship went down in rough seas 41 minutes after the collision with the destroyer Purdy, returning for NATO manoeuvres in the Atlantic.

AT THE McCARTHY — During their arduous trek with the big gun toward Avila, which Sinatra and his band of guerillas have sworn to take, Sophia Loren brings some lightness to the tense situation with her rendition of a Flamenco. The scene is from Stanley Kramer's monumental production in "VistaVision and Technicolor "The Pride and the Passion" opening Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy theatre. Cary Grant also stars.

AT THE BELLE — Anthony Perkins is co-starred with gunfighter Jack Palance in Paramount's big scale VistaVision Western, "The Lonely Man", co-starring Neville Brand and Elaine Aikens, playing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre. Thrills on the briny deep are revealed in the exciting voyage in "Two Years Before the Mast", starring Alan Ladd, Brian Donlevy, William Bendix and Barry Fitzgerald, the 2nd. feature attraction at the Belle tonight.

Dean Martin Leading Lively Career in TV, Night Club Dates

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Here I am making two pictures a year, six television productions, 50 records and 12 weeks of night club dates—and I'm the guy who's supposed to be lazy!"

The man doing the talking was Dean Martin, who is leading a lively career for a fellow who is reputed to be lethargic. I nabbed him for a report during a brief rest from his labors in The Young Lions, which he's making with Marlon Brando and Montgomery Clift.

"Yeah, this is the most dramatic thing I've ever done," he said. "In fact, it's the only dramatic thing I've ever done. It might open up a whole new field for me.

"I start out playing a out-and-out heel—type-casting, you might say. But later in the picture I reveal my true self and show that I have a heart of gold."

Dean is doing mighty well in other fields, too.

This year he'll play night clubs at top salaries in Las Vegas, Miami, Havana and other cities. He does 30 sides for Capitol records each year. And he'll be active in TV, though not as active as NBC would like!

"All first they wanted me to do 13 shows," he related. "I said no thanks. They say 13 shows, but it could end up being 26.

"The reason is simple. Nearly every star you'd want as a guest on your show has a show of his own—right? So the only way you can get him to work on your show is to promise to go on his—right? So you end up being on television every week. That kind of exposure is not for me."

He finally agreed to do two one-hour shows and four half-hour shows for NBC. The first hour show goes on this Saturday.

In the movie line, he still owes three pictures to his old boss, Hal Wallis. There is talk of Dean doing the life story of George Hall, and Jimmy Durante has expressed a yen to have Dean play schnozzola on the screen.

Education Suddenly Getting Added Attention on Air

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Education is suddenly getting a lot of added attention on the air.

Four separate but significant recent events spotlight the boom, in which patrons, experts, a professor and a project are new allies of the three Rs.

The project is a six-week "saturation impact" campaign which the 13 television and radio stations owned by NBC in eight cities begin Oct. 13 under the title Know Your Schools.

Using a grass roots approach for study of problems and needs, the campaign will include 200 hours of special programming, plus several thousand spot announcements and inserts in other shows (total value more than $1,000,000 by the rate book).

AGENCIES TO GET RESULTS

Results of the study are to be turned over to governmental teaching agencies and the broadcasting industry.

The second event is an early morning college - credit course launched last week by Dr. Floyd Zolli Jr., assistant professor at New York University, over the CBS's local TV station.

High critical acclaim and an unexpected touch of public attention greeted Sunrise Semester. In the words of one previously skeptical advertising executive, it's "the most exciting off-beat thing that's ever happened to New York TV."

The CBS event is the launching of new type of instructional film for use on the 34 educational TV stations in the U.S. The project has set out to have representative firms in various industrial fields underwrite the costs of "programs which meet the standards of educational TV."

NO PLUGS

The sponsoring firm is known as a patron, receives no recognition except brief identification for itself and is not allowed to plug its products.

The fourth major development is a nine-film course in which puppets sell mathematics.

The series, developed by Westinghouse Broadcasting Company in co-operation with Columbia University, stars Bill Baird and his marionettes and explores beyond arithmetic into such fields as algebra, geometry and trigonometry.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE
By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Many an expert muffs a chance for an opportunity to grab an opportunity for a chance. You will see where it did not pay in the world championship deal number 137 shown here:

WEST	EAST
♠Q 8	♠9 4 3
♥A 10 5	♥K Q 7 6
♦A 9 4 .	♦K 2
♣A J 8 5 3	♣Q 10 7 4

SOUTH
♥8 4 3
♦Q J 10 8 7 5
♣K 9 2

Room one bidding went like this:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 H	Dbl
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT
All Pass

South pulled a "sike" heart bid out of his sleeve, intending to go diamonds!! caught. East should have passed the west takeout double. This would have stewed south in his own juice.

South would then bid two diamonds, which opponents could double. If north rescued to two spades, opponents could double. A club, two diamonds, and three hearts would defeat any south-west bid of two.

However, east evidently had other ideas about the situation and coaxed it into three no trump. Opponents took five spades and a club to defeat it two tricks. So, trapping the "sike" would have paid off.

Room two bidding got this treatment:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 D	Dbl
Pass	2 H	All Pass

This two diamond opening was not a "sike." It was a legitimate opening two bid as used by that pair. It was a weak two bid which has been explained to opponents before the match started.

However, this east west pair was willing to stop at a part score of two hearts that made three. So, there was no point in a penalty double of south which would not pay off either.

Such halrline decisions should be duck soup for masters. Some of them, however, only fail in.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, October 2, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — The Moon, Sun, Mercury and Saturn are in fine configuration. A good day for entertainment, in your business matters or those where a delicate touch is needed. Mars' position warns against ill-temper, however.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Strong, vigorous influences to aid and stimulate most activities. Military affairs, government interests, all work requiring energy, endurance and determination can gain. Benefic rays generally.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Do not be afraid of new undertakings — even those which seem hardest to work out. A grand day for deeds requiring physical strength — competitive sports, etc. A day for fun, too.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — While your aspects are not entirely auspicious for purely personal desires family matters and more general interests are honored, encouraged. Railroading, all difficult labor under good influences.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A peak period for your special interests, for tasks you handle well. Mines, mechanics, machine workers, scientists, surgeons, dentists and all those handling heavy tools, especially honored.

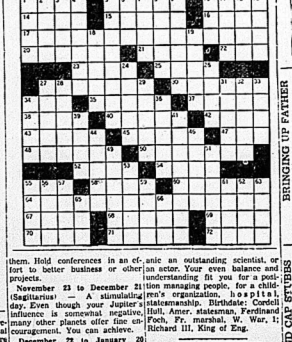
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Your Mercury is among the prominent planets in strength of purpose and solid strength of purpose and solid determination, you can gain in familiar matters; also in new fields.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Much good will come to you as a result of sincere effort and steady application. The purely artistic may have to give away to more practical things, however.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You should be very happy during this stimulating and refreshing period. A good time to seek favors — also to bestow favors — to lend or borrow.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — A stimulating day. Even though your Jupiter's influence is somewhat negative, many other planets offer fine encouragement. You can achieve.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Your Saturn is among the many well-aspected planets now. Mechanics, laborers in all fields, workers in electronics, farming and manufacturing especially favored. Be happy; go forward.



January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Generous influences should give you new incentive, ambition. It's up to you to do your best and concentrate on matters that truly count.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A fine period for topping previous good records, adding to assets. The good you can do is unlimited. Don't fear competition; meet and outpoint it.

You born today are generous, fair-minded; have keen intuition and great courage; will defend principles, the weak and underprivileged. You may have to curb a tendency to go to extremes in both work and play. Moderation in all matters is a "must." Develop your originality and talents. You can become a skilled mechanic an outstanding scientist, or an actor. Your even balance and understanding fit you for a position managing people, for a children's organization, hospital, statesmanship. Birthdate: Cardell Hull, Amer. statesman, Ferdinand Foch, Fr. marshal, W. War, 1; Richard III, King of Eng.

British Labor Party Attacks Tory Govt.

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—Britain's Labor party, with an eye already turned to the next general election, went into the second day of its 56th annual conference today after hearing an all-out attack on the government's economic and domestic policies.

Some 1,400 delegates, sitting atop a six-inch layer of artificial ice in the Brighton Ice Rink, gave unanimous approval Monday to two emergency resolutions once condemning the Conservative government's economic and financial policies, the other piling on record the party's decision to repeal the controversial Rent Act if and when Labor takes office again.

The worry of rank - and - file party members over mounting inflation was reflected as speaker after speaker rose to make personal attacks on Prime Minister Macmillan and the "discredited, demoralized" government.

Harold Wilson, the party's "shadow" chancellor of the exchequer, said the Conservative government is facing the worst economic condition the country has known in more than 40 years and "they have undermined our economic strength and 'dissipated our resources."

TRINIDAD OIL

Wilson criticized the government for approving the sale of Trinidad oil resources to the United States and he recalled the recent bank rate increase the "most savage attack on industrial production the chancellor has made since 1931."

Delegates cheered happily when Wilson called on Macmillan to "go clean your earldom and make room for a government which will replace vacillation by decision."

Supporting the economic resolution, Frank Cousins, secretary of the powerful Labor and Transport Workers Union, said Conservative spokesmen were telling lies in maintaining that unions are responsible for the present position of the country.

Both Cousins and William Carron, president of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, charged the government had capitulated to demands of special industrial and financial supporters desiring "to break the trade unions and return to the much sharper division of living standards at the expense of the working people of this country."

WANT UNIFORM HOURS

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of the Ontario food division, Retail Merchants Association of Canada said Monday they will seek provincial legislation setting uniform closing hours for the retail stores in Ontario. The officials at their annual meeting here said municipal control of hours is unsatisfactory.

RETURNS TRUE BILL

WINDSOR (CP)—A grand jury here Monday returned a true bill against George Solomon, 35, of Windsor, charging him with manslaughter after the death April 29 of Laurence Robinet, 23, of Windsor following a wild collision and a scuffle at the Windsor entrance of the Windsor-Detroit tunnel.

MAY FORM ANTI-RED ASIAN ALLIANCE

President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Vietnam, left, stands with South Korean President Syngman Rhee during playing of the national anthem on Diem's arrival in Seoul for three days of conferences with President Rhee and ROK officials on ways and means of strengthening free Asia's fight against communism. The two leaders hope that through their talks they may shape the beginning of an anti-Communist alliance among free Asian nations, including Formosa and the Philippines.

USE OF

It said permitting law violations in return for police information "cannot be condoned or tolerated for the reason that it violates one of the fundamental principles of British law and law enforcement, that under law all citizens are equal, all laws must be fairly, impartially and without favor enforced against all citizens."

One bad result of the informer system, the report said, was that Peterborough force neglected other methods of detection.

Mr. Justice Hope also touched only briefly on the wiretapping issue, saying the apparatus "is no longer being used."

He said the percentage of break-ins solved in Peterborough is below average, but added "the condition is general and not confined to Peterborough."

MORALE NOT BAD

The report said the morale of the force was "not bad" but could be much better. Noting a lack of cooperation with the provincial police, the commissioner found that the fault "lies with the Peterborough police force particularly Deputy Chief Clarke."

Mr. Justice Hope said one test result of the informer system was that the Peterborough detective branch was not in such an extent that other more conventional methods were neglected.

"Clarke said in evidence that he had a number of informers and that other members of the detective branch also had other informers. I am inclined to think that much of the crime of the type of breaking and entering is committed by people who are not residents of the community and that in such cases it would be unlikely that they would patronize local bootleggers or, even if they did, would divulge any information to the bootlegger that could be passed on to the local police."

During the inquiry it was disclosed that Clarke operated a business installing burglar alarms. Mr. Justice Hope said such action should not have been permitted, but that Clarke had applied for, and been given, permission to carry on.

"No criticism could have been done as part of his regular duties and charged for and paid to the city, or the work done by concerns else, he said.

Clarke applied to the police commission several weeks ago for permission to retire on the pension. A month later his application was passed and now awaits sanction of the police force.

Many Papers May Be Forced To Boost Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Daily newspaper circulations are increasing in both Canada and the United States but rising production costs are rapidly forcing many newspapers to boost their prices, George Hicks of Pittsburgh, Pa., international president of the Newspaper Circulation Managers' Association, said Monday.

Mr. Hicks, here for the convention of the Canadian branch, said in an interview in the newspaper-boy trend in the U.S. will hit Canada before long.

"Thirty - seven per cent of American dailies now are charging more than five cents, and the seven-cent newspaper is on its way," he said.

Prices of weekend and Sunday papers in the U.S. were charging 15 to 20 cents a copy as opposed to the standard 10-cent charge in Canada.

COMMONWEALTH

Commonwealth approval of the conference idea was understood to have come quickly after Britain publicly announced her support through Peter Thorneycroft, chancellor of the exchequer.

He and Sir David Eccles, president of the U.K. Board of Trade, expect to leave here for Ottawa later in the day to begin talks with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his colleagues on the Anglo-Canadian free - trade idea proposed by Mr. Thorneycroft.

The free-trade idea is perhaps the biggest and most imaginative suggestion that has come out of the year long Commonwealth developments. But the Canadian government may find it difficult to accept unless it is perhaps done on a partial basis. Some federal cabinet ministers have already told Canadian tariffs may wreck Canadian industries and increase unemployment.

High Canadian officials said the project and the trade interests of the U.K. ministers was receiving too much public attention. They stressed that the Ottawa talks would be completely informal.

The impression left by these officials was that there would be no firm conclusions reached at the Ottawa talks. The whole subject may be turned over to a committee for further study.

U. K. Free Trade Proposal Draws Criticism on All Sides

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A British proposal of a free trade union with Canada has drawn statements of doubt and criticism on both sides of the Atlantic.

Almost all observers say such a scheme would threaten Canada's secondary industries.

Peter Thorneycroft, British chancellor of the exchequer, suggested eliminating all trade barriers between the United Kingdom and Canada. He spoke Saturday at a meeting of Commonwealth finance ministers in Mont Tremblant, Que., and the proposal was welled up in Canada and abroad during the weekend.

Canadian industrialists unanimously opposed such a scheme; Canadian officials were cautious; United States officials were skeptical and one British Conservative, a member of Commons trade, denounced the suggestion as a trick.

Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born London newspaper publisher visiting in Halifax, said:

"The purpose of the proposal is to disarm the criticism of our preferential system and to ensure that Empire trade must not be sacrificed to a European free trade movement.

"Now the British government will say that rejection of Empire free, trade by Canada leaves no alternative but European free trade."

Washington officials also linked Mr. Thorneycroft's visit to Ottawa in connection with the projected six-nation European common market which excludes Britain.

A commerce department spokesman said the proposal reflects British fear that the European Trade Union will hurt British trade on the continent.

A U.S. state department official said the proposal is "contrary to Canada's way of operating her tariff system and the way of meeting their economic problems."

Canadian officials, meanwhile, were wary. Finance Minister Fleming, apparently startled to hear Mr. Thorneycroft's suggestion at a press conference, emphasized that he "did not" attend Commonwealth ministers' meeting.

Difficulties in accepting such a proposal would be formidable, he said.

Canadian industrialists were more outspoken. G. L. Wilcox, president of Westinghouse of Canada, said in Hamilton that as far as the electrical industry is concerned acceptance of such a proposal would be "calamitous."

He said low British wages and overvaluation of the pound sterling already have Canadian businessmen at "a decided disadvantage."

Speaking for the automotive industry, D. C. Gaskin, president of Studebaker-Packard of Canada Limited, said in Hamilton it should be no more trade concessions made to British products.

"We've given concessions enough," he said. "Don't let us go any farther."

Paul Swiaty, Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union, said: "It would simply mean the destruction of the textile industry."

Charles Northcott, president of Northcott Silk Company in Toronto, added that lowering of trade barriers would ruin Canadian woollen manufacturers.

H. V. Lush, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said the proposal is "not as simple as it sounds."

Col. H. C. MacKendrick, general manager of the Canadian Importers and Traders Association Incorporated, said import traders would find the suggestion "startling."

One of the few favorable comments came from Nova Scotia's Liberal party leader, Henry Hicks, who said the proposal should be given careful study.

He said "unfavorable" reactions from Canadian government officials reflects on the good faith of recent promises to the British government and the Canadian people. Reduction of trade barriers with the United States — as well as within the Commonwealth — would mean much for the prosperity and development of the Maritimes.

Meanwhile British newspapers eyed the plan doubtfully. Said The Financial Times:

"Canadian secondary industries are a good deal less prosperous than they would like to be. Several of them at this moment are pressing hard for increased tariff protection against U.S. imports.

"Pressure of this kind is more likely to grow than diminish, and raises extremely serious problems for a party of Mr. Diefenbaker's political outlook at a general election to face in the near future."

The Manchester Guardian suggested the British proposal might be considered chiefly as a bargaining counter.

But the Edinburgh Scotsman, owned by Canadian newspaper man Roy Thomson, said that while Canada does want protection against a lowering of tariffs on such things as textiles, "Canada emerging from the state where her young industries need protection.

"Fundamentally if Canada desires to become less dependent on the United States economy, she must make it possible for Britain to trade with her."

Mr. Thorneycroft is scheduled to open informal talks in Ottawa Wednesday on his free trade scheme.

KILLED BY TRUCK

400,000 Persons in Alberta Receive $8,000,000 in Cash Under Royalty Dividend Plan

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Roughly $2,000,000 in cash has been placed directly into the hands of about 400,000 persons in Alberta during the first month of the provincial government's gas and oil royalty dividend plan.

This represents more than two-thirds of the amount authorized by the government for the $20-a-person payments and while it may not indicate acceptance of the principle of the idea, it leaves little doubt the substance is being taken with few qualms.

In some cases it is being taken with few scruples as well, but the government feels the percentage of fraudulent cases is small.

LINEUPS GONE

The long lineups at chartered banks and provincial treasury branches that marked the first days of distribution starting Sept. 3 have disappeared now but a trickle of eligible persons is expected to continue until the Dec. 31 cut-off rate.

The dividends were set up last spring by the Social Credit government and authorized by the legislature over considerable objection from the opposition.

The legislation provides that one-third of oil and gas royalty revenues be used annually for the citizens' participation dividend payments. This amounted to $11,000,000 this year and the government estimated 550,000 persons would qualify.

Any person who is a Canadian citizen or British subject, 21 years or older and who has been a resident of Alberta for 10 years, the last two consecutively, is eligible.

SHARE IN PROSPERITY

Premier E. C. Manning described the dividend as "a distribution being made in order that Albertans may share personally in the prosperity resulting from development of the oil industry." His opponents called it "vote buying."

To assess the impact of the payments on the province's economy or learn the uses to which the money is being put would be almost impossible. There have been no reports of large - scale increases in charitable donations.

There is little doubt that some of the money has gone back to the government through the liquor control board. Some also has gone into groceries that the recipients may not otherwise have been able to enjoy.

"This year I'll be able to buy my husband's birthday gift with my own money instead of his," said one woman as she collected her dividend at an Edmonton bank.

SOME FRAUDS

The dividend has not brought joy to all. A number of fraudulent cases have been revealed and two or three dozen persons so far have been sentenced to jail terms, usually of six months.

The attorney-general's department says it is investigating about 80 to 90 cases of possible fraud.

Premier Manning says fewer than 100 violations have been uncovered and considers this number out of the 400,000 payments made so far "is not a large-scale abuse." He also said most of the violations occurred in the initial rush when clerks handling payments were rushed off their feet.

Chartered banks and provincial treasury branches received 25 cents for each dividend distributed. Persons applying must swear to their residence requirements and must sign a written statement that they have met all qualifications.

Once identification is satisfactory, and the swearing and signing is completed, the person is handed $20 in cash, no strings attached.

Anyone caught obtaining more than one dividend or obtaining payment while not eligible automatically becomes ineligible to ever obtain a future dividend payment in Alberta.

Keep Patients in Deep Sleep To Cure Schizophrenia

MONTREAL (CP). — A method of treating cases of paranoid schizophrenia has been developed by a team of Montreal psychiatrists headed by Dr. Evan Cameron. It consists of keeping patients in a deep sleep for 50 to 60 days, subject at intervals to electro-shocks.

Dr. Cameron, director of the Allan Memorial Institute of Psychiatry, says the treatment is "more successful than any hitherto reported." He gave a paper on it to an international gathering of psychiatrists held recently in Zurich, Switzerland.

Dr. Cameron describes a series of treatments carried out on 26 patients. They were kept in a drop sleep by means of barbiturates and new-type tranquilizing drugs for 20 to 22 hours a day and partially aroused three times daily.

After 10 days of sleep treatment electro-shock therapy is commenced. The whole treatment may last from 30 to 60 days.

Paranoid schizophrenia has been described as the most common of the severe mental diseases and the most difficult to treat.

The treatment causes "a condition of confusion which we call complete deatterning," Dr. Cameron says.

When the patient is gradually awakened he has no idea who or where he is. "He is smiling and unconcerned, answers simple questions but does not recognize anyone, has no idea where he is and is not troubled by that fact."

Then begins a period of "rehabilitation" which lasts about a month. The patient regains his memory and other mental faculties, but if the treatment is successful, he leaves behind his schizophrenic delusions and behavior.

After discharge from the hospital he is kept under observation for two years.

Dr. Cameron reported some easily - treated minor relapses among the 26 patients. Two were re-admitted to hospital and subsequently discharged. Most have been restored to happy lives.

Another treatment for paranoid schizophrenia — "psychic, driving"—was developed recently by Allan Memorial Institute psychiatrists. It involves a technique described as "theurgentic brain washing."

A patient is put in a room wired for sound and a voice repeats over and over statements such as: "You are enjoying things and are happy. You like people and people like you. Things are now beginning to seem the same to you as they do to other people."

Dr. Cameron says the treatment helps "increase warmth, intuitive and freedom from emotional blunting."

Vancouver Salesman Inherits Baronetcy

VANCOUVER (CP) — A city real estate salesman has inherited an English baronetcy.

John Simeon has become Sir John Barrington-Simeon following the death of his father this summer in England.

Sir John and Lady Simeon returned recently from England, where they went to claim Sir John's inheritance. Sir John is the seventh baronet. They have three children.

The inheritance includes the family home at Swainston on the Isle of Wight. The famous Maud Cedar under which Tennyson wrote his "Come into the garden, Maud," grows on the estate.

Commonwealth Trade Conference In Canada In '58

Finance Ministers Agree To Canadian Proposal

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP)—The Commonwealth's first major trade and economic conference in a quarter-century—one that may reshape the destinies of the 11-country partnership—likely will be held in Canada in mid-1958.

Swiftly and with complete unanimity, finance ministers on Tuesday agreed to the Canadian proposal for such major talks and praised this country for initiating a move which, they suggested, may turn the Commonwealth into a great moral force in world affairs.

Finance Minister Donald Fleming, chairman of the four-day meeting, told delegates at public closing ceremonies that "we propose to have arrived at complete agreement."

Mr. Fleming had invited the Commonwealth to hold the big meeting in Canada next year. It was learned from other delegates this invitation likely will be accepted. The meeting may be held about mid-1958, perhaps somewhere between June and September.

COMMITTEE PREPARES

The job of preparing for such a major meeting will be left to a committee of permanent officials to be convened at London in January.

Enthusiasm for the conference decision was expressed from all lovalty. Peter Thorneycroft chancellor of the U.K. exchequer, said he did not want to use the language of exaggeration. No one conference could change the pattern of world affairs.

But "he believed an advance had been made in the Commonwealth cause, an advance "perhaps even larger than we now realize."

"We have laid the foundations for another step in the future for the building up still further of this Commonwealth as as a vital moral force in a world affairs."

At Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he was sure all Canadians will warmly welcome Mont Tremblant announcement.

OUTLINES SUBJECTS

It came in the form of a 900-word communique which outlined the type of subjects that may be taken up at the new meeting. The subjects were described only in general terms. The reason for this, said Mr. Fleming, was not to provoke a lot of scope for study and discussion, but to avoid any tying-down of the Commonwealth to a narrow investigation.

OFFER REWARD

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,000 reward was offered by Toronto police Tuesday for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for an assault on a 72-year-old laundry owner, Ling Yee, Sept. 19. He died later. Police said they hold a warrant for the arrest of the person, or persons, on a charge of murder.

Estate Will be Divided Among Four Daughters

TORONTO (CP)—A $7,718,000 estate left by Sir Edward Kemp, Toronto industrialist born when headed in 1929, will be divided among four married daughters as the result of the death in June of Lady Kemp, one of Toronto's last titled women.

Lady Kemp's will disposing of all personal estate valued at $481,549 was filed for probate Tuesday. She had drawn on the income of her late husband's estate until her death.

Current value of Sir Edward's 1929 estate, is not known, an executor said.

Britain's Trade Offer Said Not Bolt From Blue

LONDON (CP) — The government is taking pains to let it be known that Britain's offer of an Anglo-Candian free trade area was not sprung on Canadian leaders out of the blue.

British spokesmen here say the offer was discussed in general terms as early as Sept. 10, when Agriculture Minister Derick Heathcoat Amory visited Ottawa.

British lobby correspondents have been given to understand the government's offer came as a natural response to Prime Minister Diefenbaker's project for a 15-per-cent diversion of Canadian imports from the United States to Britain.

The tendency here to play down any element of surprise in the free trade proposals suggests that British ministers have been somewhat upset by reports published in London newspapers indicating that the offer was "sprung" on the Canadian government and that the timing was embarrassing for the Diefenbaker administration.

Deficit for CNR Likely This Year

OTTAWA (CP) — R. D. Armstrong, vice-president of accounting and finance for the CNR, today forecast that the government-owned railway may have a deficit on 1957 operations.

He told the board of transport commissioners, during hearing of a railway application for a 10-per-cent freight rate increase, the forecast is based on actual results of CNR operations in the first eight months of 1957, and estimated results for the balance of the year.

Mr. Armstrong said the results indicate that "our previous forecast for the last part of the year was unduly optimistic and that the Canadian lines' net rail income before fixed charges will be in the order of $25,400,000, rather than $30,300,000."

He said that last year the CNR was able to pay a dividend of $26,100,000 on its preferred stock.

"The present indication is that in 1957 we will have a deficit in meeting our fixed charges," he said.

The CNR had a surplus of $10,700,000 in 1955 and a deficit of $28,800,000 in 1954.

LIMIT ATOMIC CONFERENCE TO MEMBERS OF UN

Canadian Proposal Passed by 39-0 Vote

VIENNA (Reuters)—The first world-wide conference of the atoms-for-peace conference today decided to seat all members of the United Nations and its agencies.

It voted 39 to 0 with seven abstentions in favor of a Canadian proposal after voting down a Czech plan to allow all non-members' states to send observers to the conference.

This motion, which the world-wide Communist China and Soviet delegate said "this agreement that Communist China and any UN should be allowed to send observers.

RETORT BY CANADIAN

Canadian delegate H. Wershof retorted that this would permit any regime calling itself a state to send observers.

The statute, establishing the International Atomic Energy Agency, was agreed to by 82 nations at a UN meeting last October. It has 11 other nations which had signed but not ratified the statute should send observers.

Emelyanov referred to an unnamed Russian scientist in replying to Wershof's argument over what regime could be considered a state.

NEVER HEARD OF U.S.

In the novel, he said, there is a character "who had never heard of the United States." The man decides that the question of deciding whether there really is such a place did not fall within his competence.

"He ought not to find ourselves in that position," Emelyanov said. "Competence exists, it exists, whatever the wishes or desires of some other countries may be."

The agency is designed to promote the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Schools Empty and Hospitals Closed to Visitors by Flu

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Schools were empty and hospitals closed to visitors in many communities today as influenza surged and edded throughout Canada.

Striking with varying severity in every province except New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, the illness was blamed for three deaths in the Montreal area.

Schools were closed in Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta municipalities, while attendance dipped sharply at Toronto, Windsor, the Lakehead and Regina. Hundreds of students crowded residence infirmaries at the University of Toronto and it was feared classes might soon be suspended.

The Ottawa General Hospital, second largest in the capital, Tuesday night closed its doors to visitors indefinitely, admitting only emergency and maternity cases. Hospitals at neighboring Hull, Que., and at Hamilton also curtailed operations.

Medical authorities say the flu generally is mild. Winnipeg Tuesday confirmed its first case of Asian flu, a Vancouver teen-ager who has since recovered. Manitoba's deputy health minister, Dr. Morley Elliott, said when the first shipment of Asian flu vaccine arrives at Winnipeg, hospital staffs will be given priority in allocation.

Bombers' Bats Boom Early But Braves Hold the Fort

NEW YORK (AP)—Milwaukee Braves, first Milwaukee team ever to win a major league pennant, faced the world champion New York Yankees today before a crowd of nearly 70,000 in the opening game of the 1957 world series.

A bright, sunny day, with a temperature of about 70, was on tap for the series.

The opposing pitchers were both lefthanders. Milwaukee manager Fred Haney named his ace, Warren Spahn, who won 21 games and lost 11 during the National League season. The Yanks' Casey Stengel, entering his eighth series as Yankee manager, started Whitey Ford (11-5).

Stengel caused a mild surprise when he picked Tony Kubek, 20-year-old rookie from Milwaukee, over more experienced Elston Howard to play left field. Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron, whose status has been questioned because of injuries, started at centre field and first base for the Yanks.

Starting Lineup

Milwaukee — Schoendienst 2b, Logan ss, Mathews 3b, Aaron cf, Adcock 1b, Pafko rf, Covington lf, Crandall c, Spahn p.

New York — Kaaur rf, McDougald ss, Mantle cf, Skowron 1b, Berra c, Carey 3b, Coleman 2b, Kubek lf, Ford p.

FIRST INNING

Milwaukee: The switch-hitting Schoendienst, batting right-handed, walked Ford's first pitch, a slow curve, break over the plate for a called strike. He bounced the next pitch to Carey, who threw him out.

Logan swung at a slow curve and raised a soft pop-up to Coleman back on the grass behind second.

Mathews, swinging at a 3-2 pitch, sent a popup to Carey inside the third base line.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

New York: Spahn's first pitch to Bauer was a ball. Bauer then flied to Pafko in short right centre.

McDougald lined the first pitch infield single when "Logan, after making a backhanded stop of the sharp grounder to his right, could not get the ball out of the webbing of his glove. McDougald stopped at second.

Skowron bounced to Schoendienst, whose throw to Logan forced Mantle at second. Mantle glided well to the bag and upset Logan in break up-a-possible double play as McDougald stopped at third.

Schoendienst backed into shallow left field to behind second base for Berra's high popup.

No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

SECOND INNING

Milwaukee: Aaron bounced out, Coleman to Skowron.

Covington hit a hard liner deep into right field.

New York: Carey flied to Aaron in centre.

Coleman grounded a double in the right field line.

Kubek flied to Covington in left field centre, Coleman holding second.

It was announced Skowron had reinjured his back while running to first base in the first inning and was forced to retire.

Ford went out on a short fly to Covington.

THIRD INNING

Milwaukee: Howard took over at first base for the Yanks.

Covington looked at a fast ball for a third strike.

Crandall, hitting the first pitch, panched a single to centre for Milwaukee's first hit.

Coleman got Spahn's slow grounder and threw to McDougald to force Crandall at second.

Schoendienst flied to Mantle in left centre, Mickey showing no indication of any leg trouble in making a running catch.

Youth Stabbed By Negro Gang

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — A 15-year-old schoolboy who told police he was stabbed and slashed by a group of Negro youths was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Michael Pitrilli was admitted to hospital Tuesday for treatment of slash wounds.

He told police he was watching a high school football game when a group of Negroes white boy being abused by six Negro youths. He moved to within hearing range to listen to the assistance of the unidentified youth.

Police in Camden, and across the Delaware River in Philadelphia, have instituted stricter enforcement of a 10 p.m. curfew law for youngsters following recent outbreaks of racial unrest among teen-agers.

The Philadelphia police commissioner, Thomas Gibbons, has ordered a crackdown on street gatherings of teen-agers.

USAF Mechanical Navigator Can Plot Course Anywhere on Globe

BALTIMORE (AP)—The U.S. Air Force today took the wraps off a mechanical navigator that can plot a course anywhere on the globe, compute the speed and time of flight and signal when destination is reached.

The air research and development command disclosed details of six Doppler Radar self-contained aircraft navigation systems.

"So accurate is the Doppler navigation system that after a 1,000-mile flight an aircraft will arrive within a 2.12 miled circle in diameter around the destination," the research and development command said

The six systems described range from a compact unit weighing only 110 pounds to a giant of 725 pounds which takes up 27.5 cubic feet. They have been designed for use in virtually any USAF plane, from helicopters to fighters to the largest bombers.

They can be adapted to planes ranging in speed from 57 miles an hour to 1,725 m.p.h. and flying from the ground to more than 50,000 feet altitude.

The Doppler radar systems use a principle discovered in 1842 by Austria physicist, Christian Doppler.

Signals are beamed to the ground where they bounce or echo back to the plane and are received. The difference in frequencies between the signal sent and the received echo is measured by precise computation within the radar. From this ground speed is determined and presented on a dial.

When two beams are used, angled forward to the right and left of the plane, the readings are compared automatically and give not only the plane's true speed over the ground but also any wind drift—the sideward slip page of the plane from action of the wind.

FRANCE FACING GRAVEST CRISIS SINCE THE WAR

Man on Street Openly Disgusted With Setup

PARIS (AP) — The political merry-go-round swept party leaders in and out of the Elysee Palace today with no sign any had been found who could solve the crisis gripping France.

President Rene Coty was tackling the job of finding a premier for the first time since he started his seven-year term as president of the republic. At that time his task was harder than ever before.

The National Assembly, which threw out Premier Felix Gaillard-Bourges-Maunoury Monday along with his unpopular Algerian policy, now bill, was torn with dissension as never before. Any new government must find some measure of agreement on the main issues—Algeria and France's cure for inflation—before daring to face, the assembly.

Some observers felt Coty might pick a "conciliator" to sound out the assembly groups informally before he called on someone to try and pick a team to govern France. Rene Pleven, leader of the small Union of Democratic Socialist Resistance, has performed that job in the last crisis 3½ months ago, was being mentioned as a possible candidate for this.

Meanwhile, the man in the street openly showed his disgust with the situation.

"The situation was being brought home to many that this might not be just 'another government crisis,'" Bourges-Maunoury's government was the 23rd since the fourth Republic.

Some of the questions raised included: Does the constitution really work? If it doesn't, what is to be done about it?

There has been talk of a possible appeal to Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who has remained in the background since stepping down as provisional president in the early days of the 1946 Fourth Republic. They call for a drastic change with establishment of a strong executive on the U.S. model. Few Frenchmen appeared ready to take that step yet.

Coty could follow the classic course of calling in party leaders and giving each of them a chance at forming a government.

That would mean his first choice would be former Gaullist Jacques Soustelle, held premarily responsible for the fall of Gaillard's government's defeat. Soustelle is conceited to have no chance of getting a cabinet together, so others would follow.

Urges Britain Switch Dollar Trade to Canada

ABRIDGE, England (Reuters) A Conservative member of Parliament urged in the House of Commons live meeting here Tuesday night, that advocated that Britain's dollar trade be switched from the United States to Canada.

"Mr. Diefenbaker" must not be fobbed off; his offer must be grasped. Dollar trade should be switched from the U.S.A. to Canada. Dollar imports should be brought into line with our dollar earnings.

Australian Woman Says Stepfather Kept Her a Prisoner for 28 Years

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) A 29-year-old woman today claimed she had been kept a prisoner for 28 years of her life by a man who was once her stepfather.

Margaret Glandfield said she and her sister Glandfield two children, had been his de facto wife and his prisoner.

Appearing in Supreme Court to seek custody of the children, she said Glandfield "threw away" her and her twin brother to England to run in the streets when they were only four years old.

She said that Glandfield had forced her to be intimate with him after she reached the age of 16. Their first children, twins, died after six hours, she said. But a son, Jesus, born in 1950, and a daughter, Margaret Mary, born in 1952, still live.

It was not until she had been admitted to a hospital for incumbency for treatment of a goiter condition, she said, that her step-brother-in-law learned of her secret.

Glandfield denied the charges and said that as children Margaret and her brother were free to run in the streets as they pleased.

He said he had not forced himself on her and at first had several times to marry her But the fact that Margaret's birth was registered in his name caused clergymen to turn them down.

The hearing was adjourned when the judge said he will issue a warrant for the arrest of Margaret's mother if she did not attend court Thursday to give evidence.

Federal Troops Stay As Faubus Changes Pledge

Eisenhower Rejects Plan; Students Harass Negroes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) Governor Orval Faubus said today he is "standing pat" on the wording he used to accept President Eisenhower's terms for withdrawing federal troops from Little Rock's Central High School.

Eisenhower has rejected Faubus' wording of acceptance Tuesday and said troops would remain until the assurance from Faubus matched the statement worked out by a committee of southern governors.

"I stand by those statements up there," Faubus said. "I write my statements here."

There apparently left the efforts of the four southern governors an impasse since Faubus refused to concede to their wording.

Faubus added "by my" to the proposed statement that there would be no further obstruction to the court order for the integration of Central High. This left in doubt the question of whether someone else might obstruct the order.

Meanwhile, nine Negro students attending school today were greeted with shouts and hoots from a crowd estimated at 1,000. There was no disorder.

Arkansas national guardsmen were on duty at Lake and school for the second day in a row, having been assigned to the 101st Airborne Division Tuesday.

For the last several days, the six Negro girls and three boys have used the main entrance to Central High, making their way in each morning through a mass of between 75 to 150 white students.

TOURS SCHOOL AREA

Mrs. L. C. Bates, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, made a rare appearance in the high school area, driving by to see whether the Negro students had got safely inside the school.

Mrs. Bates said Tuesday that the nine Negroes were escorted inside the school to what she described as organized intimidation by the white students.

She said that pencils, papers and pebbles were thrown at the children. Some of the six Negro girls were shown knives and clubs, Mrs. Bates said. She added, "When they asked a guardsman about reporting the incidents, he just moved away. They got no protection."

BLOCK

Reporters saw white students apparently try to block some of the Negro students as they went to classes Tuesday. The Negroes walked around the other students, however, and were ushered to their books, or they were knocked down by grass, and pummelled doubletimed to her but took no other action.

Except for this incident, all appeared screne outside the school Tuesday.

New York Police Find Youth Gang Had Tommy Gun

NEW YORK (AP) — Police said Wednesday they found a submarine rifle Tuesday night and arrested three youths in the Washington Heights area.

The seizures were made as detectives searched the home of a suspected member of a threatened clash between two youth gangs, the Diplomats and the Cobras. Booked on charges of unlawful possession of a machine-gun were Jose Torres, 20, and his brother, Bruno, 19, and Michael Cazzetta, 17.

Police said the trouble started when somebody threw a rock and bottles through the window of a candy store which is a hangout for Diplomats. The Colts, whose headquarters is a few blocks away, were blamed.

KILLED BY CAR

ORILLIA (CP)—Ruth Pauline Barker, 3, was killed Tuesday when she darted across the highway near her home here and was struck by a car. Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Barker was one of five children.

Half of Pupils At St. Michael's Academy Ill

Although public schools in general are reporting little more than normal absenteeism for the first of October, the current incidence of the 'flu has resulted in approximately one-half of the pupils of St. Michael's Academy being away from classes this week.

Mr. McColl Metcalfe, Medical Health Officer for the city, attributes the 'flu to the common variety with no cases of Asiatic 'flu being so far reported in the city. The 'flu is not of a serious type, he says.

Students in Grades 9 and 10 at St. Michael's have been hit hardest with school officials reporting about two-thirds of these class members being away from school. The overall absenteeism at the Academy is about 50 per cent, it was stated.

Principal Arnold Orr at the Belleville Collegiate, said his school hadn't been hit badly, although 125 students were absent on Tuesday out of a total enrolment of 1,250. He could not say how much of the absenteeism was the result of the 'flu. Today only 90 students were away from classes.

At the Secondary absenteeism has been "nothing to speak of," according to Principal Leslie Reid. Absenteeism was about normal for this time of year at about five per cent, it was stated.

Most public schools have also escaped the 'flu, although principals were keeping their fingers crossed and hoping they would not strike later in the year.

Absenteeism at Prince Charles School is a bit higher than normal, but the 'flu has not reached anything like the epidemic stage.

At St. Joseph's Separate School absenteeism is about normal for this time of year.

Union Carbide Opens New Plant

MONTREAL — The polyethylene and petrochemicals plant of Carbide Canada Company, Division of Union Carbine Canada Limited, was officially opened Tuesday by the Hon. Paul Dozois, minister of municipal affairs, Province of Quebec. More than 200 representatives of business, education and government attended the ceremony at a luncheon in the Sherston Mount Royal Hotel. A. A. Cumming, President, Union Carbide Canada Limited, commented on the diversified activities of Union Carbide in Canada.

An unusual feature was the use of a closed circuit television to link the luncheon guests with the plant in Montreal East, 15 miles away. This was followed by a plant tour and reception.

Chemicals made at this new plant are used in the manufacture of shampoos, anti-freeze, latex paints, liquid starches, textiles, detergents and many other products.

The Bakelite Company plant at Belleville is one of five divisions of Union Carbide Canada.

Union Carbide Opens New Plant

When ballet lovers in this country speak of that art they inevitably mention the Canadian National Ballet Company and Miss Celia France, for they are synonymous.

Miss France, who came from England and formed Canada's ballet company 12 six years ago, addressed the Kiwanis Club here yesterday. Accompanied by three other members of the company, she explained the dancing art to the group.

She told the assembly that she word "ballet" is still a 'foreign word in this country. She added that it is not strange in Europe, an countries where it has lasted for years. In describing ballet, the speaker stressed the word "entertainment", saying only by cause people enjoy it, has it been supported for generations.

SIX YEARS OLD HERE

In Canada, she pointed out, professional ballet is only six years old. It was hard to get enough support to even start, she added. Two aims prompted the formation of the company, she said. It was formed primarily to create employment for Canadians loving ballet in order to allow them to work in their own country and not have to go to the United States or Europe to pursue their careers. A second aim of the company is to take good artistic talent all over Canada.

Miss France said things have changed since the ballet was first introduced to Canada. Formerly, she declared, the tables are turned and people now have to go to the ballet and ask to have the ballet appear in their towns.

ATHLETES AND BALLET

As an Indoctrinent Miss France took her company to northern Ontario where they gave a recital. It was a new experience for her performers, dancing in lumber and hockey arenas. "You would absolutely be amazed," she said, "to see a hockey game with these people." She described the hockey players in such plaudits as "wonderful athletes." Ste. Marie, who actually built stages on which the ballet could be performed, is an ardent hockey fan herself, she said while she described as "a form of highly skilled athletics."

The speaker told the large gathering of males that lots of men won't admit they like ballet. A big reason for this anti-ballet idea, she believes, is because they don't enjoy seeing men dance. But they think a man must be sissy to dance in ballet.

Miss France believes the company has done a good deal to dispel this idea. In the opinion in order to be a male ballet dancer a man must be more masculine than the ordinary businessman. She explained he must be strong to support the jeers which are thrown his way. She also stressed the importance of strength to a ballet dancer.

COST IS HIGH

The financial side of running a ballet company goes into big figures. This was evident after the speaker explained the need for a great amount of money. She said the approximate cost of one week's touring is $20,000. Part of this is used to pay the 76 employees of the company while a large part of it goes towards the high cost of travelling. Three buses and four trucks are used to move the employees and equipment from one location to another.

There are seven or eight weeks of rehearsals before the tour, Miss France explained out that these first cost a great deal of money at a time when no money is coming in. She said the government, for the first time, has given the company $50,000 support. This amount, she added, carries the company through about two weeks of touring. She feels it is not a waste of money, although cause the ballet offers employment to many Canadian youths and gives enjoyment to people across the country. She said now people all over the world are asking for the National Ballet Company of Canada.

DANCERS DEMONSTRATE

Present with Miss France were the musical director, George Crum, and two young ballet dancers, Miss Lorette Fenyvesi, Toronto, and Donald Mahler. Originally from New York City, Mr. Mahler was impressed when he saw the company perform in that city and asked Miss France if he could join the troupe. He and Miss Terrel have been with the company one year and, according to Miss France, show great promise.

The dancers demonstrated "pas de deux", which are "steps for two people". Miss Terrel performed a few dancing steps which require strong leg and back muscular support. Both dancers, partner, performed some unfolding leg movements next. Together they executed pirouettes, in which the feminine dancer has the support of the male. Miss France explained these are very difficult to do and must be practised for many years before the dancer is allowed to do them with a partner.

Miss Robert Hepburn, president of the Belleville branch of the National Ballet Guild, and one of the directors introduced the guests to the Kiwanians.

Lay Groundwork For Historical Society in County

A small group of citizens interested in preserving historical highlights met last night in the city hall and recommended that a committee for the newly-formed Hastings County Historical Society be formed.

Mrs. Irene Haig opened the exploratory meeting and told the gathering that there is a big field of interest in the county, if the original planning is established.

Temporary officers were appointed to the committee—Vice-President of the group is T. G. Wrightmeyer; vice-president, W. M. Bird; secretary, Mrs. Milton Robson; treasurer, Tom Ransom and publicity director, Percy Boyce.

A list of citizens who would be interested in the work in the Society's work was drawn up and they will be contacted.

Future undertakings were discussed. The group plans to have a speaker meeting in November. Library research was pointed out as a good basis for the organization's work. One member said a club room should be located where files could be kept and work accomplished. One goal the group hopes to reach is the establishing of a small museum in the district, which would be a tourist and city attraction and a way of keeping the district's history from being lost with the passing of the present generation.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 15 at which time the members will invite other interested citizens who would be assets to the Society, to accompany them.

WINS HEAVY DAMAGES

DETROIT (AP)—A mother of 12 Tuesday received $32,500 damages in her suit against ferry trucking firms involved in the highway death of her husband Mrs. Helen Dyl, 37, whose children range from 2 to 19 years, said she would use the money to buy a larger house for her family.

Will Start Work On Curling Rink Next Monday

Construction on the new four-sheet curling rink on land west of the grandstand at the fairgrounds will be started on Monday. This was the decision reached at a meeting of the club executive held in the Army and Navy clubrooms on Tuesday evening with president Ken Wilson in the chair.

The turnout was not large but it was representative of the feelings of the many interested curlers in the district these men, eager to have a curling rink in the city, put their shoulders to the wheels and in no time at all the remainder of the money needed completely to make the project a success was subscribed and more will be sought to start the club on a solid financial basis.

The building of the rink will make a dream of nearly three years come true. About that time an interested group met at the city hall on the invitation of Ald. Claude Tice to see if a rink could be started. Considerable progress was made, a charter was secured and a committee set up but then many difficulties were encountered. There was a lull for a while but the executive finally took up the cudgel and again difficulties were met but they were overcome and now everything is in readiness to start the building. Curlers are pleased that this city this winter after being absent for over a quarter of a century will have a glorious night when the doors are officially opened and the first rock slides down the icy surface.

OUTLINED HISTORY

Mr. Gault, at the meeting on Tuesday night, outlined the history of the club and the work of the directors in securing enough finances to start the project. "We are not asking for any gifts, we will pay out of the profits the money to get started", said the president. He also pointed out that the rocks had been ordered, the trusses for the roof are built and the ice will be ready for use when the building is completed.

Jerry Jarrett, treasurer of the club, outlined the exact financial standing of the club and outlined how much money will be required to start the work. He stated there were 172 members signed up to date and that there were anxious to have a club in which to curl. A total of the money so far taken and in a short time the extra money was subscribed and an additional amount was promised. Mr. Jarrett stated that at least $10,000 was needed to start the work.

Pat Houston, who will have charge of construction with Ernie Jones as contractor stated it would be no trouble to get the building up before winter sets in and he believed there would be a waiting list to use the rooms. He stated it was absolutely necessary to order the equipment if the rink were to be built this year. Ernie Jones stated it was necessary to start at once in the fall if it were to be finished with the construction.

A number of questions were asked from the floor after which Ald. Don Whalen moved and seconded by Reg. Teiga that the directors be given powers to start construction of the building, if the offers made were fulfilled by the end of the week.

Deer Season South of No. 7 Same as North's

The deer-hunting season south of Number 7 highway in the Tweed District of the Department of Lands and Forests, will be the same as in the northern area, November 4-16 inclusive, W. Wilkin, department wildlife official said today.

The area south of Number 7 highway will be opened to the proposed Highway No. 401 in the counties through which it runs. District counties include Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, South Renfrew and the three northern townships in Lanark county.

Mr. Bittle said the duck yield so far this season has been well below that of last year. This is due, he said, partly because of the rising dairy and weather not being conducive to good hunting, and mainly because of low water in practically all duck haunts of the district.

"Many of the swamps and marshes I have visited are dry or nearly dry," he said. He predicted the seasonal yield of ducks would show a noticeable decrease compared to that of 1956.

DIES ON ROAD

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Hugh McKay, an 80-year-old bachelor, was killed Tuesday when he was hit by a car on Highway 26, four miles south of here. Police said the car was driven by Josiah Cole, 70, of Creemore, Ont., and that no charges will be laid.

Mrs. T. Wheeler Explains Purpose Of National Civil Defence Day

Public Relations Officer Theo Wheeler of the Belleville civil defence organizations explained today the purpose of National Civil Defence Day and the need for public co-operation and support. Every Canadian community, the biggest and the smallest — has a part to play in Canada's civil defence program, he said. If it doesn't play that part, the community one day might suddenly die. The prospect of nuclear war must be faced. Because it must, Friday, October 4 has been designated as Civil Defence Day nationwide to remind Canadians of this necessity. It is a day for Canadians to consider what they can do to have themselves should the worst ever come.

In an atomic war, the only hope for survival for those in target areas is complete dispersal, says Mrs. Wheeler. For those in areas unlikely to be bombed, such as our own, there are other means of survival. The main one is to stay put. Chief danger in such areas is from fall-out, the deadly radioactive fall-out, the pulverized debris sifting down from the cloud after a nuclear blast. Protection from fallout can be had simply by staying under cover.

In peacetime disasters, civil defence has a definite role as well. It can reduce loss of life and property, which can strike anywhere, anytime.

It is the government's job—the federal, provincial and municipal governments — to get a civil defence plan started appropriate to the area it's responsibility covers. But from that point on all effort is a voluntary one, essential support of its citizens.

There will be a ten minute interview on the Harriet Shewers' show Friday morning, based on current public thinking in civil defence.

CCF Leader Raps Govt. on New Proposal

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario CCF Leader Donald MacDonald said Tuesday the proposal to create Kingdom government considers Prime Minister Diefenbaker's "bold and new" approach to Canada's trade problems a "dead duck."

Mr. MacDonald, in a speech prepared for a federal nominating convention in the Hastings riding, said:

"Just how much of a dead duck the Ottawa government considers Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal now can be seen in the weekend offer of Hon. Peter Thorneycroft, United Kingdom chancellor of the exchequer, for general elimination of all Anglo-Canadian tariff barriers.

"In one fell swoop, the British government spokesman has effectively dismissed Mr. Diefenbaker's proposals for what they are: limited, unrealistic proposals out of touch with the realities of the second half of the 20th century."

IN MEMORIAM

HAIGHT — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Joseph Haight, who died one year ago today, October 2nd, 1956.

We see and within our memory.
And think of you always.
For one we loved so dearly,
A heart so true and kind.
We think of him in silence,
No one can take his place.
Dear husband, dear father, kind,
When others are asleep,
Sadly missed by wife, son and family.

O'BRIEN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who left us October 2nd, 1953.

Six charming years and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall.
But a heartache ever for each,
And a blessed memory for all.
Inserted by wife and daughter Laura, son-in-law Donald and grandchildren.

WOOD — In loving memory of a dear father, Henry Wood, Sr., who entered into rest two years ago, October 2nd, 1955.

Those we love are never lost,
For memory keeps them dear.
Loved, remembered, and treasured,
Is all we have left to cheer.
Inserted in our memory by his sons, daughters and grandchildren.

KELLER — In loving memory of Elizabeth Keller, who passed away October 2nd, 1954.

At twilight when eventide draws near
And sunset frames the sky:
We think of you, dear mother,
And the days gone by.
And though you're sleeping 'neath the sod
In God's own dreamy land,
We'll meet you there some morning
When the twilight ends the day.
Inserted by daughter Ruth, husband and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved higher today amid the year's second-slowest morning trading.

Industrials climbed nearly 1¼ points on index. Western oils gained more than a point. Base metals added one-half point. Golds were a shade higher.

The 11 a.m. volume of 400,000 shares was the lightest since Aug. 30 when 278,000 shares were traded in the first hour. Tuesday's sales at the same time were 480,000.

Steels led industrials higher, with Dominion and Stelco each adding a point. Ford A was up 1¼ at 81 and Power Corp. climbed two points to 56. Losses were fractional.

The mining list had few big price changes but the minor gains were sufficient to push the section higher.

Western oils moved up in a solid line, with gains ranging to 25 cents among lower-priced stocks. Senior issues added fractions. Losses were generally confined to 10 cents or less.

Briton Reports Rumor Malenkov Is Under Arrest

LONDON (Reuters)—A British Labor member of Parliament said today he has heard rumors that Georgi Malenkov has been arrested and taken to Moscow.

Desmond Donnelly reported the rumors from Peiping where he is visiting.

After his dismissal as a first deputy premier, Malenkov was appointed to manage a power station in remote Kazakhstan.

Malenkov's rumored arrest coincided with another attack by the official Communist party newspaper, Pravda, on the "anti-party group of Malenkov, Kaganovich, Molotov and Shepilov."

Vyacheslav Molotov, Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov were ousted from the ruling Soviet presidium July 4 in one of the biggest Kremlin reshuffles since the death of Stalin.

The anti-party group showed a dogmatic approach to Marxist-Leninist principles opposing the party's course approved by the 20th congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union, Pravda said.

Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev told the congress, held in 1956, of Stalin's crimes.

Holds Neighbor Within Rights To Fell Poplars

MONTREAL (CP) — Superior Court Tuesday upheld a man's right to cut down his neighbor's trees under certain conditions.

Mr. Justice Ignace J. Deslauriers Tuesday dismissed a $1,600 claim filed by Mrs. Armand Marcoux of St. Paul de l'Ile aux Noix, Que., against Bernard Rajotte, who, she asserted, had cut down eight of her poplar trees in 1952.

The judgment said Mrs. Marcoux had not established that the trees were on her property but even if they had it was the respondent could have insisted on having them destroyed.

The judge said experts had determined poplars are harmful because they "grow rapidly, take a lot of moisture from the soil, and their roots stretch out enormously and affect nearby plants."

In this case the trees were a nuisance to Rajotte and he was within his rights to cut them down, the judgment said.

EISENHOWER

The National Guard took over daytime patrols at Central High for the first time, relieving paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division.

It was one week ago today that the school was integrated under heavy guard by the 101st, and white demonstrators driven away by the paratroopers' bayonets.

Since then the army, commanding both the 101st units and the federalized National Guard, gradually reduced the troop strength on the campus and Tuesday stationed the National Guard there during the critical hours.

Attendance at school improved greatly Tuesday with only 294 absent from the 2,000 - student school. About 150 daily fail to attend for various reasons in normal periods.

HEAT SETS RECORD

EDMONTON (CP) — Western Canada basked in balmy weather Tuesday with temperatures about 20 degrees above the seasonal normal, before dropping sharply. Lethbridge, with a temperature of 85, broke the previous record of 83 degrees recorded Oct. 1, 1904.

Wife of Slain Man Heard Farmhand Accused of Murder Say 'I Will Shoot You Lynne'

NAPANEE (Staff) — Albert Mandlene (Hubert) McEwen, 47, went on trial for his life here Tuesday at the fall assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario before Mr. Justice E. G. Thompson.

McEwen is charged with murder.

He is alleged to have fatally shot a North Fredericksburgh farmer, Lynne Perry, 35, last July 15, outside a barn on the 230-acre Perry farm. Perry died in hospital 13 days later.

Witnesses said McEwen had been hired by Perry from time-to-time during the past four years to help with haying and doing the chores around the farm.

Mrs. Delma Perry, wife of the deceased, said she heard McEwen and Perry arguing in the barn on her husband. She saw the accused and her husband facing each other about 15 feet apart, outside the barn when, she said, McEwen said: "I will shoot you Lynne."

A shot sounded. Perry pulled McEwen to the ground. Perry apparently struggling to take the rifle from McEwen.

Mrs. Perry, who had been running at an angle toward them from the milk house.

The men tumbled to the ground. McEwen on top of Perry. Perry picked up a stone and wheeled McEwen over the head with it. McEwen relinquished his hold on the wounded Perry, who asked his wife to get help. McEwen picked up the wounded man and carried him to the house.

Mrs. Perry said the two men got along well as long as McEwen did what he was told.

"I have never heard him threaten my husband, but I know it is very hard to talk to Hubert to try to correct him," Mrs. Perry said.

NEVER GOT VIOLENT

On some occasions Mrs. Perry has heard McEwen being sent to his anger by swearing, but that was only when he got excited, and he never got violent.

She said that McEwen was paid $60 a month for his work on the farm, payable by Lynne Perry whenever he could find it. On top of the money, McEwen received his keep and laundry. "He always got his money from Lynne," she testified.

Perry discharged McEwen last fall when his excessive drinking began to bother the neighbors. Soon after he came back to him, on his knees and crying like a baby for Lynne to take him back."

Mrs. Perry said her husband was about six feet tall and weighed about 180 pounds. As he sat in the prisoner's box, McEwen appeared to weigh about 110 pounds and stand about five-three or four inches.

George Thompson, a milk driver who was driving along the country road near the Perry farm, testified he saw Lynne Ewen running from the barn toward the road with his empty hands raised as though he was trying to flag me down."

McEwen told him: "I have shot Lynne Perry. I'm not sure if he is dead or not. If he is the father of the deceased.)

Crown Attorney Kenneth S. Hamm asked Mr. Thompson if McEwen thought Lynne Perry was dead.

"He didn't think so, but he did not think he would live long," said Mr. Thompson.

"How did McEwen appear to you that morning he ran up to you?" asked Louis H. Tepper, defence counsel, "Was he excited?"

"Yes, I would say he was very excited," said Mr. Thompson.

HAD GUN IN HANDS

Richard Hill and his brother, William, who own a farm immediately east of the Lynne Perry farm, were standing on the road preparing to go to the wounded man's home shortly after receiving a telephone call, when they saw McEwen walking hastily toward them.

"Did he have anything in his hands?" asked Mr. Hamm of Richard Hill.

"Yes," said Richard Hill. "What?"

"A gun."

"Did you overhear anything said by McEwen to your brother?"

"Yes. He said: 'Get a doctor. Get the police. I shot Lynne'."

Some time later, Mr. Hill heard McEwen tell William Hill and Bruce Cummins: "Lynne send me had an argument. I told him not to hit me again, because I was leaving. Then I went and got my gun. I don't know how it was cocked and loaded. I must have pulled the trigger when he came at me again. I didn't mean to do it. You know, I always liked this neighborhood."

William Hill heard McEwen say: "I wonder why in hell I did it? Now they'll hang me."

Chatham Firm Spent Workers' Bond Deductions

TILBURY, Ont. (CP) — An international representative of the United Auto Workers Union said he said at a union meeting Tuesday night that $24,000 collected by Chatco Steel Products Ltd. limited in payroll deductions for Canada savings bonds were not used to buy bonds.

Harry Ford, the union official, said he was informed payroll deductions for the whole of last year were placed in the union welfare and fund and used for general factory expenses. Directors, reported the union and the $24,000 in payroll deductions were both missing.

A short time ago Chatco employees offered $20,000 of their own savings to keep the company through a financial crisis and to preserve their jobs.

Queen, Prince Plan Early Start On Oct. 12 Flight

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will leave London by air at 7 a.m. Oct. 12 so that they can reach Canada in daylight for the beginning of their North American visit.

They will make the non-stop, 3,400-mile flight in a Douglas Seven Seas airliner, owned by British Overseas Airways Corporation, in 7½ hours. The plane will land at Ottawa at 4:40 p.m.

The airliner will be commanded by Capt. Gordon Store, 51, a South African who has been associated with flying for 31 years. He will have a crew of 10, including three other pilots.

One of the stewardesses will be Velma Brown, 25, of Nipawin, Sask. She joined BOAC in 1955.

Refuse Refund Of Excess Taxes

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan Toronto's executive committee Monday refused to refund $4,500 to a suburban North York couple who were over-assessed on property three years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bolfer found recently that a clerical error in 1954 changed the value of their apartment house to $100,000 from $10,000. The deadline for appeal was February, 1955. Every assessment since has been correct.

Finance Commissioner Arthur Lascelles said Metropolitan council has no legal authority to make a refund. A proposal to obtain special provincial legislation to permit a refund was voted down by the committee.

SAILOR BEWARE

The Moira River, skinny as a skeleton in that part of its anatomy which lies within the confines of the Corporation of the City of Belleville, is a sad sight for old friends to view. A grim sight, too, with the ribs of its shoals whitening in the sun to remind all who venture on the waters of the perils that lie beneath.

The boating enthusiast, viewing this sight, cannot help wondering how often he has unknowingly flirted with disaster in strange waters. We suppose there are, across who like to keep near shore when they board a boat, just as there are delightful old ladies, so we are told, who tell the pilot to fly low and slow when they venture into the air. But man, when he leaves his native element, the land, is safest when he entrusts himself entirely to the alien water or air.

This, it seems to us, is fairly obvious with respect to the latter element. Instructions to fly low and slow may be issued by a passenger to the pilot before he is airborne for the first time, but once the trees start rushing past and the ground starts racing towards the tail of the plane, the average person on his or her first flight is likely to be overwhelmed with an all-embracing desire to see a little distance put between the plane and disaster. And disaster is plainly represented by the land the passenger has just left. Even those afraid of heights will find the plane a much more comfortable vehicle when the dizzy speed of the earth slows down and it starts marching beneath the plane at a pace more in keeping with that familiar to earthbound creatures.

Water, though, is a different proposition. Unless there be surf, displaying its awesome power as it assaults the rocky coast, those who first venture on it are likely to relieve their degree of safety earlier in direct ratio to their nearness to land. The skinny skeleton of the Moira reminds the landlubber of something sailors know, that land can be a peril instead of a haven, that shallow waters are but a wet shroud covering the corpse of shipwreck.

DRESS MAKES THE MAN

The Pembroke Observer wonders whether "carelessness in dress and behavior, allowed to develop in high school, may have something to do with the problem some young men have in finding jobs."

It cites an instance of a boy who sought a job with the Observer.

"To apply for a job,' 'it says, "he wore calf-high cowboy boots which apparently had never known polish. His blue jeans were stained and torn at the cuff. His sports shirt was open at the throat, and covered by a black leather jacket. His hair was long and ungroomed."

His personal appearance was so unattractive, says the Observer, that the questions of his education and qualifications were never examined.

This leads the Observer to wonder whether boys in high school should be required to wear "shirts, dress pants and polished shoes" to classes.

"Training the men of tomorrow to dress and behave as will be expected of them in the business world is surely as important as many of the subjects taught in high school," it comments.

This makes good sense, and yet - - -

What about the recurrent pleas to young people to be "characters?" "Idiosyncrasies in the dress of residents use the term, but enforced conformity in dress certainly will do nothing to promote disregard for conformity in other fields.

"Shirts, dress pants and polished shoes" seem a reasonable enough demand, but, once one step has been taken towards telling students how to dress, will there not always be somebody who will believe that just one more simple rule should be added?

And, in conclusion, is not an employer entitled to some protection? If a boy is so lacking in common sense that he will apply for a job when garbed in unpolished cowboy boots and torn jeans and with his hair long and ungroomed, isn't that something which his prospective employer has a right to know?

FLY TO SCHOOL

Canada's Indian lads are really air-minded. Besides three all-Indian squadrons at Residential Schools, there is another at Moose Factory, Ontario, with three-quarters of its members Indian. It is Moose River No. 632, organized in December last year.

Since the Moose River boys are generally flown in to school from their homes around James Bay, most have never ridden in a train. (Indian News.)

SICK

Sitting at home,
Nothing to do;
Raining outside,
Everything blue;
Cross as can be,
Wearing a pout;
Just sick—that's all.
Don't dare to go out.

Read all the papers,
Now what can I do?
Looked through the house
For a book that is new.
I ought to be down
At the office, I know,
But they tell me I'm sick
And they won't let me go.

I can stand for most Anything under the sun,
Work twenty-four hours
To get a job done.
Many a hardship
Has travelled my way,
But the toughest of all
Is to be sick a day.

Symbolic Churns

By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

When you see a quaint country character, usually a tall little woman with ingrown perplexities, jerking a homely handle, counting 'n' down, the director of the dramatic effect then in prospect is not necessarily demonstrating that these people make their own butter — only that they had the audacity to take place outside the city limits and in an earlier century. We conclude that the moose blat, or lightning arrester cables slapping the telephone poles a half mile, but custom has developed the churn as an unalterable constant.

The sad character might be popping corn, or paring the last of the apples, or grinding sorghum-and-shang nails, but custom leads us to conclude that the dasher churn is what country people turn to when they cogitate inwardly on their lot. Seeing a churn, which the sad character is belaboring, we assume the right to assume that shortly butter will figure in some important way in the proceedings. It is a critical fact that in the past 25 dramatic churnings I have witnessed, they never made any butter, and butter never got mentioned. I have come to think that the effect of these stage churns has any cream in it anyway.

I suppose it would be wasted time, but I have the right to see several way how butter was made. Cream was accumulated, I suppose, in a butterfat-type cow like Jersey, and while it was still warm it to the proper temperature and insert it to the churn. You could make butter all right from cream that was just a little bit older and sweeter, but there is a great many people say they never liked "dairy" butter. Cream that was too old becomes muscular butter.

You can get much the same unfortunate effect by neglecting to wash the butter thoroughly after it was churned. You can make butter that was made from elderly cream and still get valuable product you would notice it right away. But if the cream was sweet and the butter properly washed and salted, there never was a creamery butter yet to touch it.

I can't remember, offhand, what the temperature was. It was sort-of warm temperature, but there was leeway enough in it, somewhere. I guess at it. (You could churn cold cream until your eyes fell out and you still feel as though it still have cream. And it wouldn't stand be. Cream that was too hot, for the temperature right, butter would come fairly soon, and without much expenditure of brain.

I can't remember that Mother ever turned the crank except on the tail end to corroborate our insistence that the butter had "come." Then, through the fatty globules separated from the watery part, we dimly recall, we had adhered to each other to make chunks. If it felt to her as though we were getting dismissed us and took over the gathering and squeezing, it pounded and patted and turned and folded, and added a little salt, and then the ceremony performed it in patties and dabs. We had some mottled butter, unless you planned it, but we felt butter it was just as useful in patties.

I think most of the great dramatic churners, troublesome ones, have had the absolute problems, depicting their inner passions—"There, there . . . keep it moving." As she rolled pie dough and washed potatoes and peeled potatoes she kept her eye on the churn and if whichever of us was on duty missed a revolution she mentioned it. I always felt the timed way turn for about 25 minutes before a ball game, and I kept the crank coging smoothly as the slightest hitch so I could get there in time to play. If there were no game, and anything special to call me, I dilly-dallied at the crank.

My sister caught me once. She was churning, and she said, "Keep it going a minute while I rest my arm." Then she went away. I was never equal to arranging any similar mean trick to get even with her. She had some kind of a misguided fancy that the incident was funny, but I never did. Everbody hated to churn.

The dasher churn, favorite of the tragedians, had many mechanical faults. The up 'n' down motion was extremely tiring and after 10 minutes you would be changing hands every four or five strokes. Then the handle would wear in the hole and a churn with any experience at all would be little more than a piston that squirted cream in your eye.

I think too, that the vertical action of the dasher was an inefficient coagulator, and much less effective than a splash or paddle churn. A very good churn was a smallish barrel mounted on a frame, and when you turned the crank the barrel would rotate and the fixed Baffles inside agitated the cream and brought butter soon. But it took a lot of cream to make such a big churn useful, and it took strong cream to turn it. Our family used the regular round churn with a paddle wheel in it, which would take care of a pint of cream. When the cows tapered off we wouldn't have enough cream to churn for that churn, and sometimes butter got made in a bowl with an egg eater.

It seems to me the chief reason why a rural character, depicted on stage and screen, would be sad and melancholy, would be the lack of somebody to turn the churn and get a jolt back. This would be a thing in itself, and momentarily would cast a shadow any other emotional stress. Such a country character would be talking to his dasher churn itself, and not about mortgages falling due, or a broken part, or why they don't let Henry out of jail. Show me a dasher churn, and I'll show you who never worked one.

South's Plea To Go Slowly

Dallas Morning News

How should Dallas go about telling the world its views on school integration? How can we reach India, Saudi Arabia, central Africa, Spain, France or Britain understand our problem?

In India, a 12-year-old may not marry. Under an Indian law it would be a scandal in Dallas. In Saudi Arabia a man may have four wives; in many countries the world wives are shut up in harems; on part of Crete they sell pigs or horses; in Europe parents pick the spouse of a son or daughter. The British Margaret may not marry her sweetheart and Edward lost his throne because he married his. In short folkways enter deep into the life of each country and change slowly, if at all.

It is so in Dallas. Nor is the reference to marriage customs and marriage laws accidental. In Dallas, as in most of the Southern part of the United States, it is in school the youngsters first meet and mingle socially with the opposite sex. School life is social life for the teenagers. Boy meets girl — in high school or college — and pretty soon it's wedding bells.

And that is nine tenths of what parents are worrying about. Dallas has no segregation in streetcars. The Dallas baseball team has Negro players. Dallas own property, run business institutions, serve in public cars, practice learned professions, maintain a standard of living that is far above the average in any other part of the globe, including the independent Negro republics of Africa.

Dallas proposes, assuming the consent of the Supreme Court, to provide complete freedom for everybody in its schools, within the framework of the law and its statute law and folk law will prevail. Dallas counts upon the good sense and good will of its citizens, white and black, to hit a happy solution that is good for all and just.

It is not easy. It is not simple. And that is why the people of Dallas ask time for a gradual, considered and patient working out of a profound social change charged with deep emotional forces as well as spiritual obligations.

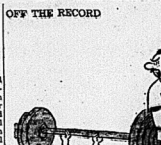
FRICTION

Probably there is someone in your life with whom you have always very well. However pleasant your family, friends, and business or professional associates are in general, there is nearly always at least one person with whom under your skin, so to speak. Often there are many such people.

Of course we all like to be pleasant, amiable people who always do and say just what we want them to. The other ones, who are not so pleasant, whose ideas clash with ours and whose actions irritate us, can make us very unhappy. And yet what a lot of good they often do us!



For rubbing shoulders with other people is a good thing. Folks who live by themselves often become very queer and eccentric, and dogs who always get their own way are not much better.

One method of polishing lenses is to place two lenses together with a little polishing compound between and just keep rubbing. In the end, the rough spots on both lenses are gone, and they are beautifully smooth and clear from friction.

So just remember that the fellow at the office who always wants to do things his way when your way would be so much better, may be helping to make you more tolerant and flexible. The friction from other people's ideas often can give you the polish you need.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

OCTOBER 2, 1937

Car loaded with food shipped today by a committee in the west. Tangible evidence of the readiness to assist in any cause that aids in the alleviation of human distress by the people of this city and vicinity was seen in a freight car crammed to the roof with potatoes, canned goods, vegetables, fruit and other foods which left Belleville today enroute to the drought stricken area in the Canadian west. With the appeal for assistance made only a few days ago through the pulpits of the city, local men and women and those of the outlying districts rose immediately to the task of securing the much needed succor for their less fortunate fellow human on the prairies. The response was immediate and the desired amount of help was quickly obtained. The following ministers of the city donned overalls, clothes and helped to load the car: the Rev. Dr. Semple, the Rev. R. E. Newman, the Rev. W. G. McClintock, the Rev. W. R. Merrick, the Rev. A. G. Sinclair, all of this city, and the Rev. F. Horton of Foxboro. Many laymen also assisted.

From our file copy at this date in 1887: In the construction of the water works a gang of men is at work with the steam drill on Front Street north of Holet Street (Victoria Ave.) By the time the water is turned on this fall, the most valuable part of the city will be under fire protection from the water works system.

Thirty years ago most young men had livery bills; no one sprayed orchards; no one wore white shoes; cantaloupes were musk melons; doctors wanted to see your tongue; operations were rare; the "Tin Lizzie" was unheard of; no one worried about the price of gasoline; farmers came to town for their mail; the hired girl drew $1.50 per week; the butchers threw in a chunk of liver; folks sold pneumatic tires were a joke; you put tubes in your ears to hear a phonograph and it cost a dime; milk shake was a favorite drink; no one had appendicitis, by that name; no one swatted the fly; straw stacks were burned, not baled; oranges was five cents per pint.

Mrs. O. P. Lowery has returned to Toronto after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson, Sinclair St.

Go North, Son It Needs You

Vancouver Sun

Whatever else it may do, the present tour of Canada's northlands by mining and metallurgical leaders from around the Commonwealth is bringing our great frontier into exciting focus for all Canadians.

Particularly intriguing is the commentary being made.

The University of B. C. engineering professor, Wilfred Heslop, for instance, says any Canadian should be prepared to give 10 years of his life to developing the north. And Claire E. White, general manager of United Keno Hill Mines, believes that any young mining engineer who is not prepared to go north had better choose another profession.

Canadians are meeting it. But even more would if Ottawa turned on the pressure. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has indicated in his interest in the north's development. Let him, at once, call a first affairs minister Alvin Hamilton, get on with it. Regularly scheduled transportation into and within the north is a primary need, to smooth the way for economic development and eventual permanent settlement.

The only way they're at it consider Prof. Heslop's suggestion of regular aerial tours of the north for individuals and commercial groups. Prof. Heslop suggested the tours to overcome Canadians' "appalling" ignorance, so they'll get bitten with the development bug. Conventional initiative rather than money could get such a scheme rolling.

Canada's northern development may now be trailing Russia's state-directed efforts in Siberia. But given a chance to get on with the job, the free-wheeling enterprise of private Canadians will close the gap and push ahead. Just as surely as the west filled up in the wake of railroads.

Yes, there is a challenge. The governmental leaders and private citizens must be prepared to meet it.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Prevention of The CRI

One of the traditional principles of medicine is that quinine prevents and cures malaria. Even after the discovery of the cause of malaria — the parasite called Plasmodium, injected by the bite of the Anopheles mosquito, not the common (Culex) species — fairly stiff doses of quinine seemed to be the best bet, and we tried to rationalize our belief in quinine as the best remedy for malaria by assuming it killed the parasite in the blood.

I still recommend a daily two grains for children, four grains for adults, or quinine as a prophylactic or preventive against of the Common Respiratory Infections (CRI, pronounced krey) but, confidentially, I am not so convinced of this value of quinine as many of our readers seem to be.

You see, my faith in quinine was badly shaken at the very beginning of my medical career. When I was fresh out of school with tertian malaria (chill every tertian day) entered the hospital. At bedside, we found the Plasmodiae in his blood corpuscles under the microscope. True, malaria was a rare occurrence at the time, so the attending physician published copies of an inert white powder instead of quinine. He wanted to demonstrate the Plasmodiae to his medical class, in successive rounds. But the patient didn't co-operate. In the course of a week or ten days, he ceased having chills, the parasite disappeared from his blood and he insisted on getting up and going home. One couldn't expect quick cr recovery with quinine treatment. How come? I have wondered about it ever since. Also I have wondered whether one of the other interns or a nurse or other attendant, feeling sorry for the poor fellow, perhaps gave him quinine on the q.t.

I believe that an adequate daily ration of iodine (iodin) in one form or another (not medicine) prevents or corrects numerous complaints. For all I know a great many patients who send me favorable reports, may be right about it. All I can say is that, in my case, I can see no harm to try it. Remember, this does not apply to taking medicinal doses of iodine or iodide.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INHERITORS ALL

No matter who we are, whether rich or poor, we may be said to have been born into a fortune. A fortune, that over every period of history has its own traits that make it stand out, notable a n d significant.

I think back to my youth and I say today how lucky I was. We were not at wars, no threats to universal peace, and there were opportunities aplenty. Today we are filled with fears and there are threats to peace and good will all about us.

But we have inventions that have changed our way of life, things that have taken away much of the drudgery of work, men making proof of its pleasant and interesting! And tomorrow we shall become inheritors of even greater things. All of us are inheritors of the toil of others.

When I observe the activities and carefreeness of the youth of today, I envy him but wonder how much their lives fifty years from now. But I do not worry. I only wish them the glory of their time, and the usefulness to the world that is theirs. Most of these youngsters of today will be great men and women, and from one, if the world still exists! And I think that it will. A good part of it. And people tested in the crucible of democracy.

Henry D. Thoreau lived at an interesting time in history, a time which many of his contemporaries looked upon with contempt. Even to them, but Thoreau said in his own way that he would not be unkind to him if he should try. And the next day he wrote in his journal that he had been unkind to the world, and in the very nick of time, too.

We were all born to a different age, one that must melt into all time, but how fleeting all ages! Thoreau wrote a hundred years ago and his words are still true and are stimulated by his vision and simplicity of life.

THE PACKSACK

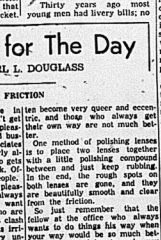
By GREGORY CLARK

The supermarkets have shown the world how simple it is, after all, to make the consumer do the work of consuming. You've got the money, they say, we've got the goods; come and get 'em, come and walk up and down and around and back, shoving a little cart that gets heavier and heavier, doing our own salesmanship, doing our own packaging, doing our own repiling when we knock anything over, trying our best to be only as to live up to the example of superb tidiness of the floor staff who we have succeeded in selling ourselves solid, we trundle our heavy load to the cash register, takes our money, and, very kindly, it seems to me, stuffs our purchases in bags. Whereupon we, with the feeling of having partaken of a great enterprise, stagger out on the floor and walk to our car or all the way home.

Nobody comes between us and the goods but that one girl. True, there are a few clerks in the various aisles of the supermarket, in which everything is not only in view but within reach, and nothing is under the counter or hidden behind anything else, but anybody young men in white aprons wander about replenishing the shelves. But if you speak to them, they appear to be a little shocked. You aren't playing the game.

It isn't cricket. It is not consuming. As a consumer, you aren't supposed to speak.

Supermarkets are not in the telephone book. The head offices are listed in the phone book, but you can't ask any silly questions there. No. The supermarket does not even suggest that you can communicate. You are not supposed to communicate. You have the goods. You have the money. Come on, and no blather. The whole supermarket is shopped over open their mouths from the time they come in until, laden, they go out.



With what envy the rest of the marketing world must view this wonderful system! Never in a big butterfield, a fat and a little bald-headed "Complaints." Never have I seen a floorwalker with an ester in his buttonhole. Not even the most inarticulate clerks in the meats and vegetables, maybe. And since the price is marked on everything, and everything is clearly labelled as to origin, all the clerks have to do is look at you gravely and you need to be called the silent service. It's lost its title.

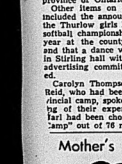
Junior Farmers, Jr. Institute Meet Jointly



On Monday the Thurlow Junior Farmers and Junior Institute held a joint meeting at the Plainfield United Church, with O. Dalrymple, agriculture representative, present.

Mr. Dalrymple spoke on the history of the Junior Farmers stating that the organization was started around the time of the First World War, when it was given the name of "Junior Farmers Improvement Association," but in later years the name was changed—"Today there are approximately 6,000 members in the province of Ontario."

Other items on the program included the announcement that the Thurlow girls had won the softball championship again this year in the county field day; and that a dance would be held in Shilling Hall on Dance and advertising committees appointed.

Carolyn Thompson and Carl Reid, who had been at the provincial camp, spoke briefly telling of their experiences there. Carl had been chosen "Spirit of Camp" out of 76 members.

WEDDINGS

MULLIN — MCLEAN

A pretty wedding of wide interest took place in the Brookville United Church, Brookville (R.R.), on Saturday afternoon, September 14th., when Frances Barbara McLean, daughter of Mrs. William Leslie McLean, of Brookville (R.R.), and the late Mr. McLean, became the bride of Ewart Rankin Mullin, son of Mrs. William Leonard Mullin, of Toronto, and the late Mr. Mullin. The Rev. George Ward of the Park Avenue United Church, East Saint John, officiated.

Miss Ruth Clarke presided at the organ and the soloist soloist was Miss Grace Lagle.

The church was effectively decorated with baskets of cream, colored 'mums and shasta daisies. Lighted candles in candelabra and white ribbons adorned the Communion table. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Cecil Murray of Sackville, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ross Findall, matron of honor and Miss Barbara Clark, her niece, as flower girl. Mr. William Scott Mullin, brother of the bridegroom, of Windsor, acted as groomsman and the ushers were Dr. R. B. Pritchard, Havelock, Ontario, friend of the bride, and McKinley Rankin, of Belleville, the bridegroom's cousin.

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of bridal satin and eggshell satin fashioned with a bateau neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, fitted bodice coming to a V in the back, with a very full skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet studded with seed pearls, lace over satin. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a cascade of yellow Sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor wore a ballerina-length gown of pale blue, net velvet with short sleeves, fitted bodice with a bertha neckline. The skirt was made in two tiers of matching velvet with a short train. She wore matching headdress and bouquet of Mexican 'mums and Sweetheart roses.

The flower girl wore a dress of deep rose taffeta with sash of deep rose velvet with a bouffant skirt and bow in the back. Her headdress of velvet leaves and feathered 'mums and she carried a miniature bouquet of roses and 'mums to match her dress.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Shadow Lawn in Rothesay. The toast to the bride was proposed by Walter Allison, University of New Brunswick. The bridegroom happily responded. The guest book was in the charge of Miss Janet Sturdee. Later Mr. and Mrs. Mullin left on a motor trip to points of interest in the New England states and on their return will reside at 655 Shrewsbury Blvd., in Montreal. For travelling the bride wore a grey and black striped imported tailored tweet suit with hat, gloves and blouse in a mosaic black shade. Shoes and bag completed her ensemble. Sweetheart roses were her corsage.

The bride's mother chose a two-piece gown of aqua silk shantung, with white fox fur collar and three-quarter length sleeves. She wore white gloves, hat and shoes with white gloves. Her corsage was of white roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a French blue peau de soie and she, too, wore with matching hat, navy blue gloves and shoes. Her corsage was of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Allison University in Sackville and Saint John General Hospital School of X-Ray Technology. She is presently employed at the Montreal General Hospital. The groom is a graduate of the University of Toronto and employed with the Northern Electric Company in Montreal.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. H. C. S. Adams and the late Mr. Adams of Brookville.

The bridegroom is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Rankin of Hermon, and attended public school and collegiate in Belleville.

Guests were present from Havelock, Ontario, Toronto, Madoc, Acton, Ontario, Belleville and Windsor, Ontario.

COX — COCHRANE

Tall standards of white chrysanthemums interspersed with tall, lighted tapers formed a lovely setting in Deseronto United Church on Saturday, September 28, at 2.30 p.m. for a very pretty autumn wedding when Jessica Lillian Cochrane, registered nurse, of Deseronto, daughter of Mrr and Mrs. William C. Cochrane, became the bride of Ross Edwin Cox, B.Sc., P. Eng., of Brantford, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cox. The Reverend Wesley Nethercott, B.A., B.D. officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. Gerald McCaul, of Napanee, presided at the organ and provided the traditional wedding music, also accompanying the soloist, Mr. John S. Cochrane, B.A., of Toronto, who sang before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," "Because," during the signing of the register and the "Lord's Prayer," after the nuptial prayer.

The radiant bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. William C. Cochrane, wore a bridal gown of white, slipper satin, fashioned in full length with fitted bodice having a "V"-shaped neckline and long, tight, shoulder sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists, closed with eight pearl buttons. The gracefully full skirt cascaded into a chapel train. Her headdress of tulle net in the form of matching satin holding a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a sheaf of white gardenias mingled with white 'mums.

Mrs. Norah Edwards, sister of the bride, Miss Barbara Cox of Brantford, the bridegroom, and Miss Marion Crabbe, registered nurse, attended the bride as matron of honor and bridesmaids. Mrs. Edwards was in autumn slipper satin, fashioned a "V" neckline, cap sleeves and princess lines in the bodice and skirt. She wore matching slippers and headdress, and carried a bouquet of pale yellow 'mums. Miss Cox was in seagreen slipper satin with matching headdress and slippers, and carried a sheaf of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Healey, B.Sc., P. Eng. of Simcoe, Ontario, attended the bridegroom as best man. Messrs. Irving D. Cochrane, B.A., barrister, Toronto, brother of the bride, and Robert W. Cochrane, RCAF, Barrie, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Stewart, of the Ryerson School of Technology, Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where over 70 guests assembled in a marquee room for the first time in many years, including all ten of the Mr. and Mrs. Cochrane's children, together with their wives, and husbands, and a number of grandchildren.

The bride's mother, wearing a taupe-tone silk shantung sheath with matching fur-felt hat, mink stole, matching accessories with corsage of mauve and white 'mums, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a grey-blue silk sheath with pink hat and gloves, and corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling to Florida, the bride chose an ensemble of black and white check tweed with fitted jacket and black velvet picture hat, matching accessories and corsage of white gardenias. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Cox will reside in Brantford, Ont.

Guests attended from Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Brantford, Kingston, Belleville, Perth, Simcoe, Peterborough, Gananoque, Kitchener, Ancaster, Barrie and Napanee.

The corsage was American Beauty roses.

She was attended by Miss Shirley Devolin attired in shrimp taffeta, sleeveless with tucked bodice and skirt of unpressed pleats and black velvet hat and gloves. Her corsage was of white 'mums.

The best man was Mr. William Fletcher, friend of bride.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at Blue's Hotel where the bride's mother chose blue silk print with white stole, black accessories and rose carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore friedescent blue taffeta with black accessories and rose carnation corsage.

The wedding party returned to the Fitchett home to view the gifts. Tea was served by Mrs. Carman Fitchett and Mrs. William Cooney.

Gift to the maid of honor was a compact and to the best man tie slide and cuff links.

BROOKS — FITCHETT

Madoc United Church parsonage was the setting on September 28th for the marriage of Marilyn Jean Fitchett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Fitchett, West Huntingdon, to Glen Charles Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Brooks, River Valley.

The Rev. J. F. Lane officiated before a background of gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. J. F. Lane, Rev. J. Dyson, pastor of West Huntingdon circuit, sang, "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked radiant in blue lace over taffeta, sheath styled with boat neckline and cap sleeves. She wore a pink velvet sheath with veil and gloves and her

Following their recent marriage in Mount Pleasant-Random United Church, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Elmer Watson are residing in the former Miss Betty Maude, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell, of Stirling R.R. 3. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Watson, of Harold R.R. 2.

WATSON — McCONNELL

On Saturday, September 14th, at high noon a very pretty double-ring ceremony was solemnized by the pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B. A., assisted by a former pastor, the Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, B.A. of Bethany, in Mount Pleasant Rawdon United Church, when Betty Maude, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Stirling, R.R. 3 became the bride of Craig Elmer Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Watson, Harold, R.R. 2.

The edifice was a picture of loveliness with baskets of gladioli, asters, 'mums, and potted ferns placed across the front. Lighted tapers in silver candelabra graced the communion table. The guest pews were designated with white satin bows.

Mrs. Lorne Watson, Harold, R.R. 2, rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the bride's aunt, Mrs. Don Sine, of Belleville, who was soloist. She contributed, "I'll Walk Beside You" before the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a lovely bridal gown of white slipper satin and nylon tulle. It was designed with a fitted bodice and a row of tiny lace buttons accentuated the back. The deep, bateau neckline was of embroidered lace and long sheath sleeves ended in lily-points at the wrist. The full bouffant skirt of tulle was emphasized by a sectional panel of lace giving a slim effect. Her headpiece was a raised bandeau of nylon tulle ruffled in tiered effect, and trimmed with opalescent sequins, to which was attached her shoulder-length veil of silk tulle illusion which was trimmed with a lace applique and scattered with matching sequins. She carried a Colonial bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Miss Shirley Rennie Reg. N., Peterborough, was maid of honor in a gown of white slipper satin and silk crystalette.

The bridesmaids were: Mrs. Glenn Watson, Marmora, and Miss Marilyn McConnell, Mount Pleasant, both wearing identical frosted silk crystalette. The gowns of all three attendants were designed identically. They were fashioned on princess lines with full bouffant skirts. The rounded neckline was enhanced with an off-the-shoulder effect and ended in a deep back with two fitting panels which complemented the gowns. They wore feather headdresses and matched gauntlets in matching colors, and carried nosegays of mauve and yellow chrysanthemums.

Little Miss Beth Bonsteel, of Bethany, was sweet in a ankle-length frock of yellow nylon and tulle with matching headdress and carrying a dainty basket of yellow 'mums.

The bride's cousin, Master Keith McConnell, of Mount Pleasant, was ringbearer and carried the rings on a white satin cushion designed in heart shape.

Mr. Glenn Watson, Marmora, was groomsman for his brother, and the ushers were: Messrs Lorne Watson, Harold R.R. 2, and Calvin McCoy, Eldorado.

The reception followed in the church hall where the platform was decorated with potted ferns and a basket of vari-colored gladiola. The guest tables were centred with a novelty arrangement of asters.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask linen and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated in white with pink rosebuds, misted at the base with white tulle and flanked by tall silver candleholders holding lighted tapers. Wedding bouquets completed the nuptial table.

The bride's mother received in a gown of rose Adrian lace with matching accessories, and a corsage of white, feathered carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing gown of mauve and white silk with pink accessories and corsage of matching feathered carnations.

Following the cake ceremony, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher was toastmaster and spoke briefly. The groomsman read a telegram of congratulations from the bride's cousins, Messrs Grant, Allen, and Donnie Montgomery, of Toronto.

Mr. Dave Hollinger, Marsh Hill, proposed the toast to the bride, to which the bridegroom responded, and in closing he proposed a toast to all the attendants, to which the groomsman replied. The pastor proposed a toast to all the guests, and to the grandfather, Mr. Albert McCoy, Eldorado. To the toast Messr George Watson and Raymond McConnell responded.

The Rev. B. R. Bonsteel expressed greetings on this auspicious occasion.

Those who served were: Mrs. Marguerite McMullen; Misses Dorothy Mason, Hazel Mason, Leslie Dracup; Lola McConnell; Judy Rose; Carole Poste; Phyllis Dempsey; Mason; Hazel; Carol Sharpe, and Gail Scott. They were in a mauve and white bandeau apron of organdy and nylon with a matching handkerchief in the pocket. The bride also presented the senior serviteurs with bon bon dishes and the junior girls with novelty gifts and autograph albums.

Mrs. Watson chose to wear on her wedding trip, by way of Niagara Falls to Buffalo, and Syracuse, a dress of iridescent mauve silk with hooped skirt, black silk duster, matching velvet hat and accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses. On their return they will reside in the Wellman's Corners community.

The bride is a music supervisor in the district and will resume her teaching engagements in the various schools next week.

Guests were in attendance from Kenmore, New York; Peterborough; Toronto; Nestleton; Bethany; Trenton; Belleville; Marmora; Madoc; Stirling and local points.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were in keeping with what they wore for the ceremony, to the little flower girl, an engraved locket and chain, and to the ring bearer an engraved tie pin.

The bridegroom's gifts to the groomsman and ushers were fountain pens.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored with a party by the ladies of the congregation of Mount Pleasant at the home of Mrs. Lindsay McKeown, with Mrs. Lindsay Sills and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver as co-hostesses.

The Campbellcroft Women's Institute and Stirling Public School staffs each featured a party and gift.

The Belleville Hillcrest public school staff and pupils, the Belleville Private of Wade staff and pupils, and Miss Doris Dunham, teacher of S.S. No. 4 Wellman's Corners, Mount Pleasant and pupils each sponsored a party and presented a gift in recognition of Betty's efforts in teaching music in the various schools.

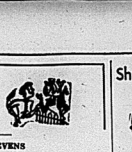
Weather. What would we do without the eternal, ever-changing weather, from which our annual and fickle ways never learn or alter? Without consideration. But without consideration of the weather please. Anymore than one man can please, everybody. Apparently the weather service looks for a welcome mat or, if it does, it cannot read. As we sit here typing today's column we have this moment listened to a local pastor advise us to stop worrying about those things over which we can have no control.

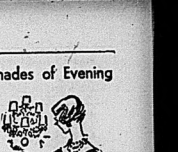
Well, we cannot control the whims of Jack Frost. He has arrived for autumn 1957 and all our sadness for the flowers will not phase him one whit. So all we can do is hurry with the chores of the season; prepare the perennials to survive another winter; except what we cannot defer or prevent; and endeavor to let the beauty about us drown the sadness of a passing summer. And as for the greenhouse? The restless struggle can secure some of summer's beauty through the month or so of greenhouse visit to our local florists.

Food is a necessary commodity more than flowers, or is it? In any event, food is more essential to our bodies than the delight of the eye to the dictates of the stomach. We understand that many of our menfolk who served in the forces overseas cannot stand the sight of macaroni and lamb remains popular. There are faint signs that the public may be tiring of the eating slightly. Soon lamb should be at its best, its cheapest, and its most delicious. Watch your meat counters for the cuts of lamb you prefer.

October is the season for pumpkins, apples and cheese. Pumpkin is a vegetable of good quality and reasonable price of canned pumpkin, housewives should be in the throes of preparing pumpkin for a long time. Be sure to keep pumpkin in a cool dry place where the temperature remains even. Refrigeration is best for a covered container or wrapped in heavy waxed or parchment paper. Cheese is delicious if the liquor evaporates and the cheese dries out. It should be kept in a cool place because high temperatures cause some of the fat to melt and escape from the cheese.



Housewives may soon be able to buy many household supplies in containers which look like orchestra pits. Just lift the compense their contents at a squeeze. Strategically placed rubber diaphelves are flexible polythene "squeeze cans" of liquid detergent. There is no cap to screw, no drip in pouring. You just flip the cap open and shut with a press and squeeze. The manufacturers say one squeeze puts through enough detergent to pan to cut the grease and start the cleaning action. A couple of squeezes fills a kettle for a dishpan full of dirty dishes.



Good shopping!

Recently T & T interviewed the acting chairman of the Citizens' Association of the city which is in the process of being formed. He was advised us that the hope of the Citizens' Association is to arouse an informed, active and earnest public opinion on civic business, policy and problems. It is hoped that the citizens of Belleville will be made aware of the many challenges facing a growing community.

Some of these issues are live questions like the recreation centre, others are dormant and little heard of but so vital like, for instance, the deepening of the Northport narrows to allow Belleville to compete in the lake shipping expected when the St. Lawrence Seaway is opened. Mrs. Brown, with the group of public minded citizens are developing their time, energies and talents on a voluntary basis for the future prosperity and welfare of Belleville and indeed for the Bay of Quinte municipalities. Certainly the aspirations of the Citizens' Association are high minded and commendable. Mrs. Brown was emphatic when she stated that it was not a reporter that the work had been done and shared by others. Although she would accept credit for her self, T & T left the interview convinced that the directors of these men and women commend them to the citizenry and merit wholehearted support.

Shades of Evening

By VERA WINSTON

Brown comes into its own this season, starring under the bright lights of gala evenings, as well as by day. Destined for an exciting season of big little evenings is this elegant dress of brown satin. The bodice, with its wide open V neckline and simple cut, underplays the design to give full favor and flavor to the puff shaped skirt that is caught with a bow at the front. There is a straight, slim underskirt.

Vastness of St. Lawrence Seaway Overpowers Women

MONTREAL (CP) — Mud and debris, bangs, rattles and blasts — it's a No Woman's Land and a woman admit it.

The fair sex just can't seem to comprehend the enormity of the St. Lawrence seaway. A single lock—80 feet deep by 80 feet wide—overpowers them.

Take 19-year-old Jean Bolton, a Glasgow girl who has been Canada three months ago and got a job with a construction company on the seaway. Four times a day she passes the Beauharnois lock, but never really looks at it.

AWED OBSERVER

The other day, high heels and all, she teetered to the lock brink, gaped, stared and gulped:

"It's big." That's all she could say.

"We girls stay in the office," she explains. The dust rises, bushes, pumps and cranes and the noise — well they just don't like it at all.

"Whenever they blast, the whole building shakes," says Jean, who dreams of her job as if it were in a plush city office. "Sometimes it's much like any other office, only friendlier."

Wives of men working on the municipal buildings have similar troubles. So do women living in houses near the seaway.

"I don't understand anything," says Mrs. Marcel Sincennat, of Melocheville, Que., whose husband is a construction foreman. "It is so big that sometimes I'm afraid for my husband working there but he's very much his job so I'm happy really."

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PAYING "LAST RESPECTS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When you go to a funeral home to pay your last respects to some one who has passed on, and the member of the family whom you know best says as you are leaving, "Thank you for coming," what should you reply? — L.B.

You may say, for example, "I wanted to tell you of my deep sympathy. And I wanted to tell you too that if there is any service I can possibly do for you these days, please let me be of help." Or, if it might not be appropriate to say the last sentence (the friendship might not be that close), give a warm handshake as you say your "I wanted to come to tell you of my deep sympathy and understanding."

WHEN ARRIVING GUEST GREETS HOST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At a company-sponsored affair (a Christmas-party, for example, or a picnic, or some similar informal occasion), is it correct for the guest to go directly to the host (an executive of this small company) to say he does one merely come to the affair and mingle with the guests? This group of guests is an informal group. — Reader

An excellent question, and the answer is definite and very important: Whether the occasion is formal or informal, large or small, it is proper procedure for an arriving guest to go directly to greet and shake hands with the host (or hostess, as the case may be). This is a natural courtesy due a host (and or a hostess), and in this way a polite guest makes a bow to host-dup. The guest shouldn't make any detours on his way to greet the host . . . shouldn't stop to chat . . . should proceed directly to the host or hostess.

HOW TO SIGN AN AUTOGRAPH ALBUM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I sign an autograph album, should I write only my first name, or should I write "Miss Dorothy Clark" — D.

Neither. Write your name in full . . . Dorothy Clark . . . and do not include the title before your name.

PROPER TO INQUIRE IF MEMORIAL FLOWERS ARRIVED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I sent flowers to the funeral of the father of a dear friend of ours. We tried very hard to choose flowers very beautiful and very appropriate, and we enclosed a card, writing on it a few words expressing our deep sympathy. We have never received a note of appreciation or any other evidence that the flowers were received. We have seen this friend twice since the funeral, but she did not mention the flowers, and we hesitated to bring up the subject at this sad time. But recently two friends happened to mention that they had received thank-you notes from her, so now we are really worried that either our flowers were not delivered or that maybe the card was misplaced. What do you suggest we do, or should we do nothing, or at least nothing at this time? — P.D.

I advise you to do something now, when it might be easier to trace the flowers, it perhaps there was a mishap about them. I suggest you base your inquiry on the fact of the other thank-you notes: for example, say to your friend, "Bob and I are worried that perhaps our memorial flowers for your father did not arrive, since we haven't heard from you, and Julia and Jim have had word from you about their flowers. If our flowers were fix some reason not delivered we would like to get in touch with our florist." I am sure your friend will completely understand your making this inquiry.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

IMPERFECT LEGS NEED EXERCISE AND MASSAGE

For weeks, designers have been at swordspoint over the length of the new season's frocks, but it looks as though, no matter what their personal differences where actual inch-length is concerned, skirts are going to be considerably shorter. Which poses a problem for the girl who's not blessed with perfect gams.

Beauty experts admit that improving leg contours is one of the toughest problems to tackle. But you can make improvements with time and patience!

One of the most common problems is heavy calves and, for these, there are two answers — exercise and massage. Stocky legs should be stretched. When taking a bath, keep legs straight; then, pushing down, point toes as far forward as possible. Reverse, keeping legs straight and pushing heels down.

Deep knee bending is good for shaping legs, too. Stand on your toes, then slowly lower to a squatting position. Rise slowly, keeping on your toes. This routine strengthens arches and firms thigh muscles, too.

Massage does wonders for heavy calves. A rough Turkish towel, wrung out in hot soapy water and twisted into a rope, makes an ideal massager. Hold the towel taut by each end and "roll" it briskly up and down each leg. The action, made easier by the soap, tones slack muscles. Incidentally, even if you have shapely legs, this is an excellent routine to follow if you'd keep them that way. For trimmer ankles, try picking up small objects, such as marbles or pencils, with your toes.

Exercise and massage aren't the only ways to make legs more attractive. The right choice of shoes and stockings is also important. If legs are heavy, choose a neutral shade of hose with seams—they help keep them seams straight! If ankles are heavy, avoid ankle-strap shoe styles that call attention to them.

NICK, BIG vacant wall spaces may be too much of a temptation for a toddler alone with a crayon! The best way to help him avoid that temptation is to keep crayons and paper in the kitchen, and let him use them only while you're working there and can supervise.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. Frost.

At the conclusion of a food sale, refreshments were served by Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Denike.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each month it decides a case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. G.P. — Our son's wife is a tyrant.

Roland P. — Things aren't so easy for her.

Mrs. G.P. — Don't get the idea that my husband and I are interfering in-laws, because we aren't. We have five married children and have never interfered in any way. But when someone is hurting your child, you'd have to be inhuman to be able to stand coldly by.

The problem concerns our son, Roland. He is 32 and has been married for eight years. His wife is a regular tyrant. She makes so many demands on Roland he never has a minute to rest and enjoy life. He works very hard to supply her and the three children with the best of everything.

But when he is home, he must work every minute, building things, painting, mowing the lawn, fixing everything around the house. She will never call in any outside help because she says they have to save for the children's education.

We have tried to get Roland to stand up for himself like a man. But he hasn't the nerve to cross her in anything. He is so overworked, it's pathetic to see him sometimes. Is this the way to live?

Roland P. — I haven't known what it is to relax in eight years. That's the truth. I don't think I'd know how to any more. But my parents don't realize things aren't so easy for my wife.

Her parents are very well off and she comes from a home where she had to snap her fingers to get everything she wanted. Now she must do all her own work and it's not easy in a home the size of ours.

She doesn't spare herself any more than she spares me. She doesn't take it easy while I work. She is a perfectionist and I must say we have the most beautiful well-cared-for home I've seen anyplace.

The worst of it is, Ethel is so hard to please. I always feel things fall far short of her expectations when I finish a job. She can do most things far better than I can.

When I try to tell her things don't have to be so perfect, she says "a man can't understand." But I know my mother isn't like that. I've asked her to talk to Ethel, but she's afraid of her, too.

The Council: Sometimes tyrants and perfectionists have to be saved from themselves and this sounds like one of those cases. Probably most of them secretly long for someone to have the courage to oppose and conquer them.

"Good" tyrants, like Ethel, manage to find some worthy cause to uphold, and that further intimidates their subjects. Ethel's desire for a beautifully ordered home cuts the ground from would-be rebels. How can any well-ordered individual fight such idealism, especially when the leader herself seems ready to lay down her life for the cause?

But certainly Ethel should be opposed and Roland, not his mother, must be the one to do it. Roland should point out that, as a couple, they are the slaves of their home, not the master of it.

If anyone is to work he should use more forceful methods — such as the sit-down strike. He might also try kidnaping. Get Ethel away from that home of hers and show her the pleasant world outside her obsession.

My Mother's Blueberry Pie

By Mary Moore

We were short about 1 cup of blueberries for making a blueberry pie when something clicked in my mind.

I remembered seeing my mother slicing apples into the bottom crust for a blueberry pie. I could remember the feel and taste of those apples — soaked with the flavor and color of the blueberries and seeming to give the filling a certain body that was pleasant.

Dinner Menus

WEDNESDAY

Corned Beef and Cabbage; Mustard; Mashed Potatoes; Celery Hearts and Carrot Sticks; Sliced Peaches and Cream; Wheat Germ Muffins (see Tuesday); Coffee.

So with only 3 cups fresh blueberries to start with we ended up with a pie that had even little Gary licking his little blueberry stained lips. To his mother's disgust his daddy and I kept giving him little tastes of the blueberries from the pie on our plates.

SPRINGFORD BLUEBERRY PIE

(Springford is a tiny village in Southwestern Ontario very dear to me for there my mother was born.) Preheat the oven to 475 deg. Fahr. I lined a 9-inch pie plate with the Egg Pastry, recipe for which I gave you last week, then proceeded as follows: slice 2 tart apples into bottom. Spread over it the blueberry filling: 3 cups clean, dry blueberries, 2/3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 tablespoon lime or lemon juice. Cover with well-gashed top crust and seal edges well by moistening the edge of the bottom crust with water. Brush top with a mixture of 1 1/2 tablespoons cream sugar and milk to give it an attractive glaze, or use a small egg yolk with the sugar instead of milk. Bake at 475 deg. F. for 12 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. for 35 minutes or until juice begins to bubble through the gashes. Delicious served as soon as it cools with white cream cheese.

Now for another version of a blueberry pie by another Mary Moore. This one is Mary I. Moore who is one of our readers living in Deep River.

BLUEBERRY PIE — DEEP RIVER STYLE

"Dear Mary: . . . blueberry pie as it could be rather than as it is usually served in restaurants was a revelation that living in Deep River has brought me. The preparations begin the evening before . . . with 15-mile drive up the Ottawa to Blueberry Hill, where we pick until the sun goes down and the river turns silver from the sunset . . . next day berries are picked over and pie made using 4 cups unwashed fruit for a large one and 1 cup sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons flour (I add half this mixture after the first 2 cups of berries). Dot with butter, use lattice crust and bake at 400 deg. F. for 45 minutes or until juice bubbles through crust. Serve warm with ice cream. This is a must.

After eating a piece of this pie a neighbor confided, "I know someone who did not know you had to add salt or lemon to blueberry pie to bring out the flavor" . . . I Butter may be the answer . . . young friends invited to a Blueberry Pie Party on the condition that they come and pick their own, prepared to eat 4 pieces, but found two the absolute limit, it is so rich. Mary I. Moore" P.S. Many thanks from one Mary to another.

CHANGING LINE

By VERA WINSTON

Subtle touches are used to define lines and so give a new shape, a new appearance. It is very obvious in this double breasted coat that goes in for a rounder shape which is achieved through the medium of the sleeves and the barrelling cut. The collar is flat and is notched and cuffed pockets are set into the panels of the skirt. The coat is of cashmere and is striking in a jewel-toned deep red, in blue or the always useful and smart natural shade.

B.C. Farmer Makes Weaving Pleasant Hobby

SOOKE, B. C. (CP)—A 75-year-old man with only 2½ years' weaving experience is selling his products across Canada.

Douglas H. Smith, a farmer until arthritis forced him to take up a less strenuous business, has made weaving a pleasant hobby.

His specialty is combining tailoring and weaving, and skirts made in this small community, 19 miles from Victoria, are sold in stores across the country.

Mr. Smith's products also include drapes, stoles, handbags, scarves and place mats.

Two of his biggest jobs were weaving 20 yards of red and gold altar cloth and 12 yards of purple and white altar cloth for the Anglican church here.

Mr. Smith is proud of the fact that no two of his patterns are ever the same and says:

"The more patterns the better I like it."

Mr. Smith says that his hobby doesn't make him any money, but doesn't cost him anything, either.

"As long as I can make enough to pay for the next lot of yarn I am happy. To try to make a living out of it would just be slavery."

His patterns are experimental and worked in wool, rayon or cotton or combinations of the fabrics.

Mr. Smith, who uses a large Gilmore loom, says he learned weaving from books borrowed from the provincial library.

"There is nothing to it. It is just a matter of putting yourself to master it. As long as you are careful you can manage."

The quality of his work is attested by more than a dozen first and second prize ribbons won at the Sooke fairs.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose recently held their last meeting in Moose Hall with Sr. Regt. Nora Kaiser presiding.

The meeting opened with officers, escorts and committee chairmen taking part.

The recorder, Grace Bartlett, called roll call of officers, escorts and chairmen and read a letter from Hotel Norton Palmer, Windsor, concerning room rates for the convention in October.

Marg Crawford thanked the chapter for the suitcase given her daughter by alumni committee for her training course in hospital at Kingston.

The trip to smiths Falls was cancelled due to so much flu.

A committee of six to see Mr. Kerr concerning the children's home on Highland Avenue.

Co-worker Hansen thanked the chapter for help for her son.

A number of other co-workers thanked the chapter personally for gifts and cards sent to them.

The annual bazaar of the Women of the Moose will be held in the spring.

The draw, which was donated by Hattie Van Tassel, Trenton, was won by Selina sles.

The Sr. Regt. brought the meeting to a close, wishing all a fraternal "good night." Next meeting will be "Gown Night."

A euchre was held at Co-worker Blair's home last week with the following getting prizes: ladies: Mrs. J. McKenna, Irene Gamble, consolation, Adele Holland; lone hand, Mrs. J. McKenna. Men: Ken Holland, Bill Geeconsolatih, J. McKenna; lone hand, Ken Holland.

Checks From Italy

By TRACY ADRIAN

From Fabiani, in Rome, comes this checked coat that features all the new lines that still seem, to us here in America, to be very reminiscent of our own Roaring Twenties.

This version is in black and white wool and it has a flat wide collar. Other details are the full, wrist length sleeves and set-in belt of the fabric. The whole coat is very full in a modified cocoon silhouette.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

ST. ANDREW'S WMS

IVANHOE — The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian WMS and Ladies' Aid met at the home of Bessie M. Fleming on Thursday afternoon with 16 members in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Harold Thompson, presided. "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" was sung, followed by prayer led by Rev. W. H. V. Walker. The Scripture, Luke 6, was read by Mrs. Milton Shaw.

The theme of the meeting was "Stewardship."

A short business session was held. An invitation to Eggleton bazaar next Wednesday was read.

A reading, "Stewardship," was given by Mrs. Harold Thompson.

A discussion was held as to the advisability of changing the day of meeting from Thursday to Wednesday. It was decided to hold the next meeting on the third Wednesday in the month.

A fine paper, "Antidote to Worry," prepared by Miss Margaret Wright, was read by Mrs. John Wright.

Presbyterial Children's Department Secretary, B. M. Fleming, gave a report of the 24th Explorer and COC group rally held in Kingston St. Andrew's, Sept. 14th. The 1958 rally will be held in West Huntingdon Presbyterian church.

The key word, "Stewardship," was well taken by Mrs. Wm. Donnan. A piano solo, "The Stranger of Galilee," was given by Mrs. Lindsay Sills.

Mrs. John McInroy gave a reading, "Christian Stewardship."

Mrs. W. H. V. Walker thanked the hostess for opening her home and all who had contributed to the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess.

IVANHOE W. I.

The September meeting of Ivanhoe W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Benson on September 18th, with 20 ladies and five members of the 4-H Girls' Club present.

The president, Mrs. John McInroy, opened the meeting, and also read a poem "Three Gates of Gold."

After the business was conducted the meeting was turned over to Miss Jayne Gay, convener of "Citizenship and Education," who opened the program with community singing.

Miss Margaret Wright gave an interesting account of the Guelph holiday, which she and three other members had attended. Mrs. Ted Pullock gave the topic, "The Citizen as a Parent," which gave everyone food for thought.

Mrs. Russell Sills read a poem "Let's Count Our Blessings". Mrs. Keith Bray gave a piano solo, "Consolation," which was much appreciated.

Mrs. Clarence Douglas read a well-prepared paper, which has been written by Miss Bessie Fleming, "Resolve that the old days were good days, but yesterday is past, tomorrow is a vision, but this day well lived is the best."

Edna Tanner gave the motto, "The Value of Good Books in the Home."

Mrs. Barton Haggerty gave a reading on the "Life of Pauline Johnson" and read two of her poems.

The members of the Girls' Club and their leaders were given cups and saucers by the Institute in appreciation of their work done in the past year.

An old-fashioned spelling bee proved most interesting. Mrs. John Wright received the prize, a corsage of garden flowers.

After the meeting closed Mrs. Benson and her assistants served delicious refreshments and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Center St. United Church Presents Purse of Money

The Center Street United Church Y.P.U. recently held a corn roast at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Belch.

Songs, instrumental numbers and refreshments served by the ladies of the church contributed to a most enjoyable evening for the large group attending.

At a recent social gathering in Center Street United Church Hall, the congregation said farewell to Mr. Edward Schumacher, who is leaving to begin studies in Queen's Theological College in preparation for the ministry of the United Church of Canada. The minister, the Rev. W. E. G. Dovey, spoke of the fine service rendered in the church and community by Mr. Schamerhorn as assistant superintendent and the secretary-treasurer of the Sunday School, president of the Y.P.U. and as a member of the Board of Stewards.

The Rev. Oscar Wagar, a former minister on the charge, after a fitting tribute to the good work done by Mr. Schamerhorn, presented him with a substantial purse from the Sunday School, the W.A., the Y.P.U. and the congregation. Mr. Schamerhorn spoke feelingly of being led to offer himself for the Christian ministry by the grace of God, and asked for the prayers of the congregation on his behalf.

Refreshments, served by the ladies and the singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," brought the farewell gathering to a fitting conclusion.

The board of Center Street United Church is proceeding with the building of a substantial addition to the church. This includes a good sized kitchen, a store room and two wash rooms. The work is being done by Mr. Vanderwater and Mr. Clifford Belch, and should be completed in about two weeks. The project was made possible by a financial campaign organized by the Rev. Oscar Wagar. This new addition should contribute much to the work of the church.

NO WORRY, NO STRAIN ... sit back and enjoy every mile of your trip!

MELROSE W.I.

Mrs. L. McLaren was hostess for the September meeting of Melrose W.I. and a large number of members and visitors took advantage of her gracious hospitality.

Mrs. C. Weese opened the meeting and as it was nearing Thanksgiving she read an appropriate reading on that subject, stressing the brotherhood of man.

During the business session all were urged to attend the area convention in Belleville which will take place October 21 and 22 and delegates were appointed.

Reports showed that a layette had been given to a worthy Hungarian mother and a substantial sum donated to the C.N.I.B.

Mrs. Vincent Pascoe, convener of Agriculture, took charge of the following program: community singing with Mrs. F. Robinson as pianist; a reading, "Advantages of Farm Life," some of which were good food, a pleasant place to live; fresh vegetables more abundant, watching growth with mother nature; easier on the nerves, better health with fresh air all around. Summarizing all: the farm is a good place to enjoy life to its fullest extent.

FINE SPEECH

Wayne Pascoe delivered a speech, "The Dr. in Overalls" which he had given at a speaking contest. Mrs. M. Lazier followed with a reading about "The Prairies," which described the advancement made in the harvesting season. The old days had a maple, a glamor, all their own but the new days are better.

Mrs. F. Robinson favored with a piano solo which was enjoyed by all, after which Mrs. N. Demill read a humorous skit, "The Vanishing Woodpile."

Donna Robinson, of Carmel, proved herself a clever musician by rendering two selections on her accordion. Mrs. S. Demill gave a reading, "The Bare Window," which described in detail how to make a window garden which would be a joy of beauty.

Mrs. K. McMechan gave "Thoughts by the Way," and the roll call, "An Article Manufactured from Grain" was well answered and proved educational in this wide expanding realm.

A contest on "Agriculture" followed with Mrs. M. Robinson and Mrs. C. Weese as winners. The national anthem brought an enjoyable meeting to a close, after which refreshments were served.

Various Pastors Hold 1st Training Dinner Meeting

Learning and practising Jesus' principles of Stewardship, a group of laymen and ministers from Wesley Church; Bath, Bayside; Centenary; Tamworth; Wellington; Grace United and King Street, Trenton, held the first of five training-dinner meetings in Tabernacle Church Monday evening. The Rev. George Lock, of Quinte Valley, Counselor; and Mr. F. W. Ramsay, Bath, as Director, gave excellent leadership.

Many people make gifts to their church from force of habit. The Workshop is to teach the group of key men how to present the Stewardship program to the people through a sector project thus expressing thanks to God the Giver of all good and for all He has done for them, as supremely shown in the gift of His Son as our Lord and Saviour.

A high privilege of a Christian is to share in the carrying out of Jesus' prayer "Thy will may be done on earth as it is in heaven."

Services of worship were also marked increased attendance. The spiritual impetus and resurgence of interest and fellowship that has taken place in churches that have used the rector plan is remarkable. It has quickened the interest in every organization of churches that have participated.

Bananas, dipped in batter and fried, make an excellent accompaniment to a ham steak.

Started on Way As Photographer By Empty Pockets

VANCOUVER (CP)—Miss Margaret Bourke-White says empty pockets started her on her way to fame as a photographer.

"I had to do something and I didn't want to work on tables, so I turned to the camera to pay for my education," she said here en route to her home in New York.

From the air she has been photographing for an American magazine the Rocky Mountain trench in northern British Columbia which extends from Lake McLeod to Lower Post on the British Columbia-Yukon border.

Wenner - Gren Development Company is surveying the area in preparing to build a mono-rail line.

"Beautiful country," said Miss Bourke-White.

Her work has taken her all over the world. Toe assignment which gave her most satisfaction was photographing Joseph Stalin in Russia in the early days of the German invasion.

She got the picture by treating Stalin as she would treat anyone else. "He even laughed when he watched me crawl around my cameras," she said.

She plans to keep on travelling and working. "and I've been promised the first assignment in a rocket ship to the moon."

Youth for Christ Parley Ends With Rally

Belleville Youth For Christ concluded a weekend conference, held at Quinte Secondary School, with a rally Saturday evening.

Everyone joined in the singing, led by Ernie Belch, after which the Youth for Christ director, Jim Blackwood, opened with prayer. Mr. Belch led in a few more songs and the choir sang, "Blessed Assurance", under the direction of the choir leader, Carl Green.

Three teenagers gave their testimonies, telling how they enjoyed the Bible club in their high school.

Mr. Blackwood announced the first rally for this season would be held at the Masonic Temple, presenting the film "Wine of Morning". He also gave a report of his few weeks in Kansas City, where he engaged in Youth For Christ work.

Mr. Green rendered a solo, "Be Bought My Soul", after which the film, "The Tom Bennett Story" was shown. This was an outline of the Youth For Christ work in a high school and described how it was such a success in the lives of youths and parents.

Mr. Blackwood closed the meeting with prayer.

Women's Activities

BRIDGE STREET W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.A. of Bridge Street United Church was held in the Sunday School rooms Friday afternoon with Mrs. Arthur Clare, the president, in the chair. She opened the meeting with a prayer and a few words of welcome.

Monthly reports were read and plans for the coming season were discussed. They include the annual fall bazaar and weddings to be catered to. It was decided to invite the women of the W.M.S. to a joint Christmas meeting at a date suitable for both groups.

Mrs. H. Seldon and her group took charge of the program and she read the names of her group. Mrs. H. Davis gave the devotional, speaking on Christian responsibility. She read Bible verses which worked in with her subject.

Lieut. Margery Knaap of the Salvation Army sang two hymns. She was accompanied by Mrs. J. R. Guthridge at the piano.

Speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. J. E. Marsh, a past-president of the group and president of the Bay of Quinte Presbytery as well as a representative to the Dominion Council. She was introduced by Mrs. Seldon.

Mrs. Marsh stated there are 98 member groups in the presbytery and she tried to visit most of them to aid them with their problems. She said today the religious side of the work is stressed as well as the necessary raising of money.

She spoke of the growth of the teaching of the Bible, saying the symbol of Christian faith is the cross and the empty tomb. She remarked that the example of good living is needed to save the world.

Mrs. L. Rolul extended the vote of thanks to the speaker, Mrs. Davis and Lieut. Knaap.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Marilyn Cole (MOTHER OF 3)

If you're a "lady in waiting" you might find this nice letter from a mother to her expectant daughter reassuring. While you're waiting for the baby, read and heed all the baby-care rules you can. But when the baby comes, try to use your good judgment in how to apply them to your child. All rules do not suit all babies . . . and any rule is only as good as its stretching power. Above all, let your heart take the lead (and not you). Mother-love may not show up in inches or ounces, but it sure makes a baby grow and glow inside."

Once baby arrives it will be no time at all before your doctor will suggest solid food (usually cereal at the start). When that day comes, you'll find Gerber Cereals are to the liking of your baby's taste. The flavors are mild, and pleasantly different . . . the texture creamy-smooth when mixed with formula or milk. Just what the doctor ordered for unsophisticated palates. As for nourishment, all six are enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins.

News-worthy idea. Why not save the newspaper of the day your little one is born? In the years to come it will be interesting for your heir to see what was happening on that history-making day.

Blanket rule. When buying crib blankets for baby, why not buy two of the same size and color? When baby graduates to a bigger bed, you can stitch the two together to make a large-size blanket.

As a new mother it should be reassuring to know that a baby food must pass countless quality tests before it gets the Gerber O.K. For example, from the scrupulous selection of produce, all through processing and packing, 18 checks are made to guard the quality and purity of Gerber Baby Foods including Cereals, strained and Junior Foods. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

NIAGARA OBSERVES CENTUERY OF GRAPE GROWING

A century of grape-growing in the Niagara peninsula inspired a parade of old-time cars, fire reels and costumes in the Grape Festival at St. Catharines, Ont. Other towns sent floats and exhibits to make the parade a provincial spectacle. This ancient fire wagon drawn by horses could still answer an alarm and function—but it never gets an opportunity to demonstrate its effectiveness now except in parades.

Northport

NORTHPORT — The Rev. and Mrs. Judd entertained the Demorestville choir and the parents at the parsonage following the Sunday evening service.

Miss Shirley Foster, of Belleville, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Foster, Solmesville.

Wife Told Him To Speed up, Man Acquitted

CHATHAM (CP) — A wife's role as a back seat driver was aired in magistrate's court here Monday when Jacob Zelmanov, 42, of Detroit, appeared to answer a charge of driving at 45 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone.

"All my friends say they never knew me to do anything but drive too slow," Zelmanov said.

"That's what my wife says too."

Returning after a Toronto holiday, he explained, his wife complained that he was going too slowly when she saw a sign saying 50. Zelmanov speeded up.

"The sign is there all right," he said. "But it says $50 fine for dumping garbage I didn't know. I only look at the road. My wife reads the signs."

Magistrate Ivan Craig diminised the charge because of the circumstances and because Zelmanov had "shown good faith" by returning.

Newfoundland Steamer Service Strike Called

OTTAWA (CP)—A strike of employees of the government-owned steamer service linking Newfoundland and the mainland has been called for Oct. 15, it was announced Tuesday.

W. J. Smith, national president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CLC), said in a statement that employees of Service, which also serves the island outports, voted 436 to 1 in favor of striking to back up wage and other demands.

Jap Minister Voices Regret At British Tests

LONDON (Reuters) — Japanese Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama left for home Tuesday after expressing his "deep regret" over Britain's refusal to call off proposed tests of nuclear weapons this winter.

His expression of regret was contained in a 600-word joint British-Japanese communique based on four days of talks between Fujiyama and leading British government officials.

VOICE OF POWER IN THAILAND

Field Marshall Sarit Thanarat, 58-year-old commander in chief of the Thai army is considered the real authority in Thailand. Marshal Sarit recently overturned the government of Prime Minister Phibul Songgram and sent Phibul and General Phao Sriyanond, director of the 40,000-man police force, into exile. The new premier, with Marshal Sarit's blessing, is pro-West Pote Sarasin.

EXCITED TRIP

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP)—A pickup truck carrying seven persons early today raced out of control 270 feet, tipped over, skidded 40 feet on its side, smashed into and flipped over a parked car, setting it aflame—and nobody was seriously injured. Occupants of the small truck were strewn over a wide area of Main Street.

Farmer Wounded When Tractor Taken for Moose

HUDSON BAY, Sask. (CP) — Farmer Ernie Kalk was shot in the leg Saturday after hunters said they mistook the tractor he was driving for a moose.

Mr. Kalk was driving along a road near a forest when a shot hit the tractor. He was about to climb down to investigate when another shot caught him in the calf of the leg.

At this point, hunters Oscar Menard and his son, Neil, realized they were not shooting at a moose. They took Kalk for medical treatment.

Youth Detained

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police have detained a Montreal youth as a material witness in connection with the Sunday gun-slaying of Denis Lehoux, 30.

Detective-Sergeant Gaston Archambault said Andre Hamelin, 20, was at a "drinking party" at a summer cottage in St. Andrew East, 30 miles west of Montreal, when Lehoux was shot. He said Hamels will be questioned at inquest Friday at Lachute.

Police said they believe it was a revenge killing

Leghorn Hen Shells Out 362 Eggs in 365 Days

FLEMINGTON, N.J. (CP) — Meg O'Dat' Tues. shelled out eg No. 362 in her 365th day of intens egg-laying.

Her performance est another United States yo the number of eggs laid one-year span.

Meg, a game little leghorn he is the star of the Hunterdo County egg-laying contest. Mc had already won herself a plac in the U.S. poultry hall of fame She won her crown a week ag today when she turned out the 354th egg in 357 days.

The previous U.S. record of 3 eggs was established in 1940 by a leghorn in Corvallis, Ore But the old mark was set ove a full 365-day period. The egg Meg has laid since last Monda are pure gravy.

The Canadian record is claime by owner Don Shaver of Cal Ont., who says Hussar's Pride, white leghorn, laid 360 eggs i 365 days starting Aug. 27, 19 and that the hen's half-sist Whitecraigs' Queen, did the sam starting in August, 1950.

British candidate for ... time record is a hen named ... plicate, said to have laid ... eggs in a one-year period ende Dec. 21, 1952, at North Mundham One theory is that she had tw oviducts instead of the norma one.

Some critics have challenge the claim as "impossible," bu Duplicate's owner insisted th figures were correct.

Confidential Trial Jury Discharged After 2 Weeks Deliberation Without Verdict

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury in the Confidential magazine criminal libel conspiracy trial has been discharged, unable to reach a verdict after two weeks of deliberation.

A juror disclosed Tuesday night the jury stood 7 to 5 for conviction.

The same juror also said the jury heard a rumor Sunday that one of its members had been bribed. The report followed a remark overheard by a juror as he walked through the lobby of the hotel where the jury was quartered.

Said presiding Judge Herbert W. Walker: "A five-to-seven jury doesn't look like anyone was bought."

The Declaration of a mistrial stopped the curtain on an inconclusive drama of the month-long battle over whether Confidential, its sister scandal magazine, Whisper, and other defendants conspired to libel celebrities and to publish lewd and obscene stories.

But this, said deputy district attorney Ernest A. Klitzi, was only the first act.

"The case will be retried," he said. Earlier he had promised that other defendants would be brought to trial on the same charges.

Foreman Fred L. McCulley told superior Judge Herbert W. Walker that the jury was divided 7 to 5 and there was no hope of reaching a verdict.

Judge Walker gave the jurors a statement Tuesday night he had read to them before they began deliberations, Monday, Sept. 17, developed into bitter wrangling.

He said there was "a lot of table-pounding" and some "big fights" over the testimony and evidence.

"Things became acrimonious," he said.

Defendants Fred and Marjorie Meade heard the jury's report of failure to reach a verdict in calm disappointment.

"We had expected acquittal," Meade said.

But defence counsel Arthur J. Crowley said:

"I feel very good about it. After the prosecution tried everything in the book they couldn't get a conviction."

Judge Walker ordered the prosecution and defence counsel and the defendants to return Oct. 10 for setting of a retrial date.

The Meades were alleged to have operated Hollywood Research, Inc., as a "front station" to funnel movieland scandal to the magazines.

Bevan Calls On Labor Party To Close Ranks

BRIGHTON, England (CP)—Aneurin Bevan, the stormy petrel of British socialism, has rallied to the Labor party to close ranks behind its leaders, in a drive to win power in the next general election.

Tuesday night he told a public meeting held in conjunction with the annual Labor party conference here that he returned from a recent visit to Russia and other Iron Curtain countries with "growing apprehension" over the rift in international affairs and "a deep conviction we have not much time left."

More than 1,000 persons jammed the small hall to hear the address, scores standing around the walls and several hundred others turned away.

EXPECTED ATTACK

Many in the audience had come expecting to hear Bevan attack the party executive plan to replace the party's traditional national election policy with a watered-down scheme for the state to buy shares—but not necessarily a controlling interest—in selected industries.

Earlier, Richard (Dick) Crossman, once accused of stabbing the party in the back, won a standing ovation from the labor delegates.

In a vigorous, sometimes passionate speech before the party's annual conference Crossman won overwhelming approval for Labor's "half pay retirement" pensions plan, which now will be a major party plank in the next general election.

Political observers had predicted a sharp split over the superannuation provisions which would represent a break from the traditional British trade union stand favoring a flat rate basis for both contributions and benefits.

The scheme provides a basic weekly pension of £3 for all compared with the present old age pension of £2. Additionally it provides superannuation payments of up to £15 a week, according to earnings, with the worker contributing three per cent of his pay.

Self-Confessed Drug Addict Tells Story

VANCOUVER (CP) — A convicted trafficker said in police court Tuesday that girl drug addicts of 14 and 15 have become prostitutes in Vancouver's Chinatown so they can pay for narcotics.

Thomas Cuthbert Higgins, 35, a former high school teacher, said police won't arrest the girls because they are afraid of public reaction.

Higgins, a self-confessed drug addict, called the city's problem "strictly a farce."

"Drug addiction has been proved over many hundreds of years not to be curable. . . . These roundups don't stop drug addiction or trafficking. In the past 10 years I have done everything to get rid of this sickness."

Higgins, who had started a seven-year term for possession of drugs for the purpose of trafficking at the time of his arrest, will be sentenced Oct. 8 on the trafficking charges.

Bernard Hess, second from right, is accused of murder in the death of his wife, third from left. Police, entering his Barrie field, Ont., home, found Hess standing in the hall, soaking wet and the body of his wife, showing axe wounds about her head on a bed, with, William, second from left, was lying in a pool of blood on his bed, and one of his two daughters, Patricia, eight, front, left, was suffering from minor cuts. First notice of the tragedy came when Patricia and her sister, Barbara, pounded on a neighbor's door and screamed: "Something's wrong with daddy."

With Old Rifles, Umbrellas Reds Tighten Grip on Land

SAN MARINO (AP) — Communist sympathizers armed with 19th century rifles and umbrellas today consolidated the Red grip on the tiny mountain republic. About all that was left in the hands of the anti - Communist "provisional" government was a small, abandoned steel factory.

The Red volunteers had gained effective control of traffic into this 38-square-mile republic in the Apennines of central Italy. They were halting and searching all cars passing moving the border between San Marino and Italy.

Regular San Marino police, whose Italian commander reportedly announced support of the anti-Communists, were out on patrol but did not interfere with the Reds.

The police seemed to be playing the role of spectators in the political drama which has torn the republic divided into two armed camps.

The Red volunteers, numbering about 100 and set off by the red scarves and handkerchiefs which were wearing, made up one camp.

Opposed to them were some 50 other civilian volunteers, standing guard at the abandoned factory where anti - Communist members of Parliament had proclaimed the new "provisional" government. The anti-Red volunteers carried sub-machine-guns, rifles and pistols.

The regular police, about 200 strong, carried no ammunition for their antiquated arms.

The provisional government was recognized by Italy, but the Communists who have ruled San Marino since the end of the war—ultimated theirs was still the legitimate regime.

Backing up the Reds' claim was their possession of the government palace and their support by their youthful group of volunteers, each of whom carried 20 rounds of ammunition.

A high informant said the anti-Communists were preparing an ultimatum calling on the Reds to surrender the government palace or face the possibility of the "provisional" government calling for outside aid, presumably from Italy.

Intensive Study of Nfld. Beaver Made by Biologist

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — Wildlife biologist Peter Gregg completed a 75-mile hike for the final leg of the province's rugged interior, before his planned departure at the end of September.

Dr. Gregg, who is largely responsible for the results of a painstaking survey of Newfoundland beaver, started from Grand Falls and walked to Bay d'Espoir on his last expedition before leaving for work in northern Canada.

His work on Newfoundland started in 1955 after he attended the North American wildlife convention in Montreal. He was appointed provincial wildlife biologist for the central district with offices here. Almost at once he began his studies of Newfoundland beaver.

Preliminary work included an intensive survey of the beaver population, its habits and reproduction rate. Then he travelled all over the province trapping, tagging and taking pictures of the fur-bearing animals which are "a different species than those on the mainland."

"We are laying the groundwork to determine the life expectancy of beaver in Newfoundland," he said. "This work will put the department in a better position to recommend the best season to be trapped, how many should be taken and the average rule of reproduction."

Dr. Gregg, a native of Scarsdale, N.Y., received his bachelor of arts degree at Oberlin College, Ohio, and his master of science degree at the University of Wyoming before coming to Newfoundland. He obtained his doctorate at Cornell University, and returned to Wyoming to conduct a survey on Wyoming antelope.

The youthful biologist speaks lightly of his walking tour. It was "enjoyable and went according to plan. The trip was not difficult and could be made by any able-bodied and experienced woodsman.

Considerable wildlife was seen during the trip including moose, caribou, bears and partridge. The scenery of the interior was magnificent.

Dr. Gregg's work on beaver will be continued by Don Miller, who also chose Newfoundland as his field for work after attending a North American wildlife convention held this year at Washington. He said the province's wildlife eight, front, left, was suffering from minor cuts. First notice of the tragedy came when Patricia and her sister, Barbara, pounded on a neighbor's door and screamed: "Something's wrong with daddy."

A.V. Roe Canada Limited Moves to Fulfill Offer To Buy Control of Dosco

TORONTO (CP) — A. V. Roe Canada Limited today moved to fulfill an offer to buy control of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation Limited.

Roe officials announced Tuesday night they are satisfied holders of at least 52 per cent of Dosco shares or the equivalent in Dosco debentures have accepted the offer.

Roe now plans paying off stock-shares or debentures. Basis of the exchange is 1¼ Roe shares and $10.25 in cash for each Dosco common share and a similar exchange-and-cash offer on debentures.

The offer, announced publicly Aug. 8, was to end with the close of trading Tuesday. But Crawford Gordon, Roe president, said Tuesday night it will be extended to the close of business Oct. 9.

He said this is "as convenience to those shareholders who for any reason have been delayed in depositing their shares."

The original offer was not to be binding unless at least 52 per cent — 1,600,000 — of the Dosco shares were presented for exchange. Value of the deal on this basis would be $42,250,000 at current stock market prices of 25,000,000 Roe shares and about $17,000,000 in cash payments. Roe closed Tuesday on the Toronto Stock Exchange at $12.63 and Dosco at $24.13.

The deal, when first made public, was valued at $60,000,000, with Roe shares selling at $2 and Dosco at $15.

Roe, controlled by the Hawker Siddeley Group of Britain, now apparently will take control of Canada's largest industrial complex. Dosco's control runs through 30 companies and a variety of interests. It is especially important to the Maritimes' economy where its coal mines employ more than 5,000 miners with a $23,000,000-a-year payroll.

Its steel mills, iron ore mines and manufacturing plants employ an additional 10,600 with a yearly payroll of more than $48,000,000.

Roe is also a holding company, operating seven wholly - owned subsidiaries, a partly-owned subsidiary and a partly-owned associate company. Through these subsidiaries it is Canada's largest aircraft producer and produces railway cars, diesel buses, steel and a variety of products used in the aircraft industry. One subsidiary, Orenda Engines Limited, makes the only gas turbine aero engines in Canada.

The complex employs more than 21,000 persons and at May 31 had assets of more than $169,000,000.

The complete offer includes 1¼ Roe shares and $10.25 for each Dosco common share; 31¼ Roe and $199.75 for each $500 of $8,000,000 authorized and issued four per cent convertible debentures; and 68 ¾ Roe shares and $374.46 for each $1,000 of $10,000,000 authorized and issued 4½ per cent convertible debentures.

Criticism of Roe's move has been led by R. A. Jodrey, a Dosco director in Nova Scotia, who formed a Shareholders Protective Committee to persuade holders not to deposit their stock for exchange.

At Halifax Tuesday night, Mr. Jodrey said through his lawyer, Frank Covert of Halifax that "until the matter has been discussed with other members of the Shareholders Protective Committee he will make no comment."

CALL HEARD, MAN SAVED

TORONTO (CP)—A fire call heard by a ship hearing saved a man when flames raced through a downtown Toronto building Tuesday night. Capt. Thomas Kendall heard cries on the third floor of the building and a rescue crew found Jan Meutrott, 72, unconscious from smoke. He was taken to hospital where his condition was reported serious.

Chief Justice Warren Refuses To Halt Election

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James R. Hoffa's foes claimed today they have stopped him cold in his drive to control of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. But Hoffa forces insisted their man is a sure winner.

These assertions at the union's annual convention here to name Chief Justice Earl Warren in Washington refused to halt the election of a new slate of teamsters officers.

Warren denied a petition for an injunction brought by 13 rank-and - file members who charged the election had been rigged to give the $50,000 - a - year post to Hoffa.

It appeared Hoffa's three opponents were gaining some ground but the 44-year-old Hoffa, the midwest teamsters boss linked to labor scandals, still was well ahead.

A committee was reviewing the qualifications of delegates from some 68 locals whom, chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) of the Senate rackets investigating committee, has charged were illegally selected.

Warren turned down the plea to ban convention elections on the ground the great bulk of delegates were handpicked to rig the balloting for Hoffa.

This group got a federal injunction last week and took it to court after an appeals court. They brought unsuccessfully to have Warren restrained by the Supreme Court.

British Formally to Ask Canada to Consider Gradual Elimination of Tariffs

OTTAWA (CP) — Britain will formally ask Canada today to consider a gradual elimination of tariffs between the two countries, establishing a radical new pattern in Anglo-Canadian trade.

The immediate official Canadian reaction likely will be one of cautious approach; perhaps to seek modifications of the original suggestion and perhaps to lay the whole thing open to long and careful examination by a body of experts.

Britain's plan, made as a consequence of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's suggested switch of 15 per cent of Canada's imports from the United States to Britain, will be outlined here by Peter Thorneycroft, chancellor of the exchequer.

He and Sir David Eccles, president of the U.K. Board of Trade, met with Finance Minister Donald Fleming and Trade Minister Gordon Churchill in the bilateral trade talks.

Mr. Diefenbaker will also confer with the U.K. ministers and may make some comment on the proposal later in the day.

There were indications even before the talks got under way that Canadian authorities are none too keen on the suggestion. Some fear it may hurt Canadian industry and increase the number of jobless. Mr. Fleming has frankly stated it poses a "very formidable difficulties."

The proposal first disclosed by Mr. Thorneycroft at Mont Tremblant, Que., last Saturday, has provoked wide and varied comment.

Many Canadian industrialists are opposed to the free-trade plan, fearing the elimination of tariff protection will force their industries to be pitted competitively against the lower-cost U.K. industry.

Living standards are much higher in Canada than in Britain, Canadian wages also are higher. These economic factors would weigh heavily on Britain's side.

On the other hand, Mr. Diefenbaker has stated he would like to see a switch in some of Canada's imports from the U.S.—as much as $600,000,000 a year.

Such a move would reduce Canada's huge traditional deficit in American trade and provide Britain with a big new source of dollars which she could use, perhaps, for increased Commonwealth investment.

U.K. officials argue that the only real way to get a sharp diversion of Canadian imports from the U.S. to Britain is through the establishment of Anglo-Canadian free trade.

However, Mr. Thorneycroft has stated he realizes that even gradual elimination of tariffs would pose complexities not only for Canada but for Britain as well.

If Canada cannot agree to his proposal, then he was prepared to make others — such as increased Canadian government purchases from Britain — as a means of achieving part of Mr. Diefenbaker's import diversion plan.

Canadian officials likely will look on this alternative suggestion with more favor. They may be prepared to buy more aircraft, engineering equipment and other major products from Britain. However, how much effect this would have of diverting Canada's trade from the U.S. to Britain would be open to question.

Canadian experts also feel that Canada, in her huge trade with the U.K., is not in need of her "eggs" in one basket.

For example, of Canada's total imports of about $5,200,000,000 approximately $4,200,000,000 came from the U.S. Of Canada's total exports of some $4,800,000,000, about $2,900,000,000 went to the U.K.

The Canadian trade deficit with the U.S. last year soared to an all-time high of $1,300,000,000.

In contrast, Canada purchased a surplus of goods from the U.K. and sold her about $900,000,000 worth, giving Canada a surplus of more than $300,000,000.

Hopes Are Held for Return Of Political Sanity to Haiti

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Unhappy, hungry Haiti, now in the grip of martial law, has suffered through nearly a year of bitter civil strife.

No one can predict with certainty when the end will come, but hopes are held for a return of political sanity after the results of the recent general election are announced officially on Sunday.

Brig. - Gen. Antonio Kebreau, head of the three-man military junta currently in charge, has given determination to enforce acceptance of the vote.

But seven governments have paraded across the stage of the tiny Negro republic, which has 4,000,000 folk in an area half the size of Nova Scotia, during the last nine years.

Actually Haiti, the only French-speaking republic of the Americas, has been in the stability of any kind since winning independence from the French in 1804 during the revolutionist Toussaint L'ouverture.

The current difficulties started last December when President Paul Magloire resigned to "escape," which he visited while in power — was thrown from office when he tried to succeed himself in defiance of the constitution.

Kebreau was a former minister of agriculture military post to army chief of staff last May, his appointment approved by provisional president Daniel Fignole, who then headed a civilian council.

Kebreau threw Fignole from power on the ground that he was trying to destroy the army — a charge that was hotly denied by the outgoing president. Bitter demonstrations broke out, reaching a climax June 14 when casualties were estimated at as high as 300.

All this occurred in the midst of grinding poverty in the tropical country's worst famine in common even in happier times.

The army, under Kebreau's direction, has consistently sought elections, finally culminating in the vote of Sept. 22, which again was followed by disorders and shootings, resulting in martial law.

Dr. Francois Duvalier, a former health minister, claims a landslide victory, and his claims have received support from independent correspondents who have visited parts of the republic outside Port au Prince, the capital.

But another candidate, Louis Dejoie, a former senator, claims the vote was rigged by the army Haitians thus await the announcement of official results with some dread of new bloodshed.

Duvalier, 48, has already started talking like a president, however, stating his hopes for economic progress and restoration of constitutional rights. He is the current world flight reign in Haiti, one of the few Negro republics in the world.

Will Hold Inquest

MONTREAL (CP)—An inquest will be held today into the death of Carol Mattle, 23, who police said, showed a wound similar to those Russian roulette is played. He succumbed Tuesday to a gunshot wound in the head.

SHIPS RETURN WITH CHARTS THAT MAKE ARCTIC VOYAGE ALMOST AS SAFE AS ATLANTIC

Their voyage a history-making success, three U.S. coastguard ships are back in the U. S. with a pile of maps and charts that will make the northwest passage across the Arctic almost routine. These photos were taken during the voyage made by the vessels as they co-operated with the Canadian Arctic Icebreaker Labrador, which mapped most of Bellot Strait for the U.S. ships. Bellot Strait, until the charting of its shoals, has been considered one of the most dangerous sections of water in the Arctic. Left, the three U.S. ships follow in the wake of the Labrador and lay buoys and flags for ships of the future. The pole-vaulter, centre, is Lt. Charles Cowling, commander of one of the U.S. ships, who uses the pole to jump from one block of ice to another as he inspects the hull of his ship. When the screw of one of the ships with a cable, a skin diver, right, had to brave the ocean's cold to free it.

Greener Thumbs

By JOYCE SMITH

Ever consider nasturtiums as house plants? If this zesty flower is a favorite, enjoy it in a sunny window late into fall. Four or five inch cuttings will root in sand in few days, and then potted and brought indoors (fragrant varieties are nicest). Or, if you have young, small plants, dig with balls of earth and transplant to pot.

MADOC

Many Former Pastors Attend Hazzard's United Church Centenary

MADOC — September 22nd was a memorable day for Hazzard's community when several hundred former members and relatives or friends came to join in celebrating the 100th anniversary of their church.

Hazzard's United Church is situated four miles north of Madoc village. It is a part of the Queensboro pastoral charge and has been ministered to for the past six years by Mr. E. V. C. Lewis.

The white church with its gleaming spire is beautiful in its simplicity of design and has had loving care over the years. Immaculate evidence of the part it plays in the community and the respect shown for the faith it represents.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker at both morning and evening services was Rev. H. A. Mellow, B.A., of Northminster Church, Oshawa. Present also and assisting in these services were the Rev. William Parker, the Rev. W. R. Merrick, the Rev. J. Patton and the Rev. William Patterson, former ministers of the church, also the Rev. John Glover, the Rev. G. Crabbe, the Rev. H. Heslip and Rev. G. F. Lane and Miss Carrie Hazzard.

Those assisting spoke of their pleasure in returning to the well old acquaintances. Mr. Merrick, who was here 42 years ago, during the First World War, and the severe 'flu epidemic, recalled those difficult years of anxiety and bereavement when it was his duty to minister comfort and consolation. He is lovingly remembered by the older members of the congregation and to the younger ones his name is a symbol of the unfailing kindness and understanding he offered to parents and friends during those anxious times. It was a joy to have him once again in Hazzard's Church.

Miss Carrie Hazzard, as a daughter of the community, paid tribute to the committee who arranged this centennial anniversary and to the forefathers who laid the foundation for those of this generation who are seeking to give their lives in service to God.

MORNING MESSAGE

In his morning sermon, Mr. Mellow took for his text, "Look Up and Measure the Temple of God and These who Worship There." The measure of the real church may be divided into four parts: author; business; confidence and dedication.

God, who is the Author, is eternal and the church has its part in the eternal plan. The business of the church is a positive one — to fulfil the ministry of Jesus, Who came "that they may have life and have it more abundantly." The abundant life is room for such evils as communism and gambling.

If the church's business is properly functioning, and the abundant life lived by its members, such evils cannot survive.

Another measure of the church is its anchorage of confidence. It is greater than the transient things of history. It is an anvil that has worn out many hammers.

Dedication to the purpose of God is the final measure of the real church.

SPECIAL TRIBUTE PAID

At the evening service, Mr. Mellow paid special tribute to the congregation for their care and adornment of the church building. In paying tribute also to the forefathers who founded this building and work, he emphasized the point that "unless we build better than our forefathers we are not as good. We must either add to and enrich their beginnings, or we fail them and the community suffers." He led in a prayer, listen for the sound of the gentle stillness that will etch on our lives the face of our Lord and Master."

The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Philo Harris, organist, and augmented by several former members, added much to the spirit of reverence and joy of worship at both services. A quartet by the family of Mr. and Mrs. George Moorcroft, a trio by the daughters of Mrs. Keene and the late Mr. Foster Keene, accompanied by Miss Alma Keene, a former organist, and a solo by Mrs. Walter Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philo Harris, were special numbers that were appreciated the more because all these folk have gone to other communities and had returned especially to assist at this anniversary.

FLORAL DECORATIONS

Baskets of pink and white asters were used for decoration with one basket of white gladioli placed in the church by the daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, in memory of their parents.

Following the Sunday services a "Pioneer Day" was held on Monday. The Orange hall across from the church had been turned into a miniature museum and every home in the community had contributed articles of interest and historic value. A splendid crowd kept the attendants busy explaining the names and age of the many old relics. Several public school teachers brought their pupils to see the display and it was agreed that this part of the centennial celebration was of genuine value on the social and educational level and so fulfilling the Master's example when He "grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." Hazzard's is striving for that four-square objective.

At noon a luncheon meeting was held in the church when the ladies served sandwiches, cookies and tea.

Mr. Philo Harris, chairman of the committee, called on several to speak. Rev. W. Giovetti, of St. John's Anglican Church, in Madoc, expressed sincere wishes for the future and congratulated the congregation and minister. Rev. Patterson, a former pastor who was a most welcome visitor, especially so because he also had brought his wife and family, reminisced a bit and said "It is now a case of 'hats off to yesterday, coats off to tomorrow.' Tomorrow has its own peculiar problems and its own challenge so it is up to this generation to see that the character and faith of those of yesterday are maintained tomorrow."

DECIDED FOR CHRIST

The Rev. John Glover of Marmora, came as one of Hazzard's own sons. He said that "it was here that he made his decision for Christ at Hazzard's where he preached his second sermon, that it was this official board that recommended him for the ministry and he wished to be identified as one of Hazzard's fold." Hazzard's is proud and happy to acknowledge him as one of them.

The Rev. W. Parker, another former pastor and always a welcome visitor, echoed all others in reminders to "remember the past but look to the future with a sense of responsibility."

Mr. John Farrell of Moira, as representative of an old Hazzard's family, and Mrs. W. Blair, and Mr. George Ketcheson as the oldest members of the present congregation, spoke briefly. The last two expressed thanks to all who had attended and helped in this centennial anniversary. They spoke of their deep appreciation of those who had founded this church and of their abiding faith that this and the future generations will continue to carry the torch.

LETTERS READ

Miss Alma Moorcroft read letters from friends who regretted being unable to attend the anniversary and Mr. Lewis closed the meeting with the benediction.

The Rev. J. Homewood of the United Church Observer, was present both Sunday and Monday, taking pictures and notes for a story on "How A Rural Church Celebrates A Centennial Anniversary." He expressed amazement at the number of names in the guest book with addresses showing the great distances some had travelled to be present.

Hazzard's members are humbly grateful for the response in numbers present and for the generous financial support. They sincerely hope that the spiritual benefit derived will more than repay all who in any way helped to make this centennial anniversary such a real success.

Well can I, pop, cant I? I said, and pop said, Ask your mother.

Aw G, pop, I meen gosh, I'm serious, I said, and pop said, No wonder, it's a serious matter for a boy to get into the habit of holding out his hand and expecting money to drop into it without any ferther effort on his part. Later on in life you'll hold out your hand and it will only get frost bitten in winter and freckeled in summer, he said.

I should say so, ma said. When I was a girl I had to do some work or eits go penniless, and that's how I learnt the value of money, she said, and I said, Well G, ma, heck, pop, you dont realize. I meen it's no cinch to have to get money just by asking f o r it. Sometimes it's as hard as the dickins. Sometimes I have to give reasons and argew and explain till I feel more exhausted than if I was working on a farm or some place. I said.

By golies he may have some thing there, pop said, and ma said, Goodness yes, it's nerve exhausting for me to listen to him, so I shudder to think how it must be for him.

Making me start to feel lucky, but I still didn't get the money till I exhausted myself for about 5 more minutes.

PREPARING HARBOR

TORONTO (CP) — The federal public works department is receiving tenders for a $2,500,000 dredging project to prepare Toronto harbor for traffic which will come with the St. Lawrence seaway, it was reported here Monday. Tenders are being received until Oct. 9.

TO AID AIRCRAFT

OTTAWA (CP) — An electronic brain may be used in Canada and the United States to figure out aircraft traffic patterns at busy airports. Computing Devices of Canada Ltd., of Ottawa has designed and built such a brain and the transport department said today it will study its possible application to the solution of complex problems of air traffic control.

PREDICT TWO-DAY ATLANTIC TRIP BY HYDROFOIL LINER

Luxury passenger ships of a few years hence may be equipped with hydrofoils enabling them literally to fly through the water at speeds up to 100 miles per hour, according to U.S. artist-author Frank Tinsley. Hydrofoils are wing-like devices attached to legs beneath a boat. When under way they lift the hull out of the water and increase speed and stability. The invention was tested years ago in the Maritimes, but not until recently have hydrofoils been tried on large craft, by the U.S. navy and others. Tinsley, in his drawing here, predicts their use on giant trans-Atlantic liners that would make Europe a two-day trip by water. The familiar tiers of open decks, rows of conventional rowboats, lowering masts and obtrusive funnels would be missing from the new streamlined liner. It would have rounded glass deck enclosures, a submarine-type conning tower and stern fins with bullet-like dock bridges. Its broad beam and twin catamaran hulls will give to this "flying fish" ocean liner speed and stability both afloat and "aflight."

Ray Robinson Bribe Charges 'Misunderstood'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson testified Tuesday at a state athletic commission inquiry that he never had received direct offers of bribes to throw a fight. He said statements alleging that he said he had received bribe offers probably were misunderstood.

The commission, after a two-hour hearing, took no action.

"There is an apparent difference of interpretation of what Robinson was alleged to have said and what he says now," said commission chairman Julius Helfand.

Two reporters who were present at the Sept. 20 press conference, Harold Weissman of the New York Daily Mirror, and Murray Rose of The Associated Press, testified that Robinson had said he received many offers during his career to throw fights and had rejected them.

Robinson said that at his Sept. 20 press conference he was referring only to incidents of long ago. He said he never received any direct offers of bribes and that "cracks" often were made at his training camps.

Commissioner Francis Souhan asked Ray what he meant by "cracks."

Robinson replied someone would say, "Gee whiz, if the fight went the other way Ray Robinson could make a lot of money. They may things you hear but they are not talking to you."

He said he was proud of his record and had always given his best in the ring.

Leafs' Coach Likes New Style But More Bumps

SUDBURY (CP) — Toronto Maple Leaf coach Billy Reay says he's pleased with his National Hockey League club's play after a switch from defensive to offensive style.

But he warns the reversal of form doesn't mean other teams are going to push Leafs around.

"I want to see more bumping" he said Tuesday.

In Tuesday's intra-squad game, 11 goals were scored, Blues winning 7-4. Dick Duff got three and rookie Frank Manovilich two. The other Blue marksmen were Billy Harris and Marc Reaune. Gary Aldcorn, Sid Smith, Rudy Migay and Brian Cullen tallied for the Whites.

IN SOO THURSDAY

Leafs Thursday night play Sault Ste. Marie. They take on Ottawa Junior Canadiens in Ottawa Friday.

Defenceman Hugh Bolton signed his Leaf contract Tuesday following a meeting with Staff Smythe.

Smythe said the defencemean will work himself into shape and be available to play when he is ready.

Bolton, reported dissatisfied with the contract previously offered him, left training camp Saturday and went to Toronto.

Barons Shade Whitby Dunlops In Rough Game

KAPUSKASING (CP) — Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League edged the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops 5-4 Tuesday night in a penalty-filled exhibition game.

A sell-out crowd of 1,500 saw the officials call 14 penalties in a rough contest that had the crowd on the side of the Whitby entry. Captain Bobbie Attersley, Fred Etcher and newcomers Bill Flick and Ron Casey scored the Whitby goals.

Cleveland scorers were captain Joe Glover and Gord Vejprava, with two each, and Jim Moore.

The Whitby attack has improved considerably over Monday night's 4-0 defeat by the Barons in Noranda.

The exhibition series continues tonight in Iroquois Falls.

Papa Habitants Spank Juniors

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal Canadiens fired three third-period goals to defeat their farm club, Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens, 6-3 in an exhibition hockey game Tuesday night.

Bernie Geoffrion scored twice for the winners while singles went to Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard, Bert Olmstead and Marcel Bonin.

Argonauts 'Spy' Charge Amuses Ottawa Coach

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders laughed Tuesday when informed of a charge by Toronto coach Hampton Pool that someone has been scouting Argonaut practices and giving information to other Big Four football clubs.

Pool said Riders lined up in the only defence which could have upset a special Toronto pass play in Saturday's Ottawa-Toronto game. He said Riders had never used the defence previously this season.

Clair said that on the pass Pool mentioned, Argonaut quarterback Fred Wyant threw the ball over the heads of his receivers and Ottawa halfback George Brancato intercepted.

"A defender can't do much else but intercept when the ball is thrown to him," Clair said.

TORONTO (CP)—The Argonaut management committee Tuesday gave coach Hamp Pool a unanimous vote of confidence.

"We had our first meeting since the season started," said managing director Lew Hayman. "It was strictly a routine meeting to discuss some business, not the coaching situation. But we unanimously endorsed a vote of confidence in coach Pool."

Hap Emms Gets New Assistant

BARRIE (CP) — Chuck Wood, 25-year-old Barrie hockey player, has been named assistant coach of Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A series.

Head coach Hap Emms' new assistant played on the Flyers' Memorial Cup team of 1951-52. Then he spent four seasons with Toledo Mercurys of the International Hockey League before playing with Orillia seniors last fall. He has no previous coaching experience.

Oliver Maisonneuve of New Liskeard was among players who got a favor with Emms at the opening of the Boston Bruins-sponsored minor hockey training camp Tuesday.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Ontario horses came in second in two $1,000 races at Blue Bonnets Tuesday night.

Dusty Brook C from Brockville, Whitey Hanlon driving, was second in the C pace, and Tim's Ace from Peterborough, reined by Jim McIntyre, occupied the same spot in the C trot.

Hollywood Richard from Orono rewarded its backers handsomely in a one-mile D pace, finishing first and paying $21.40, $10.50 and $5.20.

Another Ontario winner was Meadoe Gem from Brampton in the first race, with Success Counsel of Goderich second. Authentic from Owen Sound, won the ninth race, with Chief Attorney Jr., from Orangeville second. Both these events were D paces.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP)—Instigator, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Arthur of Otterville, Ont., with Mr. Arthur driving won the ninth race here Tuesday night, with a $15.70 payoff.

Welter Title Declared Vacant By Boxing Brass

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The National Boxing Association today declared vacant the welterweight title of Carmen Basilio, the new middleweight ruler, and then pro-nounced him "boxer of the month."

Fred Saddy, chairman of the NBA's ratings committee, said it was customary for a champion up to a higher division to surrender his old title.

Basilio, the onion farmer from Syracuse, N.Y., won "boxer of the month" designation for his split decision victory over Sugar Ray Robinson in their middle-weight title bout Sept. 23. Robinson now is No. 1 contender.

Only Canadian listed in the rat-ings is light-heavyweight Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., ranked No. 2 challenger for Archie Moore's crown.

SUGAR EXECUTIVE

LONDON (CP) — The International Sugar Council has appointed Eric Roll to the new post of full-time executive director of the council. He formerly was an undersecretary in the agriculture ministry.

"Hope you don't mind, old chap, I'm a little arrstie with the driver!"

Knox Pop Flips Top With Papa Bear

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Harvey Knox, stepfather of football's wandering minstrel, quarterback Ronnie Knox, has had many a verbal scrimmage with college and professional coaches in the United States and Canada where Ronnie has played.

Now he has crossed swords with George Halas, owner of Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

In a telephone call to The Associated Press here Tuesday, Harvey accused Halas of "unjust dealings" with Ronnie who closed the Bears five weeks ago.

Harvey, who handles publicity for his stepson, said Ronnie was paid a mere $75 by the Bears for dressing for four exhibition games.

As a result, Harvey said, Ronnie is joining the Professional Football Players Association, which is seeking to have players paid $50 for each exhibition game.

EXPLAINS PROCEDURE

In Chicago, Halas shot back: "Harvey has simply jumped the gun. The $75 Ronnie received was equal what other players will each receive $500 for participating in exhibition games, at the end of the season."

Halas added — perhaps pointedly—that players released or cut by the team are paid immediately for being with the team during exhibition games.

As a baby Bear, Ronnie has been in a total of nine players in the exhibition season. He has his work cut out to beat veterans Ed Brown, Zeke Bratkowski and George Blanda.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Hartney, grand little sprinter owned by Col. K. R. Marshall of Toronto, had a Canadian record of 1:16 3-5 for 6½ furlongs as he won the $2,500 Newton Purse at the Woodbine Tuesday.

Hartney also is co-holder of the Canadian record for seven furlongs. It was the fifth victory of the year for Hartney and the 20th win of his career.

West Four ran gamely to finish second, Jenny's Flight was third and Jet Marine fourth.

Hartney was the favorite and paid $4.20 to win.

SPORT IN BRIEF

LINING UP BATTLE

MONTREAL (CP) — Promoter Eddie Quinn said Tuesday he is working on the possibilities of holding here a world lightheavyweight title bout between champion Archie Moore and Yvon Durelle, from Bale Ste. Anne, N.B.

Quinn, just back from a trip to the United States, said he has met Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club has put the okay on the proposed Durelle-Moore fight. Quinn plans now to get in touch with Moore's representatives.

Moore recently "successfully defended his title against Tony Anthony, against whom Durelle drew in Detroit last June.

DUTCHMEN SIGN MAKI

KITCHENER (CP) — Defenceman Ted Maki, 21, who has been attending Chicago Black Hawks' training camp, has signed with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series.

Maki, six feet, two inches and 192 pounds, is a graduate of Guelph Biltmores. Several senior clubs have been hot on his trail.

BOBO WITH TICATS

HAMILTON (CP) — Hubert Bobo, dropped by Philadelphia Eagles a month ago, is the latest addition for Hamilton Tigercats of the Big Four Football Union.

Bobo plays fullback or right halfback on offence and linebacker or halfback on defence.

Parker Leads Western Pack In Points Race

WINNIPEG (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos hold four of the five top places in the Western Interprovincial Football Union scoring race. Halfback Jackie Parker is leading the pack with 61 points.

Parker picked up three touchdowns and a single in two weekend games to lead teammate Johnny Bright by one point in statistics compiled by the Canadian Press.

Six points behind Bright with 54 is home-brew Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

He is followed by kicking specialist Joe Mobra with 53 points and fullback Normie Kwong with 48. Both are with Eskimos.

Parker and Bright lead the touchdown scorers with 10 each while James has nine and Kwong eight.

Del Flanagan Favored Over Yami Bahama

CHICAGO (AP)—Del Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., is a 6-5 favorite to defeat sturdy Yama Bahama of the British West Indies tonight in a televised 10-round middleweight scrap.

Flanagan has beaten some of the best in the welterweight and middleweight divisions in his 101 fights, 85 of which he won.

The rugged Bahama has shown signs of promise. He has won 44, lost seven and had two draws.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was drinking his coffee behind his paper this morning, and ma said, What's new in the paper, William?

You tell me for a change, pop said, and he handed ma the paper, saying, Glance it over and regale me with the highliters in the news.

That's a good idea, then you can concentrate on inloying your coffee, ma said.

And she took the paper saying, This is strange, there's not a word on the front page about whether Andrea Carlo really had a baby or not. What can the editors be thinking of? she said.

They're probably thinking of the news, pop said. Well, that gives me a satisfactory picture of what's not in the paper. Is there anything new in the Far East situation? he said, and ma said, I didn't notice, but I'll tell you if I come to it.

If anything has really happened it must be right there on the front page, pop said, and ma said, I'll come back to it.

And she opened the paper to the middle, saying, Here's Hookbridgers add for the midweek specials. Thanksgiveness that can always be depended on. They're starting their annual white sale, she said, and pop said, If they've got any white cigars I'll stop in and pick up a box.

What's ma said, and pop said, Any white mourning clothes for people with Chinese ancesters. Pardon me for reetching, my dear,he said.

And he quick took the paper again and turned it back to the front page, and after a while ma said, Well, William, what's new?

I'll tell you if I come to the white sale, pop said.

Which he didn't.

The teamy will play three twenty-minute "straight-time" periods and it won't be any pink tea affair. The line-ups appear elsewhere on the sport pages . . . Hildebrand has been slowly but surely whipping his charges into shape and already a marked improvement over the squad that turned out a week ago, is noticeable . . . Moe Benoit, Lionel Botley and Keith Montgomery have been tossing their torsos around on the defence in fine style, while up front the shock troops are gradually getting the feel of various plays . . . The line of Hildebrand, Brown and Goyer has been catching the railbirds' eyes with Brown's terrific shooting and fast skating drawing many comments . . . Jean-Paul Payette, Minnie Menard and Russ Kowalchuk have been tossing some fine hockey on the first line with big Russ fitting in nicely with his centre and other winger . . . Russ and Joe Richard, the smooth young centre from Rouyn tossed gloves the other night, but it was nothing serious, just high spirits . . . Real Larouche has been released and will play his hockey with Rouyn of the Northern Quebec League . . . Rene St. Hilaire is working overtime while Larry Marineau is a hard-driving player who shows plenty of promise . . . Lionel Botley wants those legs in the best of shape some time-about time and practices ballet-dancing and leg calisthenics for a half hour after each nightly practice . . . Ditto Floyd Crawford who shed some poundage during the summer "tossing those cases around."

Bobo Bobenic arrived in town the other day and hasn't changed a bit . . . Not even his hair-cut . . . Bobo said there was no truth in the rumor that he is hitch-hiking from Philadelphia to Milwaukee to take in the world series . . . However, we heard differently and if Bobo makes the town that beer made famous, don't be surprised to hear the talked Casey Stengel into giving him a job in the outfield . . . Moe Benoit says business is fine at his new coffee bar. In fact he is enlarging it to accommodate the crowds . . . The boys and gals can order steak, po'k chops, etc., not forgetting the pea soup . . . Already the bar is a rendezvous for a lot of sportsmen of the city while the Macs drop around often to sample the Benoit coffee. There are plans afoot for a dinner and later on Moe intends to redecorate the bar and hang pictures of well-known hockey players and other stars . . . Bob Taylor dug out the hockey gear the other night and turned out with the Macs . . . Keith MacDonald seems to improve with the years and the rugged Prince Edwarder has lost none of the hard drive and spirit that has always characterized his play.

Yes, Goyer had the skates on the other night after the Macs' practice. Vern will join the OHA whistle-and-thumb brigade this winter, and should make a good official . . . Tim Williams, one of the best, has decided to hang up the stick, but will retain the skates. They may need them in a reforesting capacity. Tim was one of the stars of the Napanee intermediates the past two years . . . Bucko McDonald, coach of the Sault Greyhounds; Bun Cook of the Kingston CKLC's and Wally Lemaer and Ken Campbell of the Pembroke Lumber Kings, have been scouting the Whitby Dunlops for obvious reasons . . . The rumor persists around town that Bep Guidolin has been sold to the North Bay Trappers, but neither the Windsor'ers nor the northern sheets have carried any items on the matter . . . The last report had it that Bep was training with the Bulldogs . . . Attention, sellers of tickets for the Meet-the-Macs Ball Friday night: Please get your collected monies and unsold tickets to Mrs. Pat Matthews at the Market Coffee Shop by tonight or early tomorrow so arrangements can be finished . . . Ted Steadman, manager of the new $250,000 Community Gardens in Trenton, tells us that Friday night's game between the Cleveland Barons and the Whitby Dunlops was a complete sell-out 24 hours after the pasteboards went on sale. Nary a thing left, but standing room.

The moppets are readying for another big hockey season. The Belleville Minor Hockey Association has called a meeting for the city hall for tomorrow evening starting eight o'clock. . . . Goyer Marines and Point Anne lock horns this evening starting 5.30 in their third game of the city softball championship series. A win for the Points will wrap it up. They're two up so far . . . Which reminds us of the quickie which gurgled out of Art Peever when the Marines played Toronto here . . . A Toronto wag yelled, "Hey Bud, how long has this town been dead?" Peever came back quickly with, "Not so long but, youse is the foist vulture we've seen." . . . Jean-Paul Payette and his attractive bride Phyllis would like a four-room unfurnished apartment by November. You can contact Patt at Leslies Shoe Store . . . There is a possibility the Peterborough junior "A's" may play an exhibition game with the Macs. Coach Hildebrand believes exhibitional competition is one of the better conditioners . . . Neil Chevles haven't started fall training as yet, neither has the Pembroke club . . . Mebbe they're waiting to get all the player eggs in one basket. Game tonight at eight o'clock.

Reichler Had Yank Excuses, Braves Were in Fine Shape With Exception of Adcock

By Joe Reichler

NEW YORK (AP)—The uncertain condition of Mickey Mantle's tender left leg and Bill Skowron's aching back belied the 8-to-5 odds on New York Yankees today as Milwaukee Braves clashed with the American League champions in the opening game of the world series.

The crowd of some 70,000 expected at Yankee Stadium to view the southpaw duel between New York's Whitey Ford and Milwaukee's Warren Spahn would not see either Mantle or Skowron at his best although both were listed late Tuesday night as almost certain starters. The two sluggers between them hammered 51 home runs and drove in 181 runs during the regular season.

Mantle cannot run without pain and even winces when he misses one of his powerhouse swings. Skowron says it doesn't hurt him to swing but it does hurt when he runs. Either or both may be unable to do full-time duty in the series.

TOO MUCH FOR FORD

There is still some doubt about Ford. Although the ace lefthander appears to be back in stride following a six-shoulder siege, there is doubt whether he can stand the strain of pitching twice or three times in one week, as the opening day pitcher usually is called upon to do in a long series. And because the teams appear evenly matched, the outlook is for a long series.

The Braves are in excellent physical shape, with no possible exception of Joe Adcock. The big first baseman's left leg, bruised last July, still isn't 100 per cent.

Adcock, a righthanded batter, was slated to start against Ford today. However, manager Fred Haney indicated he may shift to the lefthanded hitting Frank Torre when the Yankees use a righthander.

Stengel, who had expected to use another lefthander, Bobby Shantz, in the second game, appeared uncertain after Tuesday's workout.

DEPENDS ON RESULTS

"My Thursday pitcher depends upon what happens to my Wednesday pitcher," Casey said. "If the Braves should treat Ford a little too roughly, I'll probably give them Bob Turley (a righthander). If Whitey does a commendable job, it will be Shantz."

Haney has no doubt regarding his starters, although he said Tuesday he was prepared to pitch everybody in every game. You can be sure that it will be Lew Burdette Thursday and Bob Buhl Saturday in Milwaukee.

Then the merry-go-round starts again with Spahn, Burdette and Buhl in that order. If the series goes into the seventh and final game, you can look for Spahn to make his third starting appearance next Thursday in Yankee Stadium, unless he has to be used in relief before that.

"Barring the unforeseen,"

Leftie Whitey Ford

Southpaw Warren Spahn

Haney said, "I plan to go with three pitchers all through the series with the others all to be used in relief, in the bullpen. That does not mean that I'd hesitate to use either Spahn or Burdette in relief, if the occasion calls for it. So, if I have to relieve with Burdette in the first game, that's just what I'll do. I'm going to play today's game today and not worry about tomorrow's."

Haney said he would continue the Andy Pafko-Bob Hazle platoon in right field, with Pafko playing against lefthanders and Hazle against righthanders.

STENGEL HEDGES

Stengel, who did not attend his team's workout because of his presence in commissioner Ford Frick's office for a pre-series conference on rules and deportment, was a little testy later when asked for his starting lineup. He finally gave in with a tentative order but hedged on two positions—left field and second base. The only certain starters are catcher Yogi Berra, shortstop Gil McDougald, right fielder Hank Bauer and Ford. Mantle and Skowron were to be at centre and first base, respectively, barring a last minute change.

In left field, Stengel said it would be Tony Kubek, his versatile 20-year-old rookie, or Elston Howard. If Skowron could not make it, Stengel had Howard ready to start at first. At second, he figured to be the veteran Jerry Coleman over 22-year-old Bobby Richardson.

There was no doubt about the Braves' lineup. It was Henry Aaron, Pafko and Wes Covington in the outfield Adcock at first, veteran Red Schoendienst at second, Johnny Logan at short and Ed Mathews at third; Del Crandall behind the plate and Spahn on the mound.

Spahn, only Brave pitcher with world series experience, had a 1-1 record against Cleveland in 1948. Whitey Ford has had two previous openers, opened with a 4-2 series record. He won the opener against the Giants in Yankee Stadium in 1955 and lost the opener to the Dodgers at Ebbets Field in 1956.

ALL-STAR SELECTIONS

BOSTON (AP)—Forwards Real Chevrefils and Don McKenney and defencemen Allan Stanley and Fernie Flaman were named Tuesday by coach Milt Schmidt to represent Boston Bruins in the 11th National Hockey League all-star game Saturday in Montreal.

Schmidt will coach the all-stars against the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens.

Alouettes Vice-Prexy Denies Rumored Rift in Front Office

WINNIPEG (CP) — Vice-President Ted Workman of Montreal Alouettes was quoted here Tuesday as denying rumors of trouble in the Big Four football club's front office and a report that president Leo Dandurand is attempting to buy control of the club.

CBC sports commentator Bob Moir said Workman made a "categoric denial" in commenting on reports published by Andy O'Brien in his Montreal Star sports column.

O'Brien reported there appears to be a rift between general manager Gorman Kennedy and coach Doug (Peahead) Walker. He also said Dandurand is reported seeking to buy from Workman a controlling interest on behalf of a group.

Workman, who saw Winnipeg Blue Bombers beat Edmonton Eskimos Monday night was quoted by Moir as saying the rumored rift is "completely unfounded" and that "there is no truth whatsoever" in the story that Dandurand seeks control.

Moir said Workman told him he and Kennedy got together after Als had had a flock of injuries and told Walker they wanted to take any possible blame off him if the Alouettes had a losing season. Walker had been given a free hand to purchase any players he thought would make the club a contender. Since then the Alouettes had climbed into a first-place tie with Ottawa.

Star-Gazer Says Casey Will Win Over Fred Haney

NEW YORK (AP) — Who's going to win the world series? Why, it's easy, says British astrologer Fay Naylor of London, who acknowledges she has never been a baseball game.

Here's how to dope it, says Fay. Take the birthdate of each player, the site of the games and the ages of the clubs. Study the stars of rival managers, Casey Stengel of the Yankees and Fred Haney of the Braves.

The result: Yankees to win in six games.

"Stengel's star during this period is at its peak," adds the London star-gazer. As for Haney, "he will be plagued by problems of temperament."

American League Would Deal With National Over Shifts

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice-president Chuck Comiskey of Chicago White Sox said tonight the American League would grant the National League's return to New York in a swap for the right to shift Los Angeles and San Francisco when and if it chooses to do so.

"We're not going to let the National League take over the two most lucrative west coast cities and then return to New York, too," said Comiskey, an alternate on major league baseball's executive council.

"Let's face it," he added. "In 15 years there will be only three two-team towns—New York, Chicago and Los Angeles."

Comiskey said he had proposed the exchange plan to the American League and that it had been supported.

Going into Tuesday's separate league meetings, the American loop already had proposed an addition to the major leagues' constitution which would divide New York into two baseball territories following the transfer of the National League's New York and Brooklyn franchises to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

BROOKLYN OPEN

The adjustment would leave only Brooklyn as open territory, shutting the National League out of the Bronx, Manhattan, Queens and Staten Island.

Under Comiskey's compromise, the American League would also place Queens in the open classification. Brooklyn is the only New York area looked upon as a feasible stadium site by city officials.

The two leagues, meeting later in joint session, unanimously supported a National League request to shelve any action in the matter until their December meeting "pending developments."

In a separate meeting, the National League owners:

1. Were advised the New York Giants had filed a formal letter of intent in their shift to San Francisco.

2. Gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a two-week extension, to Oct. 15, on the deadline for their final decision about moving to Los Angeles.

3. Changed their constitution to make only a three-fourths approval necessary for a franchise transfer, rather than the previous unanimous vote.

OWNERS INFORMED

Dodger president Walter O'Malley said he had "brought the other owners up to date" in Dodger negotiations with Los Angeles officials which had not yet reached a suitable agreement.

Things appeared to be rolling smoothly for the Giants, whose president Horace Stoneham, announced he had reached agreement with Boston Red Sox for purchase of the San Francisco franchise in the Pacific Coast League.

All that remains for the actual shift is an agreement with the PCL concerning the amount of damages for invasion of its territory.

TITLE FIGHT NOV. 6

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Matchmaker George Parnassus has announced that Alphonse Halimi of France and Raul (Raton) Macias of Mexico will fight here Nov. 6 for the bantamweight championship of the world.

Halimi, 25, is recognized by the world boxing committee as the champion, and Macias, 22, by the National Boxing Association.

The 15-round scrap, settling an international dispute that has kept the 118-pound division in turmoil for more than three years will be nationally televised.

Said He Had Bee in Bonnet, So He Had

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) Coaches took a dim view of it when end Ray Siminski suddenly wheeled out of play during Furman University's football drills.

Siminski, the Southern Conference's leading pass receiver, was asked what he was doing.

"I've got a bee in my bonnet," he replied.

He had, too. When he pulled off his helmet, a bumble bee flew out.

Takes Issue With Feller Over Clause

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Garagiola, former National League catcher, took issue Tuesday with Bob Feller and said baseball's reserve clause is an asset to the game.

Garagiola, making the letter public, contended an overwhelming majority of people connected with baseball believe that "although the reserve clause is not perfect, it is essential to the preservation of the sport."

Feller, the former Cleveland strikeout king, has testified before the subcommittee that players frequently were treated as "pawns."

How They Will Line Up Tonight

IKE HILDEBRAND

FLOYD CRAWFORD

Tonight in the first intra-squad game of the season the Mo-Farland "Whites" will play the "Reds" in a game designed to bring out the best potential of some 24 players.

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand will lead his "Reds" against the "Whites," play-coached tonight by team captain Floyd Crawford. The game gets under way at eight o'clock sharp and will consist of three periods played in "straight" time.

It will be no "panty-waist" hockey. The players have been instructed to go out there and give their best, for much depends on the performance tonight of some of them. There will be no punches pulled and both squads will go out to win.

There will be an admission of twenty-five cents, and the game should be well worth the price. You'll see the Macs go all out in a game that will help in readying them for the strenuous ice battles to come.

Here are the line-ups:

REDS	WHITES

Bobbie Hull Scores Two for Chicago Hawks

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Bob Hull, 18-year-old forward still a member of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A St. Catharines Teepees, scored two goals Tuesday night to pace Chicago Black Hawks to a 5-1 exhibition victory over New York Rangers.

Hawks, last-place finishers in the National Hockey League last season, outplayed Rangers all the way. New York wound up fourth in the 1956-57 NHL season.

The other Chicago marksmen were Eric Nesterenko, Ed Litzenberger and Jack McIntyre. Andy Bathgate scored the lone New York goal.

Wings Defeat Hershey Bears

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Gordie Howe contributed a goal and an assist as Detroit Red Wings defeated Hershey Bears 4-2 Tuesday night in an exhibition hockey game.

Other scorers for the NHL club were Norm Ullman, Alex Delvecchio and John Wilson. Arnie Kullman and Jacques Gagnon scored for the AHL team.

Series Notes

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Hubbell, the old New York Giants' southpaw, picks Gene Conley as the potential star of the 1957 world series.

Said Hubbell of the stringbean Milwaukee hurler: "He is particularly effective against a club the first time they see him. With those long arms and legs you can't tell where the pitch is coming from."

Chicago Cubs are expected to sign Lou Boudreau, the deposed manager of the Kansas City Athletics as a coach before the season ends . . . Manager Jack Tighe of Detroit Tigers reported Kansas City offered him Billy Martin for pitcher Billy Hoeft, even up, and he turned it down . . . Speaking of the Tigers, Ray Boone probably will go on the trading block this winter, with Charley Maxwell taking over first base.

Braves manager Fred Haney hasn't let the pressure dissipate his sense of humor. Told that Yankee pilot Casey Stengel was worried about the physical condition of Mickey Mantle and Moose Skowron, Haney chuckled: "Tell Casey that I'll let him add two players if either of those guys is out."

Veteran second baseman Red Schoendienst of the Braves said his legs are all set to carry him through the series. "They're all taped up like a race horse," he laughed, "but I still can't run.

Pros Complain About Norman's Selling Methods

KITCHENER (CP) — George Clifton, president of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association, said Tuesday an application for membership by Moe Norman of Kitchener is being held up because of complaints by district professionals that Norman has been impropperly underselling them in the golf equipment business.

Clifton said in a telephone interview from Toronto there was reason to believe Norman would be cleared if he agreed to conditions laid down by the CPGA.

Norman would not comment on the conditions.

Lloyd Tucker, pro at Kitchener's Rockway club, said he and others in the district had complained about Norman's method of going after golf equipment business.

Club directors said Tucker had complained that Norman was seeking business on the course.

Norman said if he didn't get the membership he would barnstorm, probably in the Maritimes.

or the United States PGA. He would be barred from playing in 10 tournaments on the winter circuit necessary to qualify for $1,500 he won at the recent Bursary tournament.

Television's Woman Producer Goes, Works and Thinks Fast

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of television's busiest film makers is an international lady of much laughter.

A chuckle, says Nicole Milinair, can take care of everything from flatterers to censors and helps keep a damsel feminine in a masculine world.

Mrs. Milinair is executive producer of movies for Sheldon Reynolds.

To such pre-vious series as Foreign Intrigue and Sherlock Holmes, the enterprise has added its first situation comedy project, Dick and the Duchess, on view Saturday evenings over CBS-TV. The films were made in London.

EASY-GOING TYPE

"I never take myself too seriously," explains Nicole of her TV career, which had its beginning seven years ago.

Mrs. Milinair also responded with laughter to certain blue-pencilling suggested by the network. Someone didn't like it when in one episode Margaret Rutherford, elderly English star, is called on to remark: "I have been smooching since I was 12 years old."

Perhaps, it was suggested, that could be changed to 15?

"I laughed hysterically," reports Nicole. "No change was made."

As executive producer, she handles everything from script editor to locating shooting sites, deciding on lighting and planning future projects.

"I go fast, work fast, think fast," she summarizes. "One hour with me is like four hours with anyone else."

NEW RESERVOIR

LONDON (CP)—Housing Minister Henry Brooke has agreed in principle to a project to dam the Derwent River near the Northumberland - Durham boundary to create a reservoir with a capacity of 11,000,000,000 gallons.

AT THE BELLE — Jean Simmons plays a school teacher who becomes part-time secretary to night club czar Paul Douglas in "This Could Be The Night," glamorous new starlet laugh - provoking comedy co-starring Anthony Franciosa today at the Belle. Audrey Dalton is hailed as the screen's new romantic find. It co-starred.

AT THE McCARTHY — Lovely Sophia Loren consoles the stalwart Cary Grant after he has been wounded in a knife fight with a dangerous Spanish guerrilla, "The Pride and the Passion", produced and directed by Stanley Kramer, in Technicolor and VistaVision opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre through United Artists release. Frank Sinatra also co-stars.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Jean Simmons, Paul Douglas, Anthony Franciosa in "This Could Be The Night" — Cinemascope — Technicolor and stills Orchestra — 2.25-7.20-9.15.

Mistakes made by some executive ultimately make you wonder how they ever got where they did. The same could be said, usually more so, of a large number of bridge players who are given the rating of master.

Here is world championship deal number 138:

Both rooms were in three notrump. In room two, south was the declarer and made it. The west opening lead of spade five forced the ace and king from the south ace.

A spade return was taken over by west's queen. On this trick, east made the mistake of discarding the club nine. This signal for a switch to that suit was immediately obeyed by west.

The small west club and east queen cover went to south's ace and the heart trey shot back. West jumped up with the ace and cashed both black kings. But declarer got the rest and enough.

In room one, north was declarer. He was a sucker for the curve an opponent threw him and his bid went down three tricks. The east opening lead was singleton jack of spades.

Dummy ace won and the return spade went to west who promptly cashed his other spade top. A fourth spade was taken by north. On these spade tricks east shed a club and two hearts. North returned a small heart. East covered with the jack to make declarer think west had the ace. It worked, as you will see; after west won the south queen with ace and returned a club. East's club queen fell to south's ace. Two diamond rounds showed they would not be cleaners. So, dummy led the heart trey and finessed the north nine. This fell to the east's lone heart ten.

East returned a club through dummy and the declarer went to the cleaners. He got a total of seven tricks.

Many a man with a nerve has been known to fall for a curve.

German Director Is Imported For Film on American Youth

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How can a director fresh from Germany make a picture about today's American youth?

This was asked of Helmut Kautner, Germany's most distinguished director and the first to be imported from his country since pre-Hitler days. He is now making Teach Me How to Cry with youngsters John Saxon and Sandra Dee.

"The studio (Universal-International) thought it might be better to get someone to direct who wasn't familiar with the American scene," explained Kautner, an intense man in his 40s. "Perhaps I could get some fresh slants on the life here."

He indoctrinated himself fast. He went to Santa Ana, Calif., and spent two full days in the high school lunchroom with the students, attending classes and listening.

What did he find out?

"That the students in this country are much better than they are in Germany," he observed. "In Germany, the spirit of authority rules. Students must respect the teacher—or else. They must sit up straight and pay attention. All this harks back to the militarism of Germany.

ATTITUDE DIFFERENT

"Here the attitude toward the teacher is different. The teacher must win the respect of the students. I think that is better. Reverently rules. Students must respect the teacher—or else. They must sit up straight and pay attention. All this harks back to the militarism of Germany.

"The American youths' attitude toward sex is different, too, he added.

"Here, there is much talk about it," he said, "but little is done. The young people in Europe don't talk about it so much, but they know more about it."

Kautner's career was interrupted by the war. He was drafted into the German army and was captured by the Russians. He was held prisoner for two years.

Among the directors he admires were the late Ernst Lubitsch, William Dieterle, Fritz Lang, Henry Koster and Michael Curtiz. The movie stages were heavy with Germanic accents.

Kautner drew attention by making some of the most noted German films in the post-war period. Among them were movies that copped big prizes at the European film festivals—Portrait of an Unknown Woman, Ludwig II, The Last Bridge, The Devil's General.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in this section in which this birthday comes and find your outlook is, according the stars.

Thursday, Oct. 2, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Use yourself to accomplish—ed tasks without nervous rush. Resist any impulse to ke a chance in risky ventures. alculate, but voice your s discreetly.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — ant surroundings and asso- ns can exert very considerably. Be amenable to well-in- ligent and worthwhile sugges- s of friends, elders. Time is celess; don't waste it.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — uestion and answer period on s and current performances is order. There is much to be arned from experience and the truction of those "in the ow." Move with finesse, per- fection.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — connaissance recommended be- forefore taking that important step. The best made plans are the well-thought-out ones. Success is not easily come by, or retained. Stay on your toes to hold it when secured.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't lose your enthusiasm; it's one of your best standbys. Live with the knowledge that you are using your talents to the best advantage. Introduce a novel twist to routine when opportunity permits.

Aug. 24 to Sept. 23 (Virgo) — Share your knowledge, and spread a bit of humor among those who need it. This day may be challenging but you have the equipment to conquer. Act decisively, keeping your goal ever before you.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra) — As in any game, in order to succeed, you must evaluate your position and proceed cautiously, making your strong points count. Outmaneuvre the opposition; keep them guessing. Watch for new opportunities.

Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio) — Personal and business affairs demand your attention now. Wind up incompleted matters with due speed, assurance. Be prepared to handle something unusual, a bit out of your usual routine.

Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius) — A promising day — if you give it your best, without "hemming and hawing." Things will not be handed to you on a silver platter. Work, planning, consultations, sales meetings sponsored.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 (Capricorn) — Don't rush heading into what appears a good thing at first glance without sufficient delving and probing. Day calls for diplomacy, diligence, directness. Avoid carelessness.

Jan. 21 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius) — Advice to Cancer obtains here, too. Be sure of what you want and that it is good for you. Do not scatter energies; concentrate on essentials. Strive to broaden your scope of activities.

Feb. 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Do not let opportunity slip through your fingers because you don't recognize it. You have talent; exercise it. Entertain progressive ideas and elaborate on them as time permits.

You born today are fair-minded and a peace-maker. Cultivate those inborn traits and you will be happy. No matter what your beginnings or surroundings, given the opportunity (which you must and can help to make), you can rise to unusual heights in industry, almost any field. You are suited to dealing with people. You inspire confidence and courage. Your fine reasoning and love of order are admirable. Birthdate of Geo. Bancroft, American historian.

GETS SIX MONTHS

TORONTO (CP)—Robert Puddicombe, 21, of Toronto, was sentenced Monday to six months in jail on a charge of criminal negligence in handling of a .32 revolver. The revolver discharged and killed Douglas Moffat, 21, Puddicombe's friend, with whom he lived.

MOTHER AND NINE

HARRISON, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Fred R. Rolnfuss is this town's least lonely shut-in. Her doctor ordered her and nine of her children to bed Monday. All are suffering from the same virus ailment.

FEDERAL

Faubus was not available for comment on that development pending a scheduled press conference today.

FAUBUS CONFIDENCE

Two of the four governors who met with Eisenhower expressed confidence the dispute can be settled quickly. Governor Luther Hodges of North Carolina and Governor Frank G. Clement of Tennessee spoke on an NBC television broadcast after Eisenhower's rejection of the plan.

The two other governors, Florida's Governor Leroy Collins and Maryland's Governor Theodore McKeldin, joined them in saying Faubus had changed slightly the statement they said had previously been agreed upon.

Apparently the White House objection was based at least in part on a couple of words in Faubus' statement.

Faubus said at Little Rock "I now declare that the troops, withdrawn as federal troops, I will again assume full responsibility, in cooperation with local police forces, for the maintenance of law and order, and that the orders of the federal courts will not be obstructed by me."

Governor Hodges said in the television interview that Faubus had added the words "I now declare" to the statement. He said the added words may have caused the White House objection. Clement agreed.

Governor McKeldin said Faubus' statement did not issue the statement agreed upon.

"He (Faubus) in effect rubbed out his own words," McKeldin said.

SCHOOLS

Two additional nurses were flown to Nelson House, 400 miles north of Winnipeg, where the government nurse at the Indian hospital there was caring for 60 nursing patients 24 hours a day for several days.

Meanwhile in Montreal, Dr. Roger Foley, Quebec epidemics expert, said there is a shortage of Montreal and district health authorities to discuss Asian flu outbreak and plan equitable distribution of provincial government vaccine.

Another outbreak hit by the flu was Regina, where about 30 per cent of the pupils and a number of teachers are ill.

"We have just about enough substitute teachers to fill the ranks," said school superintendent W. C. Howe.

At Gananoque Collegiate in London, Ont., 45 per cent of the 685 members are absent. Also absent at Port Arthur and Fort William, more than 25 per cent of the high school students were in bed; and 20 per cent of Windsor's high school body was away. However, in Trail, B.C., White Horse, Y.T., Sherbrooke, Que., and Bawlf and Rosalind, Alta.,

Little Benny's Notebook

The doorbell rang and it was Mrs. Rippe the lady next store, saying, Benny, ask your mother if I can have the lend of a half a cup of sugar.

Which I went back to the kitchin and did, and ma said, Well I must say, I admire the cast iron nerve of some people, but I don't reterns a single thing she borrows, and yet she always comes back for more like a bad penny, she said, and I said, Why does it want a bad penny, ma?

Yesterday it was a lemmon and a few days before it was a couple of tea bags of all things, and before that it was an egg, and goodness knows what else, she said, without returning a hide or a hair of anything, ma said, I declare.

Maybe she's got a bad memory, ma.

She's got a bad habit, ma said I think I'm justified in letting her have a good hard hint with this sugar, so there.

And she put some in a cup and went over to borrow it, saying, Excuse me if I seem to of kept you waiting, Mrs. Rippe, but it took some time to find an old cracked cup that I may or may not use again, if I can't remember which.

That's very nice of you, Mrs. Rippe, said ma, and said, Not at all. As a matter of fact this is quite a coincidence, as that's just the point of sending Benny to ask you if I could borrow a lemmon, or an egg, or a tea bag, and as she said.

Yes dear, just as it happens, I am out of all those things at the moment, Mrs. Rippe said, and ma said, Oh well, never mind, I suppose we're all forced to buy something sooner or later.

Like somebody not taking a hint.

The big item, of course, is to study ways of expanding trade within the Commonwealth., But an assessment also is to be made of the need and the sources of capital and technical aid in the under-developed areas; of problems in farm surpluses; of the impact of Europe's proposed free trade area on Commonwealth trade; and of progress being made in the "common objective" to expand trade generally and eliminate exchange restrictions.

Also to be studied is the means of setting up permanent machinery so there could be continuous Commonwealth consultations on economic issues.

Meanwhile, an initial type of consultative machinery is to be set up at London so Commonwealth members can be kept informed on developments of Europe's industrial free trade area of which British plans to become a member.

Canada and some other Commonwealth countries are worried that the new European pact may reduce their chances not only of selling more finished goods over-seas but also foodstuffs. The communique said U.K. ministers reaffirmed previous undertakings to safeguard commonwealth interests in the U.K. market for foodstuffs, drink and tobacco.

STICK AT IT

ERIEAU, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police said Sunday two Detroit anglers, identified only as Williams and Lewis spent all Saturday night adrift after their bait ran out of gas. Undaunted, they rented another boat and went out fishing again Sunday. Erieau is on Lake Erie 15 miles southeast of Chatham.

Charge Airmen As Man Robbed at Point of Bayonet

CAMP BORDEN (CP) — Two RCAF men turned themselves over to military authorities here and have been charged with assault and robbery in connection with an attack on a Toronto taxi driver last Saturday.

Police said the men were David Louis, 17, and James Little, 22, both of Truro, N.S.

Three men attacked Leo Kostyk with a bayonet, robbed him of $26 and fled.

Tax Expert Says Civil Servants Need Higher Pay

VICTORIA (CP) — The wages of federal civil servants should be raised substantially, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was told today.

J. Harvey Perry of Toronto, director of the Canadian Tax Foundation, made the suggestion in a speech at the annual convention here.

Copies of the speech were made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. Perry, who was commenting on possible ways to improve the federal government's internal management, said he thought "a most intelligent suggestion at the present time would be that the salaries of the senior civil servants be drastically increased."

"Few businessmen would attempt to hire senior executives for even twice the salaries paid to deputy ministers in Ottawa."

Mr. Perry also suggested steps "to strengthen the internal processes of review of organization and methods" and a more effective method of parliamentary review as possible ways of improving internal management of the federal government.

"We are dealing here with the federal government but by no means would I exclude provincial and municipal governments from this suggestion. There should be more emphasis on regular review rather than on review on request."

Queen to Use New Cadillac On U.S. Tour

OSHAWA (CP) — A Cadillac convertible has been refitted at the General Motors plant here for use by Queen Elizabeth and Duke of Edinburgh during their North American tour, it was announced Tuesday.

A transparent plastic roof has been fitted and special interior lighting installed to ensure that the royal visitors can be seen wherever they are riding.

The car is to be flown to Washington in time for the Queen's arrival.

PRISONERS CHEER

KINGSTON (CP) — Women prisoners cheered Thursday when penitentiary Warden Walter Johnston announced over a public address system that the Queen has granted an amnesty to mark her visit to Canada next month. Reports from the men's penitentiary were that there was "quiet jubilation." The amnesty announcement said 30 days for each year of sentence will be remitted.

VOYAGERS TAKE TO SAFE LAND

The British liner Hildebrand, en route from London to Lisbon, is thown hard aground on the beach of Cascais, off Portugal's Raso Cape. The ship ran aground in a dense fog. The passengers were taken off by their craft and some of them line the beach here looking out at the stranded vessel. Naval authorities thought the vessel might be pulled off at high tide.

BIGGEST CANADIAN-BUILT PLANE GOES INTO SERVICE

First of the largest type of airplane ever built in Canada, the Argus was formally christened and handed over to the RCAF by its maker, Canadair of Montreal. The big ship, which has attracted much attention in the U.S. and other NATO countries, has been designed for submarine hunting and destroying. Two RCAF maritime squadrons, in the Atlantic and one in the Pacific will be equipped with the planes. Units of the RCAF and 10,000 Canadair employees watched the christening.

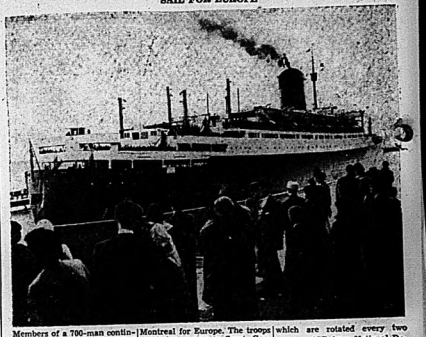
Labor Party's Stock Purchase Plan Assailed

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters) — Powerful figures in Britain's labor movement clashed with party leaders today over a plan to acquire a state foothold in important industries by buying shares on the stock market.

Speakers protested that the plan departed from the "old-fashioned" Socialist principle of outright nationalization. They said it would make a future Labor party government "hostage, bound hand and foot to the capitalist system."

Jim Campbell, a trade union leader, warned: "I am afraid we will not be prepared to accept this as the last word in the policy of the Labor party for the next general election."

NEEDS ATTRACTION



The plan to buy stock in key companies is supported by the party leader, Hugh Gaitskell, and economic spokesman Harold Wilson. They feel the party needs to attract non-Socialists at the next general election.

In the name of his union, the National Union of Railwaymen, Campbell proposed a motion calling on party leaders to submit a plan which would list industries to be nationalized by the next Labor party government.

Frank Cousins, general secretary of Britain's biggest trade union, the Transport and General Workers, said his organization supported the share plan. He said share-buying was a means by which the party could get control of industries not easy to take over immediately by nationalization in the old-fashioned sense.

Barriefield Husband Faces Murder Charge

KINGSTON (CP) — Bernard Ambrose Hess, 56, an industrial worker from nearby Barriefield, has been charged with murder in connection with the axe-slaying Tuesday of his wife, Edith Jean.

Hess was remanded in custody until Oct. 8 in a brief appearance Tuesday at Frontenac County court.

Provincial police said they arrested Hess in his home shortly after being called by a neighbor. They said walls, furnishings and bedclothes in the Hess home were spattered with blood. Police found a bloody axe in the kitchen.

Mrs. Hess was taken to hospital but died an hour later from axe wounds in her head. A son, William, 19, was taken to hospital in critical condition.

Two other Hess children suffered minor injuries. They are Barbara, 14, cuts and concussion, and Patricia, 9, cuts.

Police said Patricia was awakened from her sleep by a glancing blow. She and her sister, with whom she was sleeping, ran to the house of neighbor Percy Beckett. One of them said: "Something is wrong with daddy." Mr. Beckett called police.

Police said they thought William was likely attacked first and that Mrs. Hess was attacked when she came to his aid.

Circulation Group Selects Officers

WINNIPEG (CP)—W. J. Stewart of the St. Thomas Times-Journal Tuesday was elected president of the Canadian Newspaper Circulation Managers' Association.

C. R. Middleton of the Hamilton Spectator was elected secretary and S. Sigesmund of the Winnipeg Tribune first vice-president.

Election of officers was held here at the final session of the association's 24th annual convention.

SET RECORD

LONDON (CP)—A record total of 48 ships made commercial voyages via the Hudson Bay route in the 1956 season of navigation, the Commonwealth shipping committee said Sunday in its annual report on Hudson Bay marine insurance rates. The 1956 total was 10 more than in the previous season. The ships loaded cargoes totalling 18,130,000 bushels of grain at Churchill, Man., for United Kingdom and northern European ports.

Confessed Spy Asks Mercy, Voices Regrets for Crimes

NEW YORK (AP)—Confessed spy Jack Soble said Tuesday he deeply regrets the crimes he committed against the United States. He asked for mercy from the country he schemed to betray.

The 55-year-old former head of a Soviet intelligence ring in the U.S. told federal Judge Richard H. Level:

"I cannot forgive myself. I had plenty of opportunity to straighten out my life since I came to this country and I didn't do it."

Soble appeared before Level for sentencing. He had pleaded guilty to conspiring to obtain national defence secrets, knowing the information would be transmitted to Russia.

Level said he would impose sentence Tuesday. He also will rule on motions to reduce the 15½-year sentences he imposed Aug. 9 on Soble's wife Myra, 53, and Jacob Albam, 64.

Mrs. Soble and Albam pleaded guilty to the same charge as did Soble. The Sobles were naturalized here in 1947. For a time they lived in Montreal.

Soble could get a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

U.S. Attorney Paul W. Williams depicted Soble as a "complex individual" who was "psychologically maladjusted." He said Soble has co-operated with government authorities since his arrest.

Nuclear Weapons Ban Voted Down By Labor Party

Bevan Says Pledge Would Drive Britain to Disaster

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters) — The Labor party today overwhelmingly rejected a key resolution calling on the next Labor government to refuse to test, make or use nuclear weapons.

The vote at the party's annual conference represented a tremendous victory for former left-wing rebel leader Aneurin Bevan who, speaking on behalf of the party leadership, opposed the resolution.

Bevan, to be foreign secretary in the next Socialist government, told a stormy conference session that approval of the resolution would drive Britain into "diplomatic exile."

The resolution, proposed by the Norwood (London) local Labor party, was defeated by a vote of 5,836,000 to 781,000. Delegates voted according to the number of affiliated Labor party members in the organizations they represent.

CALL FOR AGREEMENT

Before the vote, delegates unanimously approved a resolution demanding an international agreement for a ban on hydrogen bomb tests and the destruction of all nuclear weapons.

Bevan said that carrying out of the Norwood resolution would help "precipitate landslide which might easily lead to a third world war."

The erstwhile rebel turned on his critics who had claimed he had softened since he became what he wanted the job as foreign secretary.

Bevan declared: "I will not take office in any circumstances to do anything which I believe I or should not do. It is not a question of who is in favor of or who is not in favor of nuclear bombs. But of what is the most effective way of resisting the damned thing developed."

A CHORUS OF SHOUTS

Bevan was almost shouted down at several times. He said he is as strongly against the H-bomb as he ever was, but Britain could not unilaterally abandon it without "dismantling the whole fabric of the British international relations."

Shepherd, former war minister John Strachey was greeted with shouts of "rubbish" when he said:

"The effect of Britain alone getting rid of the H-bomb would be to make her wholly dependent and a satellite of the United States."

29 Persons Die When Lebanese Plane Crashes

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A gold-carrying Lebanese airliner crashed in flames into the Mediterranean off Beirut today, killing all 29 persons aboard.

The two-engined plane was flying for the Lebanese International Airways, which had been operating only about a week. The airline agent said the pilot was an American.

Bound for Kuwait and Bahrein, the plane was carrying 15 boxes of gold for the Kuwait government.

HINT REDS MIGHT ALLOW CARDINAL TO QUIT HUNGARY

Would Be Receptive To Specific Proposals

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says in a dispatch from Budapest that Communist authorities might allow Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty to leave Hungary.

Since Russian troops crushed the anti-Soviet uprising last fall the Cardinal, Hungary's Roman Catholic primate, has been a refugee in the U.S. legation in Budapest. The Hungarian rebels had liberated him from a life sentence he was serving after conviction by the Communists on treason charges.

The Times quotes the acting Premier, Janos Kadar, as saying in an interview that his government would be receptive to specific proposals concerning the cardinal. The dispatch says: "Hungarian leaders couched his hint about the cardinal in vague language and appeared to indicate that the government might be willing to allow him to leave Hungary under certain circumstances, which he did not define."

Bride Sues Firm For $25,000 Over Foodless Wedding

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bride is suing a food firm for $25,000 damages because the cake and other food didn't arrive at her wedding reception.

Mrs. Joanne Gilden's breach-of-contract suit, taken under consideration by a judge Wednesday, says this made her wedding day "the worst of years and unhappiness . . . shame and humiliation."

It says 300 guests assembled at Beth Zion Temple last June 1, when she and Raymond Gilden were married. They had only champagne and after-dinner mints. Caterers Arthur and Lillian Cohen were located at a boxing match, the complaint says. Their attorney, Sol Schulman, said he arranged for the affair two months before the wedding.

First Large-Scale Flu Vaccination Plans Ready

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Final plans for Canada's first large-scale flu vaccination campaign have been set, as the death toll from the spreading influenza epidemic mounted to 18.

While more schools curtailed classes and short-staffed hospitals closed doors to visitors, Montreal and district health officials made final arrangements Wednesday for distribution next week on a priority basis of Asian flu vaccine.

In Toronto, however, Dr. John T. Phair, Ontario deputy health minister, said the flu has spread so rapidly that field trials testing the vaccine probably have been forestalled in most parts of the country. The Globe and Mail says "it is fairly certain" no one will ever know whether Asian flu shots did any good.

Dr. J. Donovan Ross, Alberta health minister, said the sudden spread of flu may sweep a proposed experiment to test vaccine among 100 University of Alberta students. The bug had already hit some students and it took two weeks to get the vaccine ready for immunity.

Dr. Roger Foley, provincial epidemiologist, said Quebec has both Asian flu and the usual influenza, that everyone gets, but added:

"Let me make it clear that the Asian flu is much less severe than our Canadian influenza we have each year."

The number of Asian flu cases, he said, would be "much higher" but the death rate lower than for ordinary flu. Meanwhile, the death toll from 18-year-old Owen Sound girl of pneumonia raised the total number of deaths attributed to influenza since the beginning of the epidemic to 21.

In flu, which has struck every province except New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, continued to slash school attendances and reduced staffs. Among them, 1,078 students and 16 teachers were absent from Port Arthur schools Wednesday, although no schools have been closed.

In Hull, Que., the Ronan Catholic school board decided to close its 18 primary and secondary schools, with a 9,000 enrolment, until Oct. 15. In Edmonton 40 teachers and many students were absent.

The average absentee rate in most Toronto area schools was reported from 15 to 20 per cent. More than 100 nurses in city hospitals were stricken by flu. Colds and sore throat infections sent 110 cadets at the Royal Military College in Kingston to hospital.

The Canadian Army Wednesday said 1,000 cases have been reported in soldiers and their dependents in Europe and Canada's 4th Infantry Brigade, which comes home on rotation this week. Men at two bases reported 1,100 cases among soldiers and dependents.

About 75 White Students Walk Out at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — About 75 white students walked out of Central High School when classes were scheduled as a mass protest against racial integration within the school.

But while boys and girls began struggling from the main entrance of the building, the majority of the students left by a side door and doorways to join them.

"Come on you chickens," the demonstrating students shouted.

"Dirty nigger lovers," some of the students are reported to have been threatened with such words as "we'll get you" in the demonstration. One girl ran from the building. Almost in tears, she cried:

"I couldn't get anyone else. They won't come out. I am so ashamed of my school."

Some of the demonstrating girls said they were afraid to go inside, standing inside the main entrance, discouraged many white students from leaving.

The same girls said their own parents in meetings urged them to join the walkout. They said their parents told them that if enough students walkout it would be impossible to discipline them.

After the students left, a spokesman said the demonstration was a failure and that they probably would be punished.

After the students left school a boy climbed a tree and hanged in effigy a Negro and ran as National guardsmen hurried over to disperse the crowd. Guardsmen also moved in moving the students from the area.

Milwaukee Jumps Into Lead But Yanks Promptly Tie Score

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees called on another Whitey Ford pitching today to pitch the second game of the world series against Milwaukee Braves. They won the opener 3-1 Wednesday behind southpaw Whitey Ford.

The Braves called on Lew Burdette, a slender right hander, in an effort to even the series. The 32-year-old Shantz had an 11-5 season record. Burdette 17-9.

Starting Lineups

Milwaukee — Schoendienst 2b, Logan ss, Mathews 3b, Aaron cf, Adcock 1b, Crandall c, Covington lf, Crandall c, Burdette p.

New York—Bauer rf, McDougald ss, Mantle cf, Berra c, Kubek 3b, Slaughter lf, Simpson lb, Kubek 2b, Coleman 2b, Shantz p.

FIRST INNING

Milwaukee: Schoedienst struck out, looking at three called strikes. Logan went to 2-2 count then was called out on strikes. Mathews fanned to some Shantz' third pitch; vicitim.

No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

New York: Bauer was called out on strikes. McDougald flied to Patko in short right. Mantle's liner bounced off Burdette to Logan, who threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

SECOND INNING

Milwaukee: Mantle misjudged Aaron's long drive to deep center but got his glove over his head to the wall for a triple.

Adcock lined a single to right center, scoring Aaron, and reached second when Mantle threw to the infield and Mc-Dougald off second with a wide throw. It was an error for Mantle.

Patko flied to Bauer, Covington flied to Simpson who made a running catch. Crandall walked on a full count. Shantz knocked down Crandall's liner and threw him out.

One run, two hits, one error, two left.

New York: Schoendienst got a hand on Berra's sharp bounder and threw him out. Slaughter walked on a full count. Simpson struck out on a swinging. Kubek punched a single over Mathews' head into left field, Slaughter going to third.

Coleman topped a little roller to first the third-base line about 15 feet from the plate and was thrown out by Burdette. Burdette picked up the ball and could make no play. Slaughter crossed the plate, left unprotected by Crandall who also went after the ball, Burdette appeared upset when he started to throw toward the plate but found no one there.

Covington made a running catch of Shantz's curving liner.

One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

HOFFA ALMOST CERTAIN TO HEAD TEAMSTER UNION

Election Could Mean Ouster From AFL-CIO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Thomas E. Hickey of New York today withdrew as a candidate for president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in favor of William A. Lee of Chicago.

There were indications, too, that Thomas J. Haggerty, also of Chicago, might pull out to leave Lee as the sole opponent of James R. Hoffa, leading contender for the presidency.

Hoffa appeared a sure winner, but his opponents were determined to prevent him from re-election for control of the giant union to a record, roll-call vote.

Hickey's last-ditch attempt at forming up Hoffa and anti-Hoffa forces appeared one possibility that what could shape up as a big secession of the anti-Hoffa forces from the teamsters.

COULD CAUSE OUSTER

Election of Hoffa almost certainly would cause automatic ouster from the AFL-CIO, with secession of some teamsters unions back to the AFL-CIO. Hickey, for one, has said he will do just that.

Hickey's withdrawal statement said he has been a candidate against Hoffa because he believes the union needs "the dedication of its members to "restore the good name of the International" and keep it within the AFL-CIO.

"These objectives are shared by Vice-President William Lee, a good teamster and a good trade unionist," he said.

With votes for new officers scheduled to start later today and with the apparent withdrawal of Hickey, the union faced a possible new court challenge of its convention ballot system because of alleged rigging of delegates.

Teamster delegates showed little disposition to attach significance to the AFL-CIO's expulsion. At a tumultuous session Wednesday, they gave Hoffa a vote of faith by a standing voting to expunge the corruption charges from the convention record.

251 DENIED SEATS

Hoffa forces eyed the coming court action with cautiously. They denied convention seats to 251 delegates whose credentials were questioned.

Delegates indicated in long-delayed testimony that Hoffa has an overwhelming favorite when the convention reaches the election of officers—election of new officers—probably today. Nearly all the delegates, and two other teamster officials are accused of corruption in the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee report based on hearings before a Senate rackets investigation committee.

The report has ordered the union to rid itself of officers responsible for the corruption, or face expulsion.

Millions of TV Viewers in Britain Are Shown Scenes at Nudist Camp

LONDON (Reuters) — Millions of television viewers Tuesday night saw nude men and women playing tennis, holding a tea party and sunbathing.

Britain's commercial television network showed a film on a nudist colony in a program called Out of Step.

Interviewer Daniel Farson was exempted from stripping and the opening scene showed him talking to a bulky man in a bushy grey beard.

Charles MacAskie, 71-year-old founder of the camp, sat in a deck-chair and denied that a moral question was involved in nudism.

It was, he insisted, a question of common sense.

Five nude young women surrounded by a number of small nude children showed no self-consciousness as they sipped tea and chatted.

Then viewers saw a tennis court where a young man and girl were playing a winning smash. A nudist of about 18 raised her racket and grinned at the camera.

Then there was a shot of a crowded swimming pool. Among one angry young man, wearing an ensemble of socks and shoes, scowled at the camera.

Firemen Fearful Other Bodies Beneath Debris

Explosion in Snack Bar Starts Disastrous Blaze

CHATHAM (CP) — Three persons are dead and possibly more died early today in a fire which destroyed the interior of the three-storey owned CPR Hotel on Chatham's main street.

Firemen said they have removed three bodies, one believed that of a woman, and they fear there may be two under debris in the interior of the 38-room two-storey building. A 70-year-old landmark on King Street.

Four other persons were taken to hospital with injuries.

Arnold Kingu, one of the men who owned and operated the hotel feared to be one of the victims. His partner, Rudolph Hoffman, was taken to hospital with burns to his hands and face.

WORTH $180,000

A former owner of the hotel, who asked that his name not be used, said he estimated the building was worth about $100,000.

An earlier report that the hotel was owned and operated by Tom Ange estate proved erroneous.

In Montreal, a spokesman for the CPR said the railway company did not own the hotel.

The injured were identified as John Pelka, 43, a bartender; Ted Pepper, 81, a hotel resident, both in serious condition. John Thompson, a hotel resident and Joe Kerjesich, who were released after treatment for burns.

BLAZE IN BAR

Between 25 and 30 persons believed in the hotel when the fire broke out about 5 a.m., apparently after an explosion in a downstairs snack bar. At least 10 of the survivors were identified as transient farm workers and were reported to have lost all their possessions in the fire. Many escaped from the hotel clad only in their night clothes.

Joe Jarvis of Chatham, resident in the downtown area on King Street, Chatham's main artery, said he was awakened by an explosion.

"I rushed to my window and saw flames coming out the snack bar," he said. "In moments people were at windows, yelling for help and some of others used the fire escape."

SHOUTS AND YELLS

Jarvis said many of the people who escaped the hotel were shouting and yelling in a frightful manner.

The hotel, built in 1890 and once one of the city's most fashionable, was a blackened shell about an hour after the alarm was turned in. In recent years the hotel has catered to itinerant farm workers and immigrants.

Jack Crawford of Chatham police said people had gathered in the basement were unable to speak English. He said officers could not determine how many persons were registered in the hotel. The hotel manager, not immediately available, was reported among those taken to hospital with injuries.

26 FARMERS PERISH

CUENCA, Spain (AP)—A bus plunged into the Jucar River, 15 miles southwest of here, during a storm Wednesday. The provincial governor said all 26 passengers, mostly farmers, died in the accident.

Howie Meeker Quits Post as Leafs' Manager

TORONTO (CP) — Howie Meeker has relinquished his position as manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and has taken a position in the public relations department at Maple Leaf Gardens, it was announced today.

The move is effective immediately. No reason was given for the switch.

A statement signed by President Conn Smythe and Meeker said that with the approval of the seven-man Maple Leaf hockey committee, "the Maple Leaf Gardens and Howie Meeker have agreed to disagree."

The statement said the position of manager will not be filled by a new appointment. The duties now will be shared by assistant manager Frank (King) Clancy, coach Billy Reay and chief scout Bob Davidson.

The statement said that "under the arrangements of Meeker's contract he will receive a full season's salary."

Meeker was appointed Leaf coach in April, 1956, piloted the club for one season and shortly after the 1956-57 schedule got under the job as manager. Reay, long a three Montreal Canadiens centre and former coach of Rochester of the American Hockey League, succeeded him as coach. He signed up for a replace Clarence (Hap) Day who resigned last March.

Prairie Fire Burns Over 3,000 Acres

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP)—A prairie brush fire, fanned by strong winds, burned out more than 3,000 acres of hay land near this northwestern Manitoba town before being controlled early today.

No one was injured and no livestock or buildings were touched by the flames. More than 100 farmers and a town residents fought the blaze by ploughing firebreaks.

Court Admits 2 Statements Given by Accused to Police At Napanee Murder Trial

NAPANEE (Staff) — Wednesday night at the murder trial of Albert Mandlene (Hubert) McEwen, 47, a sergeant of the Ontario Provincial Police read two statements made to him by McEwen, one on July 15—when Lynne Perry, 35, prominent North Frederickburgh farmer was shot in the abdomen—and the other on July 28—when Perry died in Belleville General Kingston hospital.

Gist of the statements read by Sergeant W. R. Smith was that McEwen and Perry had got in an argument in the barn. Perry accused McEwen of making a mistake in pasturing the cattle. He struck McEwen. McEwen said he was quitting, walked to the driveshed and picked up his .22 rifle, which was one of his few possessions. On his way out of the yard he walked past the barn where Perry accosted him again. When Perry made a lunge at him, McEwen turned to run but the trigger—which had been filed to a hair-trigger— caught in his clothing and discharged, the bullet striking Perry in the abdomen.

Sgt. Smith said that when McEwen had been told Perry had died, he cried.

A police ballistics expert said the rifle could be fired by dropping it, hitting it hard, snagging or squeezing the trigger.

The case for the defence started last night. The Crown's case is closed. McEwen is being defended by Louis H. Tepper of Kingston.

George Masoud, a Kingston real estate agent, was recalled and as a defence witness, said he had employed Perry during past winters.

McEwen worked either at, or close to, the Perry farm during those winter months.

Dr. E. R. Elliott, Napanee jail surgeon, told of the fatal injuries McEwen received to his head and face on July 15 were superficial. McEwen claimed Lynne Perry had hit him. Ray Perry, father of Lynne, denied he had hit McEwen somewhere on the head. Constable Ronald Perry, son of the deceased, hit McEwen on the head with a stone after her husband had been shot.

Mr. Tepper's case is continuing today. The all-male jury is expected to begin deliberations late today to consider the evidence.

TOOK RIFLE AWAY

The dead man's father testified how he hit the accused in the face and wrestled a rifle out of his hands, shortly after Lynne Perry fell to the ground with a fatal wound in the abdomen.

When Ray Perry arrived at his son's farm at about 8 a.m. on July 15 he saw Lynne lying in the lane covered with a blanket.

"I dropped to my knees. I thought he was dead. He had his eyes shut," said Mr. Perry.

Crown Attorney Kenneth E. Hamm asked, "Did you see the accused there?"

"Not immediately."

"When?"

"When I rose from my son's body I saw him looking out the stable door. He had a rifle in his hands. I made a lunge for the door. He stepped back inside a few feet," said Ray Perry.

"What did you do?" asked the Crown attorney.

"I hit him with my right fist somewhere on the head. Then I wrenched the gun away from him. He ran out the door and then ran east up the road. A few minutes later I saw him in the police cruiser."

Mr. Perry told how he acted as a go-between between McEwen and Lynne Perry, when, for some reason or other, McEwen would leave the younger Perry's farm and later want to return.

"Did McEwen come to you for money?" asked Louis Tepper, counsel for the defence.

"Yes, he did," returned Ray Perry.

"When was the last time?"

"The day before this thing happened I gave him $2."

Mr. Perry told Mr. Tepper he did not see any marks on McEwen's face, but a milk truck driver, George Thompson, testified on Tuesday he had seen a scratch on his cheek and blood on his face.

Dr. William Houston, a surgeon at Belleville General Hospital, performed two operations on Lynne Perry, one on July 15 and the other on July 25. Perry died on July 28. The doctor attributed the cause of death to complications arising from the passage of a bullet through Perry's abdomen.

Dr. W. D. Hay, Kingston pathologist, said the primary cause of Perry's death was from the passage of a bullet through the abdomen which caused peritonitis, gastric ulcers (about 15 of them) and severe damage to the liver.

Cpl. P.P. Constable Robert M. Graham of the Napanee detachment, arrested McEwen shortly after 4 p.m. on July 15. Perry was shot some time between seven o'clock and eight o'clock that morning.

Constable Graham was proceeding to the McEwen farmhouse and saw McEwen standing with Richard Hill and Bruce Cumberland, Crown witness, at the Hill farm, immediately east of the McEwen farm. He stopped and jumped down the police cruiser, opened the door and said: "It was an accident. I did not mean to shoot Lynne."

The police officer arrived at the McEwen farm and at the embankment leaving. He left McEwen in the police cruiser and looked for a rifle. He got a .22 rifle from Ray Perry. Its bolt was open but there was no cartridges in it.

When McEwen was searched at the police detachment, Constable Graham found 27 bullets in his pocket and 12 in a shoe pocket.

After a lengthy voir dire, Judge Thompson ruled that the two statements made by McEwen to Junior Crown Attorney L. H. Tepper, defence counsel, Constable Graham, first one made when McEwen was charged with wounding, was inadmissible because the accused had been excited and ill when it was taken. He had no memory-recall on the second statement, which had been made when McEwen was charged with murder.

During a recess late Wednesday afternoon, McEwen was suddenly taken ill, but he returned to the court room. Since his trial began, McEwen has been sitting quietly beside a police officer, head bowed and picking at a piece of tissue paper. He is dressed in grey-blue trousers, grey shoes, diamond socks, prison-grey shirt with opened collar and a navy jacket which is too big for him.

Two Injured In Collision On Oak Hills

Mr. F. L. "Ted" Jones, 215 Victoria Ave., was admitted to Belleville General Hospital Wednesday evening with facial cuts suffered in a rear-end collision on No. 14 highway in the Oak Hills district.

Also hurt in the accident was 17-year-old Wayne Burton, R.R. 1, Picton, who suffered a lacerated hand.

Police said both vehicles, one driven by Sidney Rogers, R.R. 1 Picton, and the other by Mr. Jones, were southbound at the time of the accident. Following the collision the Rogers' car overturned in the east ditch. Property damage amounted to about $1,000 of which $300 was to the Jones auto.

Reeve of Tweed Suffers Attack

TWEED (Special) — Tweed Reeve T. Gregory Graham, was rushed to Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday after suffering a heart attack at Tweed. Although still under oxygen, his condition today was said satisfactory. He is being attended by Dr. Bruce Cronk of Belleville and Dr. G. G. Allen of Tweed.

Reeve Graham is a county of Hastings representative on the Hospital Board and is currently chairman of the finance committee.

Drunk Driving Charge Laid After Accident

CAMPBELLFORD — Clarence Alley, 32 of Trent River, was arrested by Campbellford police on Monday night following an accident on Grand Road in which a truck knocked down a CPC pole. The pole was twice off at the base, and a ten foot section of the pole was tossed more than 60 feet by the impact, breaking a branch off a tree. The driver of the truck sped off and police started a search for the wanted vehicle. Power was disrupted for a time, and PUC crews were called to render harmless, wires which were hanging close to the roadway.

Later, a motorist reported to police that a truck had forced him off the road in another section of town. He gave police a description of the truck, and a short time later Chief Constable Sam Baird located the vehicle parked on Front Street. He found Alley, whom police say was driving the truck, in a local restaurant, and he was arrested and lodged in the cells at Campbellford. On Tuesday he was charged with driving while impaired and with failure to remain at the scene of an accident, and taken to Cobourg, where he is being held pending his appearance to answer to the charges on Friday.

Obituary

ROY E. (SPARKY) HILTON

A resident of this district for 46 years, Roy Ernest (Sparky) Hilton, 33 Wallbridge Road, died in Kingston General Hospital Wednesday evening. He was in his 50th year.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hilton, he was born at Newburgh, where he lived until he moved to the Belleville area. During his early years Mr. Hilton worked at Belleville Brick Co. Ltd., National Carbon Co. Ltd., and was a commercial fisherman. He was an adherent of the Anglican church.

Mr. Hilton never married. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ian (Lydia) Grills, Brantford, and Mrs. George (Gladys) Ward-Kay, Belleville; two brothers, Mrs. Colin and James, both of Belleville.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

JOSEPH HENRY LANGTRY
Kingsville

In failing health for some time, Joseph Henry Langtry, 24 Mill Street, Kingsville, died early this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. N. C. Macfie, 15 Highland Avenue, at the age 81st year.

Born in Middlesex County, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Langtry. He resided in Kingsville past 50 years. Mr. Langtry was a tailor by trade and a member of the United Church at Kingsville. He wore the 50-year jewel of the I.O.O.F. lodge, of which he was a member in Kingsville.

Mr. Langtry was predeceased by two wives, the former Cora Peterson and the former Maude Foster. Surviving are one son, Lyle, Oxford, Mich.; two daughters, Mrs. W. S. (Veulah) Scott, London, Ontario, and Mrs. N. C. (Gladys) Macfie, Belleville; two sisters, Mrs. Carrie M. Robinson, Vancouver, B.C., and Mrs. Nell (Myrtle) Haggart, Guilds, Ontario; seven grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

28 Receive Certificates Of Canadian Citizenship

Twenty-eight persons received their certificates of Canadian citizenship yesterday at the county courthouse.

In groups of four they stepped before Judge J. C. Anderson and repeated the declaration of renunciation of foreign nationality, renouncing all allegiance to foreign states. Following this, with their right hands on the Bible, they took the oath of allegiance to Canada, each swearing that he will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth the Second and her heirs and successors, and will faithfully observe the laws of Canada and fulfill the duties as a Canadian citizen. So help me God."

Representing the Belleville district of the Upper Canada Bible Society, Rev. James S. A. Spearman was present to give each of the new citizens a copy of the Bible. Following the ceremony he greeted them, advising them to make the Bible a guide book for their lives in order to make them better citizens.

As a momento of the occasion the IODE presented each of the group with a copy of their certificate. Mr. G. M. Davison and Mrs. L. Willebridge were on hand, representing the Argyll and St. Julien chapters, respectively.

MAYOR BRINGS GREETINGS

Judge Anderson, in his remarks to the new citizens, told them never to forget the good inheritances they have brought to Canada from their mother lands.

Mayor Jane Forrester brought greetings on behalf of the citizens of Belleville. Lee Grills, member of Parliament for this district, congratulated the new citizens and welcomed them to Canada. During the afternoon other citizens, representing the Chamber of Commerce, the immigration department, as well as other organizations, offered a few words to the group.

The new Canadians were asked to reply and express themselves. They, in turn, voiced the sentiments of the entire body, said "we will try to be good Canadian citizens and bring up our children to be good Canadians."

A woman group up next and thanked all the people who had helped them reach the day they became citizens.

One colorful aspect of the day was the presence of a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Attired in the handsome red and blue uniform of the Mounties—a symbol of Canada—was Constable J. E. Nightingale, the RCMP detachment in Belleville.

RECIPIENTS OF CERTIFICATES

Those receiving certificates of citizenship included: Mr. Anfries (Andrew) Zandbergen, Dutch; Mrs. Hoeffer (Ruth) Zandbergen, Dutch; Mr. Martinus Jeannes Rodi, Dutch; Mrs. Johanna Maria Rodi, Dutch; Mr. Alfredo D'Azio (Defosse), Italian; Mr. William John Frawley, American; Mr. Stasys Jovalasas, Lithuanian; Mrs. Zina Jovalasas, Lithuanian.

Other new citizens are: Mr. Jan (John) Klompmaker, Dutch; Mrs. Afke Klompmaker, Dutch; Mr. Ids (Edward) Klompmaker, Dutch; Mr. Roelof (Rudy) Klompmaker, Dutch; Mr. Pjeerd (Charles) DeVries, Dutch; Mrs. Lucienne Frans (Francia) DeVries, Dutch; Mr. Leonidas Tsolkias (Leon Talchias), Greek; Mr. Evangelos (Angelo) Vasilopoulos, Greek; Mr. Marinus Vermeulen Valks, Dutch; Mrs. Adrianna Valks, and Mrs. Klaska Arnid, Czechoslovakian.

Completing the list are: Mr. Johan (John) Rhebergen, Dutch; Mrs. Maaike (Mary) Rhebergen, Dutch; Mr. Ivan (John) Kusminsych, Russian; Mrs. Maria (Mary) Kusminych, Russian; Mr. Marinus Hendrikus, Dutch, Mrs. Catharina Hendrikse, Dutch; Mr. Pieter (Peter) Noelker, Dutch; Mrs. Geertje Noelker, Dutch, and Mr. Tage Hansen Lyngne, Danish.

$5,000 Damage To Canteen on Cannifton Road

Damage estimated at close to $5,000 resulted at the Hillcrest Canteen on the Cannifton Road shortly before midnight Wednesday night when grease from the potato chip frying stove flared up and set the kitchen afire.

The flames quickly spread through the kitchen and store and caused heavy smoke damage in the main section of the building. The upstairs apartment was said empty at the time.

City firemen fought the blaze for nearly two-and-a-half hours before it was finally extinguished.

Owned by Mr. Fred Lester of Cannifton Road, the business is being operated by Harry Christopher who took over the canteen about three weeks ago.

Big front windows in the store section of the canteen were blown out at the height of the fire and flames rolling through the kitchen window frames lit up the midnight sky, attracting a big crowd of spectators.

Firemen said, however, that the fire did not go out through the roof although the interior of the downstairs section of the building was badly gutted.

Groceries and store stock, as well as a quantity of souvenirs in a separate section of the store suffered heavy damage. One fireman, Jack Finkle, suffered a wrist injury.

While the canteen fire on Cannifton Road was being fought by firemen an alarm was received from the Northern Electric plant on Sidney street where a dust explosion in one of the factory departments caught fire. Damage was negligible, firemen said.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would have liked to personally thank each and everyone for their friendly visits, cards and gifts, both floral and otherwise, but as this is impossible, I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the nurses, doctors and patience; to my blood donors and friends; also my new neighbours who so kindly contributed to my family's comfort, and to my neighbours. Again a very sincere thank-you.—Mrs. and Mrs. Clarton Baldis and family.

Deputy Minister Of Education To Speak Here

Charles W. Booth, Deputy Minister of Education, will be the guest speaker at commencement exercises to be held at the Quinte Secondary School tomorrow (Friday) evening.

Members of the graduating class will receive their diplomas, while prizes and awards earned will be presented. The ceremonies get underway at 7.15 p.m.

A native of Enterprise, Ont., Mr. Booth spent his boyhood in Northumberland county and at the age of 16 entered Queen's University. A veteran of the First World War he served with the Signal Corps of the Royal Canadian Engineers, returning his studies at the close of hostilities. He graduated with honors in history and English in 1921 and attended the College of Education the following year.

Mr. Booth began his teaching career at Riverdale Collegiate Institute in Toronto, later teaching at Windsor for six years and was then recalled to Toronto to Jarvis Collegiate. In 1940 he was appointed head of the English department in Lawrence Park Collegiate and in 1944 was made vice principal.

He became a secondary school inspector in 1945 and in 1950 was assigned special administrative duties. He was appointed Deputy Minister of Education last year.

IN MEMORIAM

McQUAID. — In loving memory of our dear brother, Edmund McQuaid, who passed away October 2, 1953.

Think of him in silence,
Speak of him with care,
There is nothing left to answer,
But to kneel and say a prayer.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by brother Edward and sister-in-law Sheila.

McQUAID. — In loving memory of our dear son, Edmund Joseph McQuaid, who passed away October 2, 1953.

Breathe his name with reverence,
Our dear one is passed away;
Peacefully he fell asleep
In darkness,
Into bright and perfect day.
But we still must live and struggle,
While life's pathway we pursue,
Hoping that some day we'll meet him,
In the better world above.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by sister June, brother-in-law Bill and family.

McQUAID. — In loving memory of our son, Edmund McQuaid, who passed away October 2, 1953.

Sadly missed by mother and family.

McQUAID. — In loving memory of our son, Edmund McQuaid, who passed away October 2, 1953.

Two years ago today my brother was called away,
Those whom the angels sing so sweet
And take when God sees best.
We miss him here so very much,
His presence we long miss,
But we all hope in heaven to meet.
Where we'll never more part.
—Ever remembered and sadly missed by sister Teresa.

ARMSTRONG. — In loving memory of William Armstrong, who passed away October 3rd, 1956.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and dear,
Just a thought of sweet devotion
Of one who thinks of you
Lovingly remembered by wife Enid.

WALKOUT

As the soldiers advanced one boy set fire to the straw-filled dummy and threw it in the path of the guardsmen.

Earlier, 30 guardsmen escorted eight Negro students into school through ranks of hooting, jeering white students.

It was the heaviest guard yet provided since nine Negro students began attending the school nine days ago under troop-enforced integration. The heavy guard came after Wednesday's disorders inside the school in which two Negro boys were pushed and kicked by white students.

One of the six Negro girls did not report for classes today. A military spokesman said she was sick.

Regular army paratroopers took over from the National Guard on patrol inside the high school.

OPEN THREATS

There were open threats among the white students Wednesday of more violence. School authorities warned that any student who left classes would be disciplined.

Two Negro boys were struck with fists and kicked by white students inside the school Wednesday, classmates and school authorities said.

School Supt. Virgil T. Blossom confirmed the incident and said three boys were suspended. A fourth, he revealed, was expelled Sept. 23 for anti-integration violence, but is back in classes. Blossom refused to discuss that case.

Two of the suspended youths, freely with reporters Wednesday, but refused to give their names.

The youths said they chased the two Negroes "from one end of the school to the other," knocked books from their hands and kicked them when they bent over to retrieve the books. They said from 50 to 150 boys were in the pursuing crowd.

Blossom said suspensions usually are from three days to two weeks.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, Arkansas president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, denied the two Negroes were chased and said the incident was not as serious as pictured by the white teenagers. She said conditions for the Negroes actually improved over the previous day.

Students said that after the incident, soldiers formed a circle around the nine Negroes whenever they moved through the corridors.

Troops have guarded the Negroes at Central High ever since they first entered under military guard Sept. 25.

High-level efforts to solve the stationing of troops and integration problems are at a stalemate.

Will Be Guests At Firhurst During Visit

TRENTON (Special) — Hon. Louis O. Breithaupt, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and Mrs. Breithaupt will be guests at Firhurst Manor when they arrive in Trenton on Friday for the official opening of the new Community Gardens. During their visit to Trenton in the past, the Lieutenant Governor and his wife usually have enjoyed a quiet rest at the Manor, where they enjoy the privacy and quiet.

Ray Gauthier of Trenton, who has been on the operational staff of the Communications Section at RCAF Trenton, will be going to Ottawa on the 15th of this month, where he is to be at the Department of External affairs. A resident of Trenton for the past eight years, Mr. Gauthier is bilingual, and this will serve him well in his new capacity. He is the father of four young children, and both he and Mrs. Gauthier have made many friends while they have been in Trenton.

Nostram Sprague, secretary of the Trenton Lions Club was the speaker at the last regular meeting of the club. He showed slides of the Lions Convention at San Francisco, where Mr. Sprague represented the Trenton Branch of the club.

Organists Hosts To Peterborough Centre Members

The Bay of Quinte Centre of the Canadian College of Organists was host to the Peterborough Centre at three demonstrations organ recitals held in Belleville recently.

In Christ Church, Mr. J. B. Herdman gave a short history of the organ and demonstrated the resources of the instrument with a Suite of Three Movements by John Stanley. At Thomas' Church, Mr. Robert Bell played three different compositions to display the organ: Voluntary in D by William Boyce, Voluntary by Harold Darke and "Nun Danket" by Karg-Elert. Later in Bridge Street United Church, S. Alec Gordon demonstrated his organ by playing Prelude and Fugue in G minor by Bach; "Come Sweet Death" by Bach as arranged by Virgil Fox; and "March Grotesque" from Four Dubious Conceits by Richard Purvis.

The visiting organists were each of the three completely different instruments. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Belleville Centre. Mr. E. A. P. Bland of Peterborough Centre thanked everyone for an enjoyable evening and extended an invitation to visit Peterborough in the Spring when they will have the opportunity to exhibit some of their organs.

Senior Citizens' Membership Up

Upwards of 70 members of the Senior Citizens attended the second get together of the new season with President Fred Cooke in charge. The Senior Citizens, all over 60 years of age, welcomed four new members to the club last evening and now boast a membership of 135.

Thank-you letters were received from past president, Leslie Field, for the sending of cards to Mrs. Field, presently in Belleville General Hospital, and from Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Gray who recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Gray were presented with a suitably topraved tray from the club.

Prizes for the evening were won by Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. Conway, Mrs. Crowter, Mrs. Laffman and Mr. John Boudreau. Thurlow Junior Farmers again danced a team was on hand and put on an exhibition thoroughly enjoyed by all. Cards and lunch topped the evening's entertainment with, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Crowter and Mrs. Barnhart looking after the lunch.

The next meeting, the first Wednesday in November, will be the Hallowe'en party with most members planning to attend in masquerade.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATIONS

"Just how do these activities affect our children and their education, or do they at all?"

That is the question asked by "Confused Parents" in a letter to the St. Catharines Standard, after attending their first home and school meeting.

The suggestion that home and school clubs are something less than perfect is a heresy which, we suspect, is shared by a great many parents who absent themselves. It would perhaps be a shrewd guess that most active members of such associations presume that parents who show no interest in home and school clubs lack interest in their children's schooling. It might be an equally shrewd guess that this conclusion is only half true; that absentees are fairly equally divided between the indifferent and the confused.

Among the 50 or so present at the St. Catharines meeting, there were only five or six fathers, "Confused Parents" report. Much the same would hold true of other home and school club meetings in other cities, we feel sure. Some on the distaff side may sniff "Oh, men," and infer that the male of the species is not only useless around the house but anywhere else where family problems are concerned. "Confused Parents" from St. Catharines, though, say "we don't blame them for not coming, for the meeting was at least half 'club' business." It was entirely different from that effort "to learn of the aims and problems of our combined efforts to educate our children" which they had anticipated.

Many men, after their first home and school club meeting, just stay home. Their wives often continue to attend, but we are convinced that in many instances they are merely yielding to pressure from the younger generation, who are anxious that their class may win the "attendance" banner, rather than being vitally interested in the proceedings. Many of the women, we feel sure, would like to see precisely the same kind of home and school meeting that absentee men would welcome. They would like to stop arranging skate exchanges and teas and listening to inspirational addresses and would be overjoyed at any opportunity to debate a few basic problems.

All this, we are aware, is unfair to home and school associations. It is unfair because it is written in ignorance. "Confused Parents" at St. Catharines not being the first to attend one home and school club meeting and return home bored and resolved to stay there. It is unfair because the associations as they exist today could scarcely, upon occasion, discuss something of importance and, even when they do not, are still serving a useful purpose. But these useful purposes can be left to those who enjoy home and school meetings as at present constituted. Perhaps what is needed is a new organization which will serve the needs of "Confused Parents" in St. Catharines and their counterparts in other cities, towns, villages and townships throughout the nation.

What is needed may be some organization which will not attempt to embrace all parents, perhaps will be indifferent to whether its members are parents at all, but which will be prepared to discuss some of the obvious problems in our present-day educational system. There are those problems, certainly. Should religious education form a part of the public school curriculum? Can our schools be said to be adequately staffed when some teachers are merely high school students with summer courses? Why did the Ontario Department of Education refuse to pay a grant for the construction of science classrooms in the teachers' training guise in chemistry and in discipline as some reports, by teachers and ex-teachers, would suggest?

It may be argued that all these questions are outside the province of parents and teachers as such, that they cannot be decided at the local level but, in the main, involve questions of policy on the part of the Department of Education. And that is exactly the crux of the situation. Those who are bored with home and school club meetings as they are at present constituted are exactly the people who would like assistance in formulating their opinions regarding educational policies, so that they may, through their votes and influence, bring pressure to bear on governments to remedy any defects in the present system. These people realize that they are unqualified to reach intelligent conclusions on a highly technical subject unless they study it, and unless their studies are guided by those who possess technical knowledge. They would welcome such guidance from professionally qualified teachers — and we suspect that many such a teacher would prefer meeting with parents at a gathering of this type to attendance at the present "tea and crumpets" home and school groups.

We are told that the existence of this problem is recognized by leaders in the home and school movement and that an organized effort has been already launched to solve the problem. Probably programs at some home and school clubs would be satisfying to "Confused Parents," but the letter to the St. Catharines paper is proof that not all of these organizations are filling the role which might be theirs under more enterprising local leadership.

MONEY KILLS

Some Swiss doctors have started a campaign to persuade their government to discard paper money and revert to coins. Even relatively new banknotes, they say, are covered with so many microbes that a single bill contains enough to kill certain animals.

The coins, the physicians say, could be periodically decontaminated. (Pueblo, Madrid.)

Grandma's Cooking

By John L. Cooley in Christian Science Monitor

Grandma was born to the skillet and the rolling pin. She used them superbly, artistically, and with loving loyalty. However, it is a satisfaction to know that our little baby's tender needs were small and she was not infettered to her kitchen tools. Thus the sad ample time for his many other activities that were to provide her with so many pleasant memories.

My grandmother never cooked by the book. Her words were "recipe," she called them — were in her hand, always available, always reliable. Experience was her measuring cup, "horse sense" her calorie counter. She never compromised with quality, despite budget limitations. "Better none her calorie counter. She never than poor stew," she'd say.

In a day that knew few prepared foods and no domestic deep freezers, she cooked as she lived, simply. And if the essentials of digestion were strength for her, she certainly had a way with an apple pie and a strawberry shortcake!

Although Grandma likes to cook, she would sometimes imply that it was a chore and a bore. Thus, like a child who tells you when I hoped to be read to, she'd exclaim, "Land's sakes, it's time to get dinner! I'm all in all the ways in that kitchen." Thither she would go, and after shaking the old stove, humming a snatch of a civil war hymn, or a few bars in tune of her own improvising. This signaled that everything was under control. Then I'd watch the stocky clock on the mantel struck six; she would be ready for my appetite.

It was fun to sit in my special corner of the kitchen and watch Grandma measure the flour, milk, and shortening for the biscuits. Occasionally I helped with the preparations, and such minor administrations as sifting the flour, filling the salt shaker, or closing the stove draft taught me that the satisfaction of even life's humblest tasks is strengthened by a loved one's participation. Time and work.

Face to face at the round black walnut table, sitting on cold evenings, with our backs to the range, we'd feast on the fruit of her labors at us through the west window him. As we began our meal I hoped that the people in the house whose lights blinked across the street were not, like Grandma's creamed dried beef, and honey in the comb.

The most important part of the menu, of course, was the dessert. Dessert had to be a surprise, although that element was missing in the case of leftovers, a situation that occurred often enough. Grandma was of the Clan Macintosh, and today's success gave always had another chance tomorrow. But when I knew we were to have, for instance, a dessert, my curiosity was keen. As I consumed the required preliminaries I would speculate on what delicacy waited in the pantry or the icebox. Cake? Stewed prunes? Applesauce? Doughnuts?

"I never tasted such mincemeat! How do you make it?"

Grandma smiled.

"Well," she said, "I give it everything I have in the house. Then send out for more!"

WHAT IS FREEDOM?

Some people hold that the way to be free is to be free of any restraint. A person who has this point of view believes that it is his right to be free to follow one's own desires, to do as one wants to do and act on occasions and in every situation.

The truth of the matter is that freedom is not to be found in this fashion at all but servitude. There is no one more in bondage than the one who is constantly being scourged by his own impulses. The victim of his passions is a slave — whether that appetite be for food, liquor, drugs or sex. On the other hand, the person who can take an objective view of life, who has himself in hand, and who can manage his desires is a good horseman and makes the animal he rides, is free in the highest sense of the term.

The more a scientific study conforms himself to natural law, the more successful he is. In fact, science is the quest men make to discover the way natural law works.

Suppose natural laws were unpredictable, according to an item in a newly-published nature book. Wonder if the solar hasn't been why they're having nightmares about pink people!

THE JUNE GROOM NOW

The June groom now has learned a lot
Of things he didn't know before.
He's settled down, as like as not,
To newer duties by the score.
By now he knows just what it means
When he is roused from sweet repose
And told, "The rain beats through the screens;
Get up and all the windows close."

By now I guess he also knows
Just when the dinner table's spread
The joy of hearing wife disclose
That she has remembers with a nod
And in the early morn he sees
His wife gowned in robe of silk
And hears her murmur: "If you please,
I wish you'd fetch a pint of milk."

By now the June groom understands
What married men so long have known:
A wife will issue her commands
When hubble would be left alone.
Somehow, a wife will never think
Of open doors and windows shut
Into a slumber deep you sink;
Then she remembers with a gut

Miss Louise Schryver, B.A., left yesterday to attend the Library School at Toronto University.

Mrs. John Gibbs has left to join her husband at Welland where he has accepted a position.

The hostesses at the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club yesterday were Mrs. S. Hibbard, Mrs. W. Stoneburg, and Mrs. M. Vanner. The game played during the afternoon was won by the following rink: Mrs. J. Scott, Mrs. J. Shaw and Mrs. G. H. McElheran, skip.

Archdeacon the Venerable Ernest Renouf has arrived in the city from London, England, and is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Ackerill, John Street.

Mrs. J. B. Hale of Sault Ste. Marie is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. R. Hannah, Charles Street.

Mrs. J. W. Imlah and Mrs. Norman Edwards were hostesses at the Belleville Golf Club, East Hill, this afternoon.

30 YEARS AGO

October 3, 1927.

Mr. N. P. North, Canadian National Superintendent at Hornepayne, and formerly Assistant Superintendent in the Belleville Division, will be in the city this week and arrangements have been made to present him a purse of gold by the employees of this division as a token of their esteem and good will. Mr. Harold P. Duff has complete charge of the presentation which will probably take place in the engineers' hall on Pine Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Moreau is visiting friends in Carleton Place.

Mrs. Lewis Richardson of this city is visiting friends in Washington, D.C.

Cadet Lawrence Wray is home from the Royal Military College, Kingston, to spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cook have returned home from Toronto where they spent several days.

40 YEARS AGO

Fishermen from Syracuse, N.Y., are camping at Consecon at Quinte Point.

At the Belleville Cheese Board 1,235 boxes of cheese were boarded and nearly all were sold at 21 5/16 cents, 21½ cents and 21¼ cents.

Mr. W. P. Marshall has returned home after a trip to Lanigan, Sask.

Mr. Sullivan Crothers of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, spent yesterday in town renewing acquaintances.

Mrs. W. A. Willie has left for her home in Kamloops, B.C., after visiting her sister, Mrs. O. A. Marshall, East Bridge Street.

From our file copy at this time in 1927: Seats are now on sale at Riggs' Music Store for the great scenic production, The Three Guardsmen.

50 YEARS AGO

October 2, 1907.

The new British Army airship has made the best showing of any airship yet built. The big balloon can drive 35 miles per hour and can deliver an explosive shell.

Mr. C. McConnell, Springbrook, was in town today.

Mr. W. J. Reid left today for Hamilton where he has accepted a position.

Mr. Timothy Truuisch, an old Belleville boy, has returned to Belleville. He left after visiting relatives here.

Messrs. W. J. McMahon, Ernest Lang, A. C. McFee and M. Graham left today to spend a week in New York City.

Mr. Rex Leitch, son of the Rev. R. H. Leitch of Holloway Street Methodist Church, left today for Los Angeles, California.

This Could Be Quite a Trip

Vancouver Sun

Memo to Attorney General Bonner:—

May we suggest you undertake a little selective tippling during your forthcoming tour of Europe to drum up trade for B.C.? In the interests of trade of course. And to continue your gradual improvement of B.C. Liquor Control Board stocks.

In Britain for instance you should try some of the lighter ales and beers and pick a few to round out the rather narrow selection of heavy British ales you now offer here.

Take in a few pubs, too. Just to see how far B.C. public houses miss being the workingmen's clubs which the Stevens commission found that many people would like to have here.

On the continent, you'll find many fine Germans, Dutch, Danish and Swedish lagers and ales all with eager exporters who would welcome your business, enable these countries to buy B.C. products.

In France you should search out some cheaper yet acceptable red Bordeaux and a dry champagne whiter, too. And if at all obtainable, cheaper Burgundy, red and white.

In Germany, a look out for reasonably-priced hock and some bright Rhine wines which would complement so beautifully B.C.'s fine seafood.

If you get to Italy, how about sampling some of the cheaper Chianti to give our growing group of Italian food fanciers here some choice from the one good—but expensive — chianti now on sale.

And please, some white chianti. And some half-pint and smaller bottles so sadly missed here now for both home and restaurant consumption.

You'll notice we're suggesting true temperance drinks throughout—natural accompaniments to food which would cut down appetite here for drunk-promoting hard liquor if more people used them.

And we'd remind you, Mr. Bonner, of the time Mr. Gunderson tried to sell some B.C. apples in Germany, only to be asked, logically and unanswerably: — "Why don't you import our wines?"

Don't let it happen to you, Mr. Bonner.

Happy sipping.

Pay System Brings Speed

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Of the hundreds of men who have large transports along the Canadian highways there are some who are paid a fixed amount per mile, plus expenses for food and overnight lodging.

Herein is said to lie the explanation for some of the speed of trucks on the roads. Under this system of remuneration, the faster the driver completes his trip, the more money he is in pocket.

Until trucking companies change their system of payment for their drivers, police are going to be kept busy watching for traffic offenders and the highways are going to be kept more dangerous for other users.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

A Crank About Cleanliness

At what point does washing the hands cease to be a sanitary measure and become a compulsion or an obsession?

Do you always wash your hands before you eat? What sort of facilities for hand-washing does the restaurant you patronize provide for customers and/or employees? Does the health department police eating places?

From the conditions one sees when touring, it would seem that there are very few cranks about cleanliness. Typical of the facilities for cleanliness is a placard displayed in a rest room: "Common decency and the law require that you wash your hands before you leave this room to resume work." The room had a water faucet but no soap and no towel.

But then, a great many misguided people patronize eating places that have elaborate facilities for washing the hands. Such disregard for sanitation among these patrons no more than do files buzzing about and sharing the food with flies. The notion that about what the flies may have carried on their feet from the last place they visited. They have even less concern about what may have contaminated their hands since last washing.

For the sake of your own safety and health and for the safety and health of the public, it is your duty to march out of the lunch room or dining room, antiseptic.

Now, it is not a good sign to be too much interested in the germs and bacteria that are present in the world. Some people are positively morbid about the matter. Especially among women do we find those who are always washing their

Italian Police Guard Borders Of San Marino

By RICHARD EHRMAN

SAN MARINO (AP) — Italian police moved up tanks and armored cars to the blockaded border of this tiny republic today and a few Italian jets made quick passes over the country where two governments, Communist and anti-Communist, are disputing control.

A second Italian national police battalion also moved into the area from Florence. There was no official explanation of these moves.

"It's just routine fall manoeuvres," said one of the national police officers, with a grin.

But Domenico Morganti, interior minister of the Red government, said he wished Russia was "in a position to retaliate for this intimidation."

TOO FAR AWAY

"But unfortunately we have no airfield and sadly Russia is too far away," he said.

For the first time since Italy set up her blockade here ago, no food trucks were allowed to enter the country. Zaccaria Salvatori, one of the anti-Communist leaders, said he had word that the United States, Britain and France has recognized the new anti-Communist government.

Italy has recognized the anti-Communist regime set up Monday night and its blockading all roads leading into San Marino to keep out any Italian Communists.

Inside the 38 - square - mile mountain republic, the anti-Communist regime issued Second World War German machine pistols to guards around its headquarters in a former abandoned cigar factory near the Italian border.

A guard officer said the weapons came from hidden stores inside San Marino. He claimed the anti-Red forces have enough hidden arms to equip a division.

12 Indicted After News Stories Appear

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A series of newspaper articles exposing alleged irregularities in the Jefferson County police force brought indictments Wednesday against 12 persons—including the writer of the articles.

The grand jury indicted the writer's city editor, a former police chief and four suspended officers.

Barry Bingham, president of the Louisville Courier - Journal and Louisville Times, called charges of knowingly receiving stolen property in connection with two employees fantastic.

ALLEGEDLY STOLEN

The jury indicted writer Hank Messick and city editor John Herchenreder, accusing them of having in their possession a receipt allegedly stolen from former police chief Walter R. Layman.

Photographs of the receipt appeared in the Courier-Journal with the first of a series of articles by Messick, charging Layman "paid off" a robbery-assault victim to avoid possible criminal prosecution against his son, Walter R. Layman Jr. The chief resigned the next day.

Young Layman was indicted with three others on robbery charges growing from the March 13, 1956 assault of Dolph Skaggs, 20.

$100 PAYOFF

One of the indicted policemen, former detective ii. T. Gilmore, was accused of receiving a $100 payoff from Layman to Skaggs. The receipt pictured in the news story paper bore the signature of Skaggs and Gilmore.

Messick said in a published statement that he was given the receipt by two officers, that he turned it to the officer after it was photographed.

Bingham said the two newspaper men had "engaged in no activity except that of being good newspapers" fulfilling a community interest."

Hospital Plan Said Dangerous

HALIFAX (CP)—W. M. Mercer of Vancouver said Wednesday the federal government has proposed national hospital plan may be "politically disastrous" to some provinces.

Mr. Mercer, president of Canada's largest firm of consulting actuaries, spoke to a conference of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association industrial relations section.

He said he favors a "less comprehensive plan which would incorporate a strictly heavy deterrent charge to discourage excessive hospital utilization, and perhaps allow the provinces to control the cost."

Notables at Madoc Fair

External Affairs Minister Opens Splendid Madoc Fair In Riding Where He Will Run

MADOC (Staff)—Referring to the event as one of the more important occasions in the community, the annual Madoc fall fair yesterday was compared to the launching of a ship in attracting the attention of local residents.

The comparison was made yesterday by Dr. Sidney Smith, new Minister of External Affairs in the Diefenbaker Government, as he officially opened the annual Madoc fall fair.

The former president of Toronto University said that in his native province of Nova Scotia the launching of a ship was about the most important local event. In rural Ontario the annual fall fair took the spotlight.

"Here may we say God Bless this fair and may it serve well the people of the Madoc community."

The External Affairs Minister was introduced by Senator George S. White, Madoc, former, Progressive Conservative member for the Riding of Hastings-Frontenac for the past four terms.

GIVEN BIG OVATION

In his first public appearance since the resignation, of his seat and appointment to the Senate, Mr. White was given a big ovation by fair patrons as he took part in the fair opening.

"It's a pleasure to take part in the opening of my home town fair," he said.

He paid tribute to the late Sam Rollins who had taken a big part in establishing Madoc Fair, noting that Mr. Rollins would not see the fair opening the big crowd and many exhibits as being the fair which he helped establish years ago.

Members of the present fair board came in for congratulations for the splendid showing the fair is continuing success.

Fair president, Philo Harris extended an official welcome to the fair patrons, drawing to their attention the fine cattle and horse exhibits; the 4-H calf club show and the many other attractions.

Favored by excellent fall weather a near record crowd jammed its way into the fair grounds and saw a packed program which ended only as the autumn sun began to go behind the horizon.

There was a big cattle and horse show, three classes of harness racing, 4-H calf club, events, Red and White Ayrshire show, and a better than average display of garden and field products.

The afternoon platform program featuring versatile Tommy Mason of Buckhorn as master of ceremonies captured the interest of the midway crowd.

EMPHASIS ON JUNIORS

There was big emphasis on junior events at the fair with the public schools display taking up a big section of the agricultural building, as drawing, map making and writing exhibits attracted.

The domestic science section was particularly attractive as district women displayed their best pies, cakes and cookies. The display proved conclusively that in this day of heavy reliance on the frozen food locker that home baking is far from forgotten.

One of the best horse shows in the fair history also proved a big attraction for horse lovers. The jumping contest with Mrs. Marian Gawley of Deloro coming second and Mrs. Andrew White of L'Amable, third.

Cigar smoking Thomas Brant of the Mohawk Indian Reservation took top honors in step dancing with Mrs. Harry Ash, Madoc, Oscar Edgar of Lakefield, Alma M. Thompson of Northbrook and Mrs. Fare West of Madoc, also in the running.

In the boys' and girls' section Bonny West of Madoc was first; Reta Goodmurphy of Flinton, second, and Reginald Webber, Northbrook, third.

Professional entertainment was provided by the Jack Wilson Agency of Hamilton and included Janet Hannon as step dancer and baton twirler; Johnny Dash featuring a juggling and unicycle act and the Radium Raye, a roller skating act from Buffalo.

Madoc Municipal Band supplied music throughout the afternoon.

Adding to the attraction was an old time fiddling contest and a horse drawing contest.

Three classes of harness racing in which 20 horses were entered provided a full quota of racing fare.

Many Canadians Prefer to Rove And Rent Homes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadians are a roving bunch and many prefer to rent homes rather than own them, members of the Community Planning Association of Canada said at their annual conference Wednesday.

They said low-rental dwellings or row houses are the answer to the modern housing problem.

"We need to think more of low-rental housing because Canadians tend to move about the country," said Eugene Forsey, director of research for the Canadian Labor Congress.

"More attention should be paid to multi-family dwellings," said James Murray, editor of the Canadian Architect.

Stanley Pickett, the association's redevelopment director, said the ranch-type house has been Canada's individualism in house design.

"It's tragic that the ranch-type home is the same in Nanaimo, B.C., as it is in St. John's, Nfld."

Fear Civil War, Haitians Seek Visas to U.S.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) Hundreds of Haitians were clamoring for visas to the United States, fearing this Negro republic is at the brink of civil war.

Many even urge publicly that the U.S. Marines return to maintain order. The marines occupied Haiti from 1915 to 1934.

The ceaseless political warfare that has unseated six governments on this Caribbean island since November has nearly paralyzed the economy.

Tourist hotels are all but deserted. Many businessmen are trying to sell out and leave.

The military junta in power since last June hopes for quick economic aid from the United States. Business leaders see little hope from this quarter, however, in view of the political turbulence.

PRESIDENCY ISSUE

The presidential election Sept. 22 only made matters worse. Dr. Francois Duvalier won on the basis of unofficial returns. Former senator Louis Dejoie, the dedicated candidate, disputed the election and said: His backers vow blood will flow once more in Haiti if Duvalier takes over the presidency Oct. 14, as expected.

Dejoie's followers also have threatened to born Port au Prince if Duvalier is installed.

The junta has admitted its military measures have failed to halt the terror.

Red Penetration Of Buffalo Area 'Quite Extensive'

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A Buffalo police officer says Communist penetration of the Buffalo area is "quite extensive" and that his men have uncovered between 500 and 600 members of the party in the last five years.

Lieut. Winthrop Phelps, head of the Buffalo police subversive squad, made the statements Wednesday before a House of Representatives subcommittee on un-American activities.

Phelps was one of 12 persons to appear before the committee on the second day of hearings on Communist activities. Nine stood on their constitutional rights in refusing to testify about their past.

INFILTRATE GROUPS

Phelps testified that his men have uncovered Communist "colonizers" in 15 to 18 non-Communist organizations in the area.

"The organizations are those which are basically good," he said. He listed among now of the YMCA, the YWCA, the Parent-Teachers Association, the Federal Association for the Advancement of Colored People and several branches of political party groups.

He said the seriousness of the Communist operation was difficult to evaluate but it was "very well organized and underground."

But he added that "they (the Communists) have a power dangerous to the community."

The police chief said the Communist party colonizers "come into the organizations with instructions to become a part of the community."

CHANGE NAMES, RECORDS

Phelps said the colonizers "assume different names — even changing names of their families and assume new identities for social security cards and use these false social security cards."

In most cases, he said, they have college degrees but do not practice this when filling out applications for employment.

"Its efficient activities," Phelps said, "they become good, hard-working members of the community, quite to become officers or leaders. They spread as much as possible doctrine as they can without arousing suspicion."

Earlier, Charles Regan of Buffalo said he had spent 10 years in the Communist party as an undercover agent for the FBI, named a long list of Buffalo area people he said he had known as Communists between 1943 and 1953.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

We are pleased to report that two more Foxboro Cubs have qualified to be members of the exclusive "13" Cub Club. Now that Cubs can go up to Scouts at 11, winning Tuft holds in key industries by buying up shares was opposed by many speakers who demanded a program of outright nationalization. However, the plan was passed 3,269,000 to 1,276,000, with each delegate casting votes on behalf of all the members of his union or local party organization.

Party leader Hugh Gaitskell stirred conference debate for the first time to guide party moderates to a clear-cut victory.

TO BUY UP SHARES

The scheme would have the state buy shares in a number of private industries without necessarily exercising direct control.

Some of the most prominent names of the present Labor movement — Herbert Morrison, Jennie Lee and Aneurin Bevan — rallied at the party leaders for their "modern nationalization" plan. They had the major trade unions supported the plan.

Gaitskell told the conference it is for "complete nonsense" to say the new policy is some form of socialism as a substitute for nationalization.

"We believe that through public ownership and control we can achieve greater productivity," Gaitskell said.

NO "SHOPPING LIST"

He repeated a pledge that the party, if elected, would re-nationalize the steel and road transport industries. But he rejected the pleas from some delegates that the party now should draw up a "shopping list" of other industries to be brought under state ownership.

He said he didn't regard nationalization as an end in itself. Equality and security for the future was more important. Socialism must not "be frightened by new ideas."

Morrison, former deputy leader and foreign minister, said the new policy is "too clever by half."

"It's trying to please so many wings of the party that it will itself have no wings to fly."

British Labor Backs Plan To Buy Industrial Shares

BRIGHTON, England (CP) — The Labor party conference, dismissing pleas from hold-the-line socialists, put its seal of approval Wednesday on a controversial new policy of public ownership.

The plan to gain state footholds in key industries by buying up shares was opposed by many speakers who demanded a program of outright nationalization.

However, the plan was passed 3,269,000 to 1,276,000, with each delegate casting votes on behalf of all the members of his union or local party organization.

Quinte Gridders Defeat Picton Seniors, Juniors

By ALLAN SILLS

Quinte Saints and Little Saints gridders took ends of a doubleheader with Picton in a Bay of Quinte District Senior and Junior A Thursday fixture for their second straight win respectively on Wednesday. Both squads were undefeated so far this season.

In the opening game the Little Saints defeated Picton Juniors 35-7. Following a 14-7 first half lead, Quinte scored three unanswered touchdowns by Fitzpatrick with Lino and Green each booting a convert. Picton also booted a convert while Fowell picked up one touch.

Quinte's points in the first half were scored by Locke with a run and by Fowell. Stewart with a T.D. and Denyes with a convert. Picton's only score came in the first half by Storms with Windate picking up the convert. Fuller, Hamilton and Aiselstine stood out in Quinte's defence.

In the second game Quinte rolled to an easy 33-0 victory over Picton Seniors. The Saints dominated by Locke with a run, followed by Aquino and one by Superintendent Garrison picked up the remaining two points for two rouges and a convert.

Following a slow start in the second half, Quinte scored two T.D's on a six yard plunge by Aquino and a 40 yard spectacular ninety-seven yard run by Aquino. During this period Picton seldom continually carried the play into deep Quinte territory, but a stubborn Quinte defence always held them scoreless.

Superb defensive play by Jamieson, Garrison, McGurn and Green contributed to this factor.

Friends Mark 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Goodman, 111 West Bridge Street, were honored at a surprise party Saturday evening in the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

About 35 friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bird, Sidney Street, to offer their congratulations and best wishes.

A corsage was presented to Mrs. Goodman and to her daughter and a boutonniere to Mr. Goodman.

After an address read by Mrs. Arthur Boldrick, describing the couples' 25 years of married life, toasts were made and many lovely gifts received.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodman's son, John, showed colored slides of his trip to England the recent Boy Scout Jamboree.

Kum-Double Club Discusses Future Events

On Wednesday evening the Halloway Kum-Double Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Wellman, with a good attendance.

The worship period was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend, who chose as their theme, "Loyalty to the Living Word." Hymns were offered by Miss Bessie McMullen.

Mr. John Bolton gave the Scripture reading, taken from Mark 9: 14-24. The meditation was given by Mr. Roscoe Rodgers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson took charge of the business part of the meeting. Guest speakers were discussed for future meetings. A motion was carried to remember the sick with flowers. The annual church service was discussed and committees were appointed to take care of a guest speaker and music.

It was also decided that during late November the club could have some "Come As You Are" parties, in order to raise some money.

An article by Padre W. A. Young, "If You Ask Me Things Come — To Pass," was given by Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

Mr. Harry McMullen offered a poem, "The Human Touch."

Mrs. Townsend led the group in some contests, following which a social time was enjoyed.

Grand Old Lady Reaches 83rd Milestone

Mrs. Elda Boyd, 25 E. Moira Street, celebrated her 83rd birthday last Monday, and was 'at home' to friends and relatives.

Mrs. Boyd still enjoys good health and does the chores about the house regularly each day. She enjoys preparing meals and on her birthday served a chicken dinner, which she prepared herself.

Guests at dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Asa Boyd, Belleville.

Friends and relatives have also been calling during the week, offering their congratulations and best wishes and enjoying a cup of tea and a piece of her delicious birthday cake.

Mrs. Boyd has also been the recipient of many gifts of candy and cards from far and near.

MacKINNON — WHITTAKER

White baskets of pink and white gladioli, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville, on Saturday, September 7, at 3:00 p.m., when the Reverend Sackville Palmer, pastor of the Tabernacle, assisted by the Reverend A. G. Harris, of Kinmardine, Ontario, uncle of the bridegroom, united in marriage June Maud Whittaker, of Belleville, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry (Henry) Whittaker, to Ronald Paul MacKinnon, of Lakeview, Ontario, son of Mrs. H. S. (Margaret) MacKinnon, and the late Mr. MacKinnon.

The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. A. B. Pickard, Tabernacle organist, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Jim MacKay, of Carrying Place, as he sang "A Wedding Prayer" before the ceremony, "Let Them Burn Out for Thee" during the dedication, and "Together Life's Pathway We Tread," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. H. H. Whittaker, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net over taffeta fashioned in floor-length with fitted, strapless bodice having a scalloped bateau neckline and matching lace bolero, with sheath-like sleeves "v"-pointed over the wrists. The double-tier net skirt fell in graceful folds over taffeta. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet headdress encrusted with sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Eleanor Baragar, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, formerly of this city, attended the bride, as maid of honor, gowned in pink net over taffeta in ballerina-length, with matching bolero.

Miss Agnes Johanna MacKinnon, of Lakeview, Ontario, sister of the bridegroom, was senior bridesmaid, wearing blue net over taffeta in ballerina length with matching bolero, and Miss Georgina Whittaker of Belleville, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, was in ankle-length yellow net over taffeta. The gowns were fashioned on similar lines, with back streamers cascading to the hemlines. They were watching velvet headdresses, white gloves and shoes. The maid of honor carried a semi-cascade of blue and white carnations; the senior bridesmaid pink and white carnations in semi-cascade style, and the junior bridesmaid mauve and white carnations, also in semi-cascade style.

Little Margaret Baldasio, of Toronto, as flower girl, cousin of the bridegroom, in her green net over taffeta was sweet with matching headdress and carrying a basquette of yellow baby mums.

Master Joe Baldasio, of Toronto, brother of the flower girl, and cousin of the bridegroom, was natty in white jacket and dark trousers, with white boutonnieres, carried the wedding ring on its white, velvet cushion.

Mr. William H. MacKinnon, of Lakeview, Ontario, attended his brother as groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Harry (Bill) Whittaker, of Belleville, brother of the bride and Mr Harold Winfrey, of Lakeview, Ontario, were ushers. The male attendants were in white tuxedo jackets with dark trousers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Victoria Ave. Baptist Church, Belleville, where Miss Eleanor Baragar again favored with a solo, "Saviour, Like a Shepherd, Lead Them." During the toast to the bride, proposed by Paul Delaney, of Port Perry, Mr. Jim MacKay sang "To My Bride," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Pickard, who also accompanied Miss Baragar.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked by the bridal bouquets.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who was gowned in a two-piece mauve linen ensemble, with white accessories, and mauve hat, with corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother, assisted, wearing honey-colored lace over taffeta with matching nylon cummerbund, mauve accessories and yellow rose corsage.

For travelling to Georgian Bay, Owen Sound, Midland and Collingwood the bride chose navy blue duster ensemble, powder blue accessories and pink Sweetheart rose corsage.

Guests were present from Belleville, Toronto, Lakeview, Picton, Peterborough, Port Perry, Kincardine, Alderwood, New Toronto and Moose Jaw, Sask.

Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon are residing at the Canadian Bible College of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Regina, Sask. This is the graduating year for the young couple.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was feted by a shower held at the Bible College at the end of the school year by her fellow students, faculty and staff. Also by a shower held at the home of Mrs. Elsie Pikes, Lakeview, Ontario, and by a shower held by the bridegroom's mother, at her home in Lakeview, and at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Roy Anderson, in Belleville, by the members and friends of the Alliance Tabernacle.

WEDDINGS

GREEN — BADGLEY

TWEED—The Christian Youth Centre, Kingston, was decorated with standards of white gladioli, mauve and yellow 'mums, for the marriage of Doris Elizabeth, only daughter of Mrs. Percy Badgley, of Napanee, and the late Mr. Badgley, to James Frederick Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. H. Green, of Cornwall, on Saturday afternoon, September 7th. The Rev. D. Cairn officiated.

Mrs. Charles Leach presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Capt. Shirley Clarke of the Salvation Army, Hamilton, who sang, "O Perfect Love" at the beginning of the ceremony; during the offertory, "The Bride and Groom's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "May the Mind of Christ, Their Saviour."

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Charles Leach, director of the Christian Youth Centre, wore a beautiful gown of Chantilly lace over nylon net and taffeta, with fitted bodice, yoke of net embroidered with seed pearls and rhinestones, with Peter Pan collar. The fingertip veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a white Bible crested with New Dawn roses, and purple and white heather sent from Scotland.

Her attendants included Mrs. Glen Thompson, of Toronto, as matron of honor; little Miss Wendy Lee Thom, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl, and Mark Alton, as ring-bearer. The matron of honor was gowned in a ballerina-length creation of pale green crystalette, matching green net bonnet, and carried a posegay of mauve and yellow 'mums. The flower girl was in mauve nylon with mauve net bandeau and mittens, and carried a white satin basket trimmed with mauve ribbon bows and yellow pons.

Mr. James Clemens of London, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Mr. Walter Leaman, London, and Mr. Glen Thompson, Toronto.

The reception, following the ceremony, was held in the County Memorial Building, Napanee, with Mrs. Badgley receiving the guests in a gown of rosewood lace and crepe with navy accessories and corsage of blue carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, gowned in wine silk velvet, with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. The 70 guests were served dinner by members of the Napanee and district Women's Institute, following which the guests were favored with two numbers by the Child Evangelism staff trio, The Wedding Song" and "Living for Jesus," as well as a violin solo by Mr. William Kennedy, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Leach.

For the wedding trip to the Kawartha Lakes district, the bride chose a dusty rose shantung suit, a blue Harris tweed top coat, and corsage of pink carnations.

The young couple are now making their home at 741 Lorne Avenue, London, Ontario, while the bridegroom is a student at the London Bible Institute.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Vancouver, Peterborough, London, Picton, Colborne, Belleville, Foxboro, Thomasburg, Melrose and Cornwall.

The bride is well-known in Tweed, having attended school here. She is a graduate of Kingston General Hospital School of Nursing and has been actively engaged in the work of the Christian Youth Centre for the past few years.

FUREVIS — VANCE

TWEED — St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin, beautifully decorated with baskets of summer flowers and autumn leaves was the scene of an early fall wedding on Saturday, September 14th, at 11 a.m. when Grace Joan Vance, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vance, of Roslin, was united in marriage to S. Lt. Alfred Alexander Furevis, B. Sc. (RCN Cons.) son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Furvis, of Marlbank. The rector, Rev. Dalton Woodward, officiated.

Mrs. J. Thompson, of Roslin, organist, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Earl Gray, Plainfield, who sang "I'll Walk Beside You," before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in an ankle-length gown of white tulle illusion over taffeta. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a crown, encrusted with seed pearls, sequins and tiny rhinestones. She carried a white Bible crested with a spray of red Sweetheart rosebuds.

Mrs. Vernon Flindall, Belleville, the bridegroom's sister, was matron of honor. Miss Helen Sayers, of Roslin, and Miss Jean Preston, of Thomasburg, were bridesmaids attired in gowns of white nylon over cyelet over yellow, mauve and green taffeta, respectively, and carried bouquets of yellow 'mums and roses.

Mr. James Purvis, of Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. The ushers were: Mr. Michael Moffatt, of Tweed and Toronto, and Mr. Raymond Thompson, of Roslin.

Following the ceremony 75 guests attended a reception in the church hall. The bride's table was festive with its three-tier wedding cake topped with pink tapers, sweetheart roses and bridal bouquets.

The bride's mother received the guests in a gown of charcoal grey with blue accessories, and corsage of tinted blue 'mums. She was assisted by Mrs. Purvis in cinnamon brown with rose accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Montreal and Ottawa, the bride donned a princess style gown in aqua shade, with rose accessories and corsage of pink carnations. The couple later left for Boston via the Adirondacks, where the bridegroom will continue his studies at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, toward a Naval Engineering degree in architecture.

The bride graduated from the Belleville General Hospital School of Nursing with high honors last June.

The bridegroom and bridegroom are graduates of Tweed High School.

Christ Church Contact Club Completes Layettes

The regular Monday night gathering of the Contact Club took the form of a work meeting during which layettes were completed.

A short business session followed with the vice-president, Helen McCormick, presiding.

An appeal was made for furniture to outfit the Sunday nursery room and anything suitable for that purpose will be thankfully accepted, such as small beds or cribs and high chairs.

A motion was carried to set aside a small amount to purchase cloth for the nursery needs. It was voted to send four layettes to the Bishop of Moosonee, for distribution in their respective dioceses.

Members were reminded of this week's rummage sale and that next week will be a work meeting, when articles will be started for the Moose Factory Christmas parcel. Ideas will be appreciated for this effort.

The hostesses were Marjory Bunnett, Margaret Niles and Mary Fletcher.

Gamma Mu Holds Dessert Bridge Party

A most successful dessert bridge was held last Thursday evening at the Club Commodore when members of Gamma Mu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held their third annual social event. It was convened by Mrs. C. James, who was assisted by 14 fellow members.

The guests were greeted by the president, Mrs. J. MacDonald, honorary member; Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, cultural director; Mrs. A. Wednendorp, and Mrs. V. White, social sponsor.

Following the evening's bridge, coffee and home baked pies were served as the prizes were awarded.

Successful winners were as follows: 1st grand slam, Mrs. C. Miller; hidden score of 1500, Mrs. R. Chipman and Marion Armstrong; high women's score, Mrs. Allie McBride; high men's score, W. McCormick; low women's score, Eileen Bunter; low men's score, R. Finlayson; 2nd high women's score, Mrs. E. Ross; 2nd high men's, K. Ross; 3rd high women's, Caroline Bennett.

Door prizes: Dr. J. Nelles, Mr. W. Cochrane, Mr. Sid Ross, Mrs. Carol Golden, Mrs. Miriam Bishop, Mrs. Ethel Adams, Mrs. P. Hill, Mrs. D. MacLean.

Dorothy MacKinnon made the draw on the raffle for a pair of driftwood lamps. The lucky winner was Mrs. Lillian Magilvray of Trenton.

On Monday evening chapter members attended the meeting of the National Ballet Guild and listened to a most interesting talk by Miss Celia Franca. Following the meeting, the girls adjourned to the home of Mrs. D. Boyce, Cherry Garden, for a short business meeting.

Mrs. J. Dedrickson presented Mrs. W. Huntakine with a parting gift from the chapter and Mrs. Huntakine left to move to a new location in Manitoba.

Committee reports were given and suggestions were made for the improvement of the bridge party next year.

The president thanked the members for the fine teamwork shown in the planning of the bridge.

Mrs. D. Boyce and Mrs. W. Cochrane served refreshments.

Holloway St. W.A.E.G. Holds Work Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Evening Group of the W.A. of Holloway Street United Church met on the evening of September 26th, at the church.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Harold Hutt, and a short business meeting was conducted.

Mrs. Mern Richardson and her group took charge of the worship service and following that, the business took place by which all participated.

During the course of the evening, delicious coffee and coffee-cake were served by Mern Richardson and her group.

Thanks were extended to all who attended and helped make this evening a success.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

POOR POSTURE SPOILS A LOVELY BACK

Bundles carried in one arm ruin posture; evenly distributed, they prevent sagging shoulders.

With the Fall season now under way and most women beginning to think of the formals they bypassed all summer, it's time to start thinking about backs. And far better to start thinking now than to wait until the night you plan to attend your first Fall dinner dance and, at the last moment, realize how poorly your back shaper up.

Actually, most of us forget we have backs and many of them look it too. Posture is the all-important thing when it comes to back beauty. Secretaries and clerical workers who slouch over desks and shorthand books, and homemakers who continually carry all their groceries home on the same arm are faced with what you might call an occupational hazard. It's poor posture. The office worker gets round-shouldered and the housewife has a sagging shoulder.

Both difficulties can be avoided. The office worker must remind herself to sit up straight when taking dictation or working at her desk, and the homemaker must remember to have her groceries divided into two equal-sized bundles and their weight will be properly distributed between both arms and shoulders.

Poor skin also poses a back problem. Backs too seldom get the good scrubbing they need and, as a result, skin develops blemishes and blackheads. Get a long-handled bath brush and use it when you bathe or shower. If skin's oily, follow up by using an astringent. If it's dry, use a lanolin-base cream for lubrication.

It's a good rule, too, when wearing a low-backed dress, to cover up skin with a pancake foundation. Use the same foundation that gives your face such a smooth, pretty finish.

Sweet Yeast Rolls Are Easy

By Mary Moore

Believe it or not we have been doing so much cooking and baking and meal preparing in this house that the recipes are not going to see the light of day because there just is not room in one daily column.

Italian Spaghetti with Meat Sauce (see ideas in Saturday); Waldorf Salad (celery, Red apple with skin on and walnuts); Fresh Fruits; Jelly Roll (see Friday); Coffee.

Imagine me making 2 dozen Honey Nut Rolls and not blowing a mouse horn about it! Further more I made Cinnamon Twists that should not be ignored. What I should be announcing are some preliminaries for Thanksgiving Dinner and the Queen's visit but they will both have to wait until next week (digging your pardon Your Majesty!).

I looked everybody square in the eyes and asked "Do you object to the flour being half and half whole wheat and white?" All my beloved critics soberly shook their heads and said "No Mum, the rolls are perfect."

So, are you willing to abide by Pete's, Marianne's, Herbie's and Danny's decision? and there's Gary too and ole me. If so try Honey Nut Rolls.

In a large mixing bowl measure ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1 package granular yeast. Do not stir. In a saucepan scald 1 cup milk and remove from heat and add 1/3 cup lightly packed brown sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, and 1/3 cup shortening. Cool this to lukewarm. Meanwhile sift all-purpose flour and measure 2 cups of it and 2 cups whole wheat flour and combine them. Add the milk-sugar mixture to the yeast mixture when it is lukewarm. Stir. Add half the flours, stir very well. Add remaining flours and mix in then turn out on wholewheat flour sprinkled board and knead until smooth and squeaky — about 60 or 75 punches. Return to mixing bowl, brush top with melted butter or shortening, cover and let rise until more than doubled. Punch down turn out on lightly floured board, divide into 2 equal parts and form each into a 12-inch roll. Cut each into 12 equal pieces and form into 24 smooth balls and place in prepared pans.

HONEY SYRUP:

Combine 1/3 cup lightly packed brown sugar and 2/3 cup liquid honey with 4 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Spread ¼ in each of 2 8-inch square pans. Arrange in 1 pan ½ cup broken or whole walnuts or pecans; in the other sprinkle ½ cup sesame seeds. Place prepared rolls over nuts and seeds, brush tops with melted butter or margarine. Cover and let rise until doubled and just above pan edges. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 25 to 30 minutes but do not burn. Invert pans at once, let stand over buns for 2 or 3 minutes, then lift pan off.

CINNAMON TWISTS:

Use exactly same dough and proceed up to "divide dough into 2 equal parts", Roll out into 2 12-inch squares. Brush with melted butter. Mix together 1 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon cinnamon. Sprinkle center third of each square with 3 tablespoons. Fold over one side only. Brush with butter, sprinkle with 3 tablespoons sugar-mix. Fold remaining third over and seal. Cut into 12 1-inch wide strips. Twist each lightly in opposite directions. Let rise until doubled on greased sheets, sprinkle with remaining mix and bake at 350 deg. 20 minutes. Same seeds may be added to sugar-mix.

Club Activities

HARMONY CLUB

MARCH HILL — The September meeting of the March Hill Harmony Club was held on Friday night at the school house with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clare as host and hostess.

The president, Mrs. Harry Coulter, opened the meeting.

During the business it was decided to serve lunches on "Corn Land Day," which is being held October 23 at the farm of Mr. Harry Coulter.

The Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Darke were in charge of the program, which they opened with the hymn, "Come Ye Thankful People Come," and prayer.

A reading, "A Sensible Boy," by Freddie Darke; Jimmie Churchill told of his trip to England where he had attended the Scout Jamboree which was held recently. Everyone enjoyed the descriptive and informative talk.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pinkle were in charge of recreation.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a composite of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. F.M. — Sylvia will be left on the shelf.

Sylvia M. — Dances are stupid and dates are rotten!

Mrs. F.M. — Unlike that of most mothers of 16-year-old girls my problem is my daughter takes no interest at all in boys. Sylvia is attractive and has many girl friends, but as soon as the boys come around she walks away.

I have tried to explain to her she must get used to being in the company of boys, but I haven't been able to make much headway. She says the boys are stupid and babyish and she can't talk to them. I tell her this is no attitude to take and she'll find herself on the shelf one of these days.

I have asked some of Sylvia's friends to arrange dates for her, but she refused to go on them once the boys called. She wasn't invited to one of the school dances recently, so I had her father bring her and call for her. She said nobody asked her to dance and she hid in the lounge all evening. What can I do for her?

Sylvia M. — I don't care what anyone says. Those boys at school really are stupid and babyish. I used to enjoy being with my girl friends, but now when the boys come around, the girls start acting as silly and stupid as the boys and I hate to be with any of them.

Mother has embarrassed me so in front of all my friends, and even the whole school, I wish I could die. My friends all pity me and look at me as if I was a freak or something. When Mother made me go to that dance, the boys all looked at me as if I had escaped from the booby hatch. Who ever heard of a girl going to a dance without an escort!

I don't care if I get left on the shelf! I don't care if I become an old maid! I'm not going to act like an idiot just to make boys like me and take me out! Dances are stupid and dates are rotten! I have the best times when I'm by myself.

The Council: Mrs. F.M. asks what she can do for Sylvia, but she should ask first what she can do for herself in order to help Sylvia.

The answer is she should first get over the notion that her daughter's life must follow a set pattern and schedule; secondly, she should get over the notion that courtship and marriage are institutions set up for the purpose of saving girls from "the shelf"; and thirdly, she should recognize her daughter is a human being with feelings and a right to dignity and self-respect.

Mrs. F.M. has approached her daughter's problems in the spirit of a person who tears open a rosebud in order to make it into a full-blown rose.

She has brutally humiliated Sylvia in front of her friends and frightened the girl into a panic with her threats of being "left on the shelf." Nowhere does Mrs. F.M. indicate she believes social relationships involving both sexes are fun, that they are a new, more grownup form of play.

Sylvia is a little slow in developing an active interest in boys as such, but she probably has many interests which would bring her into contact with boys in a simple, natural way. She should be encouraged to exercise her abilities in music, hobbies, anything that would distract her from her self-consciousness.

Mrs. F.M. should cease stressing the boy problem. If Sylvia is left free from fear and humiliation, and allowed to develop as a person, she will find her way to happier relationships with boys and girls.

GOOD MANNERS

— MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: TELLING YOUR OWN COURTESY STORY

Every time you do or say anything that expresses your consideration for other people, you are adding a shining sentence to the story of your good manners!

SHOULD FIANCE'S MOTHER MAKE ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have looked through our local newspapers for several weeks, but I haven't come across a situation like the one with which I am faced. My son has become engaged, and I am at my wit's end as to how to announce it properly. My son's father and I were divorced, and we both have remarried. My son goes under his father's name, of course, but my name is now different. Please advise me. — Reader

The reason why you have not found in the newspapers an engagement announcement made by the engaged man's parents or parents is that correctly the engagement is announced by the parents of the engaged girl. It is not your responsibility or right to announce your son's engagement. If your son's fiancee lives out of town, her parents, when they send the formal announcement of the engagement to their local newspapers, also should send the announcement to your son's city newspapers. If they don't do this within a reasonable time, ask your son if he wishes to have the announcement printed in his local newspapers.

If it is the name-forms that puzzle you, this is the correct form, for example: ". . . to Mr. John Ross, son of Mrs. Arthur Thompson, of this city, and Mr. Robert Alan Ross, of Hartsville, Manitoba."

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

WELLINGTON — The regular meeting of St. Andrew's W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Matthews and Mrs. R. Cronk on the evening of September 24th. It was opened with a special prayer by the president, Mrs. Godfrey Upton, and the reading of the Gospel for the 16th Sunday after Trinity by Mrs. William Davern.

A business meeting followed. There were ten members present.

Mrs. S. Tripp reported the G.A.'s held their election of officers on September 27th and Mrs. Cronk reported the work of the J. A.'s.

Mrs. Collier brought an interesting letter from the prayer partner, Mrs. Purvis of Lytton Indian Schol. The president brought up the matter of church calendars and all are requested to try to have a calendar in every Anglican home. The Extra-Cent-a-Day treasurer asked for more support in their project. After discussion the matter was shelved until the October meeting. The members signed a special card for Mrs. Mary Hutchinson, and the pastor made a few remarks about the necessity of each organization working for the glory of God.

After the meeting closed an enjoyable half hour was spent.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

WELLINGTON — Mrs. H. Gerson was hostess for the September meeting of the United Church W.A. Mrs. Ezra Maybee played quiet music. The president read "God, the Potter." A gracious welcome was extended to the members and visitors by Mrs. Pierson.

Mrs. Fleming gave the treasurer's report. Eight house calls and two hospital calls were also reported.

The Secretary of Christian Stewardship told of the five principles emerging from Jesus' teaching on the stewardship of money.

The Christian Education and Youth Work sponsor, Mrs. C. Cleave, spoke of the need for ladies in C.G.I.T. A meeting was to be held at the parsonage the evening of the 26th.

An invitation from Bowerman's' W.A. was read and accepted to attend a tea at Allisonville Hall, October 9th at 2 p.m.

It was unanimously agreed to make a fall canvass for funds instead of having a supper, and canvassers were appointed. The ladies were asked to save Betty Crocker box tops for the Evening Auxiliary.

Group One, with Mrs. Douglas Tayler conducting, presented the program. Mrs. Arnold Foster read the 23rd Psalm; Mrs. Tayler spoke of this as perhaps the best known and loved Psalm. It expresses David's confidence in God's grace, and His loving care throughout life and into the beyond.

The Worship Service was closed with prayer.

Mrs. W. Teskey read some thought-provoking letters from a Reader's Digest article, "Children Can be Taught Life." They were entitled, "It's Plain Thievery," "Chalk This One Up," "Bursting With Pride," and "Not a Sparrow Shall Fall."

Miss June Pierson delighted all with a piano solo, and Mrs. C. Cleave read a humorous selection, "Soft Water."

Mrs. B. C. Bishop expressed the thanks of the ladies to Mrs. Pierson for her hospitality. Mrs. Pearson invited the organization to the parsonage for the October meeting.

Refreshments were served by the group in charge.

MOIRA W.A.

MOIRA — The Women's Association of Moira met at the home of Mrs. Ross Ketcheson on Thursday with a good attendance.

The president opened the meeting.

Report of Sale Barn and other business was discussed.

A reading by Mrs. J. Thompson; duet by Mrs. Angus and Mrs. David Mumby; reading by Mrs. F. Emerson, "Harvest Crown"; reading by Mrs. C. Vandewater, "She Saw Heaven"; reading by Mrs. Milton Vandewalter.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and helpers.

C.W.I.

DESERONTO — The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held at the home of Mrs. Ernie Dorey, with 17 members present.

Mrs. Joe Roach gave the treasurer's report in absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Gaulin.

A vote of thanks was moved by Miss A. Martin to Mrs. G. Egan in appreciation of her work.

A rummage sale is to be held on October 5th, and the annual bazaar on November 6th.

Mrs. Alex Therrien offered her home for the next meeting in October.

Mrs. E. Roach adjourned the meeting, after which refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Dorey.

Women's Institutes

MOIRA W.I.

MOIRA — The Moira W. I. meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clayton Vandewater with an attendance of ten members and two visitors.

The president, Mrs. W. Collins, opened the meeting by singing the opening Ode.

Some letters were read by the secretary and business discussed, and some birthday money paid to the flower fund.

The program which was given by Mrs. W. Collins, was prepared by the conveners, Mrs. G. Foster and Mrs. D. Holbert, who were unable to be present. A solo by Mrs. Angus Mumby, accompanied by Mrs. Lorne Mumby, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere"; reading by Mrs. K. M. Thompson.

Topic by Mrs. Gil Thompson, "Chicken Raising and Their Profits."

Readings by Mrs. K. S. Thompson, two musical selections by Mrs. Lorne Mumby, a reading by Mrs. Collins, "Pickling Season."

After the meeting was closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held at night at the home of Mrs. Don Holbert.

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

ALBURY — The September meeting of the Rednersville W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Green on Thursday evening with around 40 in attendance. The president, Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, opened the meeting.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Hubert Townsend as pianist.

Mrs. Montgomery thanked Mrs. Benford Peck for putting up the exhibit for the Institute at Picton Fair and Mrs. Townsend for bringing it home.

Mrs. Ray Higgins took charge of the meeting on Canadian Industries, which proved to be an interesting meeting. Mrs. MacKay and Ruth Dempsey gave a piano duet; Mrs. Hugh Weese a reading on Nylon; Joan Onderdonk a piano instrumental.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Higgins introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Punchard, of the Northern Electric, Belleville, who showed an interesting film and gave a short talk which everyone enjoyed.

Mrs. Allan Weese thanked the speaker and those who helped with the program.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Green by Mrs. Riner Young for opening her home for the meeting.

Refreshments were served.

Steel Worker Found Guilty of Common Assault

MONTREAL (CP) — Steel worker Johnny Montour, 29, was found guilty Wednesday of common assault after standing trial on a charge of attempted rape. Sentence will be passed Friday.

Montour, resident of the Caughnawaga Indian reserve, had been charged following a complaint by Mrs. Jean Gates, a nurse.

A police witness ill with flu nearly caused a delay in the case.

STATEMENT GIVEN

The missing policeman, detective Roch Dandoneau, was one of two witnesses to a statement allegedly made by Montour while in custody. It was signed by the accused, and said he sought to have improper relations with Mrs. Jean Gates, 28, of Montreal last June when he drove her and two nursing companions from Plattsburgh, N.Y., to Chateauguay.

The statement was read by Detective-Sgt. Edgar Anderson, who said he and Dandoneau witnessed the signing of the statement by Montour. With the agreement of the defence the case proceeded without Dandoneau's confirmation of the signature.

NURSE'S EVIDENCE

Mrs. Gates told the court that Montour took hold of her twice after he told her he wanted to be paid for the free ride he had given her and her friends.

The women finally got free and one — Mirelle Levesque, 20, of Val d'Or, Que. — tried to swim for help in the St. Lawrence River. She drowned, but Montour was acquitted of a charge of murder in connection with the death.

Will Probe Death

CORNWALL (CP) — The labor department has announced it will investigate the death of a laborer, run over and killed Wednesday apparently by one of the dump trucks he was directing to an unloading area.

Charles Wood, 48, was a mid-night-to-8 a.m. shift worker in a material disposal yard on the waterfront at New Iroquois. His body was found by a tractor operator.

Wood is survived by his wife and two children at Hallville, 45 miles northwest of Cornwall.

RUNS AWAY AT 89

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — A 89-year-old man who told police he decided to run away from home" was found Tuesday in rugged mountain country. Police said John Siter told them he left his home because he was "tired of life's routine." He told relatives he was going mushroom hunting when he walked out of the house, wearing a double set of clothing, including two top coats.

Workers Will Receive Money Paid for Bonds

OTTAWA (CP)—The finance department Wednesday said employees of Chatco Limited, Tilsury, will receive the $24,000 in Canada Savings Bonds they purchased this year under the payroll deduction plan.

The department was commenting on a report that $24,000 collected for bonds was placed in the company's general fund. Chatco Steel went into receivership last week.

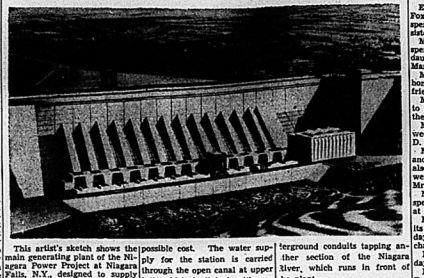
The finance department said the Financial Administration Act stipulates that where a purchaser of a bond makes payment by payroll deduction the amount of deductions not accounted for by the delivery of securities to the purchaser is deemed money received in trust for the Crown by the employer, for which he is accountable to the Crown.

In cases of bankruptcy, where money deducted cannot be identified among the assets of the employer, a portion of the assets equal to the value of the deductions is deemed to be segregated and held in trust for the Crown.

"In short, any purchaser under the payroll savings plan has ironclad protection."

Flu Epidemic Has Arrived In New York

NEW YORK (CP) — City officials say the expected Asian flu epidemic has arrived in New York, but thus far is mild and no cause for alarm.



Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, acting health commissioner, said Wednesday:

"The long-awaited epidemic of Asian flue has arrived . . . The disease is behaving as anticipated. It is mild, the fever lasting about 48 hours. Many who have been stricken already have recovered."

Dr. William Jansen, superintendent of schools, estimated that "as high as 20 per cent of our 940,000 pupils are out . . . The proportion of our 37,000 teachers is more than eight per cent."

Kandle said 30 cases of Asian flu have been verified in a sampling from a group of 360 persons suspected of having the disease.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was wishing I was doing something elts instead of my homework, and I said, Aw, these darn arithmetic problems are a cintch. I could do them with one hand behind my back.

That's too bad, pop said, and I said, Well G, pop why?

Because the things you do without effort are done without benefit, pop said. When you're not using either your brains or your mussels, you are not progressing either finically or mentally. As I wont get anywhere by making Confucius says. The man who stands still is soon slipping down hill, he said, and ma said, For lized sakes yes, if you try to go through the werld without thinking, you'll end up without a thought in the werld.

And after a while pop said, for Pete sake, Benny, are you asleep?

No sir, I said, and he said, Well I've been watching you for a full minute and you haven't opened your eyes once.

That's because I'm doing what you said and trying to put a little effort in these easy problems by doing them with my eyes closed, I said. I'm trying to make them harder, I said, and pop said, You them impossible.

Well then can I reed my comic book till I get sleepy, and then do the problems? I said. Anything is hard when you're sleepy, I said, and pop said, That's a thought. You're at your most sleepy when you wake up in the morning, so I'll wake you up a half hour early and you can do the problems while your eyes are still only half open, he said.

Aw G, pop, heck, no, I'll do them now just naturel, I said.

Which I did feeling partly lucky.

Gordon, Hees To Talk Over Strike Threat

OTTAWA (CP)—C.N.R. President Donald Gordon and Transport Minister Hees today were to talk over a threatened walkout strike on the CNR-operated Newfoundland steamship service.

The transport minister said Wednesday he had "no specific proposals to make" to avert the strike called for Oct. 15 by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees CLC.

In Montreal the CNR announced Wednesday it had accepted an offer, made Tuesday by Labor Minister Starr, to talk over the scheduled strike. However, the statement indicated the CNR had little hope of progress.

The 16 vessels of the Newfoundland service provide the main link between the island and the mainland and the only scheduled service around the island coast.

A conciliation board's majority report, accepted by the CNR and rejected by the union, recommended a 15-per-cent wage increase for unlicensed crew and 10-per-cent boosts for deck officers and others, as well as a 20-cent-a-day CNR contribution to a health and welfare plan.

4th SIDNEY

Frances Tucker Heads 'Cereal Shelf' Club

4th SIDNEY — The first meeting of the Wallbridge 4-H Club, "The Central Shelf," was held in the home of the leader, Mrs. Frank Tucker.

The meeting opened with the election of officers: president, Frances Tucker; vice-president, Anna Gray; secretary, Anncie Seeley; treasurer, Nancy Evans; press reporter, Anna Gray.

A name for the club was discussed and will be decided at the next meeting. It was decided to hold the meetings on Saturday afternoons at 2 o'clock. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Everett Phillips. Members' pamphlets and "Food Guide for Health" were distributed. "Requirements of Club Members" was read and discussed. Several record books were shown and new members learned the points of a good record book.

Plans for a bus trip to Peterborough to tour Canada Packers Limited and Quaker Oats Company of Canada were discussed but nothing definite decided.

The assistant leader, Mrs. Phillips, led in discussions on cooking under the following: working procedure, dishwashing and abbreviations used in cooking.

Mrs. Tucker gave a "Pattern for Everyday Eating," based on the pamphlet "Food Guide for Health."

Three classes of cereals and the meaning of each were learned: whole grain cereals, fully refined cereals and less refined cereals.

Mrs. Phillips and Frances Tucker demonstrated measuring both dry and wet ingredients.

Several club members participated in group work, finding the number of teaspoons in a tablespoon and number of tablespoons in a cup.

After the home assignment was given the meeting was adjourned.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was doing my homework on my stummick on the living room floor and I started to watch a lady bug walking on the rug and wondered whether to drop it out the window among frends or whether it was happy where it was, and pop said, Benny, are you suppose to be doing your homework?

Yes sir, I said, and pop said Then I recommend a little more concentration. Just one little thought after another, and the next thing you know you're concentrating, he said.

Goodness yes, ma said. It's wonderful what marvellous things people can do just by applying themselves. I was reeding about a docter in the darkest interior of some place or other who spent 19 years under a mikeroscope discovering the germ of a rare tropical fever, just to make the jungle a happier place for the ignorant but grateful natives, she said, and pop said, You see, Benny, that's what concentration can do. Doesn't that inspire you? he said.

Sure, O, and so does Skinny Martin's Uncle Zeek, I said. He used to be a magician on the stage, and he can make eggs drop into his hand out of his mouth Nobody can see how he gets them in there, but he can keep dropping them out as long as he wants to. They're only china eggs, but I bet he could do it with live ones too Oh boy, just think of the concentration that must of took him, I said.

Think of your lessons, pop said, and ma said, Sutch a boy.

Meening me.

BOOSTING BUSINESS

MADOC JUNCTION

Eggleton W.A. Sponsors Fine Bazaar, Tea

MADOC JUNCTION — The annual bazaar, under the auspices of the Eggleton W. A. was held on Wednesday afternoon at Eggleton United Church. There was a fairly good attendance of visitors from the nearby W. A. groups of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church; Stirling; St. Paul's United, Stirling; West Huntingdon United; West Huntingdon Presbyterian; Moira and Thomasburg.

The W. A. president, Mrs. Carl Bridges, presided over a short program, and opened the meeting by reading the following verse:

"He leadeth me, O Blessed thought, No better guide I need, and I shall never go astray if His Counsel, I but heed", and the singing of hymn "Lord speak to me, that I may speak", with Miss Joyce Stapley, pianist.

The Scripture lesson, Psalm 67 was read by Mrs. Clarence Fitchett, who also offered prayer.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley, on behalf of the president, the W. A. members and herself, welcomed the guests, and voiced appreciation at the number present.

All enjoyed the lovely piano solo played by Mrs. Vernon Mathews, of Stirling.

An interesting poem was read by Mrs. Wallace McInroy at Moira.

A vocal solo by Mrs. George Dyson, of Thomasburg, with Mrs. Bruce Stapley playing her accompaniment was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Bridges spoke briefly thanking all those, who had taken part on the program.

Tea and dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Bruce Stapley, Mrs. Warren Harlow, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, Mrs. William

ASKS FOR PEACE AND SEGREGATION

Mrs. Margaret Jackson, vice-president of the Segregationist Mothers' League of Little Rock's Central High school, has asked Gov. Faubus to close down the school. She says her organization feels their children are endangered with the presence of bayonet - laden troops. Mrs. Jackson added that the league, numbering into the "hundreds," would march on the governor's mansion with their plea, so that "Little Rock and its citizens might once again enjoy the peace it once knew."

McMullen and Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker.

Mrs. Clarence Fitchett was in charge of making the tea, while Mrs. C. Bridges replenished the trays.

Later, all were invited to view the tables of attractively displayed articles in the church shed.

Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. Harlow, Mrs. B. Stapley were in charge of the long table, which held a variety of miscellaneous articles; cushions; pillow cases; plain and embroidered; doilies; tea towels; pot holders; table cloths; children's dresses; framed pictures, and hand-painted vases, also a long line holding a great variety of pretty aprons, large and small and made up in various attractive patterns.

DELICIOUS COOKING

Mrs. Murney Kirkey, Mrs. M. Clancy and Mrs. William McMillen presided at the table of homecakes, tarts and a delicious variety of cookies and macaroons.

At another table, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker and Mrs. C. Fitchett were in charge of the candies, and soon sold the bags of homemade sweets, at their table they also sold jams, pickles, relishes, vegetables and flowers; at one side was a table with a number of 25 cent "Mystery Parcels", which were readily bought.

Sales were brisk at all the tables, and the W. A. treasurer, Mrs. Warren Harlow, reported the proceeds of the bazaar was most gratifying.

The president, and members of Eggleton W. A. wish to thank all those, who had assisted in any way to the success of the bazaar. Thanks are extended also to some, who through illness in the home or other reasons were unable to be at the meeting, but had sent donations of money or contributions of articles for the bazaar.

JET CRASH KILLS 3

ABOARD CARRIER FORRESTAL (AP) — Three airmen died Thursday in the crash of their U.S. Navy jet bomber, bringing to 16 the number of airmen killed in 48 hours of NATO manoeuvres. An A3D Jet Skywarrior came in too low for an attempted landing on this carrier, ripped off the landing gear, skidded the length of the flight deck and burst into flames just before hitting the water.

"HIGH-SIDE" FINGERTIP AUXILIARY CONTROLS—easily adjusted from a standing position — you don't have to take your eyes off the picture!

NEW DELUXE 300 CHASSIS WITH HIGH FIDELITY FM SOUND SYSTEM — New, improved version of performance-proved cascode circuit Admiral Chassis. Has ample reserve power for peak reception in "fringe" or city homes.

Chassis is assembled automatically by revolutionary new Admiral precision machines that eliminate chances for human error. Wiring is "printed" automatically then "dip soldered" in one operation — no faulty connections to come loose, no complex maze of wires. Circuits are simpler, more trouble-free.

Performance-Proved Turret Tower—so accurate fine tuning is seldom needed.

Retrace Line Eliminator automatically eliminates annoying diagonal white lines.

Improved "Fast" AGC holds picture quality uniform when signal strength varies, rejects interference.

Permanent Automatic Picture Focusing never requires adjustment.

Improved Local-Distant Range Finder Switch adjusts to match receiver to distance from TV stations.

Built-in Radiation Shield to prevent interference with nearby TV sets.

Dependable AC-Transformer-Powered Circuit for longer life of components, cooler chassis operation.

Built-in "Omniscope" Antenna—for good signal areas plus provision for outside antenna.

EMPLOYEES WON'T LOSE THEIR SAVINGS

When the Chatco Steel Co. of Tilbury, Ont., went into bankruptcy, these employees were among the 800 who thought they had lost an estimated $24,000 in savings deducted from their payroll for the purchase of bonds. But the Federal finance department at Ottawa says that they will receive the bonds they purchased this year through the Financial Administration Act providing that the employer is accountable to the Crown. In cases of bankruptcy, a portion of the assets equal to the value of the deductions is deemed to be segregated and held in trust for the Crown.

Ivanhoe

RALLY DAY SERVICE

IVANHOE — The Rev. W. H. V. Walker, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon, exchanged pulpits with Rev. R. R. Bonstead of Bethany, and conducted anniversary services in Bethany United Church on Sunday. It was accompanied by Mrs. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker had served 21 years on the Janetville charge prior to coming to Stirling in 1938. In the guest minister's opening remarks to the congregation, he paid high tribute to St. Andrew's minister and his wife, saying, "When the Bonesteels moved to Bethany, to us we were friends of the Lord" was as a key opening hearts and homes."

Mr. Bonisteel conducted the Rally Day Service of Worship prepared by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

The superintendent, Mr. Barton Haggerty, lead in the responsive Scripture passages.

The guest minister spoke from the theme of Service of Worship — And Jesus said — "Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men," (Matt. 4-19).

"We are thinking today of the boys and girls in our church, and of the vital importance of the work of those who lead and teach the young.

"In this verse of Scripture we find an invitation, and a promise. "And I will make you."

"Jesus still comes to men, working in the fields; to women, busy about their time with household affairs; to all boys and girls who think their long thoughts and who wonder what life has in store for them. He still gives the invitation and the promise.

"Wherever you work or live you can offer your entire life to His service, not making of religion a hobby, but by being faithful and simply following Him."

During the service the Jr. Choir sang, "The Book of Books."

The offering will be used to help needy church schools, the Church School-by-Post, and Christian teaching for many boys and girls.

HORSE EXPERT THROWN

BIDMARTON, England (AP)— The Duke of Beaufort, England's "master of the horse," was thrown from his mount while hunting Tuesday and suffered a slight concussion. The horse refused to jump a fence and flipped the 70-year-old peer over its head. The "Master of the horse" is an honorary title conferred by Buckingham Palace.

Killing Frosts Prevalent in Many Districts

TORONTO (CP)—Killing frosts were prevalent in many parts of Ontario last week, the weekly farm report of the department of agriculture said today.

The frost stopped tomato picking and caused damage to corn and bean crops, but it did encourage the start of potato digging operations.

Silo filling continues where fields are dry enough to permit work. The crop is a little below average due to the heavier soils.

In Western Ontario counties where wet weather is still slowing harvesting, the fruit was welcomed as a sign of dryer weather.

With frosts somewhat lighter in Southern Ontario, the corn harvest continues, though the crop quality is expected to suffer. Central Ontario frosts caused some damage to corn and clover.

In Dundas and Grenville in Eastern Ontario, pastures were improved by recent rains.

Fall wheat was reported making a good growth in Northern Ontario. Potato yields is general, with the crop quality good but the yield a bit below average.

PIONEER WORK

First ship built in the United States was the 30-ton Virginia, launched in 1608 at Popham, Mass.

Wise old nature makes provisions for her own. In fall, forerunner of severe weather, air is cooler than soil. This stops flow of sap to top of plant, centering all activity on roots. That's why fall planting of trees and shrubs is recommended. Roots don't have double job of providing top growth and foliage, and are able to establish themselves before being called upon for a burst of spring beauty.

Curator of Museum Wrote Report Of Last Hours After Snake Bite

CHICAGO (AP) — A detailed diary today related step-by-step how death overtook Dr. Karl P. Schmidt within 24 hours after the snake expert was bitten by a South African boomslang.

Dr. Schmidt, 67, was curator emeritus of the Chicago Natural History Museum. He was bitten Sept. 25 while examining the small tree snake.

The death account, which was to be a routine scientific report, began with a description of the snake, which had been taken from Lincoln Park zoo to the museum for identification.

After being bitten, Dr. Schmidt wrote: "The punctures bled freely and I sucked them vigorously."

STRONG NAUSEA

He reported "strong nausea, but without vomiting" during a train trip to his suburban home. The next entry, at about 5:30 p.m., said:

"Strong chill and shaking, followed by fever of 101.7 degrees, which did not persist. Bleeding of mucous membranes in the mouth began about 4:30 approximately from the gums."

Three hours later, Dr. Schmidt wrote, he ate two pieces of milk toast and went to bed. He slept until shortly after midnight, when he awoke, bleeding from the mouth. He reported much abdominal pain.

"Took a glass of water at 4:30 a.m. followed by violent nausea and vomiting."

BELIEVED RECOVERED

The last entry was made shortly after 7 a.m. Sept. 26. Dr. Schmidt said he ate a good breakfast. Associates said he believed he had recovered and was planning to return to work. The final entry read:

"Slight bleeding now is going on in the bowels. . . . Mouth and nose continuing to bleed, not excessively."

The death account was written on several sheets of note paper. Unattended by a physician, Dr. Schmidt went into a coma at 2 p.m.

The coroner's record gives 3:15 p.m. as the time of death upon arrival at hospital. The diary was made public by the coroner's office.

Dr. Schmidt's associates said he made the record with no foreboding that he would die. He and others at the examination felt he had not received a lethal dose from the bite and his associates suggested he make the record of symptoms that might develop.

Miss Maple Leaf Likes Britain, Britons Love Her

LONDON (CP) — Miss Maple Leaf of Canada looked out of her London hotel today and decided it just isn't true what they say about Britain.

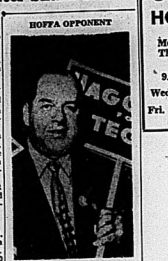
"I love it here and I haven't seen a spot of rain since I arrived," said 21-year-old Judy Welch of Toronto and Peterborough, Ont., recalling dire prophecies about the high percentage of precipitation in an English autumn.

Miss Welch, an ash-blonde with 33 beauty titles to her credit, already is billed as "breathtaking" in the British press. She arrived by air Wednesday to represent Canada in the Miss World contest here Oct. 14.

Miss Maple Leaf—"don't call me Miss Canada or somebody will sue me"—will wear a white silk taffeta evening gown and a form-fitting bathing suit in a bid for the sports car, £500 cash prize and silver rose bowl worth 50 guineas that goto the winner of the contest.

FIRST CANADIAN

Miss Welch is the first Canadian to enter the competition, run annually by the Mecca Company, which has a string of dance halls in Britain.



Judy, a quiet, soft-spoken girl with a smile that one London newspaper says would "light fires in the deepest forest," brought with her a total of 20 tailored, cocktail and evening dresses, but the outfit that may cause most interest is a plaid and jacket.

She made the jacket herself from red velvet to resemble the uniform worn by the Canadian Mounties.

Beauty is Judy's strong suit, but she says "I do have a bit of talent." At 16, she ran a tap-dancing school in Peterborough with some 50 pupils under her wing.

V-P's BROTHER BANKRUPT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five restaurant - gift shops operated by F. Donald Nixon, brother of Vice - President Richard M. Nixon, will be sold for the benefit of creditors. Lee J. Fortner, executive president of the Credit Managers' Association of Southern California, said Tuesday a corporation that owns the stores turned its assets over to satisfy creditors' claims.

HOFFA OPPONENT

Thomas J. Haggerty (above) of Chicago, rival of James R. Hoffa for president of the Teamsters' union, arrives in Miami Beach, Fla., for the organization's convention. Haggerty said he was informed that he would have the support of 900 of the 1,929 delegates, but other observers say it is a certainty that Hoffa will win.

Britain Awaits Canada's Answer To Trade Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may make her decision today as to whether she will accept or reject Britain's proposal of an Anglo-Canadian free trade union.

Complete, immediate acceptance appears out of the question. Partial acceptance or a decision to have the whole complex issue brought under careful and prolonged study by a body of experts appears more likely.

Britain was reported to have formally raised the proposal at high-level Anglo-Canadian talks which opened Wednesday and to have made these possible alternatives as ways of boosting trade between the two countries:

1. Dispatch of a Canadian mission to Britain, preferably of businessmen, to study and explore her industrial production in order to find ways of buying more United Kingdom goods.

2. Boost purchases from the U.K. by the Canadian government, provinces and various crown agencies.

3. Restore Commonwealth trade preferences which had been reduced in some cases since the creation of the 35-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in 1947.

DIEFENBAKER IDEA

All these points developed out of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's suggestion last July that Canada could switch about 15 per cent of her imports from the U.S. to Britain. This would more than double imports from Britain to about $1,100,000,000 a year.

Seizing on this suggestion Peter Thorneycroft, chancellor of the U.K. exchequer, has proposed that all tariff and curbs between Canada and Britain be gradually eliminated as a means of implementing the 15 - per - cent switch.

But, such a move may hurt some Canadian industry. The question being considered by federal authorities is whether some compromise could be found to gradually shift Canadian trade to Britain without injury to Canadian development.

MAY HELP IN U.S.

The U.K. proposal may be useful to Canadian ministers as a bargaining point when they meet with U.S. ministers in Washington Monday.

At that time an array of Canadian-American trade problems is to be reviewed. One big problem to Canada is the impact of the U.S. farm surplus on wheat and Canadian export markets.

Mr. Thorneycroft and Sir David Eccles, president of the U.K board of trade, are looking to Mr. Diefenbaker for an answer today. Mr. Diefenbaker said some statement is to be issued at the conclusion of the bilateral talks.

It was understood that aside from the main issue, the Canadian government would support the idea of sending a buyers' mission to Britain and encouraging Canadian crown agencies to buy more from U.K. factories.

PUT PREMIER ON SPOT

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Liberal-Progressive Association will hold its annual convention here Dec. 4-5, association headquarters announced Wednesday. The Free Press says the convention is expected to be a lively one with a move by "certain disgruntled Liberals to oust Premier Campbell from the leadership of the association."

CANADA'S CHAMPION MILK PRODUCER

William Bousquet, of La Presentation, Que., has a champion in his family. He raised this cow, Elegante Bijou Tensen, and gave it to his son, Hubert, who gave the cow special treatment so that it set a Canadian record for milk production. She is credited with a lifetime production of 86,037 quarts of milk with butter fat content of 9,072 pounds. The cow, now 19 years old, is family pet with third generation Bousquets quite at home her back. Tensen is a purebred Holstein.

AMBASSADOR'S TASK

One of a diplomat's big jobs is learning about the country to which he is accredited and reporting to his own government on how the officials of that country view the rest of the world. Much of the information a diplomat gets comes from the daily papers he reads. Here, D. M. Johnson, Canada's ambassador to the Soviet Union, reads a copy of Pravda, the Russian newspaper which is a prime source of information about the Kremlin and its doings. Mr. Johnson spends a lot of time reading the dozens of Soviet newspapers which come to his desk. Also in front of him is a digest of important items in the Soviet Press.

Like other diplomats in Moscow, Mr. Johnson's contacts with Soviet citizens are limited to those official occasions when foreigners and Russians may meet. (CP from AP).

Ambassador D.M. Johnson, Bachelor, Runs Embassy in Moscow and Does It Well

MOSCOW (AP) — A bachelor who for 30 years called hotel rooms his home now runs the Canadian embassy in Moscow and does it well.

Ambassador David M. Johnson, who is not only a top foreign envoy but looks like one, finds the job of hostessing 56 rooms at his settlement a welcome challenge. It is met, he says, with the help of the wives of his staff members and who in turn serve as official hostesses.

A day in the life of the Canadian envoy to the Kremlin can be as monotonous as a Moscow winter or as varied as one of its summer days. Ambassador Johnson says he likes both types.

READS RUSSIAN PAPERS

There are no English or French daily newspapers in Moscow for the Canadian ambassador to enjoy with his early morning coffee. Instead he scans as best he can the Russian-language Pravda and Izvestia, then gets his first news in English from the 8 a.m. (GMT) BBC broadcast from London.

Mr. Johnson then turns to a task which burdens most foreign diplomats here—the study of Russian. For half an hour he pores through a Russian grammar. Another hour and half an hour of this work is plenty in one stretch.

This chore over, he sits down to an hour or more of reading the Soviet newspapers, of which there are literally dozens each morning, a prime source of information about not only the Kremlin and its doings, but of how the official Russian view of the rest of the world.

A Russian translator helps him over the rough spots. In little more than a year in Moscow few foreigners can hope to hold down a full-time job and yet learn Russian adequately enough to deal with the newspapers. Mr. Johnson admits he is no exception.

Staff conferences fill a few hours which the ambassador discusses problems of the day jointly or individually with the four diplomatic officers serving under him, or with the three service attaches at the Canadian government has assigned to Moscow.

BUSY ON REPORTS

The remainder of the morning and usually the afternoons too, depending on the nearness to "pouch day" may be spent on reports from the ambassador to Ottawa.

As with most of his colleagues in Moscow, Ambassador Johnson devotes much time to assessing and evaluating day-to-day developments in the government rather than attempting to report them on spot news.

Many of the ambassador's days are broken by official luncheons with other diplomats, or with visiting officials.

On the question of formal visits of heads of state or government to Moscow, Ambassador Johnson must budget his time for a minimum of five official functions.

In between there are diplomatic luncheons and dinners, the main means of exchanging information among diplomats in the informal chats with other ambassadors.

KREMLIN ALOOF

One thing Ambassador Johnson had become accustomed to expect in his former posts is material from the Kremlin assignment. That is the daily contact — the official — with the Soviet foreign ministry and those who run it.

In most countries, a diplomatic envoy depends on such meetings for guidance on the officials' views, points and activities of the nation to which he is accredited.

There is no diplomat would dream of walking into the foreign ministry to ask minister Andrei Gromyko his views on any current subject, though many would like to.

Contacts between the Canadian embassy and Soviet hosts are restricted to social meetings, except for the occasional official call to protest or deliver formal communications between governments.

At embassy or Kremlin receptions Ambassador Johnson finds he rarely engages in a chat with one of the Kremlin leaders, as he did recently with Premier Khrushchev and a pair of the Indonesian national day party.

Those talks produce few nuggets of top information. They do serve Ambassador Johnson and other envoys with some means of balancing or evaluating the Soviet Union's attitudes and activities.

Afternoons, unless there is pressing business outside, usually see the Canadian ambassador at his desk for another round of staff conversations and reports.

OLYMPIC ATHLETE

Usually he ends his day with a brisk walk, hardly a satisfactory change from his younger days when Mr. Johnson was an athlete and ran the 440 - yard dash for Canada in the 1924 Paris Olympics.

Sometimes in summer he stops at the Moscow park where there are frequent open - air concerts. Such halts may include friendly talks with the equally friendly Russian people, who enjoy meeting foreigners wherever they can do so informally.

The ambassador's evenings, like his days, usually include reading other diplomats, either from his own official family or from those of other embassies. Contacts with Soviet citizens are limited, by Soviet regulations, to those of more official occasions when foreigners and Soviet citizens may meet.

At home Mr. Johnson can seat 22 at formal dinners, or entertain up to 500 people if need be at official receptions. Canada's national day, July 1, usually sees a capacity crowd in the half-dozen reception rooms of the embassy.

Another problem, the same problem for Mr. Johnson in Moscow as it is for all foreigners. He likes hockey, which he used to play in Canada, and watches matches whenever he can. The Russian theatre, the Bolshoi Ballet, and concerts are attractions he enjoys.

Not too many Canadian visitors tourists or otherwise, find their way to Moscow, but the number is increasing. Most of them want to see their ambassador while here.

CANADIAN WHEAT DEAL

Canadian-Soviet trade problems are neither many nor complicated. The main matter between them is a three-year contract by which the Soviet Union buys 400,000 tons of Canadian wheat annually. The Kremlin finds it cheaper to buy Canadian wheat at Pacific ports and ship it to far-eastern Russia than to transport its own grain over heavily-burdened railways.

The agreement, now in its second year, provides for increased Soviet purchases if Canadians buy more Soviet products. Thus far there has been no increase above the fixed minimum.

How does a lifelong bachelor find running a massive household?

Ambassador Johnson says it's not too bad, but gives full credit for a competent official-official life to his efficient Canadian staff. Everything, he says, depends on the Soviet market for meats, fresh vegetables, and fruits, when available.

The remainder of their foodstuffs are imported, most of them from the Canadian export firm which specializes in feeding foreigners around the globe. Some items of special appeal to Canadians are imported from home.

ONCE DANISH EMBASSY

Home to the Canadian ambassador in Moscow is a large mansion with a tongue - twisting address, "Starokonzhenny Pereulok 23."

The building was owned by a wealthy sugar merchant in prerevolutionary days, but for a time the Danish embassy, and has been converted by the Soviet capital since the diplomatic corps returned to Moscow in 1941.

Its present use is restricted to offices of the Canadian chancery and to living accommodations for part of the embassy staff. Other members of the staff live in a block of apartments set aside for them.

The ambassador lives in the upper floor, most of which is devoted to reception rooms. The ballroom-dining room, essential to diplomatic life in Moscow, seats 55.

Ambassador Johnson, now 55, is well fitted for the job he holds. Before entering the service, he studied at McGill University, went to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar, and was admitted to practice before the English bar before returning to Canada as a lawyer.

His life, the Canadian envoy says, runs in 10-year cycles. He was a lawyer for 10 years, 10 years with the Canadian treasury and has now put in 10 years as a civil servant in the Canadian diplomatic service.

APPOINTED IN 1955

He came here in July, 1956, just too late to help celebrate Canada's centennial, but in time to witness almost a year as Canada's delegate in Hanoi to the international official commission for Viet Nam.

Earlier, the ambassador spent a year in Finland, two years as Canadian high commissioner in Pakistan, and four years with the Canadian delegation to the United Nations.

Like most foreign envoys to the Kremlin, he would like to see more of this vast country than the few time and the Kremlin's restrictions on travel permit.

He spent 20 days on a Soviet ship as a member of the United Nations sub-committee which toured the Arctic deeply into his available time in Moscow. Normally Canadians see only two-year tours here.

Two weeks after his return the ambassador left on a two-week journey to "catch up" with the country to which he is accredited. It included a three - day motor trip from Oscow to Yalta, on the Black Sea; a train trip to Baku, Stalingrad, and Moscow.

His dreamed of an even longer and more interesting trip. That is to climb on the Moscow-Peiping express some day in Moscow and ride the trans - Siberian railroad "just as far as I can," which means far foreign diplomats deep into Siberia.

For this trip the ambassador plans on taking no interpreter or official assistant. He expects to go alone, with a Russian grammar and pocket dictionary as his main supports, and to learn as much as it possible about the Soviet Union and its people.

DAINTY DUNKER'S DELIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—A doughnut with a handle is in pilot production and may be introduced this month during National Doughnut Week. Daintier dunking is the purpose of a combination of dough on the doughnut's perimeter, giving dunkers a good grasp of the situation.

A.V. Roe-Dosco Merger Seems Fact but Opposition Appearing in Many Places

TORONTO (CP)—The merger of two of Canada's biggest industrial enterprises has become an apparent fact but some of the people most concerned will have to wait another week to learn officially what the merger is and means to them.

A spokesman for A. V. Roe Canada Limited said Roe will not make any statement about intentions until after Oct. 9, the extended expiry date for its offer to purchase control of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation Limited.

In other developments Wednesday:

1. Dosco shareholder Charles D. Eaton filed a writ seeking a court order halting the Roe-Dosco share-deal now traveling and declaring that Dosco shareholders have no contract to sell out to Roe. Mr. Eaton is a fruit farmer at Burlington.

2. A Roe spokesman disclosed that 17 Dosco shareholders have changed their minds and requested the return of 2,160 Dosco common shares after trading them for Roe stock. He said later what action would be taken on the requests.

3. Roe said Wednesday it has been assured of outright control of Dosco, the huge integrated steel complex activities stretch from the Lakehead to Newfoundland.

There was still some confusion about how many of the outstanding 1,750,000 Dosco common shares have actually been committed to Roe. Roe originally offered stock at the offer rate of 1¼ Roe common shares and $18.25 cash for each Dosco common share, with a similar exchange offer on outstanding debentures.

Ron Williams, assistant to Roe President Crawford Gordon said the transfer agents had made an error in arriving at the total and their count now showed only 1,750,000 Dosco shares transferred.

Nevertheless, he said he was assured of control of at least the required 51 per cent of outstanding Dosco shares with one week remaining before the offer expires.

SEES NO UPSET

Mr. Williams said "we see no possibility" that Mr. Eaton's writ would be successful. Shares not deposited or that may be deposited in future from brokers' hands will be converted.

The merger was actually expected to be completed more than a month despite strong and continuing opposition from the Maritime directors of which support from Dosco shareholders to vest the Roe bid.

TI merger creates Canada's biggest industrial complex. The value of the two enterprises is reposed at $285,000,000 but replacement costs today would be far outstrip that figure.

Hot Roe and Dosco are highly lucrative controlling vest enertises.

Earlier this year Roe bought what it calls "a share investment only" in Algoma Steel Corporation, Canada's second largest steel roducer. The acquisition of Dosc steel mills now gives Roe an interest in two of the country's three biggest steel-making properties with total annual capacity of about 2,000,000 tons, equal to the annual capacity of the other major producer, Steel Company of Canada.

The Lower Steldorf Group Limited of Britain, through Raymair Limited, a Canadian investment company, owns about 23.9 per cent of be outstanding common stock of Roe.

Roe operates seven wholly-owned subsidiaries, an associated company and an associated company. They include: Canadian Fairchild Limited, Malton, which designs and manufactures aircraft; Orenda Engines, Limited (jet engines); Canadian Applied Research Ltd. (guided missile aids; Canadian Steel Improvement Ltd., Toronto, forging and castings in light metals; Canadian Car Company Ltd., Fort William, Ont., Montreal, Que., railway cars, diesel buses and highway trailers; and Canadian Control Company Ltd., sales of refrigeration equipment.

Dosco owned subsidiary is Canadian General Transit Co., which designs and services railway tank cars; and a partly-owned subsidiary is Wheel Ltd., which manufactures wrought steel wheels for railway stock.

The Roe complex employs more than 21,000 persons and the varied interests include these in Ontario:

Canada Iron Company Ltd., and Canadian Bridge Engineering Company Ltd., bridge engineering and bridge manufacturing; Canadian Steel Foundries Ltd., Hamilton, steel castings; Silbway, land holding; Essex Terminal Railway Company Ltd., railway; Canadian Grahm Nail and Wire Products Ltd., Toronto; Truscon Steel Company Ltd., Canada Ltd., Walkerville, steel joists.

Labor Party Buys Scheme To Increase Pension Plan

By KEN NETHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Labor Party is standing old age pensioners and their wives each week are forced to seek supplementary aid from the national assistance board to pay for their necessities of life.

Most find themselves unable to pay rent and buy food and coal on the $65 a month or even $72.50 a week for a single person or $125 for a married couple. There is little if anything left over for minor luxuries such as tobacco, cigarettes, a occasional movie.

This fact was very much in the minds of delegates attending the annual Labor party conference here this week when they put almost unanimous approval to a new national superannuation scheme.

The main provision of the scheme is the establishing of a half - pay - on - retirement pension plan for all workers. But the chief point likely to have electionimpact is the one providing for a 25 per cent increase in benefits in effect an old-age pension onethird greater than the present $65 a month. Second Labor chieftains are calling it an election winner.

Not all Labor supporters are completely happy with the details of the scheme, particularly the executive's insistence that superannuation shall be in accordance with the principles recognized insurance principles and actuarial soundness. A delegate from Renfrewshire, on a big cheer when he said Labor should get out of such huge sums would put up still more the value of shares held by trade unions and increase its profits.

Another delegate complained such investments would increase the capital value of private industries and consequently the amount of compensation the nation would have to pay if it ever decided to nationalize them. Other delegates said the superannuation benefit would perpetuate inequalities of the wage structure into old age."

The party's powerful trade union wing, however, strongly supported the scheme. For one thing, most unions now operate their own superannuation schemes for the high-band knowledge of the lucrative returns possible from investments. Another is the head of the Mine Workers' Union, says his organization has invested as much in interest on its £19,000,000 pension fund investments as it has received in contributions.

The unions also are adamant that the pension scheme should be divorced from the state treasury to avoid possible interference governments "who might try to cut them in time of crisis."

The trade unions is so strong that Labor leaders admit privately that they will have to compromise any large body of workers to agree on superannuation schemes other than state projects.

But the cheers that greeted the announcement of full pensions scheme by the conference showed delegates clearly that whatever the scheme's faults it's likely to be a vote - catcher in the next general election.

REPATRIATE GREEKS

ATHENS (Reuters) — Eighteen Greeks who were abdigated or deported for participation in communist guerrilla war in Greece in 1949, and two Greek children born in exile, have repatriated Tuesday by the Albanian government.

URGE BLOOD TESTS

GODTHAAB, Greenland (Reuters) — Child welfare organizations throughout Greenland have suggested a blood group test for all single men entering Greenland to help the local courts expedite paternity cases. About 25 per cent of the 1,000 children born each year in Greenland are illegitimate.

Assoc. Wants Restriction on Gas Stations

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A convention of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association Wednesday called on the provincial government to set up a committee with powers to restrict the number of gasoline stations being built in Ontario.

Mayor R. A. Dennis told the convention he did not believe the government should have the right to restrict gasoline station construction. He said London has a by-law limiting the number of stations in the city to its present 128.

The convention also called on the federal government to investigate the rising price of gasoline. Dealers are anxious that the price of gasoline per gallon should not go over 50 cents lest there be a drop in consumption, said D. J. Fletcher, managing director of the association.

Mr. Fletcher said dealers now gross about 20 per cent on gasoline sales, but net about two per cent.

Another resolution called for abolition of the exclusive contract by which lessees must sell only the products made or supplied by the oil companies that own their stations. Canada, said Mr. Fletcher, is the only country in the world allowing the exclusive contract.

Association directors elected was Robert Jackson, St. Catharines.

Duke, Duchess Of Windsor To Visit Ranch

CALGARY (CP)—"The Duke and Duchess of Windsor probably will visit their ranch in Alberta next year," a Calgary real estate secretary's.

V. A. Waddilove and his wife interviewed in Calgary Wednesday en route to the EP ranch at Pekisko, 45 miles southwest of Calgary, to supervise construction of new buildings for the ranch.

"The company was formed about a year ago," Mr. Waddilove said in an interview. "The idea was formed by the Duke of Windsor and he is one of the principal shareholders in the company."

Col. Douglas Kennedy, chairman of British Metals Ltd., and other British Hereford breeders are also shareholders.

Mr. Waddilove said:

"We are going in for the showing and breeding of pedigreed stock. There is quite a demand for pedigreed cattle and hogs."

Bought by the duke in 1919 to provide a retreat in improving various types of livestock in Alberta, the ranch was at first originally stocked with Shorthorn cattle from Cornwall, Eng.

Later the herd was developed more as a stock farm than as strictly a ranching enterprise.

Noise Interrupts Love Life of Canada Geese

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — An interrupted love life has been the downfall of a honeymoon for a young Kelowna couple.

It wasn't the connubial bliss of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Gray that was damaged but that of several of their tame Canada geese. The geese were up all ideas of parenthood when natural gas pipeline crews began to work in their neighborhood with sound and fury.

Beginning with a pair, five geese, two Gay Harry and his wife Elizabeth carefully watched over their green until they reached the dozen mark. Then was the time for the geese to do their bit for the Canada goose.

Counting their geese before they hatched, Mr. and Mrs. Gray got in touch with a U.S. firm which promised to pay $60 each for goslings. But the couple planned on eight or 10 goslings, and could almost hear the rustle of large bills.

Then came the clanking bull-dozers and scurrying trucks. The flock became restless and gave up all ideas of hatching eggs.

"There was no use trying to do anything with them, they were unhappy with everybody and everything," Harry ruefully, recounts.

Last year, he says, there will be no more of that nonsense even if he has to mount guard on the road at the crucial time.

Education Needs Careful, Concentrated and Consistent Study Says C of C Head

KING FIRST DONOR TO JORDAN BLOOD BANK

Jordan's King Hussein looks at the bandage on his arm after he formally opened the first blood bank in the country with a donation at the School of Nursing in Amman. The receiving moment was the first Jordanian to give blood to the centre.

VICTORIA (CP) — The "Pied Pipers of Education" have played havoc with traditional concepts of teaching, says Reg Rose, general manager of Vancouver Board of Trade.

"There is, indeed, a good deal of questioning of current educational trends," he told the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce today.

Mr. Rose's statements were contained in a copy of his address released to the press before delivery.

"The lack of understanding is the fault, in great part, of the educators themselves. he said.

TOLD TO STAY CLEAR

"In past years they have distinctly told parents to stay clear of that educational philosophy and the science of curriculum making and teaching are matters beyond their comprehension and . . . best left to the educators who know the objects and the ways to reach them.

"This discouragement of parent-teacher association and similar groups now has produced a generation of parents and grandparents who are completely bewildered by the content of present programs for leaders, provision of facilities, multitude of elective courses.

"We are bedevilled by what we consider are the poor results of education.

"Education is trying to do too much and in the process of so doing is befuddling the students, confused parents and without the foggiest notion of what it is all about."

One of the first duties of the Chamber of Commerce and of parents, "lies in the recognition that education . . . needs careful, concentrated and consistent study, constituting study to ensure understanding."

QUEEN'S MAN SPEAKS

J. Alex Edmison, assistant to the principal of Queen's University, Kingston, spoke on education finance and suggested greater alumni giving and more donations by Canadian corporations as a way of meeting the increasing costs of education.

On a concurrent panel discussion on citizenship and immigration, Walter C. Koerner, president of Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd., Vancouver, urged absorb a large inflow of immigrants.

He warned that absorption would require patience in tolerance and understanding."

Police Deny Story

VANCOUVER (CP) — Spokesmen for the RCMP and city police department officially said 15-and 15-year-old girls are engaging in prostitution as a result of the big drugs.

The claim was made in police court Tuesday by Milton Cuthbert Higgins, 35, sentenced on two charges of drug trafficking.

City police said they know of nothing to substantiate any part of Higgins' statement.

Avro Supersonic Jet Will Be Unveiled by Designer

TORONTO (CP)—The untested CF-105 supersonic Arrow will be unveiled Friday by the designer and builder, Avro Aircraft Limited.

The plane will be rolled out of a hangar at nearby Malton airport in ceremonies by some 1,500 Avro guests and rolled back in again for more months and years of development work.

The bat-winged, two-seat jet is designed to fly at some 1,600 miles an hour and to climb to an altitude of 12 miles in seven minutes.

The 54-foot Arrow has not yet been tested. It must undergo more than two months of taxi trials before its initial takeoff, expected in December.

FOUR MORE YEARS

Even after its first flight, defence department officials estimate it will be another four years before it gets to RCAF squadrons.

Though the federal treasury has poured some $200,000,000 into the aircraft's development, there are reassurances that ioe government will buy the completed jet.

Defence Minister Pearkes said in an interview Monday that the CF-100 jet, now in squadron service, will be used by the RCAF until there is a better interceptor.

ENGINES NOISY

If the Arrow is accepted by the government the problem of basses will remain. Engineers say the jet creates so much noise that it can be used only within two miles of airfields likely will object strenuously to the disturbance.

First models of the CF-105 are to be powered by Pratt and Whitney J-57 jet engines. Later it is intended that the plane will be driven by the Iroquois engine now being developed by Orenda Engines Limited.

Order Strikers Back to Work

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec labor relations board Wednesday ordered Canadian Vickers employees back to work pending settlement of a work stoppage involving about 500 employees. The Canadian Vickers Employees' Syndicate (CCCL) is disputing a company order that employees can be made to work overtime work. The union is asking that overtime work be on a voluntary basis.

American Negro Barred Because Of His Color

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A complaint by an American Negro that he was refused accommodation in an Algoma restaurant because of his color is being investigated by the Ontario department of labor.

The tourist, from Indiana, said several weeks ago that he and his family were refused admittance after receiving confirmation of his reservation. He said that he was informed by the proprietor that the resource clientele consists of restricted patrons only.

A labor department inspector from North Bay made inquiries. The department administers the Ontario Fair Accomodations Practices Act.

"Jest a Second"

"Overdrawn? Nonsense! I'm probably just under - deposited."

Wellington

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Harris, Wellington were "At Home" on Tuesday evening, September 24, when more than 100 guests came to offer congratulations on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

The sunporch and living rooms were gay with numerous bowls of bright golden mums and yellow-colored gladioli and gifts from their friends.

Mrs. Harris received her guests dressed in a smart rose-wood crepe dress, topped with an exquisite mauve orchid shoulder corsage, a gift from a special young American friend.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. Cory Harris, and invited to the dining room by Mrs. Garratt Harris.

The tea table was most attractive, covered with a lovely lace cloth, centred with an artistic arrangement of golden mums, flanked by golden colored candles.

Presiding over the two silver tea services were the bride's sisters, Mrs. Hiram Hubbs of Toronto and Mrs. Norman Foster of Wellington; her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jackson Clarke, of Toronto, and Mrs. William S. Crawford of Latham, N.Y.

The dainty refreshments, which included the lovely wedding cake, were served by her niece, Miss Kathryn Foster, and neighbors, Misses Carol and Mary Marvin.

Mrs. Marvin had charge of the guest book. Assisting in the kitchen were neighbors, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. Ella Dunsante and Mrs. Clare Platt.

BEAUTIFUL GIFTS

The many beautiful gifts were on display in the upstairs hall. They received over 100 cards of best wishes from their many friends.

Mrs. Harris was the former Miss Helen Clark, daughter of the late Louis and Sarah Clark. Her early life was spent in Hillier township.

Mr. Harris is the son of the late Garratt and Mary Harris. He spent his childhood in Wellington, living in the same house as he does today. It was built by his grandfather more than 100 years ago.

The happy couple were married at the bride's home in Hillier township, by the late Rev. George McColl, on September 24, 1907. Miss Norma Clark, of Belleville, the bride's cousin, was bridesmaid, and the bride's brother, Mr. Jackson Clark, of Trenton, was groomsman. Both were able to attend the anniversary dinner held at Maple Inn, Bloomfield.

During their early married life, Mr. and Mrs. Harris lived in Weston and Toronto. Returning to Wellington, they have lived here ever since.

Their only daughter, Hilda, passed away in 1948. Their two sons, Cory and Garratt are both married and live in Wellington. They have one grandchild, little Deborah Mary, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garratt Harris. Both Mr. and Mrs. Harris are well known and every one of their many friends wish them health and happiness for many years to come.

TWIRLED THEIR WAY TO VICTORY

In the baton twirling championships at the Norfolk county fair in Ontario, Edith Irene Farmer, 11, of Stoney Creek, emerged as juvenile champ of Canada. Her companion here is Colleen Cork, right, who was in the peewee class of twirlers.

Though a junior competitor, Isobel White, 15, of Hamilton, was named Miss Majorette of all Canada. More experienced competitors were favored to win and the competitions were keener than ever before.

RCAF SQUADRON 424 FLIES AGAIN

Hamilton's popular RCAF Squadron 424 is in operation again, not as a fighter unit as before but as a transport squadron. Condemned to disbanding last year, the unit was revitalized when thousands of citizens of Hamilton, Ont., protested. Above are some of the squadron's new planes, Expeditors and DC-3's.

Conservatives Retain Seat In By-Election

CALGARY (CP)—Ernest Watkins, a 55-year-old English-born lawyer in Canada less than five years, was elected to the Alberta legislature in a byelection Wednesday, retaining for the Progressive Conservatives one of the six Calgary seats.

Mr. Watkins defeated four other candidates, having a margin of 2,262 over his nearest opponent, S. J. Helman, Social Credit.

His election thwarted a bid by the governing Social Credit party to seat Mr. Helman, also a lawyer, so he could assume the cabinet post of attorney-general, now held by Premier Manning.

Standing in the 61-seat House is unchanged over the 1955 result: Social Credit 37, Liberals 15, Progressive Conservative 3, CCF 2, Independent Social Credit 1, Liberal-Conservative 1, Coalition 1, Independent 1.

THREE LOSE DEPOSITS

Three candidates lost their deposits. Labor candidate Frank Bodle getting 3,969 votes, Liberal Reg McGough 2,364 and Independent Cliff Harris, who advocated relaxed liquor laws, 817.

Only 35 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots.

The seat was made vacant last spring when Conservative Art Smith resigned to seek a federal seat in the June 10 election. He was elected MP for Calgary South.

The byelection marked the first time city voters had used the simple "X" system of voting. The 1956 legislature session substituted this for preferential representation which had been used since 1924.

It also marked what could be the last voting at city-wide polls here. This multiple-seat constituency, as well as Edmonton, will be split into separate ridings before the next provincial general election, expected in 1959 or 1960.

No Order Given To Fire Upon Strange Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. defence department Wednesday denied published reports that U.S. Navy planes were ordered to shoot down an unidentified plane spotted over 6th Fleet units in the Mediterranean last week.

It said an alert was sent to one commander telling him of the presence of an unidentified aircraft approaching his carrier task group," but no other orders were issued.

SKILL WITH SHOVEL IS KEY TO WEALTH

Housewives don't usually find it profitable, necessary or even wise to be proficient with a shovel, but Mrs. Maxine Bradshaw, at the moment shown here, wishes she had more experience with a shovel. Winner of a contest in New York, she was told all the silver dollars she could shovel into a box in two minutes would be hers. She managed to transfer $7,700 before the gong rang.

Hospital Strike Danger Is Seen

TORONTO (CP)—The Building Service Employees' International Union Wednesday told an Ontario legislature select committee on labor relations that Ontario hospitals may one day "find themselves involved in a work stoppage."

The union's brief was presented by Albert G. Hearn, International vice-president. He said that in the 29 hospitals with which the union has contracts there is a "corps of individuals" who "absolutely refuse to discuss bargaining matters with our organization."

Mr. Hearn said the only reason there has never been a strike in an Ontario hospital was because affiliated locals have made the necessary concessions.

He said: "We believe it is inevitable that somewhere along the line a definite stand has got to be made."

Provide Seats For Vets, Widows

OTTAWA (CP)—Seating is to be provided for 200 Silver Cross widows and mothers and for 25 disabled veterans when the Queen places a wreath at the National War Memorial Sunday, Oct. 13, it was announced Wednesday.

Several hundred veterans will parade to the memorial to witness the ceremony.

Widows and mothers desiring seats should apply for admission cards to the Canadian Legion's Dominion secretary, 465. Gilmour Street, Ottawa, and present their silver crosses or other credentials in support of their request, the announcement said.

Disabled veterans' cards can be obtained from W. E. Shore, first vice-president of Ottawa branch, War Amputations of Canada, 1123 Normandie Crescent.

HOFFA ALMOST

The entire 64 - page record of the charges was read to the convention delegates Wednesday. They quickly tore more than two hours during the reading. Then bedlam broke loose. Beck and Hoffa had to bang his gavel to maintain control.

A proposal for a union investigation of the charges was overwhelmingly defeated. By virtually the same vote the delegates then wiped all reference to the charges from the convention record.

Despite the mounting indication that the Hoffa bandwagon is rolling, Thomas J. Haggerty, of Chicago, Thomas L. Hickey of New York and William A. Lee of Chicago, the other candidates for the presidency showed a determination to remain in the race "right down to the wire."

Some teamster sources interpreted that as a move to force Beck, Hoffa and anti-Hoffa delegates to stand up and be counted.

DENIES CHARGES

Hoffa took the floor on personal privilege and denied there is any basis for charges against him. He read a statement which he said he had filed with the AFL-CIO.

In it, he went into some detail to refute accusations of misuse of union funds and to defend his acquaintance with Johnny Dio, convicted New York labor racketeer as a union business relationship.

Thirteen New York rank - and - file teamster members announced they will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court their suit charging that 80 per cent of the delegates to the convention here are illegal or were elected by fraud.

SLEEP DISTURBERS

CALGARY (CP)—Thousands of geese flew south over Calgary early Wednesday in front of a cold air system that moved into Northern Alberta. The low-flying geese kept many residents awake. Police received several telephone calls complaining of yapping dogs—with the honking geese responsible.

GOOD TO HAVE AROUND THE HOUSE

Visible proof that the atomic age will make things easier is in this "slave manipulator" at the AMF Atomics (Canada) plant at Port Hope. The manipulator is used to handle "hot" or radio-active substances, but it can be pressed into service for lighting cigarets or picking up lost collar buttons. The plant is the first in Canada to produce fuel for atomic furnaces.

Unemployment And Low Wages Feared by Labor

VICTORIA (CP)—Increases in Canadian productivity are not desirable if they are accompanied by a decline in employment, the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was told Tuesday.

Prof. J. C. Cameron, head of the department of industrial relations at Queen's University, told the chamber that labor's fear of unemployment and low wages resulting from increased productivity through automation "cannot be dismissed lightly."

In a panel discussion on productivity as a weapon against inflation, Prof. Cameron said that in periods of depressed business the introduction of new machinery may decrease employment.

The period of transition in re-employing all those workers displaced by machinery "may involve great hardship for the persons affected," despite unemployment insurance and severance pay.

Prof. Cameron said technological changes must be so timed as to be acceptable to the labor movement.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and Wayne visited Miss Jean Wager of Hamilton on Saturday and attended the Hamilton — Montreal rugby game. The remainder of the weekend was spent in Guelph visiting relatives.

Miss J. Gay attended a semi-annual meeting of "Folk School" held in Baltimore on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Shaw, of Chatham, and Mrs. Henry Wallace, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shaw, on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries, of London, were Saturday overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benson.

Miss Helen Kerby and her niece, Miss Cheryl Gibson, Toronto, spent the weekend at her home, here.

Congratulations to Elizabeth Ann Kerby who celebrated her third birthday with a birthday party on Sunday. Guests attending were: Cheryl Gibson, Toronto; Misses Marilyn, Beth, Norma and Stephanie Stephens.

Callers at the same home on this happy occasion were: Miss Margaret Donahue, Elizabeth's godmother; Mrs. Theresa Donahue; Mrs. Jan Donahue, and Godfrey, all of Belleville, and Miss Helen Kerby, of Toronto.

Mr. Michael Kerby spent the weekend in Belleville.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gunn, of Wesley, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson and attended anniversary services at White's Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowers to Gananoque on Sunday.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stickle and a tea guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jeffery.

Jack Frost visited this district on Thursday and Friday evenings and touched some of the tender plants.

Mrs. Norman Duetta was a Saturday tea guest of Mrs. Leonard Young.

Mr. Latham and girls and Mr. Gilbert Sarles were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hunt.

Anniversary services were held at White's Church with a good attendance of members and friends from surrounding districts. The Rev. J. Beach of Batawa, and Frankford, was guest speaker at the morning service, giving a fine message on serving God, from Romans 15. The choir contributed an anthem, "Praise Him," and the Misses Audrey Bowers, Sylvia Bilham and Sharon Jeffery gave a number "No One Ever Cared for Me Like Jesus."

The evening service was taken by the Rev. C. Clarke of Frankford, who gave a fine message. The choir contributed two anthems, "The Wonderful Book," and "Open My Eyes," with Mrs. W. A. Jeffery as pianist. Mr. Robert Percival, pastor of Bayside pastoral charge, assisted in the services.

The church was nicely decorated with potted plants on autumn flowers which added much to the enjoyment of the services.

World-wide communion services will be held next Sunday at the usual hour of 10 o'clock with Sunday School at 11 o'clock. There will be a special service for those wishing to unite with White's Church.

OLD SYSTEM

SOUTH ELAHAM, England (CP)—Electricians wiring a 17th-century farmhouse in this Sussex community found cat husks between ceiling and floorboards, believed to be for sound-proofing and insulation.

Wooler

WOOLER — Mrs. Edith Anderson and daughter, Dianne, of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Austin.

The annual Thanksgiving anniversary in the United Church will be on October 13th at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. Guest speaker will be the Rev. J. Whitehorn of Seymour United.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Austin and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Dorland spent Thursday evening dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. R. Scott.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Doug Fox entertained friends at their home to a reception in honor of their son, Gerald and his bride, nee Patricia Mary Bush, who just returned from their honeymoon motor trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Putnam, Ronald Leavitt and Mr. and Mrs. Bill McKee, spent Saturday evening in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hubble and Mrs. H. Gainsforth attended a wedding in Kingston on Saturday.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE —Anniversary services held at Fuller United Church on Sunday were conducted by Rev. Harold Stobbart, and were largely attended.

Mr. Stobbard delivered two inspiring sermons; taking for his text at the morning worship, "The Iron Did Swim," 2nd Kings 6:6; in the evening, "There Is A River, the Streams Whereof Shall Make Glad the City of God."

The Frankford quartet was in attendance and gave several numbers accompanied by Mrs. Sid Martin.

After the evening service, they again favored with several selections.

The minister voiced the appreciation of the session and congregation, saying "this quartet has been coming to assist at anniversary services for nine years and their message in song has stirred our hearts. There are some who could no be reached by the preaching of the word, and yet hearts have been storred by the singing of a gospel hymn."

Call By-Election To Fill Seat In Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—A provincial bylection in the multiple-seat constituency of Calgary has been called to fill one of the six Calgary seats in the legislature. The seat was made vacant by the resignation last spring of Progressive Conservative Arthur Smith who successfully contested Calgary South in the June 10 federal election.

Present standing in the legislature: Social Credit 37, Liberals 15, Progressive Conservative 2, CCF 2, Independent Social Credit 1, Liberal Conservative 1, Coalition 1, Independent 1, vacant 1. Total 61.

The five candidates are Frank Bodie, Labor; Cliff Harris, Independent; Samuel Helman, Social Credit; J. Reginald McCullough, Liberal; and Ernest Watkins, Progressive Conservative.

Mr. Smith's resignation left Calgary with three Social Credit and two Liberal members. Mr. Smith topped the polls in the 1955 provincial election in Calgary when there were 23 candidates for the six seats.

Mr. Helman, a lawyer, has been publicly promised by Premier E. C. Manning the job of attorney-general if elected.

Mrs. B. Woodbeck, Stirling, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Baker on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Burkitt and family visited Mr. and Mrs. E. Huble, of Campbellford, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Dickie visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Meneely at Belleville on Friday.

Mr. H. Jones was among those who went by bus to Toronto and attended a banquet for members of the L.O.L.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fraser returned to their home in Ohio after spending a week with Mrs. S. Fraser and family. They also attended the Solmes — Fraser wedding on Saturday at St. Mark's Anglican Church.

Members of St. Mark's Anglican Church celebrated their harvest festival on Sunday evening in the beautifully decorated church. Sheaves of grain flanked the pulpit and the windows were banked with flowers and fruit; flowers adorned the altar and baptismal font. The Rev. R. G. Fleming gave a splendid address on the harvest and thanksgiving. The choir under the leadership of Mrs. Fleming, rendered an anthem.

TWEED

Farmers' Union Meets At St. Carthagh's School

TWEED — The third annual convention of the Farmers' Union was held in St. Carthagh's School, Tweed, last Thursday night, with the hall filled to capacity.

Appointed for the second term as county director was Clarence Graham, R.R. 2, Thomasburg, as secretary-treasurer, for a second term was Mrs. A. B. Trudeau, R.R. 3, Tweed; the assistant men's directors appointed were: Thomas S. Kelly, R.R. 2, Thomasburg; George Williams, Springbrook, and Harold Murphy, Marysville. The women's director for the coming year will be Mrs. Fred Bailey, of Cooper. Her assistants are: Mrs. Bernard Murphy, Marysville, Mrs. Mallcka Cassidy, Tweed, and Mrs. C. Welsh, of Marysville.

SPEAKERS

The main speakers at the meeting were A. V. Cormack, president of the Ontario Union, and Mrs. E. Prosser, women's president of the Ontario Union. They each gave a report of the Union's work and progress to date.

The women's president, Mrs. Prosser, will be back Oct. 30 for a meeting of the local union, to be held in the Hungerford township hall. She will be a guest speaker and will give more details and information at that time.

Each local president gave a progress report of his local for the year.

A sing-song. Margaret Bates, Roslin, gave a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Gray, Roslin. Following this two vocal numbers were rendered by Hon Cassidy, Tweed, accompanied by Mrs. Fergus Cassidy, Stoco. A reading was given by Mrs. Geo. Williams, Springbrook, and a violin selection was rendered by Jack Murphy, Stoco.

The reeve of Tweed, T. C. Graham, was present and welcomed the convention guests as a whole, from the village of Tweed. He stated that he never realized the organization was such a large and "up and doing" system, and said he believed it was the thing for the village and the farmers. He said he was a farmer himself, being reared on a farm and that at one time a buyer for the United Farmers.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Walter Reid is having his house improved with a coat of stucco.

There was quite a bit of excitement around the 9th line on Monday night when a fire broke out in Fred Petherick's kitchen. However, several neighbors were soon on the scene and had it out before it got much headway.

Rylstone was well represented at Campbellford Fair on Wednesday. Several also attended Roseneath Fair on Saturday.

At Stirling Fair, Don Heath got third prize for his 4-H club calf and 1st prize on his year's work. Paul McKeown received 4th prize for his 4-H club calf and two specials, one for a grade calf and one for a skimmed milk calf.

Those who attended the afternoon tea in Springbrook Orange Hall on Friday were Mrs. Ralph Heath, Mrs. Ellis Jones, Mrs. Lily Anderson and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Dunk, Campbellford, were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson and Beth.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Barnum who, on Wednesday, October 2, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. All wish them many more happy anniversaries together.

Chester Melklejohn has returned home after spending the past few days in Campbellford Memorial Hospital. All wish him better health.

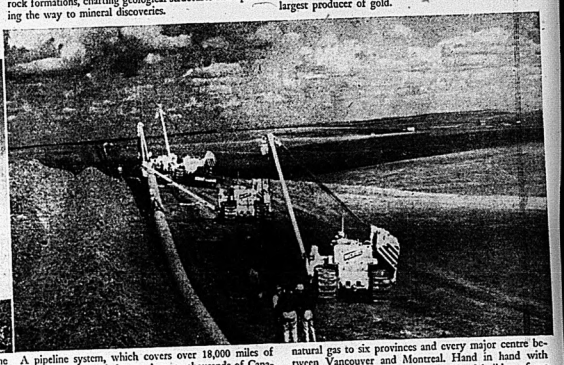
Canada's Minerals

A Bridge to Prosperity

During September and October the doors of Canada's mineral industry will be opened to delegates from 30 countries attending the 6th Commonwealth Mining and Metallurgical Congress. Here they will see the great development which has taken place since the Congress last met in 1927. In the interim, the Canadian mineral industry has grown beyond all expectations. In 1956 the value of Canada's mineral production soared over the two billion mark.

The field geologist holds the key to the mineral industry. He might travel the nation in his lifetime, examining rock formations, charting geological structures and opening the way to mineral discoveries.



A bucket chain gouges into Bonanza Creek near Dawson city to lift gravel from 35 feet below the water level in the search for placer gold. Canada is the world's 3rd largest producer of gold.

The Canadian miner, labouring in the depths of a metal or coal mine creates employment not only for many of the 133,000 persons directly connected with the industry but for numerous other Canadians in allied industries.

Aviation is an important link in the extension of the mineral industry to the almost inaccessible corners of Canada's 3.8 million square miles.

National Film Board of Canada Photos.

A pipeline system, which covers over 18,000 miles of Canada carries oil and natural gas to thousands of Canadian industries and homes. The completion of the Transcanada and Westcoast Transmission pipelines will bring natural gas to six provinces and every major centre between Vancouver and Montreal. Hand in hand with pipeline development goes the continued buildup of gas and oil reserves.

The Barber's Ghost Hovered Over Ford in Brilliant Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The hero of the opening world series baseball game was Yankee curve - baller Edward (Whitey) Ford, but he was a hero with a trailer. He said so himself.

The trailer was Sal (The Barber) Maglie, the corner-cutting veteran whose tour of duty has included New York Giants, Cleveland Indians, Brooklyn Dodgers and now New York Yankees.

Bought by Yankees Sept. 1, after the deadline for world series eligibility, The Barber couldn't be put on the firing line against Milwaukee Braves.

But some of his wizardry was in every pitch as Ford mowed down the National League champions 3-1 on five hits for his fifth world series pitching victory.

WAS MOST HELP

"I had a pretty good book on the Braves but I think Maglie helped me more than anybody," Ford said in the dressing room after the game.

"Our scouts did a very thorough job. But Maglie knew all there was to know about the Braves because he had faced them so many times. The be gave me was invaluable.

"During the past two weeks as we trained for the series we would take outfield sprints together. All this time Maglie would be going over the Braves' hitters with me.

"I guess for half an hour to an hour daily we'd lone up on the Milwaukee hitters. When we got through I felt as if I'd been pitching against them for years."

Ford said, however, that even with all his stored-up' knowledge he was treated to a big surprise in the opening game.

"I thought I'd have the most trouble with Hank Aaron and Joe Adcock, both righthanders," the 29-year-old Yankee pitching ace said. "Instead, they weren't as tough and I had the most difficulty with Ed Mathews and Wes Covington.

"They're lefties and I thought they'd be easy. Instead, they kept me straining all the time."

Aaron got a hit his second time at bat, a single, but went down on three straight strikes in the final sixth with two men on base and none out. Adcock went hitless. Mathews didn't get a safety but Covington laced out two hits.

Crofton

IT WAS GOOD

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand and his McFarland's need not worry about pewster support this coming season if attendance at last night's Red and White game is any criterion.

We are told that over 1,000 fans passed the turnstiles at a quarter admission to see the team go all out in an intra-squad game. And what they saw they liked.

The gang played for keeps and the low score is indicative of the fine defensive ability of the team as a whole.

It was fast hockey from the time Referee Vern Goyer tooted the first whistle, and he with assistant Bill Hurst, did not spare the thumb when the occasion warranted. Midway through the third period the Whites' Johnny Muretich, Walker and Keith MacDonald paraded in line to the boxscore and Rene St. Hilaire, Floyd Crawford and Jack Irvine came up with as neat a penalty-killing job as one would wish to see.

Offensively the team looked good with Minnie Menard good for three goals with the old reliable Paul Payette in on all the hits. Johnny Muretich aided by Keith MacDonald and Rene St. Hilaire were good for another White goal with Keith also dunking the rubber aided by Johnny and Rene. Incidentally the Whites edged the Reds 5-4 in a closely-knit all-out-hard-fought workout.

"Ole Moe," the reliable slap-shotter, fired one from the blueline midway through the first period to open the scoring while Minnie was in the boxsegow. Lionel Betty lobied Moe the pass and the big defenceman made no mistake. Two minutes later the lefthander teamed with Gerry Goyer on a beautiful passing play to put the Reds two up and the period ended that way.

Six minutes had gone in the second heat before Minnie Menard and Paul Payette struck their familiar stride. Along with Floyd Crawford they worked their way nicely to the goal mouth and Minnie made no mistake. Five minutes later the line of Hildebrand, Wiener Brown and Gerry Goyer cut loose with a lightning-fast passing play that was a treat to watch and the Wiener who ended up in front of the net tobled the rubber past the goalie. A minute had scarcely passed than Davy Jones, aided and abetted by Bobo Bosenelc and Ernie Richard, broke away and put the Reds three up. Keith MacDonald cut the margin to two on a neat play with Johnny Muretich and Rene St. Hilaire.

Then came the Whites' three sentences and the fine-tuning job by the trio mentioned. Four whistles later Minnie Menard, Paul Payette and Lionel Betty again headed for paydirt with Minnie getting his second goal of the night. A minute later Johnny Muretich evened the count with MacDonald and St. Hilaire again being credited with assists. Then Menard hit his hat trick with four minutes to go after taking a pass from Paul Payette and outracing the opposition to the goal-mouth to sink the rubber for the win.

Post-game comment was that the fant were satisfied with the progress being made by the club. Coach Hildebrand has done a fine job whipping them into shape and the Macs should be "fit and rarin'" by the time the whistle toots for the first game.

WELL DESERVED

A Canadian Press despatch this morning states that Bobby Hull has been signed to a contract by the Chicago Black Hawks. The 18-year-old sensation from Point Anne apparently caught Coach Tommy Ivan's eye the other night when Bobby rapped in two goals against the New York Rangers in an exhibition tilt. We knew, or had been told that young Robert was definitely headed for the big time but nobody suspected the "jump" would come so soon. Ivan said Bobby would start the season with the Hawks and promised the St. Catharines "Tigers" a suitable replacement." Bobby led the Teepees in scoring last year and it goes without saying that the Rudy Pilous gang will miss the fast-skating, hard-shooting centre-man. Here in this neck of the hockey woods we all wish Bobby the best of luck in the "big time."

Argos Retain Hampton Pool

TORONTO (CP)—Manager director Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts has announced that Hampton Pool will coach the Big Four Football Union team again in 1958.

The announcement Wednesday followed a vote of confidence in Pool given by the Argo board of management Tuesday on Hayman's recommendation.

Pool signed a two-year contract with Argonauts last January. The team is winless in seven Big Four games this season.

"There has never been any question to me that Hamp Pool would be our coach next year," Hayman said. "But, in view of the team's losing streak, there may be some rumors that we will replace Hamp.

"Pool will be our coach in 1958."

Hayman also predicted the Toronto team will defeat Montreal Alouetles when they play here Saturday.

Pool said he had considered resigning after Ottawa Rough Riders trimmed Argonauts 21-1 last Saturday. He termed Hayman's announcement "wonderful" and added: "Now I hope we can win a few."

See the Swami Before You Bet

TORONTO (CP)—Kalanag, an itinerant magician currently appearing here, correctly forecast the 3-1 result of the first world series game between New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves.

Kalanag, who calls himself "the king of magicians," placed a slip of paper bearing his prediction into a locked box Tuesday night. It was opened Wednesday after the game.

Whitey Ford Tosses 5-Hitter To Shade 'Nervous' Braves; Shantz, Burdette Hurl Today

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees ruled a solid 12-to-5 choice to capture the world series as lefthander Bobby Shantz and Milwaukee righthander Lew Burdette prepared to take the mound at Yankee Stadium today in what is regarded as the key game of the October classic. Another crowd of some 70,000 was expected.

Should Shantz subdue the Braves, following Whitey Ford's five-hit 3-1 triumph for New York Wednesday, the Yankees could conceivably sweep the set in four straight over the tight and tense Milwaukee club. Should the Braves rally behind Burdette and even the count, the outlook is for a knock-down and drag-out seven games.

NOT OUTPASSED

The Braves were noticeably nervous and restrained in the opener. Aside from a hit, their fielding wasn't sharp and they didn't play aggressive ball. The Yankees outhit them, outfielded them, outpitched them and outmanaged them. Yet the Braves weren't exactly outclassed. Certainly the Yankees didn't overpower them. They just did everything a little bit better than the Braves.

Warren Spahn, who was batted out in the sixth inning to suffer the loss, may have outthrown the keynote for his team when he pounded in the clubhouse after the game.

"The Yankees showed us they were human," they didn't exactly roll over us. We were in the game all the way."

If manager Fred Haney was discouraged, he failed to show it.

"We just got beaten, that's all. We had scored runs before but we just didn't hit enough. The Yankees can be beaten. I'm still confident we will."

FAST SERIES APPEARANCE

Haney was banking on Burdette, second ace to Spahn during the Braves' stretch run to the National League pennant in September. The slender 30-year-old righthander is an experienced pitcher even though he never before appeared in a world series. A 17-game winner, Lew's best pitches are a curve and a slider. He pitches something like Spahn, but he wasn't as tested and tempered, giving up seven of the nine Yankee hits before leaving trailing, 3-1, in the eighth. Then two-run rally in the sixth.

For Shantz, as well as Burdette this was a critical assignment No. 1. The little southpaw, acquired in a trade with Kansas City last February, earned his shot at Milwaukee with an 11-5 record and an earned run average of .44, lowest in the majors. The five-foot-seven 145-pounder also relies on breaking stuff, slow curves, screwballs and knuckers.

FIRM IN CLUTCH

Ford turned in a neat performance but he has pitched better games in world series. He issued four passes and was in several trouble spots but remained firm in the clutch. Milwaukee batters swinging at bad pitches and watching good ones go by didn't hurt him either.

Ford threw 128 pitches, 19 in the fifth and 24 in the sixth, in either of which innings a key hit might have sent him to the showers. In the sixth, Stengel saw fit to leave the dugout to give a few words of advice and encouragement to the compact little lefthander. There were two flies out and two Braves on base, via dum.

"The skin diving outfit was enough. Why did you have to get Junior a spear gun too?"

walks, with a count of 2-1 on batter Andy Pafko. The veteran outfielder ran up a full count, fouled off three pitches, then rifled the inning by missing a high curve.

LOTS OF CURVES

Ford struck out five. His best pitch was a curve, which he threw 60 per cent of the time. He wasn't fast and despite his low hitter he struggled most of the way. Whitey's dramatic bid was ruined in the seventh when Wes Covington's second hit, a double, pinch hitter Enos Jones' infield out and Red Schoendienst's single produced the Milwaukee run. It was the only inning the Braves managed two hits.

It was a methodical game devoid of thrills. The crowd of 69,476 saw only one fine fielding play. That was made by Gil Hodges, Dodgild pn Pafko in the fifth. The Yankee shortstop raced behind second for a fine play and threw to ruin Andy's bid for a hit. Pafko was probably saved at least a run because Covington's single, a muff by substitute first baseman Elston Howard on Jerry Coleman's relay of a potential double play grounder and a walk to Spahn put three other Braves on base in that inning.

MAY BE FINISHED

Howard was in the game because Bill Skowron re-injured his back while running the bases in the first inning and was forced to retire. He may be lost to the Yankees for the rest of the series Mickey Mantle, the other injured Yankee, played the entire game but his efforts were limited to two infield singles, one a beautiful drag bunt.

Coleman, regarded as a light hitter, showed honors with Ford along with outfielder Hank Bauer. The graceful second baseman contributed two hits, scored the first run and drove in the third. He also made a great play on the sixth against relief pitcher Ernie Johnson scored Yogi Berra with the final Yankee run. The Braves appeared unprepared for the play. Berra was practically on top of the plate before the Braves were aware of what was up.

Bauer's hit, a double in the centre field wall scoring Coleman in the fifth is ample evidence of the duel between the veteran southpaws, was the hardest ball hit by a Yankee.

Yama Bahama Whips Flanagan

CHICAGO (AP) — Yama Bahama of the West Indies Wednesday night hammered out a unanimous 10 - round decision over hard - stepping Del Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., in a middleweight bout at Chicago Stadium.

Flanagan, a veteran of 142 fights and a 7-to-5 favorite, failed to land a solid blow throughout the rather dull fight. When Flanagan tried to unleash his right, Bahama caught him with jolting lefts as he lunged in.

Flanagan weighed 153 pounds and Bahama 154.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

In the Dressing Rooms

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Nice guys can win, too, in baseball.

Take Jerry Coleman, who co-starred with pitcher Whitey Ford in the Yankees 3-1 opening victory over Milwaukee Wednesday. They don't come any nicer than the self-effacing ex-marine bomber pilot. The handsome 33-year-old second baseman scored one run, drove in another on a perfect sacrifice play, and played flawlessly in the field.

It was a surprise that Jerry even got into the opening game. If he was picked by manager Casey Stengel, it would have been his own fault. For who was it who groomed young Billy Richardson to take over second for the Yankees? None other than Jerry Coleman.

Jerry calls Richardson the "best fielding second baseman in the American League."

BAT WINS JOB

Coleman was given the call by Casey for his hitting in the last series with Boston. Jerry, a .268 hitter this year, belted a homer against the Red Sox.

Although he played second fiddle mostly for Richardson, Coleman feels he's had a good year.

"For the first time in four years, I accepted my utility role," said Coleman. "I flopped fighting with myself . . . worrying about winning a regular job. Now I'm satisfied with myself and I should have had four years ago."

Coleman's single and Hank Bauer's double brought in the first Yankee run in the fifth inning. In the sixth, with one out, one Yankee run in and men on first and third, Coleman hit to the first man to face Ernie Johnson, who relieved starter Warren Spahn. Coleman fouled off the first pitch and then laid down a perfect bunt to the pitcher that scored Yogi Berra from third with the icing run.

NO PLAY AT HOME

Some critics thought Johnson could have made the play at the plate but Milwaukee manager Fred Haney said: "Positively not. Berra was away with the pitch and Coleman laid one down perfectly. When that happens there's nothing you can do about it."

As for Ford, Milwaukee shortstop Johnny Logan summed it up aptly when he said "He's a left-handed Sal Maglie."

As far as Haney was concerned there were no bad breaks in the opener. "Our only bad break was that we didn't hit their pitcher all day."

The Braves got just five hits, four of them singles.

So What? You Couldn't Get a Ticket

NEW YORK, (AP) — For the millions of baseball fans unable to sit in at Yankee Stadium Wednesday for the first of world series game between New York and Milwaukee Braves, the TV cameras generally did a good job of catching the action.

However, if the final score had been 1-0 on the Yankee run in the fifth inning, the TV fans would have had to guess.

The TV crew caught the other two Yankee runs in the sixth, and the Braves' run in the top of the seventh, but missed the initial tally.

In fact, TV fans never saw Jerry Coleman's sharp ground single down the third base line to start the fifth inning until the ball had zoomed past Eddie Mathews into left field. It's humanely impossible to swing a camera from back of the plate down the third base line on one of those lightning smashes.

There were two infield outs, and Coleman was at third when Hank Bauer drilled a double to centre past Hank Aaron. The TV stayed with the ball as it rolled to the wall with Hank in hot pursuit, and the video watchers were left to imagine that Coleman made it home without incident.

Non-Golfers Running Golf Seems Universal

LINDRICK, England (AP)—American Ryder Cup captain Sam Burke admits that trying to get standardization in the world of golf is a tough assignment. But he's campaigning for it just the same.

The Texas professional and his Ryder Cuppers have found trouble getting the distances at Lindrick because of the changing heights of the flagsticks.

"We have the same trouble in America as golfers do in Britain," he told reporters. "We have non-golfers running golf.

"But we feel that if good ideas are put forward for the good of the game, then they should be listened to. Golf has got to move with the times.

STANDARD PIN HEIGHT

"I think that the height of the pin should be a universal seven feet. The size of the ball also should be universal and all the flag-sticks should be painted orange with a red flag."

Burke gave his views during a break in practice for the Ryder Cup match to be decided over Lindrick's 6525 - yard, par 70 course Friday and Saturday.

The British had a smaller team than the American. Most of the American players have decided to play with the smaller British ball in the cup match. But Doug Ford of New York and Ed Furgol of Miami Shores, Fla., said:

"We shall use both, depending on the weather conditions."

The Americans have won the Ryder Cup nine times. Britain has captured it only twice and her last victory was 24 years ago.

Today the rival captains—Burke and Dai Rees—will name their pairings for Friday's Scotch foursomes in which each player takes alternate shots at the ball.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Ethel D. Jacobs' Preakness Land closed with a rush to win the 65th running of the historic $28,850 Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park Wednesday.

The 3-year three-year-old, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, came up in the final strides for a one-half length decision over Assemblyman, who led for almost all of the 1 1-16 miles. Time was 2:41 1-5. Third was Jocko's Walk.

At Chicago J. Graham Brown's Bold Statesman, with Bill Harbeck, won the $17,675 Yo Tambien handicap by 1½ lengths at Hawthorne. Time of victory was 1:49 4-5. It was the triumph of the year for the 5-year-old.

In the Futurity dash for fillies and mares, Fighting Jury was a head back in third spot.

HOME OF THE BRAVES AND N.L.'s MOST LOYAL FANS

Here is the home of the Braves, where Milwaukee fans, who broke all National league attendance records this season, will be rewarded by the city's first world series. This dia-grammed aerial view of County Stadium shows the distances from home plate to left field (320 feet); centre field (402 feet) and right field (315 feet). Games three, four and five of the 1957 World Series are scheduled to be played here.

Lords Wallop Beaches 40-0

TORONTO (CP) — London Lords moved into a first-place tie with Sarnia Golden Bears by walloping Toronto Balmy Beach 40-0 Wednesday night before about 300 Ontario Rugby Football Union fans.

Lords now have nine points along with Bears, with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen right behind the leaders with eight points and a game in hand.

It was Beaches' eighth loss in eight starts but they looked and played better than they have all season but Lords turned on the power in the second half, scoring 26 points.

Lords moved the yardsticks 18 times as they rushed for 358 yards and picked up another 194 yards in the air. Beaches, by contrast, only got three first downs. They made 48 yards on the ground and 41 in the air.

SCORES TWO MAJORS

End Jim Hotrum led the scorers with a pair of touchdowns, Fullbacks Bob Tambling and Ted Konka and halfbacks Bobby Fiveash and Ed Simms added single touchdowns. Simms converted three and Canadian quarterback Tom Sanregret got a single, the only point scored in the second quarter.

Lords scored their first major when Konka made a short plunge over centre in the first quarter.

Import quarterback Dave Downs, who joined Lords last week from Toronto Argonauts' Big Four team, fed Lords to their next touchdown, early in the third quarter as he passed 18 yards from the London 43-yard line to the Beach 17. Fiveash, line to on end around left end for the touchdown.

ANOTHER PASS PLAY

A 29-yard pass from Doane to Tambling resulted in Lords' third touchdown before the third quarter was half over. Sanregret un-corked a 25-yard pass to Hotrum a few plays later and the rangy end went the other 25 yards for a touchdown.

Simms scored the longest touchdown of the game near the conclusion of the fourth quarter when he took a lateral pass from Tambling at the London 25 and went the rest of the way.

A Beach fumble, recovered by Lords, resulted in the final touchdown. Sanregret threw a 44-yard pass to Hotrum in the end zone for the score.

Canadiens Meet Loop Choice In Annual All-Star Classic

MONTREAL (CP) — Hockey crowds into the top sports picture Saturday night when the National Hockey League presents its annual all-star game.

For the second successive year Montreal Canadiens, as Stanley Cup winners, will meet the all-star selections of hockey writers and radio-TV broadcasters in the six NHL cities.

This is the 11th annual all-star game, proceeds of which go to the NHL players' pension fund. Except for two earlier years when the first all-star team met the second all-star team, the game has brought together the Stanley Cup winners—in their home city—and the combined all-stars.

SCHMIDT COACHES

Following custom, all - star choices from cup winners will play with their own team. The opposition will be made up of the remaining choices for first and second all-star teams plus other players.

Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens will marshal his club. Coach Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins, runners-up in the cup series last spring, will direct the all-stars. He has chosen an added 19 players.

Included in the Montreal line-up are Doug Harvey and Jean Beliveau, named to the first all-star team, and Jacques Plante and Maurice (Rocket) Richard, named to the second team.

The - stars automatically on Schmidt's team are Ted Lindsay and Glen Hall, with Detroit Red Wings last season and now with Chicago Black Hawks; Gordie Howe, Detroit; Eddie Litzenberger, Chicago; Bill Gadsby, New York Rangers, and Fern Flaman and Real Chevrefils, Boston.

LISTS ADDITIONS

The additions named by Schmidt and other club affiliations last season are: Jim Morrison, Rudy Migay, George Armstrong and Dick Duff, Toronto Leafs; Allan Stanley and Don McKenney, Boston; Marcel Pronovost and Alex Delvecchio, Detroit; Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice, New York.

Canadiens will be seeking their first win in the big game. They tied 1-1 last year and lost 3-1 to the all-stars in 1953.

In the eight previous meetings, as the teams now are aligned, the all-stars have won four, tied twice and lost twice. Both losses were to Detroit.

Barons Wallop Whitby Dunlops For Third Win

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP) George Bouchard, John McLellan and Jim Moore each scored two goals to lead Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League to a 7-4 victory over Allan Cup champions Whitby Dunlops in an exhibition hockey game Wednesday night.

Steve Kraftcheck scored the other Cleveland goal as Barons clinched the game in the third period after breaking a 4-4 tie.

Charlie Burns with two goals and Ted O'Connor and George Samolenko scored for Whitby, who suffered their third successive exhibition defeat by Cleveland. The next game is in Trenton Friday.

Petes Rookie Dims Canadiens

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Stan Smrke outshone Montreal Canadiens' star performers Wednesday night. The rookie winger scored three goals to pace Reds to a 9-2 victory over Whites in an intra - squad exhibition game.

Jean Beliveau with two goals and Henri Richard, Dickie Moore Bert Olmstead and Don Marshall with one apiece also scored for Reds. Claude Provost and Guy Blaick, 18-year-old junior with Peterborough, scored for Whites, coached by former Toronto Maple Leaf star Ted Kennedy.

Leading 2-1 at the end of the first and 4-1 after the second period, Reds had too much polish for Whites and eventually peppered goalie Lynn Davis.

CONSERVATION

Ketch's Korner

by the ROVING SECRETARY of the CARLING CONSERVATION CLUB

In the Southern Region of Ontario, the waterfowl hunting season got under way last weekend, September 28th, at 10 a.m. daylight saving time. That's about four hours after the birds started flying and about two hours after they quit.

Like myself, there are many waterfowl hunters who wonder — if this regulation was designed as a conservation measure by shortening the period of the opening day shoot, why was the early morning chosen? Most certainly it is not the early morning that accounts for the unrecovered cripples and kills. It is the evening shoot, which unfortunately carries on until accurate targeting and recovery is hampered by falling light.

This delayed opening time was first attempted in some of the States and quickly discarded as of little apparent value in the conservation or conservation of waterfowl. Why it continues here in Ontario and Manitoba is one of the mysteries which confound sportsmen and gives rise to many a serious doubt as to the effectiveness of the reasoning which prompted the enactment of the regulation.

Every experienced waterfowl hunter realizes that if any regulation is to reduce the number of unrecovered cripples or kills, it is not the shooting before darkness sets in. Even half-an-hour would have a telling effect on the total.

That is why one sees so many conservation - minded hunters pick up their decoys when they realize there is little chance of recovering their kills. They voluntarily surrender the extra shooting time now permitted, in the interests of more waterfowl on the wing.

Everyone is entitled to express their own opinion, whether that opinion is based on knowledge, theory or practical experience. That is the basis of democracy. Where dissension enters though, is when an opinion is enforced by a virtual ultimatum, which is contrary to the principles of democracy.

This Korner has earned something of a reputation for continued support of practical conservation projects, explanation of their merits, and assisting, as best it can, in establishing a harmonious relationship between sportsmen and those charged with the wise use of our National Resources.

In this, there has been little cause for disagreement until the present controversy. This Korner feels that it must line up with the opinions, strongly expressed, of the sportsmen.

There may be perfectly valid reasons for the late opening hour of waterfowl shooting on opening day. If so, neither I nor any of the hunters I have talked to have been informed of what those reasons are. Most of us agree that it would be far, far more beneficial to have general early closing.

CBS Non-Stop Talent Hunt Is Run by Casting Director

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Martin, has one of television's oldest assignments — running a non-stop talent marathon.

"What we give them is the opening above all the door of opportunity," he said of his hopefuls.

As casting director for CBS-TV, Martin steers a weekly audition operation which gives a chance to 3,000 or so eager singers, dancers, comics and actors each year. Columbia keeps an index 10,000 cards which can be flipped through to give some person the big chance.

NEVER CAN TELL

"Every once in a whaile a little corner of talent glints through," says Martin, "and you never can tell when it can be used."

"If a person has a burning desire to be heard, is persistent enough and has something to offer, he will be heard."

That "something" need not be remarkable.

"About two a year come by with potential star talent," estimates Bob, "and about 100 who can make a living in the entertainment business."

THERE ARE PROBLEMS

The toughest part of the work is listening to those with lesser skills.

"We can't become career counsellers," he says. "The worst thing is seeing youngsters who have been given a false buildup on their abilities.

"Also, being just good is not enough. So many individuals with the wrong measurements are blessed with the right amount of talent."

PICK SPOTS

For those who impress Martin and his aides, introductory hits on the air are sought with Gary Moore, or on various of the early Sunday drama programs.

Among those who have come through the CBS audition room are Jonathan Winters, Eva Marie Saint, Rita Gam and the late James Dean.

Any system "that just tries to bring a little order into the talent business," is susceptible to error, Martin concedes.

"A few years back a young actor tried out and got one of the worst markings ever scored. He did all right later on though. His name is Kirk Douglas."

FALLS INTO HOT OIL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Carl W. Ely, 42, fell into a vat of 300-degree oil as he and Durell Pierce, 23, were taking a piece of hot steel from a furnace at a heat treatment plant. Ely went completely under, except for one hand with which he gripped the edge of the vat. Pierce quickly grabbed the hand and pulled him out. Ely was seriously burned.

'Round World' Money Rolls in So Fast Todd Can't Blow It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A lesson in economics by Mike Todd.

His lecture was delivered on the run, you might say, since that's the way you find him. It started at his studio office, where he spoke of passing celebrities out the window to between phone calls to France, England, Hawaii and New York. Then he drove his convertible to the Beverly Hills hotel, where he showered, shaved and dressed before dashing off to MGM.

The matter of economics arose from a printed report that his take from Around the World in 80 Days is $400,000 a week.

Absolutely false, he said. The figure is much too low.

"During the recent week," he declared, "the total gross for the picture was around $1,200,000. Our return from the picture is around 68 per cent. In some cities where we operate our own theatres, it is much more. It never can go under 60 per cent."

SHOWING IN 46 CITIES

Now you can see how he is able to buy those baubles for Liz Taylor. The chances are she'll be showered with more.

"We are now open in 46 cities," Todd said, "and by Oct. 17—a convenient date (it's the Todds' first anniversary)—we'll be open in 25 more. At Christmas time, I will be playing in 100 locations."

"So far the domestic take has been $16,000,000. On this basis, I think the estimates of a $50,000,000 gross are in error. A hundred million is more like it.

"And the picture is just starting in the foreign field. It has opened in Buenos Aires, Caracas, Osaka, Tokyo, London and Paris."

The producer remarked that he was forced into such prosperity. When he needed $900,000 badly to finish the picture, he offered a distributor 15 per cent of the profits for a loan. The firm declined, preferring to be repaid in cash.

Todd has blown many other millions, and I asked him if he could do it again.

"I don't think so," he said. "There's so much coming in now that it takes even my ability to spend."

At this point, Liz awoke from a nap and stumbled into the room in a short nightgown.

For the record: Yes, she even looks gorgeous just awakened and with her hair in curlers.

"I'm doing my bit for the future," she commented. "I'm seeing that the money goes into diamonds, furs, etc. Things we can back later on."

"Isn't she thoughtful?" Todd said. "I'll get it back again,-we can always pawn her million dollars' worth of diamonds."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Friday, October 4, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't quibble about a little extra cost, or even a lot of it. If it's justly asked, and can do good. You can allocate time for rest too. Co-operation is the big theme now. Avoid disputes.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) —There's no time like the present for taking care of urgent matters. However, set aside some moments for quiet reflection and planning. Put first things first; others will fall in line more swiftly. Don't be too critical of others.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) —The effort and integrity you put into a project will pay grand dividends later. Be patient about developments, but also double-check to see how they are doing.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) —Though the day's aspects warn against drawing hasty conclusions, don't dally too long before acting. Be prompt in all matters. And do be tactful!

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Impressive and solemn thoughts have their respective and good parts to play in life but without humor or tolerance, they could make a day most depressing. Keep perspective.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Please note Gemini influences are similar. Don't waste time but, on the other hand, don't be hasty; it could prove costly.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Overly long work hours can unfit you for the better and more consistent accomplishments that come when you maintain an even pace. Engage in occasional relaxation and wholesome pastimes.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Details are important now. Listen to the opinions of others but think them over before you act. Use logic and reason to solve difficult problems.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Differentiate between the worthwhile and the chaff and handle essentials first. Correspondence and legal matters under especially good influences.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn)—Being alone in an opinion does not necessarily mean you are wrong, but it does suggest consideration of methods to better present your side, to gain rightful laurels. Matters connected with geology, electricity and travel favored.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Handle all tasks with vigor and the will to make a top showing. Be discriminating in all things. Scientific, artistic and literary matters especially favored.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Do not minimize the achievements of others. You may have to ferret out your own opportunities right now and work hard for gains. But you can do it!

You born today have creative talent and great determination; are influenced by keen-minded people. But you may be intolerant of others. Cultivate your talents and let your inborn sense of justice guide you. Don't go to extremes in either work or play. Birthdate: Rutherford B. Hayes, 19th U.S. president.

C of C Approves Proposal For Right to Ask for Secret Ballot While Strike Is On

VICTORIA (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has termed trade with Communist countries as "in the general interest of the economy of Canada."

A rider to this resolution, one of several passed at a policy session Wednesday, recommended that this trade be "subject to such conditions as imposed by the federal government regarding strategic materials."

The Chamber at its annual meeting also approved a proposal that would give labor or management the right to ask for a secret ballot while a strike is in progress.

The policy declaration is to be presented to the federal cabinet, possibly in November.

If incorporated in labor legislation, the proposal would have the effect of taking strike negotiation beyond the union negotiating committee to the rank and file membership.

One effect of the proposal would be to render sympathy strikes, jurisdictional strikes and mass picketing vulnerable to the demands of the rank and file membership and remove control from the union executive.

The rest of the declaration, referred back to the executive at an earlier policy session, urged "labor legislation" prohibiting strikes during the term of a collective agreement, until conciliation procedures have been completed, until parties have had an opportunity to request a secret strike ballot, and until such time as a strike is authorized by a majority of the employees affected.

The chamber did not settle on a policy for a Canadian flag.

A resolution was presented proposing that the chamber urge adoption of the Red Ensign as Canada's official flag.

Bill Bennett, manager of the Sarnia Chamber of Commerce, proposed an amendment deleting reference to the Red Ensign and urging the government "create and establish an official flag for Canada." This was supported 76-33 but a two-thirds majority was needed.

A second vote of 67-57 in favor, also lost for lack of majority, had the effect of leaving the chamber with no official policy on a flag.

Theme were among other subjects considered:

Communism: Constant vigilance should be exercised by commerce groups to expose the menace of communism. The most effective defence is "a full appreciation of the benefits and an understanding of the mechanics of our enterprise economy and a devotion to the principles of true democracy."

Ontario workers: Employers should hire older workers whenever possible as this group represents "a reservoir of skill."

Pollution: The federal government should begin an investigation of air and water pollution, "a national problem."

Reserve: Extension of Industrial Development Bank facilities to resort operators would serve to promote the "orderly expansion of the tourist industry throughout Canada."

Polish Students Riot To Protest Banning Of Paper

'Severe Sanctions' Planned After Five-Hour Battle

WARSAW (AP) — Communist authorities today threatened "severe sanctions" against students who took part in Warsaw's first anti - government demonstration since Wladyslaw Gomulka came to power.

Riot police backed by worker militia men battled about 3,000 students in a melee of tear gas, rubber truncheons and bricks Thursday night outside the Warsaw Polytechnic School. The students were protesting suppression of their newspaper.

About 30 students were reported injured. Ten police also were injured by bricks rained down from windows of a student boarding house and by pavingstones hurled in the streets. Several students were treated for effects of tear gas and bruises from truncheons.

CARRY WARNING

All morning papers carried this warning to the students:

"It is understood the rector of Polytechnic has said severe sanctions will be taken against those participants in the demonstration, including expulsion from colleges.

The official account said the police had arrested "those who had behaved aggressively."

The demonstration was the first breach between the Communist party and its officially sponsored Union of Socialist Youth.

The Polytechnic School students were in the forefront in the struggle for freedom that produced the downfall of the Stalinist government and its hatchetman last year and the return of Gomulka to government power.

As Communist party secretary, Gomulka had charted a more moderate course, only taking over 12 months ago following the "bread and freedom" uprising of workers in Poznan. But the government ruled the student paper party's attacks on Stalinism had gone too far.

ANSWER SUMMONS

The students gathered at Nadziewicza Square in the evening in answer to summons to a protest meeting to be held in all Warsaw schools earlier in the day.

The mood of the crowd was good humored. Then six police trucks and four radio cars sped into the square and the crowd going full blast.

The students jeered as the police lined up around the square. A loudspeaker called on the demonstrators to disperse.

The police marched shoulder to shoulder on the students, who refused to budge. The police attacked with truncheons.

"We want bread," the students yelled sarcastically. The police obliged by throwing tear gas bombs. The 2,000 students broke and ran.

Later, after about 500 students massed on the steps of a boarding house near the Polytechnic School, they chanted:

"Gestapo, Gestapo." They shouted as the police approached. The police again laid down a tear gas barrage. The students fled into the boarding house.

Factory militia—armed workers units established by the government to cope with such public disturbances — then arrived from the Zeran auto plant to reinforce the police.

They called another outburst of fighting and another gas attack by the police. By midnight, however, after the first riots, broke out, quiet was restored.

Consumer Price Index Climbs During August

OTTAWA (CP)—The consumer price index increased sharply by seven-tenths of a point during August to a new high of 123.3, up from 122.6 in July, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The increase was the sixth consecutive monthly rise in a trend that started last March. With each successive boost, a record high has been established. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

The increase said the increase was seasonal and almost entirely due to a rise from 119.5 to 121.9, also a record, in the index's food component.

Price increases were reported for eggs, pork, butter, oranges, bananas and lettuce, although other fruits and vegetables were lower.

SHELTER INDEX

The shelter sub-index increased from 135.3 to 135.6 as the homeownership component advanced more than rent costs.

The clothing sub-index edged upwards seven-tenth of a point to 108.3 as price increases for a number of men's items in the fall were partially offset by declines in women's wear.

Fractionally higher prices in many items of the household group, including furniture, floor covering and household services, covering and household services, moved this component of the cost-of-living index to 119.8 from 119.7.

Despite further drops in car prices, the sub-index for miscellaneous commodities and services advanced slightly to 127.1 from 126.9, reflecting higher prices for car repairs and servicing, car insurance and public transportation fares.

FOOD PRODUCTS DOWN

The index of Canadian farm products, based on 1935-39 equalling 100, dropped to 303.8 from 311.9 in the four weeks between Aug. 30 and Sept. 27, mainly as a result of a sharp drop in the animal products group.

The effect of substantial price declines for hogs was reinforced by losses for other livestock, by wool, tobacco and western milk. A few items were firm, including eastern poultry and eastern and western cheese, milk calves and apples, which moved fractionally higher.

The wholesale price index, also based on the same period, dropped to 282.3 from 288.8 in the same four weeks. Prices for hogs, scrap metal and cattle were significantly lower, while smaller declines were reported for copper, hides, raw wool and rubber, linseed oil, crude oil, steel and wheat.

200,000 Cases Of Suspected Flu in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City has more than 200,000 cases of suspected Asian flu.

Two upper respiratory ailment deaths have been reported, but the exact flu type has not been determined.

Hospital clinics were jammed Thursday and school attendance still was down about 20 per cent. Teacher absenteeism was an abnormal seven per cent.

Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, state health commissioner, said the situation is "potentially serious, but as of today it is not serious."

SUPERSONIC JET ABLE TO CARRY HYDROGEN BOMB

Will Be Unveiled By Defence Minister

TORONTO (CP) — The CF-105 supersonic Arrow, to be unveiled here today by Defence Minister Pearkes will be capable of carrying a hydrogen bomb.

But it is doubtful the battle-winged twin jet could be used in such a role, at least from Canadian bases because of its limited range.

Dr. Omond Solandt, president of Avro Aircraft Ltd., designer and builder of the plane, said at a press conference Thursday night the Arrow will have a speed of about 1,200 miles an hour but will be able to stay in the air for only 20 to 30 minutes because of its limited supply for fuel.

This means it will be able to fly only some 300 miles from its base, a shorter range than that of the subsonic CF-100 now in RCAF squadrons.

NOT YET FLOWN

The Arrow, on which the federal government has already spent $200,000,000, has not yet been flown. Even after it has some initial flights, it will be between two and four years before it goes into full RCAF service—if the government decides to purchase it.

Avro officials said the company has committed $10,000,000 to the Arrow project, which provides plant facilities while the government supplies the equipment costs and for tooling up. Some 460 engineers are working on the Arrow development, started in 1953.

Avro's president said he hopes the pilot Jan Zurakowski will take the Arrow into the air for the first time by the end of this year.

The 30-ton Arrow will be armed with the "air-to-air guided missile, developed by the RCAF. Only

BOARD TURNS DOWN SEWAGE SYSTEM FOR STIRLING

The Ontario Municipal Board has turned down the application from Stirling village council for permission to install a sewage system at a cost of approximately $315,317.

Word to this effect was received from the Board in a communication to village clerk F. R. Mallory.

In their letter the board advised that the project was much too costly for the municipality at its present stage of development.

June Graduates Enjoy Dinner

June graduates of the grade 13 commercial and general courses at Quinte Secondary School met last night in the cafeteria to enjoy a graduation banquet.

Chairman of the festivities was the principal, Leslie Reid.

The cafeteria was beautifully decorated by the art class and many remarks were heard about the splendid job they had done.

Mr. O. Matthews said grace, after which Jim Green toasted the Queen. Greetings were extended from the Home and School Association by its president, Mrs. Clifford Brown. Miss Beryl Campbell toasted the graduating class and Gary Chambers responded.

Following a delicious hot dinner, staff members amused their recent charges by recalling some of the events that had occurred in class during the past few years.

Joan MacDonald, representing the commercial class, and John Thompson, prefect of the general course classes, sketched what they believed to be the destiny of the students.

Noreen Brooks offered a vocal solo, and Miss C. McEwen and Mr. Jim Sclater, staff members, led the assembly in sing-songs. Mr. Allen Campbell, vice-president of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, brought greetings.

Paula Allen, graduate, talked to the Home and School Association for sponsoring the banquet. Her father replied.

The graduation banquet closed with the singing of the school song.

Cheese Producers' Secretary Moves To Tobacco Job

Secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers at Belleville for the past 10 years, Mr. Charles N. Heath has accepted a position with the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Growers' Marketing Board in Western Ontario.

He will act as secretary manager of the new tobacco board which will have warehouses at Tillsonburg, Delhi and Aylmer. He assumed his new duties in September and will move his family to Delhi next month.

Lake Ontario Development Group Appoints Committees

Standing committees were appointed at a meeting of some of these committees were appointed at the regular directors' meeting of the Lake Ontario Development Association which was held in Peterborough at the association's office on Wednesday. Committees appointed included the following: Leadership, Mayor J. D. Burnet, Colborg; Industrial, Mr. Harry Trenton; Agriculture, to be appointed; Industrial, to be appointed; Tourist and Sportsmen, S. Shippam, Peterborough.

Reports were given by a member of the Fishing resolution committee and by the Trenton and resolution committee. Both of these reported very favorable results and Mr. McKenzie of Omemee gave details on the committee's visit to the Honorable Clare Mapledoram and read a letter from Mr. Bill Matthews, who is Minister of Lands and Forests, indicating that there was a possibility of having the fishing law changed which affects mainly the Kawartha Lakes area. Reeve Matthews of North Monaghan township reported that swift water had been taken off the resolution endorsed by Lods recently at the opening of the Trent Canal System on Sundays and the Board expressed their thanks to Mr. Matthews and Lords. Also letters of thanks to the Minister of Transport and to those government officials' wives who assisted in bringing this important matter into being.

MINISTER TO SPEAK

Mayor J. D. Burnet of Cobourg, chairman, then said: Two reported that the Honorable A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture, will be the guest speaker at the Zone two meeting to be held in Cobourg on Friday, October 11th. Mr. Goodfellow would probably discuss agriculture and Industrial Development and he hoped that non-participating townships especially rural and Industrial townships would attend as interested members in the Association, together with large numbers of companies with an economic interest in the area to financially assist the Association to promote this area for industry and tourists. He was sure action taken on the recommendation and it is expected to be discussed further at the next meeting, at which will be held the latter part of November.

The manager, D. W. Kingdon, in his report indicated over 40 visits to communities in the area to discuss industrial, tourist and agricultural developments, as well as several calls to Toronto, Chicago and other communities regarding industrial prospects. He also reported that during his trip to Chicago a reception on behalf of the Association was held and representatives of five Canadian Associations were there as representatives of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, the Canadian Consulate, the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railway Passenger and Freight Agents, and the Trade and Industry branch of the Province of Ontario. He reported that Mr. Kingdon pointed out that such a reception gave the Association the opportunity of doing an outstanding public relations job as well as promoting the area. He recommended that Toronto and New York bring forward a resolution to the next meeting that the Association could bring forward at the next meeting people interested in assisting the area in industrial development and in particular, the advantages for industry to locate in one of the three-way communities to which the Association represents.

SPEAKS ON BROCHURE

He reported on the "Available Buildings" brochure which had brought many enquiries and extraordinary letters. As an example he pointed out that phone calls have been received from New York and Toronto regarding these buildings listed. It is planned by the Association to enlarge this brochure by including in it "Available Industrialties" in the region. Municipalities are encouraged to keep the Association up to date on such items as buildings available in the municipality established as manufacturing business or retail store which might be for sale; and any industrial sites that are available for location. These pamphlets have been distributed to London, Ingland, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Montreal and Toronto, as well as to the Association's industrial prospects. Additional letter that will be published as needed approximately every four months.

The manager expressed his thanks to the press, radio and television for their wonderful co-operation given to the Association in matters of publicizing the area and its advantages, as well as the support to the Association.

PREPARING BRIEF

Due to the enquiries received from various municipalities the Association has under preparation, a brief which will suggest outlines which each municipality can organize a Community Development Association and in turn would raise money for the erection of industrial buildings. Through co-operation they should have a more concentrated effort in bringing industrialists for industrial buildings, which would give such items as, lay of building as which could be erected, rental cost, the building site, if there are any available, and the term of lease. It is expected that this suggested brief will be completed and in the next two weeks.

The Tourist and Sportsmen Show committee, after having met on September 16th, reported by Mr. Shippam of Peterborough, chairman, that they expected to attend two sportsmen shows in 1958. The directors recommended to the tourist committee that in view of the attention received concerning the operation and attendance of certain sportsmen shows, the committee review their decision on the choices previously made.

Quinte Student Fights Blaze In New Wing

A grade nine student at Quinte Secondary School was made a hero this morning when he dashed to the swimming trainers office to snatch up a fire hose to fight a blaze that had started in a washroom in the new wing.

Bill Munro, 15, son of Mrs. R. W. Munro, 106 West Bridge Street, escaped injury even though he stayed on the scene, clad in P.T. uniform, while smoke enveloped him and the heat became intense.

"He certainly was a brave boy," said Principal Leslie Reid, at a loss for words.

The blaze is believed to have started shortly after 10 a.m. when workmen sprayed lacquer on the walls of the washroom. Although there was considerable smoke and water poured into the corridor, damage was confined to the washroom. The washroom walls are discolored but insurance will cover the refinishing costs.

City firemen sped to the school and had the fire under 25 minutes.

Principal Reid: "There was no panic even though the place was full of smoke. Everyone went out quietly. Usually when the school was emptied in less than two minutes."!

Aims, Objects Of Association Are Outlined

A group of interested citizens turned out last night for the second meeting of the Belleville Citizens' Association, held in the auditorium of Prince Charles School.

The main item of business was to acquaint the group with the objects of the organization, which is open to all voters. The president, Mrs. Elmer Ellis, read these objectives, describing the association as a representative society of Belleville citizens, the same as ratepayers' association.

The main point in describing the objectives was that the organization is set up "to provide a means of expression for public wishes to Council through representation."

She quoted a sentence, "A better informed public insures a better form of government," in pointing out the need for the Association. She said she feels that Belleville citizens generally will feel keener interest in civic affairs and will exercise their voters' rights.

Mrs. Risto explained "we are not here to tell Council, what but in the case where the public thought action were being spent needlessly or other matters not being appropriated correctly, then we feel we would request Council cause to be reconsidered. Council should welcome the fact that the public would begin to be alert and endeavor to do their utmost as city representatives therefore making it a two-way concern for the betterment of the community."

REPRESENTATION IMPORTANT

The secretary, Mrs. Ray Huffman, said another function of the association could be petitioning. "In order to have really responsible government," she remarked, any governing body must feel it is responsible to the people." She continued by saying that by petitioning any subject being kept under wraps aided in reaching a sound conclusion since, in this manner, it would know the wishes of a few thousand people.

Mrs. Norman Brown, public relations officer for the association, told the voters assembled that representation at council meetings was very important, and I don't mean just have your ears to the radio." She said the organization hopes in time to support its own members, who are primarily interested in the city as a whole to sit in council.

At this time the meeting was declared open to discussion. Citizens present, who were interested in learning more about the association, asked questions, which were answered by the officers and members.

Mrs. Risto answered a question regarding the effectiveness of ratepayers' associations in other cities. She read a newspaper article from Napanee, stating that the Napanee council pays much heed to the association of interested citizens to attend its meetings.

Representatives nominated for the Prince Charles district were Allen Miller and Mrs. Norman Brown.

Contract for 6.63 Miles Of Paving 401 East of City Given to Standard Paving

The Standard Paving Company, which already has a contract for resurfacing a section of the highway east of Trenton, has been awarded the contract for application of granular base and for hot mix paving for 6.63 miles of No. 401 highway east of the Moira River.

The announcement of the contract award was made today by the Ontario Highways Department. Tender of Standard Paving at $644,834 was the lowest received by the department.

Roscoe Robson, MLA for Hastings East, contacted by The Ontario Intelligencer, said it was doubtful if any work on the contract awarded to Standard Paving would be started this year.

He said that the highways department would not allow paving or even appliecion of the 18 to 20-inch granular base after frost penetrates the ground.

As yet no announcement has been made regarding the letting of the contract for paving the other six miles of 401 extending from Belleville through to Trenton and since summer has been preparing the base.

A week and a-half is the time-and-a-half stretch was ready for paving, but it was not known whether they would start this year or wait until the spring.

Mr. Robson said he hoped work on the section east of the Moira River could be started this fall, but he was very doubtful unless the contractor hired additional crews.

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company has the contract for granular base and paving of the dual highway from about five miles east of Belleville to the Moira River.

New Chemical Will Assist Cheese Industry

Development of a new chemical which enables cheese factories to combat the damaging effects of organisms which often destroy their bacterial bacterial to cheese making, will mean big savings to the industry.

Scientists of the Food and Agriculture] "Organization say its discovery is of great economical importance to the industry.

The chemical is called Cockade PRM (for phage - resistant-medium) and was developed by Fisons Pharmaceuticals Ltd., England, and is a milk product in the form of a spray dried powder.

The item concerning the development of the new chemical appeared in a recent edition of the Financial Post.

Officials of the Ontario Cheese Marketing Board here in Belleville said, however, that they had not heard of the new chemical.

Work Started On Curling Rink At Fairgrounds

Construction of the new curling rink at the fairgrounds was started this morning, president William Gault announced just before the noon hour. Lightfoot Brothers moved their digging machine onto the ground to dig the sewer and water trenches. The extension of the mains to the new rink will take about three days after which the pipes will be laid and the ground levelled for the start of the building.

Every precaution will be taken with drainage in order to ensure perfect ice.. Weeping tile will be laid with water being supplied for the pipes that will carry the refrigerant. It is expected that a considerable amount of voluntary labor will go into the project and thus reduce the costs to the club. Ernie Jones is the contractor in charge of the work.

McEwen Guilty Of Manslaughter, Given 15 Years

NAPANEE (Staff) — A man charged with murdering his employer was saved from the gallows Thursday night, but faces 15 years in Kingston penitentiary on a conviction of manslaughter.

A flood of relief spread across the face of Albert Mandlene (Hubert) McEwen, 42, when the jury returned its verdict at 11:45 p.m., eight hours after Mr. Justice K. C. Thompson began the summe Court of Ontario, concluded his address to them.

The all-male jury returned to the court room twice before reaching a verdict. Eight minutes after they had retired at 3:41 p.m., they returned to clarify points of law. Shortly after 4 p.m. they again stepped into the courtroom to hear the words of the evidence of Mrs. Delmo Perry, wife of the deceased and to hear the medical testimony dential homicide and criminal negligence.

Each time the jury returned, a police officer brought McEwen back to the prisoner's box in the cell. And each time McEwen came back his face was ashen and he appeared more anxious. He was sentenced this morning.

McEwen was arrested on July 15 and charged with wounding Lynne Perry, 35, a well-known North Fredericksburg farmer and subsequently member of the township council. Perry died of a bullet wound in the abdomen on July 28 and McEwen was charged with murder.

He was defended by Louis H. Tepper, Kingston, a 1937 graduate in law of the University of Toronto. This was Mr. Tepper's first major case.

Crown Attorney Kenneth S. Hamm acted for the prosecution.

Prescription SERVICE
WHAT PRICE GOOD HEALTH?
The price of good health (like the price of food and other needs) is higher than it ever was. But the cost is less. Why? Because the drugs we supply are so much more effective.
The price of a single prescription looks big, perhaps, but it saves you hospital bills, nursing bills, loss of pay by keeping better away from work.
How often today do you hear of an operation for mastoiditis? Or a child dying of diphtheria? These were common happenings 30 years ago . . . and even less.
The science of Pharmacy has advanced side by side with the science of medicine through the centuries. Today, through Your doctor, you have available the services of great specific conditions than mankind has ever known before.
The prescription department is the final link in the wonderful chain of service that brings longer and better living (at lower cost) to you.
We are at your service, you and your doctor in compounding your prescription with skill, care and scientific knowledge.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was mixed to lower today in heavier morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume of 624,000 shares was the heaviest in more than a week. Thursday's pace at the same time totalled 442,000 shares.

The industrial index eased less than one-half point, while base metals and western oils each lost three-quarters of a point. Golds were a shade higher.

Price changes were narrow in all sections. Hayes Steel gained two points at 36 among industrials and Canada Packers A lost a point at 35. Other changes were fractional.

International Nickel dropped two points to 74¼. Hudson Bay was off ⅜ to 51¾. Lake Shore lost 30 cents at $4.90 among golds. Opemiska and Grandora eased 15 cents in coppers.

Western oils were down in solid line. Consolidated West Pete slid 50 cents at 26 and Triad was off 15 cents to $5.35.

Babies' Home At Plainfield Is Transferred

The Babies' Convalescent Home at Plainfield reached a milestone in its history last night.

At that time the Board of Governors met and voted on the sale and transfer of the home. The name of the corporation now will be the Ontario Homes for Mentally Retarded Infants, Incorporated (OHMRI). The honorary attorney for the corporation, Kenneth Ross, will transfer all assets and liabilities.

For the past six years the home has been under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Velleman, with Mrs. Velleman acting as nursing-superintendent. Since last night's move Mr. Velleman will carry on his work under the title executive director of the OHMRI. He and his wife, who will continue in her same capacity, will now work as employees of the OHMRI.

At the meeting, which took place in the board room of the new corporation, the group decided to launch a financial drive for $50,000 for the maintenance of the home and retention of liabilities, the drive to cover a period of 18 months. At the same time, a membership drive will get underway. It was disclosed during the meeting that a television station has offered its assistance in publicizing the membership drive, without cost to the new corporation.

Cliff Bowey, chairman of the Ontario Association for Retarded Children, spoke on the subject of retardation. He said the Home, which is now under the charter of the OHMRI, is the only one of its kind in Ontario and has been unequivocally approved, having stood all the tests required from institutions of this kind.

According to Mr. Velleman, close co-operation with the Ontario Association for Retarded Children should be a great benefit to the new corporation and the eventual integration of both boards of directors is being taken under study.

The meeting was presided over by D. Lunn, chairman of the finance committee. Other board members present were George F. O'Brien, Graydon Colwill, the new treasurer of the corporation, C. J. Bowey, liaison delegate from the Ontario Association for Retarded Children; Mrs. Effie McCabe, Mrs. Jessie Dawson, Lorne McDougall, Orel Griffiths and Mrs. B. E. Burley, acting secretary.

Mr. Velleman extended his thanks to the board and to the guest speaker for the confidence given him and Mrs. Velleman.

So-Ed Plans Fall Activities

At a recent meeting of the So-Ed general committee reports were heard from all sections on the plans for the fall season which will commence next Wednesday evening, October 9, at the Belleville YMCA.

Mr. Neil Burgess and Miss Madeline Pearce reporting for the interest activities section of the program stated that the following activities had been arranged: (1) Latin American dancing to be conducted by Barbara Diment of the Diment School of the Dance; (2) Photography under the direction of the Belleville Camera Club conducted by Don McDougall; (3) Music Appreciation to be conducted by Miss Mary Ellis of the Corby Public Library; (4) Games hour.

Miss Diane Whitehead, chairman of the lecture committee, reported that Mr. A. Duncan from Bata Shoe Co.—Mr. F. Beeby of Northern Electric; Mr. S. Oue, of the Japan Trade Centre, Toronto; Cpl. R. Rackham of the Ontario Provincial Police; D. MacKinnon, and Mrs. R. Bateman will all be on hand for this session to bring a varied and interesting program to the membership.

Mr. Tom Mitchell, chairman of Social Committee and vice-president of the So-Ed club, reported on the plans for the party section of the session.

Mr. Jay Dearborn, chairman of publicity and advertising, reporting that the advertising folders had been printed and distributed and that posters would be on display in store windows.

Miss Bev. Booth, chairman of membership and registration, advised that registration will take place on Tuesday, October 8th, from 5-9 p.m. at the YMCA, and on opening night, Wednesday, October 9, from 7-9 p.m. and on subsequent Wednesday evenings for latecomers.

Reports from affiliated So-Ed Clubs were heard. Mr. Tom Mitchell, chairman of the So-Ed Choraleers, reported that Mr. Robert Bell of St. Thomas Anglican Church, would again conduct the choir this year. It is not necessary to be a So-Ed members to join this group, which meets Tuesday evenings at the YMCA.

Mr. Ray Dearborn, chairman of the Outdoor Club, reported that the summer activities had been very successful.

A report on the seven session activities proved them also to have been well attended.

The Bridge Club has not been re-organized as yet but if there is sufficient interest shown in such an activity it will be.

The Best Ever!

CRIPPLING CANADA'S TRADE

Crippling the export trade of Canada and other exporting countries appears to be the main objective of a powerful group in the United States Congress, a group widely representative of Democrats and Republicans alike. Canadians would be well-advised to understand clearly just how far these U.S. protectionist forces are prepared to go in their determined effort to slam the door of the United States against imports.

This is made painfully apparent by the remarks of a West Virginia Democrat, Congressman Cleveland M. Bailey. Speaking at a recent meeting of the Nation-wide Committee of Industry, Agriculture and Labor on Import-Export Policy, Congressman Bailey made it plain that the protectionist forces which he represents are out to kill the Federal Trade Agreements Act, or to cripple it so badly that it will no longer function at all.

The U.S. Trade Agreements Act, even in its present emaciated form, represents just about all that is left to stem the tide of protectionism sweeping the United States. Under its provisions the requirements for tariff increases and for quotas made by the U.S. Tariff Commission are subject to review by the President.

The protectionist bloc of Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans would change all that. As Congressman Bailey sees it, the Trade Agreements Act should be amended so that the findings of the Tariff Commission would be reviewed not by the President but by Congress. And he would like to see the Act further amended so that the legislation itself would "spell out" the Tariff Commission's scope of action in imposing import quotas under the escape clause.

The truth is that the so-called escape clause has already been amended in such a manner as to assure an adverse verdict against imports if a domestic producer seeks greater protection. Any further amendment along the lines suggested by Congressman Bailey would serve to make higher tariffs a certainty whenever increases are sought by a U.S. producer or manufacturer. What Congressman Bailey and other protectionists want is to slap back the cards against Canadian and other exports so that the entry into the United States market will be impossible.

If the protectionist forces are successful, Canada's trade position vis-a-vis the United States will be even more precarious than it is today.

NOT ENOUGH ACTIVITY?

A number of people have said, and are still saying, that Canadian children do not have enough to do in their spare time and as a result a small percentage of them gets in trouble with the law while looking for a bit of excitement.

It seems strange that children today, although they have smart new community centres in which to play various kinds of sports, television sets at home and a large variety of extra-curricular activities at school, are so neglected.

To hear some of these young people talk, one would think grandfather had an easy time finding something to do in his leisure time as a youth. Perhaps he had. After all, when a child does not have entertainment handed to him on a silver platter, he quickly develops his inventiveness to such a point that he is rarely at a loss for something to do. Do children make hoops any more and spend part of their playtime rolling them after them down a hill or racing them on the straightaway? There are many different games that were popular in granddad's youth. His evenings were spent helping out around the house and doing school homework.

Today, though, as we see it, children seem to have more leisure time on their hands with enough entertainment to keep them busy without having to look around for something more to do and, in many cases, running afoul of the law.

Perhaps the truth is not that children do not have enough to do today, but that they have too many activities and, therefore, not enough time to concentrate on growing up as matured adults.

THE OLD-TIME PLAYS

I am tired of these comedies of mustard
I am weary of opera bouffe.
I am sick as can be of the problem of three
Worked into an up-to-date play.
I am bored by the hero who's loved by
The wife of another; and Oh,
I am longing today for the old-fashioned play
With the old-fashioned father,
 who's set in a way,
Commanding his daughter to get
With the mercury twenty below.
Or
I won't quit the book I am reading
Or move from my easy arm chair,
Or take time to see, how'er
 clever it be,
The play of an ill-mated pair.
The wife who is faithless
 disgusts me;

Her morals I'm certain are bad.
But I would go to view the old play that I knew,
With the son coming back as the mortgage falls due,
To save the old home for his dad.
Though it took every cent that he had.

I am weary of plots that are problems,
I'm sick of these musical rags,
And I'm never amused when a dance must be used
To bolster a story that drags
I long for the old-fashioned sweethearts
Whose troubles all close in Act Four
When the lost will appears, and the mystery clears
And the villain cries "cur-rses," and then disappears,
When the hero shows him to the door
And everything's lovely once
 more.

Laurentian Poker Session

By Arthur Blakely in the Montreal Gazette

That's a wild and woolly poker session they're having up at Mont Tremblant.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who may now be entertaining some other second thoughts on the subject, set the pace and tone of the game weeks before it started. It's a honey of a game, ever began.

Beyond domestic political reasons, Mr. Diefenbaker felt it desirable to make some dramatic gesture until (a) expanding available markets for Canadian goods and (b) cutting down to size that huge ($14 billion) deficit Canada has been incurring in trade with the United States.

After a quick glance at the cards he had dealt, the Canadian Prime Minister opened with a sensational proposal to divert 15 per cent of Canada's trade from the U.S. to Britain and other Commonwealth countries. And 15 per cent amounts to something like $600 million — a fairly stake measured by any yardstick.

It had the effect of giving Canada's Conservative government a breathing spell long before the conference at Mont Tremblant opened.

It also had the effect of placing Britain's Conservative Government on the spot. Britain had been negotiating to enter the European free trade area. Should it do so, it was feared in some quarters, even give the appearance of cold-shouldering the Canadian proposition. This would have been regarded by many Britons as a slap in the face by down the Commonwealth.

The British delegation came to Mont Tremblant faced with the necessity of accepting the Canadian proposition in principle but with another of equal scope and dramma. And all of this without having had time to look at the cards which Mr. Diefenbaker had brought with him from the west. Was it a serious offer? Or was it, perhaps, a gigantic bluff?

But conferences where the cards are held close to the vest are to the British. And no sooner were the doors been opened at Mont-Tremblant than the U.K. delegation came up with a brilliant counter-proposal.

They countered Mr. Diefenbaker's big, dramatic offer with one of their own which, if possible, even more so.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft, without the slightest flicker of an eye or quiver of a muscle, blandly offered to eliminate all tariffs and other restrictions on Canadian goods entering Britain if Canada would reciprocate. An offer, in fact, to establish a British-Canadian free trade area.

Canada's big, new proposition caught Finance Minister Donald Fleming and the rest of the Canadian delegation completely off balance. And while they were trying to regain their composure, the British came back again from Canada to the United States.

* * *

It is the Canadian Government which is now in the embarrassing position of trying to conceal the backs of the cards which the British hold. Is the British Government really willing, or even anxious to make a free-trade agreement with Canada? Or is it all a tremendous bluff?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At the bus stop on a quiet residential street through which the streetcar travels I saw a man trying to cut out to pass three cars ahead of it. All four were going at the rate of 25 miles an hour, thirty miles an hour on a residential street. It is just a habit.

The car making the try at passing had to jag violently back in line when another car, also going more than thirty, came from the opposite direction.

When the excited car passed me, I noted that two young punks were in the driver and passenger. You can tell a young punk by his general appearance. He is leaning back, and has an expression of superb unconcern. If he is the one at the wheel, he is driving with one hand, maybe with three fingers of one hand, his elbow draped on the window ledge or along the back of the seat. If he is the passenger, he is just draped.

I watched them out of sight, in which time they made three unsuccessful and rather violently manoeuvred tries to pass, and then a final fourth, which succeeded.

What the driver was basking in, watching in, bathed with, was a glow, a feeling of authority. A feeling of importance. He was at most precarious of human sensations . . . Heads of bunkings, large or small, bishops, generals, foremen, policemen, colonels, sergeant-majors, secretaries of big shots, postmasters, treasure it, more precious than gold.

Usually, it has to be fought for, earned and won. By hard work, by struggle, by years of smallness cunning, it has to be achieved.

But a motor car hands it to you even if, in the case of young punks, you didn't have to buy the car, but only borrowed it from Dad.

When the bus bore me on my way, we came to a corner, and there was the car. I had taken off the top of the Dad mobile, and the back end of another car standing by also smashed. The policemen were showing their authority, and the young punks were looking not draped but drooped.

Seek Phone For Deaf

Windsor Star

Man's ingenuity is being tested by the need to provide a telephone to serve the deaf, and ingeniously is man living up to the challenge. The latest effort would release a whiff of perfume to let the deaf subscriber know some one was calling him.

Conversation thereafter could be carried on by "feeling" dots and dashes. Many persons can be classed as deaf for lack of hearing have no difficulty conversing on the telephone, which is why we have something of a hearing aid. For the rest, an invention that can give them telephonic communication an obvious boon.

Mr. H. H. Leavens has been given the contract to paint the roof of the city hall at a cost of $60.00.

Two former Belleville boys, L. H. Walbridge and J. T. D. Rutledge have a big contract at Spokane, Washington. They are installing a 6,000 horsepower Curtis steam engine as an auxiliary to the water power plants. The engine which they are installing will ultimately develop 10,000 horse power in units of six thousand to 12,000.

Youngsters Coin Words

Windsor Star

English, as other living languages, is in a state of flux. Over the years, some words pass out of use, while others appear into being. Often, it is the young who coin words, who are equipped with an adequate vocabulary of existing words, invent some new ones or use the old ones. Witness such recent teenages inventions as "rect," "dig you" and "he's a cube."

Even the pre-teenagers have a way of making up new words and phrases. Two examples coined recently by youngsters under the age of eight come to mind. They are the verb, "to smuah," this is what you do to the adjective "gooshy" if you describe the inside of a toasted marshmallow.

These colorful and descriptive words are not accepted English today. But who knows about tomorrow?

Watch Your Aseptic Technique

If a fresh wound is bleeding too freely, the best way to stop the bleeding is by gently holding the wound edges together under a gauze compress or pad of many layers of washed cheesecloth or a freshly ironed handkerchief or between thumb and fingers of one or both hands until medical or hospital care can be had.

A minor wound which bleeds moderately usually heals itself if it is not treated at all — provided it is protected from pus formation or infection by fingers or hands, unsterilized dressings, soiled clothing, objects and flies.

If there is a possibility of any foreign matter being lodged or embedded in the flesh, be it street dust, gravel, metal shaving, a tiny bit of glass, metal, wood, cloth or paper—it is not too freely, the best way to stop the bleeding is by gently holding the wound edges together under a gauze compress or pad of many layers of washed cheesecloth or a freshly ironed handkerchief or between thumb and fingers of one or both hands until medical or hospital care can be had.

A minor wound which bleeds moderately usually heals itself if it is not treated at all — provided it is protected from pus formation or infection by fingers or hands, unsterilized dressings, soiled clothing, objects and flies.

If there is a possibility of any foreign matter being lodged or embedded in the flesh, be it street dust, gravel, metal shaving, a tiny bit of glass, metal, or paper—it is not a minor wound. It is a major wound and it requires immediate surgical treatment — as a precaution against the development of tetanus (lockjaw). This is true whether the wound is a scratch, puncture or a wide gash.

More dangerous than such foreign matter is tissue that is dead or diseased tissue, for such matter, even though it be a wee particle, is the best culture medium for the multiplication of any tetanus germs (Clostridium tetani) which may have been planted in the wound from the teeth or claws of animal or bird or from soil polluted by man, animals or birds (whose intestine is a natural habitat of the Clostridium). It is the toxin or poison produced by the tetanus germs that kills —not the germs.

Man's Search for Paradise

New York Times

Man's restlessness, his never-ending dissatisfaction with what he has in the interests of finding something better, has been one of his most familiar characteristics. Ever since our ancestors made "it out of a cave and planted the ground around him, then tilled his head and saw other caves and other plantings in the distance, man has been known to suspect that the grass on the horizon was greener than his own. We find expression to this quest in the best of every society. Man's quest for what he calls paradise has been recorded in many of his greatest books, for it has spurred him to explore the most distant frontiers. Now the eternal search has been recorded on colorful maps and accurate sound machines by that incetarate traveler to unique and interesting places in the region Lowell Thomas, whose "Search for Paradise" in cinerama is being seen at a Belleville theatre.

Man's dreams of paradise have taken him to some of the most exotic spots across the world. The original Garden of Eden, it is the Vale of Kashmir, India, whose vegetable gardens float there, as do houseboats which serve visitors. The Taj Mahal, Agra, Afghanistan, India and Pakistan, and ruled by a mir with power of life and death. Few jails can be found there, for there are no criminals in the state. Probably most fascinating about these people who still bear facial reminders of Alexander the Great, are the green centuries age placed an outpost on it, and that their national pastime is polo. Immediately this recalls the question posed by the High Lama in James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" to Conway, if there was anything in the Western World approximately "Shangri-La." "To be perfectly frank," answered the visitor, "it reminds me very slightly of Oxford."

Probably most famous of all man has been known as the Garden of Eden, mentioned for the first time almost at the outset of Genesis, first book of the Bible, on which rests the spiritual hopes of many millions. Many centuries man has speculated on the location of this garden spot, some of his most learned authorities. Now the eternal search has been recorded on colorful maps and accurate sound machines by that incetarate traveler to unique and interesting places in the region Lowell Thomas, whose "Search for Paradise" in cinerama is being seen at a Belleville theatre.

Man's dreams of paradise have taken him to some of the most exotic spots across the world. The original Garden of Eden, it is the Vale of Kashmir, India, whose vegetable gardens float there, as do houseboats which serve visitors. The Taj Mahal, Agra, Afghanistan, India and Pakistan, and ruled by a mir with power of life and death. Few jails can be found there, for there are no criminals in the state. Probably most fascinating about these people who still bear facial reminders of Alexander the Great, are the green centuries age placed an outpost on it, and that their national pastime is polo. Immediately this recalls the question posed by the High Lama in James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" to Conway, if there was anything in the Western World approximately "Shangri-La." "To be perfectly frank," answered the visitor, "it reminds me very slightly of Oxford."

Many centuries man has speculated on the location of this garden spot, some of his most learned authorities. Now the eternal search has been recorded on colorful maps and accurate sound machines by that incetarate traveler to unique and interesting places in the region as pinpointed in the location as the North Pole. From the description in the several references to Eden in Genesis, Mesopotamia and Armenia are seemingly the most likely candidates. Hebrew tradition has it that the first man was placed originally in the area between the Euphrates, Tigris and Euphrates Rivers, probably on the site of modern Iraq.

Paradise, of course, is many things to many people. To Rudyard Kipling it was a place "where there are no third-class carriages and one soul is as good as another." To William Butler Yeats believed it to be: "Where the feet gets old and godly and grave,
Where nobody gets old and crafty and cagey,
Where nobody gets old and crafty of tongue."

Thoreau, as many commented: "The heaven of each is but what he can appreciate." It is to Emily Dickinain we look for the essence of wisdom and beauty when she: "In that old-fashioned house
We dwell in every day
Without suspecting our abode
Until we drive away."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LITTLE THINGS

There are many little things this world. You have but to look about you. But in every one of the big things are endless little things. This world could not exist without its little things. The moment that a fuse in your home is burned out, the lights go out. And we all recall the horse that lost a shoe for want of a shoe.

A pencil is a little thing, but think of the millions in daily service and the millions more that are so many of the fancy ball pointed pens and pencils. Yet a pencil is always about a good pencil. It will last to the very end and give service as you would not expect always works!

A pin is a little thing but millions are used each day. Many are the little devices and gadgets that have delighted millions. What fortunes have been made through their invention. Buttons in scores of sizes are used each day. They are made in many materials and not always with zippers, useful as is that device.

Then look at jewelry shop and note how many little things there are to tempt the lover of beautiful things. The big five and ten cent stores have the little things in abundance, and it was these that started such stores created a great and profitable business, and thought with his first store in upper New York State.

The late founder of the Kansas City Star and Times, Col. W.R. Nelson, once took me into his den at his home and showed me the first issue of the Star, and remarked "I started this with a pair of shears and a paste pot." The copy was only four pages and labloid in size, but Col. Nelson's death it sold for $10,000,000!

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SOMETIMES A BRIGHT PATHWAY

Trouble is always hard to bear. When it comes upon us, we weep and wring our hands. Yet very often what appears to be misfortune is a shining pathway down which our feet may walk to place of great usefulness.

At the very height of his mental powers, Dr. Jessop of Brighton, England, was stricken with blindness. At first he was plunged into despair. But in a few years, however, he could keep a record of his thoughts only by the sense of touch to recall all that he had heard. Finally, he passed this on to the general public, and it made reading possible for thousands of other blind people.

If Helen Keller had had all her faculties intact, she might have become a great woman, but it is hard to think that she could have been more useful than she has been all these years, in spite of indescribable handicaps. In fact, these very handicaps have dramatized her career in the eyes of multitudes and greatly increased her influence.

The Bible tells us that all these things work together for good to them that love God. A divine intelligence shapes our ends, and that which often appears a misfortune is but a blessing in disguise. The thing that restrains us today may be the means of winning new powers within us tomorrow. Trouble is often an angel of light dressed in somber garments.

The Irony of Fate

Ironic twist of fate: a French paratrooper who jumped, fought and survived in the war in Indochina, was killed when he fell a mere 20 feet from a gallery—on his wedding day.

Famed Carleton Band to Head Sea Cadets on Church Parade

Sunday the local Sea Cadet Corps, R.C.S.C.C. "Quinte" will play host to five other Sea Cadet Corps, with approximately 200 junior sailors expected. Corps participating will be Kingston, Trenton, Picton, Port Hope and Oshawa.

A church parade will start the day off for what is expected to be one of the most outstanding Sea Cadets get together for many a year.

By special request the Carleton Band will be here to assist in making the day's activities most interesting. The Carleton Band is one of the Navy's most outstanding bands in Canada. They have appeared in many of Canada's outstanding exhibitions and are scheduled to play before the Queen in Ottawa on her visit this month.

The band will lead the church parade in the morning and will put on a marching band display in the afternoon in Victoria Park. All interested citizens are welcome. The display will take place at 2 p.m.

The Belleville naval vets will also assist in making this day a success for the cadets, they will be in the church parade in the morning and will supply the luncheon for the Carleton Band at noon.

The day's program will include sail boat races, cutter races, and tug-of-war for the cadets for inter-corps competition. The starting point for boats will be at the far end of Victoria Park dock. These races are scheduled to get under way at 1.45 p.m.

The march past following the church parade will be on Front Street at the city hall. The parade route will be starting at the Cadet Barracks at 10.30 a.m. up Front Street to Bridge Street, left on Bridge Street to Church Street to the churches, leaving Church. It will march to Victoria Avenue to Front Street, along Front Street to the barracks.

The Navy League Cadets will also participate.

Belleville Man Still Critical In Hospital

TRENTON (Special) — William Walt, 44 Great St. James Street, Belleville, though out of immediate danger, still lies in Trenton Memorial Hospital in a critical condition after receiving head injuries in a two-car crash at Bayside on Sunday.

Mr. Walt was the most seriously injured in the crash. The two other persons who were injured, Hildebrand Zwerus, R.R. 2, Belleville, who sustained a fractured ankle and Mrs. Zwerus, who also injured her ankle, are on the road to recovery. Dr. W. A. T. Macdonald, Trenton, who is attending all three, says that Mr. and Mrs. Zwerus should be out of the hospital by the weekend.

WILL REPRESENT STATION

A driver with the RCAF's Mobile Equipment unit at RCAF Station Trenton, LAC Mark Daset, will be representing the station at the National Truck Roadeo next month. More than $4,000 in prizes will be awarded, besides national honors, in the contest, which is now in its eleventh year. LAC Daset will be competing with Canada's top drivers, more than 100 of them, who have been accident free for a year's driving. The Roadeo is sponsored by the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario. Also co-operating are government agencies, car manufacturers and suppliers, and safety organizations.

SPEAKS ON PRIESTHOOD

Guest speaker at the Woman's Church Year of St. George's Anglican Church when the group met at Canterbury Hall on Monday night was Rev. Peter Tett. Mr. Tett spoke of the priesthood as the chosen life's work of young men. He said that the satisfactions obtained in the life of a minister far outweighed any disadvantages and difficulties which might be encountered.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Adolph O'Krafka, the president.

Rev. K. F. Blachford conducted the devotional part of the meeting. Members planned to have a rummage sale in the near future, and also to send a parcel to Miss Celia Burns, a missionary in Japan.

FIRE PREVENTION TALK

ACM Breadner Home and School Association members listened to a talk on fire prevention given by Cpl. Fred Olsen of the South Station fire department on Monday. Cpl. Olsen who is the secretary of the South Station fire committee, gave an extremely interesting talk. He said that because the Middleton Park record was good that did not call for a complacent attitude on the part of residents. They should be alert to the possibility of danger of fires in the home at all times. Sgt. E. E. Ralph thanked Cpl. Olsen for his talk.

The instruction of French in Breadner school from the fourth grade upward is to commence as soon as teachers can be found, according to a recommendation to the school board by the association as it is felt that the language would be very useful to the children of servicemen in case they should ever be transferred to Quebec.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Dr. Hilts Burnett, Kirk McDonald and Ted Hilton, all of London, Ontario, spent four days last week visiting at the home and cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hilton, of Trenton. Mr. Walter Hilton drove to Belleville on Sunday afternoon, visiting his mother, Mrs. Alice Hilton, of 78 Great St. James Street.

Mr. Kenneth Crawford has been the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crawford, Cedar Park Lodge, Picton.

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD

The members of the Afternoon Branch of St. Margaret's Guild met at the home of Mrs. Briens. The president presided and 14 members were present.

A member who had been ill, was welcomed back, also a new member was welcomed.

After the prayers and business meeting, plans were made for the bazaar to be held in the near future.

Tea was served by the hostess and her helpers.

Mrs. Hall was thanked for the use of her home.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Price's.

Quinte 4-H Club Elects 1957-8 Officers

The first meeting of the Quinte 4-H Homemaking Clubs was held last Monday at the home of Mrs. J. Parrott, assistant leader, with six members present.

The name of the unit for this season is "The Cereal Shelf," from which the girls will learn many different things about the importance of cereals in family meals.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Reid, the leader, presided over the election of officers, which are as follows: president, Janet Reid; vice-president, Betty Ann Portt; secretary, Mary Lou Toms; treasurer, Mary Beth; press reporter, Lola Clark.

It was decided to hold the next meeting next Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clifford Reid.

The discussion included: requirements of club members; record book; working procedures; dishwashing; abbreviations; weights and measures; patterns for everyday eating; energy; growth and repair; regulation; realization of health, and "What Do You Mean by 'Cerfalrr'"

The demonstration was how to measure a level relation between teaspoon, tablespoon and cup.

The group work included: practice in measuring and measurements made before and after sifting flour.

The home assignments and roll call for the next meeting were then read.

After the meeting closed, Mrs. Parrott served refreshments.

Victoria Baptist Church Marks 84th Anniversary

On the occasion of the 84th anniversary of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, it was a real inspiration and privilege to have as guest speaker Dr. F. W. Waters of McMaster University.

At the morning service Dr. Waters' message centred around the "Wonder of the Church." The Christian church, divinely instituted, Christ centred, and spirit guided, whose charter was given to a little band who confessed Christ as Saviour, has survived through the ages and has made great advances.

Dr. Waters showed this generation its responsibility to re-dedicate itself to the task to which Christ called His church — to the true witnesses for Him at home, in all parts of the world, and to live as friends of Jesus Christ, as if nothing else counted.

In the evening Dr. Waters spoke on the "Saving Knowledge of God," and said, in part, that to know God is eternal life now, as well as in the hereafter; to have this intimate relationship with Him one must have a sincere desire to know Him, to seek after Him with one's whole heart; to take time to attend to His revelation as found in the Scriptures, and one must have the willingness to do His will.

Special music was enjoyed, provided by the choir with Mrs. Dorothy Reilly as choir director and Mr. W. Connor as organist.

It was fitting that the anniversary services should follow the recent renovation program of the church. The church auditorium was beautiful with newly-painted walls and its tile flooring. The church vestibule has been panelled, an oil furnace has been installed and various other improvements have been made in the church.

WEDDINGS

DOLAN — CASEY

The marriage of Mary Jeaneen Casey, daughter of Mrs. Donald M. P. Casey, Belleville and the late Mr. Donald M. P. Casey to Donald Hammel Dolan, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Ryan, Peterborough, took place at the Church of St. Michael The Archangel, on Saturday, September 7th, 1957 at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Father Murphy performed the double-ring ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. The altar and sanctuary were decorated with bouquets and standards of mixed-coloured gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her great-uncle, Mr. Paul King, of Tweed, was radiant in her full length white bouffant gown of French dotted muslin designed with high neck and voluminous puffed sleeves, appliqued with Guipure lace. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a small cascade of baby white mums intermingled with yellow rosebuds.

The bride's only attendant was her twin sister, Miss Jeanette Casey, as maid of honor. The same simplicity and beauty was carried out in her white dress, matching the bride's in every detail, but shorter in length, and was complemented by a bronze crystal diamante cummerbund with a back bow. She wore a crown of bronze 'mums and carried a nosegay of similar flowers mingled with fern.

Mr. Gerald Goyer, Belleville was the best man, and Mr. Roy Garvin and Mr. Claude Carr act ed as ushers.

Miss Mary Fluery, of Belleville, as organist, played, "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother," "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy," and the "Sanctus and Agnus Dei" from the Capocci Mass during the ceremony.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was held at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, and later a reception at the bride's home. The bride's table was centred with white bouffant tapers and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a two-piece bottle-green brown ensemble with beige accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

For travelling to New York City the bride chose a cocoa-brown fitted suit trimmed with deep brown velvet with moss green accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolan are residing at 105 Dundas St. East, Belleville.

Guests were present from Peterborough; Marmora; Tweed, Cobrville; Bellerville; Newburg, and Kingston.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by her Dufferin Avenue neighbors at the home of Mrs. C. F. Nicholls, 74 Porter Avenue. Also a presentation of a steam iron and linen luncheon set was made by the office staff of H. Corby Distillery Ltd. of which the bride is a staff member.

Believe Queen To Again Favor 'Slim Look'

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The Queen took the train to London Thursday night, ready to make final preparations for the royal visit to Canada and the United States starting Oct. 12.

As she returns from Balmoral, the big secret still is: What will she wear on the tour? Fashion experts frankly admit they have not been able to get a hint from the Queen's dressmakers—Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies.

Few writers will go beyond venturing a guess that the Queen may again favor the "slim look" which took Paris by storm last April. She also is thought likely to prefer stronger and deeper colors than before.

STRICT PRECAUTIONS

Advance word on the Queen's clothes is always a delicate subject. Royal advisers don't like the idea of having the Queen confronted with scores of mass-produced copies of the dress she wears in public.

In 1951, when the Queen as Princess Elizabeth last visited Canada, a version of her olive green coat and matching dress was on sale across the country a week or so after her arrival.

Hartnell and Amies will answer general queries, but "freeze" when pressed for details. They admit their salons are working overtime to get the royal wardrobe ready for Oct. 12 when the Queen leaves for Ottawa.

Hartnell gives just one clue. He has introduced a new line for the tour, he says, but "it is definitely not the sack line."

SCHOOL DIVISION

More than 500,000 children attended public primary schools in Norway, about 20,000 going to private primary schools.

DAFOE — WICKENS

Tall, white standards of pink and white gladioli formed a lovely setting for a recent wedding in Thomasburg United Church, when the Reverend George Presley, of Ivanhoe, pastor of the church, united in marriage, Phyllis Arlene Wickens, of Thomasburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wickens, to Pearl Carson Dafoe, of Lansdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart L. Dafoe. White satin bows declarated the guest pews.

Mrs Arthur Fyear, of Frankford, presided at the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Donald Armstrong, of Frankford in his rendition of "Because" before the ceremony; "The Wedding Prayer," at the beginning of the ceremony, and "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Archie Wickens, the radiant bride wore a lovely bridal gowns of nylon net and chantailly lace, featuring a fitted, strapless bodice, with matching lace jacket having a tiny Peter Pan collar and long, tight-fitting sleeves lily-pointed over the hands. Her fingertip veil of illusion tulle, was held by a "Bride-Beautiful" pillbox headdress, and she carried a white Bible with an inserted corsage of red roses and white streamers knotted with rosebuds.

She was attended by Mrs. Arlene Wright, of Trenton, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, who was gowned in a waltz-length light-blue nylon lace over taffeta, inset with panel of pleated nylon net. She wore a Sweetheart headdress, matching gloves and shoes in blue, and carried a nosegay of pink roses and white 'mums, mingled with pink carnations.

Little Miss Patricia Ann Cronkwright, of Trenton, also cousin of the bride, as flower girl, was demure and sweet in her floor-length frock of pink nylon over taffeta, with wide back bow. She carried a tiny basket of tinted blue, pink and white 'mums, and wore a matching floral headdress and gloves.

Mr. Clayton Dafoe, of Selby, Ontario, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Donald Kennedy, and Mr. Joseph Wickens, both of Thomasburg, only brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held in the IOOF hall, Thomasburg, where the bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath a Sweetheart archway, and flanked by lighted tapers and bouquets of pink gladioli which lent a pretty touch of color and added to the nuptial effect.

Those who served included: Mrs. Clayton Doyle of Selby; Mrs. Burton Calvert of Ivanhoe; the Misses Freda, Joan and Doreen Daley, of Belleville; the Misses Glenyss and Frances Frost and Elaine Wickens of Ivanhoe; Miss Doris Grills, of Frankford; Miss Doris Yearwood of Madoc; Miss Diane Preston of Wellman's and Miss Evelyn Dean, of Thomasburg.

The bride's mother, for her daughter's wedding, chose a dusty-rose nylon lace ensemble with matching accessories, and corsage of cream-colored roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in wedgwood rose French crepe inset with panels of nylon lace, with matching accessories and corsage of cream-colored roses.

Following the reception, the happy couple left for a wedding trip to eastern Ontario and northern New York. Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe are residing in Trenton.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at two miscellaneous showers: one at the home of Mrs. Burton Calvert, Ivanhoe, and one at the home of Mrs. Jack Wilson, of Stirling. Mrs. Gerald Bailey as co-hostess.

Guests were present from Cananoque, Toronto, Napanee, Lonsdale, Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Stirling, Ivanhoe, Madoc, Eldorado, Wellman's, Crookston and Thomasburg.

FAULKNER — OLSON

A beautiful candlelight wedding was solemnized in the Tabernacle Church in Minneapolis, Minnesota, when Damaris Regna Olson, daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. Russell Olson, became the bride of the Reverend Floyd Faulkner, formerly of Belleville, son of Mrs. Hunter Faulkner, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Faulkner. The Reverend Russell Olson, father of the bride, who gave her in marriage, also officiated in the double-ring ceremony, assisted by the pastor of St. Paul's Pentecostal Church.

Traditional wedding music was provided by the guest organist.

The lovely bride wore a charming bridal gown of net and Chantilly lace over satin fashioned in full length with fitted bodice of lace with square neckline and scalloped, stand-up collar of lace. The long, sheath-like sleeves were pointed over the wrists, and the slightly crinoline skirt was accented by a back panel of lace which cascaded into a cathedral train. She wore a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, with coronet headdress encrusted with seed pearls, and carried a white Bible crested with white roses and long, rose-knotted white satin streamers. A single strand of pearls completed her ensemble.

Her attendants included: Mrs. W. Corkery, of Waco, Texas, as matron of honor; and Mrs. Paul Olson, and the Misses Phyllis Usher, Lorraine Carlson, and Helen Landmark, as bridesmaids.

The bridegroom was attended by the Reverend Clarence Williams, of Moncton, New Brunswick, while the Reverend Paul Olson, brother of the bride; the Reverend Hugh Corey, of Richford, Vermont; Mr. Harris Heydon, and the Reverend David Burey, of Minneapolis, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception for seven hundred guests was held in the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Minneapolis.

The Reverend and Mrs. Faulkner will be travelling in Evangelistic work among the churches of Assemblies of God throughout the United Sates and Canada.

Mrs. Faulkner is a graduate of Central Bible Institute, of Springfield, Mo, and her husband is an alumnus of the Eastern Bible College, at Peterborough, Ont.

H-S Assoc. Hears Talk on India's Education

The first regular monthly meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening with a large number of parents present.

Mrs. C. Cooke, the president, opened the meeting by welcoming the parents and stating that with the help of the new executive and the co-operation of the parents, she expected this coming year to be a most successful one for the association.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. A. Dickens. Mrs. K. Grant read the secretary's report and Mrs. C. Miller the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Cooke called upon Mrs. Slack to introduce the teachers to everyone and to explain which grades they taught.

Miss Potts's room won the roll call with fifteen parents present.

Mrs. Cooke mentioned the regional conference which will be held in Peterborough on October 10 and urged that someone try to attend as a delegate from the school.

It was decided to leave the discussion for a project for this year until next month's meeting when price estimates could be obtained. Under discussion next month will be the plan for a school library, metal stacking chairs, stage curtains or a public address system.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. T. Clark introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Orville Matthews, who was born and educated in India, and taught school in India and Great Britain before joining the teaching staff at Quinte Secondary School.

Mr. Matthews stated that his topic would be "Education in India," and beginning with the year 1500, he proceeded to show how the different periods of education that have been used from then until the present time have changed and developed the people of India. He praised the work of the Christian missions in the field of education, and he explained the caste system, pointing out that it differs from the class system of other countries because it is based on religious teachings, rather than on the social position of an individual.

Mrs. T. Murray graciously thanked Mr. Matthews.

Mrs. Cooke invited everyone to stay for refreshments.

Y's Menettes Enjoy Dinner, Talk on Beauty

Following dinner at the New Queen's Motel on Tuesday evening. The Y's Menettes club of Belleville returned to the Y.M.C.A. for the monthly meeting.

President Mary Schurman, took the chair for the business portion. Mrs. Elsie Sims, of Foxboro, was welcomed as a new member.

Following the adjournment of the meeting by Helen Diamentides, Audrene Moorman introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Mary Thomas Peters, of Trenton, who is known in this district for her radio program over C.J.B.Q. conducting the Beauty Club, also for her Beauty, Culture and Charm School she directs at Trenton.

Mrs. Mary Thomas Peters answered questions for the club members also gave some enlightening suggestions on procedures of applying, choosing, and the variations in make-up and hair styles.

Barbara Cass thanked the speaker and also presented her with a gift.

DIE FROM DIPHTHERIA

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, said Thursday more diphtheria patients have been admitted to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children this year than in any year since 1947. Five cases were admitted and one died, he said. None of the children was immunized.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

DRAMATIZE YOUR EYES

New gadget applies mascara automatically; is as easy to use as lipstick.

Dramatize your eyes, say Hollywood's beauty experts. Make them seem larger and brighter with make-up — and don't wait until after dark to whip out your eye cosmetics. Make eye make-up a daytime habit, too.

The reason many women are afraid of mascara, eye-shadow, and brow pencil in daylight is because they're sure they'll look too made-up. Well, if the job's overdone, they will, of course. The idea is to use such cosmetics subtly.

Start with eyebrow pencil, and don't use black unless you're a real raven-haired beauty. Brown is a softer, more flattering choice for brownettes, for redheads and, most certainly, for blondes. A charcoal pencil's fine for women whose hair is gray or silvery. Feel the bone before you start pencilling brows, then follow the natural arch with a light, feathery touch. Don't press down on the pencil.

Eye shadow's next. Those which come in a swivel stick are as easy to use as lipstick. To apply shadow, close one eye, pull the lid up slightly, holding it with the forefinger of your left hand. Start at the outer edge of the lid, drawing on color toward the inner corner. Blend with fingertips until the application is a mere shadow of color. Set the application by applying a moist piece of cotton over the lid.

When it comes to mascara, you might like to try one which comes in a new and unique applicator. Similar in outward appearance to a lightweight, slender fountain pen, it unscrews and separates in the centre, the metal applicator wand being part of one section. This wand is finely threaded at its tip, so that the liquid mascara within is contained between the threads, and spreads on to the lashes evenly and smoothly.

The wand carries the exact amount of mascara necessary to beautify both eyes. Just stroke it upward a few times on the upper lashes, emphasizing the outer coat to give the illusion of width. If you want a thicker fringe, simply clean the applicator and open it again, automatically re-loaded.

The threaded tip separates the lashes for even application, preventing their matting together in unbecoming clusters. At the same time, it encourages them to curl — thus performing in one simple and quick operation what used to be two delicate and sometimes exasperating — and messy — chores.

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I follow your recipes very close and sure find them reliable. I am going to ask a favor of you and I am sure there are more like me. What to do with the lovely large quantity of sweetened vinegar that is always left after making Pickles? It seems such a shame to throw it away. Will look forward to a reply in the paper. Many thanks to a very busy gal. Mrs. L. S.

FRIDAY (Guests)

Stuffed Baked Pickerel; Buttered Beets; Baked Squash; Spring Tossed Salad; Blueberry pie (see Wednesday) with White Cream Cheese; Coffee.

ANSWER:

A peach of a question for you and make crabapple pickles with it by bringing it to the boil and then letting it cool. Prepare crabapples of uniform size by washing and removing blossom end but not the stem. Drop apples in cool syrup then slowly bring to boil, reduce heat to simmer and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let stand overnight. Carefully lift apples into sterile jars, pour cold syrup over and seal.

NOTE:

If more spicing is desired add another bag of spices to syrup when boiled. I am sorry you did not include your address for this answer could have been sent by direct mail.

QUESTION:

Will you please send me 2 recipes? One for sponge jelly roll and one for cinnamon buns . . . Mrs. G. A.

ANSWER:

I certainly will. We have cinnamon twists in the kitchen right now that I would dearly like you to taste.

JELLY ROLL:

Three-quarters cup sifted cake flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 4 eggs ¾ cup sifted sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, about 1 cup good quality jelly. Sift and measure flour. Combine the baking powder, salt and eggs in a bowl. Place this over a smaller bowl containing hot (not boiling) water and beat with rotary beater or electric beater, adding sugar gradually as you beat until mixture is light and thick. Remove bowl from hot water. Fold in flour and vanilla. Turn into 15 x 10-inch pan greased and lined with paper to within ½-inch of edge, and greased again. Bake at 400 deg. F. exactly 13 minutes. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake. At once turn from pan on cloth evenly sprinkled with powdered sugar. Remove paper. Spread with jelly and roll up in cloth and cool on rack.

CINNAMON BUNS:

Scald ½ cup milk, stir in ½ cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt and ¼ cup shortening. Cool to lukewarm. In big mixing bowl measure ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 package granular yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir. Add milk mixture when lukewarm. Stir in 2 well-beaten eggs, 2 cups sifted flour and beat until smooth, then stir in 2 more cups flour - I use whole wheat flour for this second amount. Knead on floured board until it squeaks. Let rise, covered in greased bowl, until more than doubled. Punch down dough, roll out into 2 12 x 9 oblongs, brush with melter butter, sprinkle each with half of mixture of 1 cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2/3 cup raisins. Roll up each and seal edges and cut into 9 equal pieces. Place cut side up in greased pans. Brush with melted butter, let rise covered until risen above edge of pan. Bake at 350 deg. F. about 35 minutes. I gave you Cinnamon Twists yesterday.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

ABOUT SHOWING PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct to show to friends who come to see the gifts which other friends have sent or brought on a previous day? For example, the gifts brought to a new-born baby? Also birthday gifts, and so forth? I am at a loss as to the correct thing to do about this. Some of our friends do not show these gifts that have been brought, but I have been in the habit of asking, "Would you like to see what our Tommy has received?" Am I wrong about this, possibly ungracious? I am so eager to do the right thing. — M.J.

This is, always has been, a moot question, and to be on the safe side, it is usually wise not to show, not even to mention, gifts that have previously been sent or brought. If you don't mention them, there can be no embarrassment on the part of the friends who haven't brought a gift, or no feeling that perhaps you are doing a bit of bragging. However, occasionally it comes about quite naturally that some reference may lead casually to showing a gift: for example, "Speaking of music boxes, as we just were, I'd love to show you a music box that came from Switzerland. Would you like to hear its gay tune?"

HOW SHOULD MOTHER SIGN CARD TO TEEN-AGER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I send a gift to a teen-age friend of my teen-age daughter, how should I sign the gift card I enclose? — Reader

Sign the message on the card, whether it is printed or handwritten, with your informal name, your correct signature-name: Katherine Morrison. This is the correct form for your signature, whether to a letter or to a card. And this is correct whether the sender is of the same age or appreciably older than the person to whom the card is sent.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Vivian T. — My husband won't tell me anything about his finances.

Matthew T. — Women and finances don't mix.

* * *

Vivian T. — My husband seems to be more married to his family than to me. We have been married ten years and have four children, but sometimes I think I am living with a stranger. He is so closed-mouthed with me I did not even know about some legal trouble he had recently until I read it in the paper.

I'm not even sure how much money my husband earns. I don't know whether or not he is insured. When I ask him, he laughs and says he's afraid I'd kill him for his insurance money if he had any.

My husband has some sort of business deal with his brother and he tells him everything. The brother is a very tricky sort of guy and I don't trust him from here to the corner. They get together at their parents' home a couple of nights a week and I'm not even invited over. I am ashamed to tell my own family that I don't even know anything about my husband's finances.

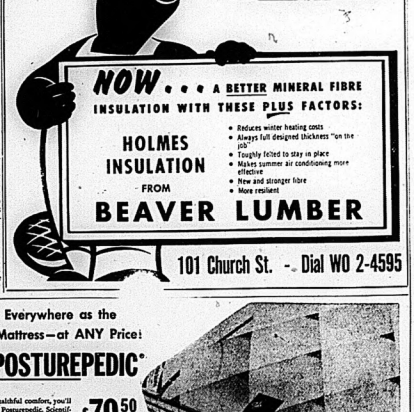
Matthew T. — Money, money, money and insurance, insurance, insurance — that's all I ever hear from Vivian.

Practically the first question she asked me after she agreed to marry me was how much money do I make. I didn't tell her the truth, but what I did tell her, she never knew how much money he had or where he got it from. She tells me she doesn't even care to know and that the right kind of wife doesn't ask questions about what doesn't concern her.

The Council: If Matthew knows so much about economics, he's probably heard that women and finances mix so well, women hold most of the money in the nation. He may be an old-fashioned guy but he's living in a new-fashioned world and he is making a big mistake by not sharing this vital information with his wife.

If Vivian doesn't know an asset from a liability, Matthew ought to teach her because her children's welfare might depend on it one of these days. His brother is not a satisfactory substitute for the mother of his children as a financial confidante.

It appears Matthew has good reason to keep his business dealings secret. It is not our function to go into this aspect of the family problem, except to say that his wife should, at least, know what kind of policies he has, the amount of insurance, the beneficiaries and the company which issued the insurance.



He should also get his bank accounts, safe deposit box number, any real estate or securities, and his debtors or creditors. His wife should also have the name of a lawyer she could call on in an emergency.

This is a practical matter, but more is involved. There can be no real love between this couple while there is no trust, and there can be no trust when the wife is kept in the dark about these vital matters.

RAWDON

Young Couple Honored by Community

RAWDON — Last Friday evening the Mount Pleasant community tendered Mr. and Mrs. Dick Knapton, Belleville, a presentation party.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, presided and spoke briefly. Mrs. Carleton Potts officiated at the piano and the program opened with the singing of romantic selections.

Mrs. Harvey Couch read a humorous poem; Dianne and Freddie McAdam contributed a vocal selection and Burton Wrightman rendered violin selections with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Potts. Mrs. Percy MacMullen read two poems written by Edgar Guest.

John Mulheron offered a solo and Herbert Smith read a humorous account of a wedding. Fred McAdam contributed a vocal number and Mrs. John Mulheron gave a piano selection.

The recently married couple were given seats of honor. Robert Hoard read an address of appreciation while Harvey Couch made the presentation of an occasional upholstered chair and a chesterfield mirror. Dick and June voiced their thanks after which refreshments were served.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Phillips and sons, Allen, Freddie and Kerry, Bala, Ontario, returned home Monday after a two-weeks' holiday with relatives in this district. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Williams and daughters Sunday. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson at Hoard's, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks at Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phillips at Ivanhoe, and various relatives in Belleville while on holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hutchinson entertained Mrs. M. Turner, Mrs. George Collingwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Collingwood, London, Ontario, last weekend.

Mrs. Oscar Merrick will be hostess for a joint meeting of Mount Pleasant W.M.S. and W.A. Wednesday Oct. 9. Mrs. Eric Summers will be in charge of the program on Thanksgiving. The report of the sectional rally will also be given. The envelopes have been distributed by the W.M.S. and the Mission Band for the autumn thankoffering on Thanksgiving Sunday.

Lorne White, Norman McConnell, Earl McAdam and Harry McAdam, Mount Pleasant, attended the L.O.L. banquet in Toronto last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bonter, Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sleeper and Mr. and Mrs. Ab. Malloy, Stirling, attended the presentation party in Mount Pleasant church hall last Friday evening for the recently married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knapton, Belleville.

A heavy frost in the area recently ruined the fall flowers and vegetables.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam and family and Mr. and Mrs. Earl McAdam recently attended Burnbrae Presbyterian anniversary.

Mrs. George E. Green is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Tweed

TWEED—Miss Theresa Courtyea, who is on the Renfrew teaching staff, spent last week-end at home with her brother and sister.

Mrs. McAllister, Wolfe Island, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joseph LeSage, North Victoria St.

Mrs. M. LaFontaine and her daughter, Colleen, have returned to their home in Tweed after being hospitalized in Belleville.

There will be a social evening after the regular lodge meeting at Tweed Rebekah Lodge in the IOOF hall this Friday evening. All members are invited to attend.

Miss Jeanne Marie Trudeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Trudeau, Belleville, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Trudeau, Tweed, will be married to Michael Joseph O'Connor, Vancouver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. O'Connor, Marmora, Saturday, Oct. 19, at 10 a.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville.

Reeve T. C. Graham, Mrs. Graham and Janet have moved to the house owned by Miss Violet Brown and located on Colborne Street. The Department of Lands and Forests purchased the Graham's three-year-old residence on Metcalfe Street.

Friends of Mrs. Howard Carr will regret to learn she was hospitalized last week and had to undergo surgery. Mr. Carr is employed at the Steel Works and has been in Tweed for some time. His wife only came to Tweed after their marriage earlier this year.

The Christ Church Guild of Thomasburg held its September meeting at the home of Mrs. Keith Baldwin. There were 11 members present. The date for the fall bazaar was set for Nov. 1. The next meeting will be at the home of Stella Orr.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Tebo, who were residing in one of the Wells' apartments, have moved to the apartment in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Embury. It was recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Gunter Engel and family.

A pantry shower was held Tuesday evening at the Bel-O-Way. It was sponsored by Mrs. J. MacLean and her bowling colleagues for Mr. and Mrs. Wacklow Bruno, who lost all their possessions in a fire about two weeks ago. Many worthwhile gifts were presented and the recipients were exceptionally thankful to the donors. The party was a surprise. After the bowling a social evening was held.

Marysville

MARYSVILLE — The community was saddened on Monday when word was received from Toronto of the passing of a highly and respected resident, Rev. Father Gerald McAlpine. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family and relatives. Father McAlpine was on the teaching staff of St. Michael's College, Toronto.

The teachers of the local schools attended a district teachers' meeting held at Shannonville school on Wednesday. Mr. H. Langford, inspector, was the guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Masterson and son, Belleville, spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McAuley.

Miss Helen Walsh, Oshawa, spent the weekend at her home in Marysville.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Power (nee Carm Brennan) who were married at Holy Name of Mary Church on Saturday.

A large crowd attended the annual convention of the Ontario Farmers' Union, held in St. Carthagh's hall, Tweed, Thursday evening. Mr. A. V. Cormack, president of the union, gave an interesting talk and also outlined the resolutions that had been passed and where the farmer benefited.

Trade Minister Under Fire by CCF Leader

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell has criticized a recent suggestion by Trade Minister Churchill that western farmers cut back wheat acreage and produce more livestock and fodder to help solve Canada's grain wheat problems.

The suggestion "is surely the counsel of despair," he said at a CCF party dinner here Thursday night.

The chronic problem was not one of over-production but of under-consumption. The answer lay in policies to expand consumption rather than restrict production.

WOULD SPREAD BURDEN

Mr. Coldwell said neither the Liberals nor the Progressive Conservatives have indicated they are prepared to adopt such policies. Cutting back wheat acreage and transferring to other commodities "would merely spread the burden of surpluses into other commodities".

"The Conservative government had made a "tragic" decision to follow the Liberals in "opposing" the special United Nations fund for economic development. Such a project would raise living standards in underdeveloped countries and inevitably provide more opportunities for disposing of agricultural surpluses.

OMINOUS SIGN

He said he fears that the government's objection to the fund "is an ominous sign that the Conservative party's statements when in opposition and before June 10 have been mere lip service."

Until arrangements were made for the sale of Canadian wheat, advance payments on farm-stored grain and storage payments were an absolute essential. They should be met without delay by the government.

Mr. Coldwell urged diplomatic recognition of Communist China and said this would open up markets for Canadian wheat and other products.

Speaking of trade generally, he said Canada must lower barriers to importation of goods from the sterling area "so that our purchases from them will enable them to purchase more from us."

Swedish King's Cousin Charged With Complicity

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Prince Carl Bernadotte, 46, cousin of King Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, Thursday was indicted on a charge of complicity in an extortion case, the public prosecutor's office announced.

The charge carries with it a maximum sentence of four years imprisonment at hard labor.

Although he is not under arrest, the prince has been forbidden to leave the country while police investigate the actions of Berl Gutenberg, who faces charges of extortion, fraud and embezzlement.

The charge against Prince Carl is that he "made no noteworthy observation" when Gutenberg played on the affection for the prince of a wealthy spinster of British extraction, Miss Florence Stephens, 70, told her that he was threatened with bankruptcy and that Prince Carl would be indebted because he owed Gutenberg money.

To save the prince from being involved, the prosecutor's office claimed, Miss Stephens signed two bills of exchange which totalled 435,000 Swedish crowns.

Miss Stephens' family long has been closely associated with the Swedish crown. She has willed her estate to Prince Carl. Gutenberg was her estate manager.

FAYE WAS COSTLY

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — Typhoon Faye caused about $3,000,000 in damage to U.S. Air Force installations when it roared through the Ryukyu Islands last week, the USAF said today. One C-47 transport was destroyed and eight other transports and four jets received major but repairable damage. The storm Sept. 28 killed 53 persons.

STIRLING — The following attended the wedding of Miss Norma Davis and Harold Bush, Saturday, September 28, at Emmanuel United Church, Maple Leaf, Ontario: Mr. and Mrs. John Kane, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Usman, Mrs. Mary Vandervoort and the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bush. The reception followed in Lakeview Inn at Papineau Lake. Jack Bush was guest soloist.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Williams was christened last Sunday morning at St. Paul's United Church. Following the service they were guests at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Moore attended the wedding of their son, Glen Charles, and Miss Marilyn Jean Fitchett last Saturday, in Madoc.

Joe Daniels, Foxboro, spent a few weeks at Stirling with her brother, Percy Utman, while Mrs. Utman was undergoing treatments in Toronto.

River Valley W.I., Stirling W.I. and Wellington W.I. members are planning to attend the 31st annual meeting of the combined districts of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland counties, in Bellville Collegiate Institute, Monday and Tuesday, October 21 and 22. The highlight will be a message from the recent A.C.W.W. trip to Ceylon by Miss E. Eadie. The theme for the five sessions is based on "Your actions today will determine your place in the world tomorrow."

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pitcher, their daughter, Mrs. Roy Holland and granddaughter, Linda Holland, attended Rosneath fair last Saturday.

The local Rotary held its annual Farmers' Night in the C.O.D.F. hall recently, with the women of Laurel Lodge catering. A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative, introduced William Montcalm of the extension branch of the Department of Agriculture, who gave a special message and presented prizes to the club leaders, Carl Reid and Ross Bateman. Various awards were made to 4-H club members.

Angling Season Re-Opened to Catch Monster

QUEBEC (CP) — The fishing season has been re-opened for anyone wishing to take a crack at catching what natives describe as the monster of Lake Pohenegamook.

Hon. Camille Pouliot, Quebec game warden of the district, the lake, 100 miles east of here, to grant a permit to anyone wishing to join in the hunt. Quebec's fishing season closed Monday.

While the natives refer to the weird inhabitant of the lake as a monster, Quebec government scientists describe it cautiously as a "living thing of great size." Some say it may be a giant sturgeon.

The open season order went out to warden J. Aube after Mr. Po liot received a detailed report from Dr. Vadim Vladkov, director of the department's laboratory, saying there is "without doubt" a living creature in the lake.

Expert on Russia, W. Duranty, Dies

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Walter Duranty, 72, a Pulitzer Prize-winning foreign correspondent and an expert on Russia, died Thursday.

He was a foreign correspondent for the New York Times from 1913 to 1939. He was in Russia from 1921 to 1934, winning his Pulitzer Prize in 1922 for a series of articles on the Soviet Union.

A native of Liverpool, England, he came here to live in 1949.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Americans give more liberally to philanthropic causes than any other people in the world, the president of the Ford Foundation said Thursday. Henry T. Heald told a Rotary Club that Americans gave an estimated $6,500,000,000 last year. More than two-thirds of the amount came from individuals.

PLAN OUTDOOR THEATRE

MONTREAL (CP) — A 5,000-seat outdoor concert theatre will be built on the slopes of Mount Royal overlooking Montreal's downtown area, it was announced Thursday.

U.S. Preparing To Push West's Disarming Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — With the Arab states apparently lining up against American policy in the Middle East, the United States today was reported pushing Western disarmament proposals with a view to an early resolution for the United Nations General Assembly.

The assembly itself interrupted its general policy debate for which various member countries met to promise to devote funds for refugees in the world's troubled areas.

American sources said that at least 14 other countries would cosponsor a resolution under which the assembly would be asked to approve the Western proposals and also recommend that the five power disarmament subcommittee renew its private talks which ended last month in a deadlock.

ASKED EXTENSIONS

The U.S., Britain, France and Canada, during the subcommittee's London conferences last summer, called for suspension of nuclear tests only under agreement to end military use of fissionable materials.

Russia's counter-proposals call in brief for a nuclear test suspension without waiting for actual disarmament.

This divergence indicates that the disarmament question will be the major point of contention between the Eastern and Western big powers at this assembly session, but the Arab states' speeches in the assembly's general debate already point to a political battle on the Middle East as well.

Egypt on Thursday told the assembly that Syria, as a "blood relation" in the Arab world, would be protected by her sister states despite U.S. opposition to Syria's purchases of Soviet arms and the leftist swing of her government.

Braves Back Burdette's Brilliant Hurling With 4-2 Win Over Yanks

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THAT'S BETTER!

All is hunkey-dorey in Milwaukee.

The Braves are back in business again and open shop tomorrow for a three-game stand in their own backyard, before thousands of baseball-wacky fans.

That sparkling 4-2 victory yesterday which squared the series and brought stardom to Lew Burdette, the side-arming chucker and Wes Covington, who had a noticeable reputation of good-hit-no-field has the noble burghers of Milwaukee in a delirious tizzy.

Large tears splashed in Yankee suds schupers after the champions had bowed to the Milwaukee upstarts. Some of the more rabid fans are trying to hang the goat's horns on aging Enos Slaughter, who they said, should have thrown to the plate in the run-getting fourth inning instead of past Tony Kubec at third.

Here was the play as we saw it. Joe Adcock opened the inning with a single to left field and Andy Pafko dropped one in the same place, sending Adcock to second. At this point Wes Covington bloaped a single over Gil McDougald's head. Adcock, a big fellow, and not exactly the speediest runner in the world, lumbered for the plate.

Slaughter fielded the ball and threw to Kubek at third in an effort to nail Pafko. Instead, Slaughter's throw got by Kubek who was tabbed with an error and Pafko followed Big Joe across the plate. That biddies, was the ball game.

If Adcock had been tagged at the plate the game might have taken a different complexion, the Yankee fans say. Slaughter shrugged it off as one of those things. But that's baseball.

There was a strange situation developed at Yankee Stadium yesterday. Wes Covington, the Braves' negro star, was being congratulated for sparking work afield. This is strange in the fact that Covington is not rated a good fielder but he came up with a sparkling catch yesterday when he speared Bobby Shantz' line drive in the second with a back-handed stab.

Manager Haney admitted through smiles that had Covington not caught the drive it would have meant two runs and perhaps more. But it was no accident, he said. "The guy worked hard on his fielding and now he's reaping the benefits."

On the other side of the picture, Mickey Mantle, one of the game's greatest fielders, had a bad day. The Mick misjudged one fly and booted a single on the ground. Someone remarked that Covington give Mickey a few pointers. "Bunk," snorted the Braves, "that Mantle is still great." Mickey said afterward that he definitely misjudged Aaron's fly. "When he first hit the ball I thought I'd get it. But it kept sailing higher and higher."

But that's now water under the baseball bridge and tomorrow is another day. Big Bob Turley will take the mound against the Brave's ace, Bobbie Buhl, and this battle of the Bob's should be a thriller.. And remember game time is three o'clock, eastern daylight.

DUNLOPS IN TRENTON

The Allan Cup champions, Whitby Dunlops, are in Trenton tonight when they complete a two game series with the Cleveland Barons. The Dunnies have absorbed three straight defeats at the hands of the Barons but that fact is the least of Manager Wren Blair's troubles.

In fact Blair said after the Barons had whipped the Dunlops 7-4 Wednesday night, that Whitby is probably as about as strong for a senior club as they could be. "We had the best team in amateur hockey last year and we have added five good senior players so we'd be that much better."

As far as being defeated in three straight games by the Barons is concerned, Blair said: "We haven't been training as long as they have and remember we are playing the American League champions, so there is no reason why we should beat them."

Manager Ted Steadman of the new Trenton Community Gardens, said today that the game is a sell-out. He expects over 2,000 fans from the district at the first game to be played in the new gardens.

BOOSTERS' DANCE

And don't forget the McFarlands' Booster Club dance tonight at the Knights of Columbus hall. The boys and their wives will be on hand to meet the fans so it is hoped a large crowd will turn out to greet and meet them. Tickets for the dance (a buck apiece) are available at Bill Cook's Cigar Store, or you can secure them at the hall.

Sidearmer 7-Hits Champs As Covington Stars at Plate; Two Bobs to Hurl Saturday

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Back home with a split in the two games played at Yankee Stadium the suddenly stimulated Milwaukee Braves, from manager Fred Haney down, were confident today they would beat the New York Yankees although the odds-makers still made the American League champions a slight 6-to-5 favorite to capture their second straight world series.

Elated by his team's fine all-around performance Thursday which backed up Lew Burdette's brilliant pitching with a 4-2 triumph, Haney plans to start pitcher Bob Buhl against the Yankees Saturday in the first of three consecutive games at County Stadium. The 18-game winner will be opposed by Bob Turley, New York's hardest throwing pitcher.

DOUBTFUL TO THE END

Both teams will most certainly present strong lineups from their stated tactics of the past when they battled to the wire before 65,202 fans Thursday in a game that was still in doubt until Hank Bauer rapped into a game-ending force play to leave the tying runs on the baespaths. It was the kind of a victory that soared the underdog Braves' hopes to a new high and a defeat that caused the Yankees to regard the Milwaukee club with new respect.

"Those fellows showed our guys they mean business," declared Casey Stengel, the canny New York manager. "This was a big game for them. They're going to be tougher to beat from now on. Mind you, I'm not saying we won't do it but it's not going to be easy. Not from the looks of the way they battled us today."

VEERED CHALLENGE

Taking a cue from his players, who fought the Yankees tooth and nail in the second game even to the extent of exchanging harsh words and beanballs, the usually mild-mannered Haney hurled a veiled challenge at Casey's crew.

"We know we will win now," he said defiantly. "We're over the hump. We stood up to those guys in the pennant stretch and held them even. Now they've got to play us three games in our park. I think pitching will be the key to this series and I know we've got the pitching."

In an effort to make use of as much stimulated batting strength as possible against the right-handed Turley, Haney will open with a revised lineup that will include spectacular rookie Bob Hazle, in place of veteran Andy Pafko in right field, and probably Frank Torre instead of Joe Adcock at first base. Del Rice will catch Buhl—in place of Del Crandall, who worked behind the plate in the first two games.

CHANGE BATTING ORDER

The batting order will also suffer a slight alteration. Wes Covington, the hitting star of the series up to now, with four safeties in eight times at bat, has been moved up from seventh to fifth, with—Hazle batting sixth, Torre seventh and Rice eighth.

Stengel said he would not decide on his third game lineup until after this afternoon's practice session but he indicated one or two changes would be made. He was strongly considering playing Jerry Lumpe, his left handed hitting rookie, at third base and moving Tony Kubek back to left field. Otherwise the lineup will remain unchanged.

SATISFYING GAME

Haney was still exultant today over his team's success Thursday in what he called "the most satisfying game we've played all year."

"Everybody was great. Burdette was simply marvelous. Covington not only hit well but made the best defensive play of the series so far. His catch on Bobby Shantz was the turning point of the game."

The biggest praise, of course, was for Burdette, the fidgety, 30-year-old sidearmer who throttled the Yankees on seven hits. A home run by Hank Bauer and a 15-foot dribble-single by Jerry Coleman produced the only Yankee runs.

SIXTH WAS TOUGH

Burdette's toughest inning, outside of those that saw New York score, was the sixth when Mickey Mantle walked and Enos Slaughter sliced a one-out double to left. The rangy righthander then made a fine play on Harry Simpson's roller toward third, getting his man by a whisker and keeping the runners anchored. They remained stranded when Red Schoendienst threw out Kubek.

Lew, once Yankee property, had to fight off another challenge in the ninth. After disposing of Simpson he gave up singles to Kubek and pinch hitter Lumpe in between an out by Joe Collins, and suddenly the Yankees had the tying runs on base. Burdette rose to the challenge by inducing the dangerous Bauer to send a roller to Logan who threw to Schoendienst for the force play.

READY WITH RELIEVER

"This was the only time I considered taking Burdette out of the game," Haney told reporters later. "If Bauer had gotten on base, I was all ready to call in Don McMahon from the bullpen to pitch to Gil McDougald."

It was in the nature of a revenge victory for Burdette. He hasn't forgotten that the Yankees threw him in as excess baggage in the 1951 deal with the old Boston Braves that brought Johnny Sain to the Yankees for $50,000.

"The Yankees had me in spring training that year," he observed. "I gave up only one earned run in 13 innings but Stengel never even knew I was around. He had eyes only for his boy, Tom Morgan, who that spring did not give up a run in 22 innings."

Oshawa Bantams Shade Galt

GALT (CP)—Although pitcher David Baird of Galt held Oshawa Bantams to four hits and struck out 22, Oshawa defeated Galt 4-0 Thursday in the first game of the best-of-three series for the southern bantam division of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

Oshawa's four hits comprised a single by Peters a double by Wannamaker, a triple by King and a home run by Williamson.

Second game will be played in Oshawa Saturday.

Wes Covington, Braves Hero, Top Hitter in Series So Far

NEW YORK (AP) — Milwaukee's Wes Covington jests about the miseries which beset him in the spring.

"They said I couldn't catch a ball in a wicker basket," he said. "I worked hard on my fielding. Then they said I'd learned to field but forgotten how to hit."

There is more truth than levity in Covington's little joke. His hitting became so obvious in the early stages of the campaign he was farmed out to Wichita of the American Association for a month. He almost was traded to Giants in the 3-for-1 deal for Red Schoendienst.

The six-foot, 205-pound Negro athlete from Durham, N.C., is Braves' leading hitter in the series—four hits in eight at bats for .500—and it was his spectacular fielding which was credited with helping Milwaukee knot the series with New York's Yankees Thursday at Yankee Stadium 4-2.

RIFLE SHOT TO LEFT

"In the second inning Yankees had mustered a rally against pitcher Lew Burdette. One run was in and men were on first and second when Bobby Shantz, Yankee pitcher, hit a rifle shot to deep left field.

Covington took off after the ball and nabbed it back-handed over his head while on the dead run.

"If Wes hadn't made that catch they might have made two or three more runs and we might have been out of the ball game.

"The ball was hit harder than I thought," said Covington. "When I saw it going over my head I got on my horses and went after it. I believe the ball would have gone for a home run."

Eastern Canada Grid Fans Get Full Slate of Action

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The opening of the senior Intercollegiate Football Union Saturday makes this the first weekend with a full slate of action for Eastern Canada football fans.

The defending champion Queen's University Golden Gaels play at home to the University of Toronto Blues. In the other battle Mustangs from the University of Western Ontario tangle with the highly-rated McGill University Redmen.

In the Big Four, second-place Hamilton Tiger-Cats travel to Ottawa for a game Saturday with Rough Riders.

Montreal Alouettes, who share the league lead with Riders, head for Toronto and a battle with the winless Argonauts.

HOST TAILENDERS

In the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, London Lords, tied with Sarnia for first place, play hosts to last-place Toronto Grey Beaches. Sarnia plays Kitchener-Waterloo in the other contest Saturday.

Ticat coach Jim Trimble is faced with the major problem of choosing between the two not-so-fit quarterbacks.

Regular signal - caller Bernie Faloney is recovering from the flu, and second - stringer Tony Curcillo is still now starting to throw accurately following an injury Sept. 6.

Roughrid have flu problems of their own. Coach Frank Clair is the victim. His charges seem very fit, with little change likely in the lineup which dumped Argos 40-21 last Saturday.

INSURANCE QUARTER

Al Ledyard seems to have nailed down the first string quarterback job following his performance in the game, though Clair says Tom Dimitroff will be around in case he falters.

Argos' managing director Lou Hayman, on the basis of his club's last half showing against Ottawa last week, predicted a win for Scullers.

Coach Hamp Pool, given a vote of confidence by the Argo brass this week, announced southpaw Fred Wyant once again will start at quarterback. The rest of the backfield will include Dick Shatto, Bobby Kennedy and Corky Tharp. Newcomer Billy Rhodes likely will fill in for Charlie Sticka who has a groin injury. Reg Meserve, whose Big Four football debut have consisted of only punting the ball, may break in as a flanker.

SHORT ONE IMPORT

If end Henry Hair's ankle isn't ready, Pool said Argos would go with 11 imports. Pete O'Garro would move to end.

Coach Doug Maker of Als is taking Hayman at his word, and foresees a "tough fight."

He announced the return to the lineup of kicker Avatus Stone. He'll wear a leather brace on his injured knee. End Doug McNichol, playing regularly in practice, isn't expected to take his place in the lineup until the Thanksgiving weekend.

Gordie Howe Scores Two in Wings' Win

CHATHAM (CP)—Detroit Red Wings, paced by Gordie Howe's two goals, came from behind twice Thursday night to defeat Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League 5-2 in their final exhibition game.

The National Hockey League club, battling their faster and more aggressive farm team, clinched the victory with two seconds remaining in the second period on Bill Dineen's low backhander. Red Kelly and Norm Ullman added insurance counters in the final frame.

Cummy Burton, who sent Flyers ahead after seven minutes of the first period, and Charlie Holmes netted for Edmonton.

Busso, Williams Fight Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnny Busso, a rising star among lightweights, and Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams, a fast-fisted town boy getting his first crack at main event money, clash tonight in a 10-round bout at Capital Arena.

Busso, 23-year-old New Yorker, is a 2-1 favorite to mar Williams' debut as a fighter on television. Busso is ranked ninth among 135-pounders, while Williams is just graduating from the semi-final class and hasn't crashed the ratings.

Busso upset Larry Boardman last summer, then pressed Ralph Dupas to the limit before bowing to the New Orleans contender in late August. Of his 30 wins, 14 have been knockouts. Busso has 21 five bouts and drawn one.

Leafs Score Easy 13-3 Win Over Greyhounds

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs took an easy 13-3 exhibition win over Sault Greyhounds Thursday night with Dickie Duff providing a four-goal splurge.

It was the first outing for the Greyhounds of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior series, and drew a crowd of 3,209. Net proceeds of $5,000 go to the Sault Rotary Club's crippled children's fund.

The National Hockey League Leafs scored four goals in the first period, four more in the second and five in the third.

Greyhounds hit the score sheet when Mike Ratchford rattled one past Gerry McNamara in the last minute of the second period. Tom Walker and Cleland Mortson also scored for greyhounds.

Sid Smith scored twice and George Armstrong, Frank Mahovlich, Ted Sloan, Bob Pulford, Barry and Brian Cullen, and Duff one each for Leafs.

Blue Bombers Take on Esks For Top Spot

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

First place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union is at stake in one game Saturday night and the other contest will have an important bearing on which team will third and the last playoff spot.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers visit Edmonton and a win would give the charging Bombers a tie with Eskimos at 16 points apiece. But Winnipeg has played one fewer game.

In the other game Saskatchewan Roughriders play at Calgary and a win over the Stampeders would put Frank Filchock's injury-riddled crew within contending distance of the third-place Calgary club. Calgary now has 10 points and fourth-place Riders 8.

Monday night Calgary is to uncover to battle British Columbia Lions, trailing in the five-team loop, and Winnipeg is at Regina.

TOOK A BEATING

Both Winnipeg and Edmonton took a physical beating in Monday night's game in the Manitoba capital as Bombers won 29-27.

However, Winnipeg's high-scoring backs Buddy Leake did not suffer a feared shoulder separation, but only a badly bruised shoulder. He will miss the game at Edmonton Saturday.

Bomber tackles Buddy Tinsley and Steve Patrick are fighting the flu and Bob McNamara and Vern Uecker are on the injured list.

For Edmonton, end Bill Walker who suffered a severe charley horse, is listed as a doubtful starter.

Rollie Miles has recuperated from pulled knee ligaments and should be ready after sitting out three games. Unlikely to dress are Kurt Burris, Tommy Pesut and Earl Lindley.

A BIG GAME

Coach Otis Douglas of Calgary doesn't want his Stampeders to back into third place and has described the Saturday night fixture as the big game.

Nobby Wirkowski will start at quarter in place of Jim Finks.

The imports should be the strongest Douglas has been able to muster for a few games. He will have at end Jack Gotta, Ernie Warlick and Willie Roberts; at tackle Dick Hoffman, Erik Christensen and Floyd Harrawood; at centre Bob Jennings; and in the backfield, Howie Waugh, Jim Letcavits, Dick Suscale and Dean Renfro.

Meanwhile Filchock commented:

"In no previous season can I recall running into so many injuries to first-string players. A bad knee has kept Martin Ruby on the sidelines practically all year.

"Then Ken Carpenter missed three games and Jack Hill two. Bobby Marlow broke his hand and now Carpenter is out for the rest of the season with a broken arm. Milt Robichaud hurt his knee and Sully Glasser has a sprained ankle.

Bill will play Saturday night. Marlow, Glasser and fullback Vic Ghidoni who broke his thumb, are uncertain starters. Robichaux will not play.

Varsity Meets Golden Gaels In Intercollegiate Opener

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

For those who spend their spare moments assessing the strength of teams in the senior Intercollegiate Football Union, here's a tip: Before making the final analysis, consult the Ed Nag.

The schedule gets under way Saturday with University of Toronto Blues visiting Kingston's Queen's University Golden Gaels while McGill University Redmen tangle with University of Western Ontario Mustangs at Montreal. But all four teams will be hampered as a result of influenza.

The flu has cut training camp squads by as much as nine players in a week and several of those on the sick list will miss the openers.

STILL BIG THREAT

As they have been in the last couple of seasons, Redmen are again the team rated tops. McGill coach Larry Sullivan is optimistic about his club's chances.

"We were able to cut at least 15 players from our original team this season," he said. "Some of them were players who would have automatically made the team in other years."

Sullivan thinks he has the answer to Queen's great halfback Ron Stewart. The newcomer to Redmen is 22-year-old Carl Hansen from Hamilton College, N.Y.

Quarterbacking will be no handicap for Redmen as long as Dick Carr stays healthy. Carr will have ends Sam Yuska, Joe Poirier and Johnny Bennett as his main passing targets.

MOST OF LINE BACK

The loss of Vaughan McVey and John Larsen through graduation hurt, says Sullivan. But he is confident Paul Hartsinovsky can take up most of the slack. Other than that change, most of last year's linemen are back.

Golden Gaels appear to be questionable with five of last year's stars still enrolled at the university but unwilling to play football this fall. But with Ron Stewart back Queen's is a threat.

All-star centre Gerry Lewis backs Bill Surphlis and Don Roy, end Jay McMahon and tackle Charlie Lewis are the five "untired" players who are concentrating on their studies.

Coach Frank Tindall figures his defensive setup is the weakest.

For the first time in three seasons Gaels will have a Canadian quarterback. Bob Campbell, a Toronto boy, is expected to see most of the action from the quarterback slot.

DEEP IN EXPERIENCE

Western Mustangs are the best-equipped team as far as holdovers are concerned. Twenty-five of last year's players are back and they have been bolstered by some strong recruits from the intermediate champion Western Colts.

The team, however, has had trouble battling the flu in training camp and it's possible that as many as six key men might miss the opening game.

Returning are quarterbacks Art Turner and Frank Cosentine and veteran backfielders Bill Britton and John Bell, Dale Creighton, who was with London Lords of Ontario Rugby Football Union last season, will be one of the fullbacks along with sophomore Lionel Coscarelli.

The line is virtually the same one as last season with linebackmen Ted Roman, Bruce Ward and Ed Meads returning. John Girvin and Don Stewart are back at their end positions.

Ryder Cup Play Starts Today In England

LINDRICK, England (AP) — Star American and British professional golfers open their battle for the Ryder Cup today—and the sponsors are sure of a profit before even a stroke is made.

The fairy godfather of British professional golf—wealthy northern industrialist Sir Stuart Goodwin — swept away all money headaches for the British Professional Golfers Association with a gift of £10,000.

He told the association: "Here is the money. You can keep all the profits." He suggested the match might go on at little known Lindrick, his home club. The PGA naturally fell in with that suggestion.

The Ryder Cup match opened with Scotch foursomes. Four pairs of Americans met four pairs from the British Isles. The eight singles will be played Saturday.

It is 24 years since Britain defeated the United States in the Ryder Cup. The Americans have won the cup nine times and Britain twice.

J. Houseman About to Give 'Surprise' Treatment to TV

AT THE PARK — Glenn Ford plays the title role in "The Fastest Gun Alive", MGM's gripping suspense Western of a man who turns the tide of an entire community against him by refusing to use his quick shooting. Jeanne Crain and Broderick Crawford co-star in the new thrill-drama showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program is a Technicolor cartoon starring Mighty Mouse and a continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Television is about to receive the John Houseman "surprise" treatment. "With surprise we hope to attract and hold a vast audience," says the executive producer of the big new Seven Lively Arts project which unveils over CBS-TV Sunday, Nov. 3.

Houseman, a veteran showman of stage and screen making his first major sortie on TV with the hour-long series, says: "One thing I know, our first show will cause an outburst."

The topic of the initial telecast is Changing Ways of Love, a three-decade survey of romance in America. Humorist S. J. Perelman has written the script and Piper Laurie will be the feminine lead.

The free - wheeling, unpredictable spirit of the scheme is displayed in the first show, Houseman says.

Shunning format (each program will have a different director to assure variety), Houseman feels "the virtue and the danger of the project is that it will sweep across all so-called audience segments."

He adds:

"I honestly don't believe that the television audience is as stereotyped as it is made out, nor do I think it has to be grounded."

HAS MAGIC INGREDIENT

The magic ingredient in winning and holding fans in any entertainment medium, he says, is providing the unexpected.

"You can be sure we won't put on any show just because it might simply be something beautiful to look at."

Each program will be devoted to a unified discussion-essay-assault—on a topic that falls loosely within the show's title.

The second program will concern the phenomenon of American jazz. Another will come a study of Hollywood's world-wide film making craze, an intensive picture portrait of New York in off-guard moments and an examination of evangelism.

Ronnie Knox Suspended by Chicago Bears

CHICAGO (AP)—George Halas, owner of Chicago Bears, Thursday suspended quarterback Ronnie Knox for "wilful violation of rules and regulations of the club."

Halas said Knox, former UCLA star who played one year in Canadian pro football has missed two club practices in 12 days.

Halas said Ronnie, who figured in a total of only nine Bear plays this fall, also missed special quarterback tutoring sessions three days this week. In addition, Halas said, Ronnie was late to meetings and practice sessions several times.

He said he didn't know how long the suspension will last.

Knox started last season with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four and finished it with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Reject Proposed Algonquin Park Season on Deer

TORONTO (CP) — Frank MacDougall, deputy minister of the Ontario department of lands and forests, announced Wednesday that the department has rejected a proposal that deer hunting be allowed in Algonquin Park to thin out the herd this fall.

The proposal came last month from government will life managers and foresters in the Algonquin area who reported the food supply was small to support the large deer population.

One government source said public opinion against deer shooting was a major factor in shaping the government decision.

Meeker Out As Manager Posted to Public Relations

TORONTO (CP) — Howie Meeker may go down in National Hockey League history as the only manager of an NHL club who never managed his team in a league game.

That dubious distinction came about Thursday when it was announced in a statement that the 34-year-old former player-coach of Toronto Maple Leafs "agreed to disagree" with the recently-formed seven-man Leaf committee and Maple Leaf Gardens after five months as general manager. But Meeker wasn't long out of a job.

A separate statement issued at the same time said Meeker has agreed to work in the Gardens publicity department. Meeker will be paid his full season's salary as general manager.

TOOK DAY'S PLACE

Meeker, coach of the 1956-57 fifth-place Leafs, moved upstairs as general manager of the club last May on the resignation of Clarence (Hap) Day, who had been with the club 27 years as player, coach and manager. Billy Reay became centre with Montreal Canadiens and coach of Rochester in the American Hockey League, succeeded Meeker as coach.

Meeker met with Leafs at the Sudbury training camp this fall. Next Tuesday Leafs open the 1957-58 season at Chicago and that would have been Meeker's first league game as manager.

The position of general manager will not be filled by a new appointment, the statement said. Instead, the duties will be looked after by Staff Smythe, chairman of the seven-man committee, assistant manager Frank (King) Clancy, Reay and chief Scout Bob Davidson.

The statement did not say why Meeker was dropped as general manager by Staff Smythe said in an interview later that "he didn't have the experience needed for that kind of a job and needs to learn more about it."

New Rule Bans Kicking Ball In Player's Hand

TORONTO (CP)—The Big Four Football Union playing rules have been amended so that a player kicking at a ball in an opponent's grasp will draw a 15-yard penalty, it was announced Thursday.

Referee-in-chief Cecil McFaddin issued orders to his officials following two such incidents in recent games. The offenders on both occasions were not penalized.

If the kicker misses the ball and lands a boot on the opponent, he will be banished from the game, McFaddin ruled.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — E. P. Taylor's five-year-old Captor came back to the races in winning form before 4,617 fans at New Woodbine racetrack Thursday to haul bothered him at the three-eighth pole but after viewing the films, the stewards turned the claim down.

A 60-1 shot winner of the first race, Blue Curlo, got the double into the rarified category. Blue Curlo and Long Row hit for the double and returned $726.40 for $2.

J. Robards Resumes Career After 7 Years of Blindness

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What does an actor notice when he regains his sight after seven years?

Colors, mostly — "everything is so full of color — the cars, the buildings, the furniture."

Also, his family — "They look wonderful"; his friends — "How did they've grown!").

These are the reactions of Jason Robards, who is resuming his acting career after seven years of darkness. You'd remember his basic face — he was long one of Hollywood's well - known character actors. If your memory goes back further, you'd recall him as a star in the silents and the early talkies and on stage in the long-run Lightnin'.

One day in 1949, he left his home to drive to Hollywood. His vision was blurred, as if something gummy was covering his eyes. He dropped by his optometrist, thinking he might need new glasses.

"Save your money," the doctor told him. "You've got cataracts."

Robards' vision failed steadily, and he began the seven years in which he could barely discern light and shadows.

What did he do?

"It's not so bad being blind, as long as you know where things are," he said. "It's only when things are moved that you are in trouble.

"I learned a lot about people. You can really tell how people feel when you hear their voices and you don't see them cover up with their faces.

"I listened to radio and then to television. I learned a lot about acting, too. It amazed me to hear what actors were getting away with."

In January this year, Robards underwent an operation to remove the cataracts. Now he is back at his profession, playing an important role in one of Warner Brothers' Sugar Foot TV series.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday appears and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, October 5, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Primarily this is a day for rest and recreation, and these are favored by today's well-respected planets (Sun and Jupiter). But it is also a good day for business and sound financial matters.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Similar to Aries now. However, Saturn's aspect warns against carelessness in all situations where there is danger to life and limb.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — A good day! If you avoid extremes and excesses, you can have a pleasant, constructive time. Don't ask too much of anyone — including yourself. Be content.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Today should bring many good opportunities to be used for your well being and happiness. Accept worthwhile challenges. You can achieve every day.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Peak vibrations, with your Sun and Jupiter in splendid configuration. What to do with time is up to you. Be your intelligent, quick-thinking self; you won't go wrong. Enjoy due rest.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Let your talents and good humor tandem along together, and you will gather a full measure of happiness by day's end. Strong, substantial matters especially favored, finances included.

September 24 to October 23 — Libra) — Some unexpected good news likely. Do not be too skeptical or too easy-going. Day asks sound judgment but also offers reward for sincerity and earnest effort.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Give thought and effort to your day's demands but don't be too exacting and do not try to get more done than you reasonably can. Sound finances favored.

November 23 to December 21— (Sagittarius) — Your own Jupiter and the Sun are propitiously aspected. Those who do their best, and without complaint, should reap fine rewards.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn)— Keep to fine principles, accept responsibilities as one should and you can have a satisfying day.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius)— Be as careful about the little details and obligations as of the bigger, seemingly more important matters. You can do very well if you are consistent.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Doubts and fears are troublemakers. See that they are eliminated from your thoughts. This day was "made to order" for you.

You born today have Saturn and Venus as your natal planets. There is great talent and a desire for learning in this sector, also solid practicality and artistry. Yet there also may be a tendency to an unsettled disposition. It is important that you develop consistency of effort and don't live beyond your income. You could be cheated in business, are innately wise in judgment of people as well as projects upon which to work. You can become a splendid lawyer, teacher, manager of an institution, or clever as an actor, and conscientious and able in politics, governments. Birthdate: Chester A. Arthur, 21st U. S. President.

Negroes Gather Money for White Victim of Gang

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Side by-side campaigns to help the victims of teen-age violence and to rid the city of racial bitterness gathered force today.

Public agencies and aroused individuals, white and Negro alike, joined in an organized determination to end "these senseless fights before more young people are hurt."

The quoted words are those of Mrs. Clara Baldwin, a Negro in her late 40s with a family of her own and a strong sense of social responsibility.

Mrs. Baldwin, cheered on by city officials and welfare groups, this week started canvassing her North Philadelphia neighborhood to raise money for the family of Billy Fluck, 15 - year - old white boy stabbed to an attack Negro youth. The boy's spinal column was all but severed by a knife, causing paralysis of both legs. Doctors fear he may never walk again.

COUPLE HORRIFIED

Living a few blocks from the Flucks, Mrs. Baldwin said she was horrified by what happened. Her feelings were seconded by her husband, Thomas. Both resolved to do something.

The wife took the lead, since she is an acknowledged leader in civic and educational projects for her part of the city. In less than three days the Baldwins have rallied to their efforts more than 100 volunteer solicitors, most of them Negroes.

About 32 canvassers gathered in the Baldwin home Thursday night and reckoned up about $100 in contributions. About the same amount was raised the night before.

Governor Faubus Appeals Decision Of District Judge

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Governor Orval Faubus appealed Thursday a decision of Little Rock District Judge Ronald Davies enjoining the governor and Arkansas National Guard officers from interfering with a court order for racial integration at Little Rock's Central High School.

The appeal filed for the governor and Maj. Gen. Sherman Clark, Gen. Sherman T. Clinger and Lt.-Col. Marion G. Johnson, charged Judge Davies erred when he refused to disqualify himself on the grounds he was "prejudiced" in the integration case.

Davies was on temporary assignment at the time from his North Dakota district.

The appeal goes to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis. Davies has returned to his home in Fargo, N.D., where at his own request of all of his actions here except the integration case.

Sunday School Lesson

Quarrelsome Christians

By ROY L. SMITH

The title for this lesson is a misnomer, for there are no quarrelsome Christians. The moment any believer becomes quarrelsome he ceases to be Christian. This does not mean that there are to be no differences of opinion among those who profess to be followers of Jesus Christ, but it does mean that the true Christian spirit will enable different Christians to live together with their differences and without quarrelling.

CORINTH A BAWDY TOWN

The Corinthian church, to which this Scripture was addressed, represented the most heroic venture of faith into which the Apostle Paul ever entered. The city of Corinth was the most bawdy and lecherous town in all the ancient world. If one man said of another that he "lived like a Corinthian," it was esteemed to be the most vicious accusation he could level against him, for the city's life was dissolute, debauched, violent, and abandoned.

Situated as it was on a narrow neck of land which connected the lower half of Greece with the northern section, the city served as a port for the traffic on two seas. At all seasons of the year its streets swarmed with sailors, their pockets stuffed with money, their blood hot with passion, and their rivalries and ribaldries unchecked.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 6: "Paul Writes to the Corinthians," I Corinthians 1-4.

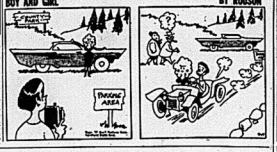
Atop a mountain that rose hundreds of feet above the city, on its south side, there stood an enormous and gaudy temple dedicated to Aphrodite, the goddess of love, and immediately adjacent was a barracks that housed a thousand prostitutes, whose earnings supported the shrine. Religion was lending its sanction to lust. To have even considered the possibility of founding a Christian church in the midst of such life called for a faith that would move mountains.

DEFEATED BY DIVISIVENESS

Very early in the history of the congregation, however, a spirit of divisiveness appeared among the people. The historical records are a bit scanty, but it appears that a variety of preachers ministered to the people with the result that little factions began to spring up around each one. The resulting loss of spiritual power in the church was nothing less than disastrous.

It was not that there was any quarrelling among the preachers themselves. Instead, their followers proclaimed their loyalties in such blatant and boisterous terms that the pagans soon began getting great amusement out of the situation. No church more surely defeats itself than that one does which carries its quarrels into the newspapers for the entertainment of the public.

Only in the rarest of instances has any man promoted the cause of Christ by dividing the body of Christ. There have been those few, of course, who have revolted against things monstrous and have set forward the essential cause of Christ. But by far the majorities of church controversies have been blessed only by the devil.



No small part of the difficulty inside of organized religion originates in the fact that the inexperienced and the unschooled have undertaken to speak with authority.

The conversationalists and contentious in Corinth were men and women who had enjoyed no more than a few weeks or months of Christian experience, and who assumed on the basis of such shallow knowledge the right to speak as authorities.

The field of good religion is very broad indeed and the roots of genuine faith go very deep. To many of the great facts of faith some of the wisest and best trained minds have given lifetimes of study and research. The new believer will, therefore, be well advised if he assumes an attitude of humility in the presence of the profound things.

There is a very important place in the life of the church for the glowing testimony of the new convert, but there is no magic or miracle in a Christian conversion which gives the ignorant man the right to assail the veteran scholar who knows the facts.

RUSSIAN 'BABY MOON' CIRCLING GLOBE

Link Is Broken In Chain Binding Humans To Earth

Surprised U.S. Scientists Quickly Congratulate Reds

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Russia has won a race to step first into space with a baby moon.

It brings her enormous popular prestige, and world-wide congratulations of scientists.

Something fashioned by human hands and minds is whirling around the world as a Columbus of space.

That's the tremendous initial impact. The link is broken in the chain binding humans to earth.

Baby moons are the first messengers to tell us what space is like, to answer some mysteries of the void between earth, sun and stars.

VALUABLE IF—

This first messenger can be valuable only if:

A: Scientists or amateurs in Russia or anywhere else can spot it often enough to learn its orbit, to predict where it goes next, and to learn what happens to it.

B: It radios back information about what it learns.

C: It lasts long enough before falling back close to earth and perishes like a shooting star.

Answers to these critical points still are awaited.

MUST KNOW PATH

Its path must be known before changes, in its path have solid meaning. How much it is slowed down will tell scientists how dense—though terribly, terribly thin—the earth's air is at such high altitudes is how many meteorites or cosmic dust the calm moon is bounding into.

The baby moon carries a radio. Radio "fixes" could help determine its path.

The baby moon carries equipment to measure temperatures in space, said Russia's Dr. A. A. Blagonravov.

Its radio could report this information, even if it path were not determined exactly. It would come in a radio-pulse code — not yet made public for other nations to listen in on.

A short life means little knowledge. Long life means valuable information.

DIFFICULT JOB

The Soviet success means, too, they have achieved a most difficult task in rocketry.

Just shooting a rocket hundreds of miles high is not the problem. It is to make the multi - stage rocket turn in its flight to be parallel to the earth. Then the last rocket kicks the moon forward in a great surge so its speed counterbalances the pull of gravity, and it stays in an orbit.

This requires the most difficult kind of electronic brains and controls. And they report their moon is nine times heavier than the planned U.S. moon — a weight amazing American scientists.

Russian scientists said the moon resulted from the first shot —with no prior test shots.

Quebec Lawyer Senate Speaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Lawyer Mark R. Drouin, 55, of Quebec City, has been summoned to the Senate and appointed its Speaker, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

The appointment completes the Progressive Conservative government's lineup of senior Senate appointments for the first Parliament, to be opened by the Queen Oct. 14.

CANADA AGREES TO INCREASE BRITISH IMPORTS

Trade Minister Will Make Trip to Britain

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has agreed to initiate action on a number of steps to increase imports from Britain, although experts suggested the measures constitute a "mere drop in the bucket," they felt they may point the way for bigger steps to be taken later.

The measures agreed on, as detailed in a 1,000-word joint Anglo-Canadian communique issued Friday, include the dispatch of a "high-level" Canadian trade mission to Britain, encouragement of federal departments and agencies to buy more from the United Kingdom and Canadian consideration to reduce duties on overseas tourist purchases.

In return Britain has agreed to decrease import curbs against Canadian goods gradually as U.K. earnings increase through heavier sales to Canada.

FREE TRADE LEFT OVER

Left in abeyance for possible further consideration later is Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposal that the two countries enter into a special free - trade union, say over a period of 12 or 15 years. Peter Thorneycroft, chancellor of the U.K. exchequer, told a press conference he didn't expect any "great leaps" The subject was discussed at the three-day talks, but the communique said the Canadian government was asked to express their views.

Mr. Thorneycroft argued that it would be "quite unrealistic" to expect an immediate reply to such a far-reaching matter. For example, Britain took months to make her decision before she proposed to enter into Europe's tariff-reducing industrial free trade area.

He added, however, that he was encouraged by the "spirit of determination" of the two governments to expand bilateral trade. He disclosed that no tariff changes also were discussed, though they are mentioned in the communique. Some Commonwealth tariff preferences reduced since 1932, might have to be restored. This, he suggested could be a rather disturbing thing in the spirit of the 35-country General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

DISCUSS NEXT YEAR

However, it was felt that this matter should receive consideration by the whole Commonwealth, and likely would be discussed at the next prime ministers' trade and economic conference which may be held in Canada.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker participated in the talks along with Finance Minister Fleming and Trade Minister Churchill.

Mr. Churchill said the mission, all accompanied by Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness and Defence Production Minister Sidney Smith, leave for Washington Sunday to discuss Canada — American trade problems with American ministers.

Satellite Facts, Figures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Here s a brief summary of the Russian report that the U.S.S.R. has launched the first man-made earth satellite.

Size—23 centimeters (about 23 inches) in diameter; weight, 82.6 kilograms (about 183 pounds, surprisingly heavy, say Western scientists).

Orbit—Not yet announced by Russia or determined by the West; but expected to be generally over the pole, at an altitude of about 560 miles.

Speed—Nearly five miles a second; announced by Russia as 18,000 meters a second; it will slow down gradually as resistance takes its effect. Circles the earth once every hour and 35 minutes.

Signals — The sphere carries automatically the tr o wave-lengths: signals are of 3-10 of a second duration at frequencies of 20.005 and 40.002 megacycles or 15 and 7.5 meters wavelengths respectively. The signals can be—and have been—picked up by amateur radio operators.

Spotting the sphere can be done by ordinary binoculars and telescopes. Western scientists say persons with binoculars will have a better chance of observing it than top observatories; it will be too fast for large telescopes to track it. Sunrise or sunset is the best time to observe it.

Future—Expected to stay in space for from two days to a month, according to Russian scientists, depending on the density of the atmosphere at its orbit. As it slows down, it will start falling back toward the earth. As it enters heavier atmosphere, the heat generated by the friction of the air will consume it.

Results—Yet to be ascertained; already hailed by East and West as a great scientific achievement.

Students in Warsaw Battle Police, Troops and Militia

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP) — Angry students and other Poles battled police, security troops and militia in Warsaw's streets Friday night in the second violent anti-government demonstration in two days.

The street battling rolled up to the doors of Communist party headquarters, where the central committee was reported in emergency session, before the demonstration was smashed.

Unlike the fighting of Thursday night, which was confined to an area around the Polytechnic School, the violence this time spread to three sections of Warsaw. And for the first time, other Poles joined the 2,000 students in their defiance of government force.

The demonstrators hurled bricks and shouted "Gestapo, Gestapo," in reference to the Nazi secret police. They tossed back tear gas bombs thrown by the police.

Government forces beat the demonstrators with rubber truncheons, scattered them with tear gas and rolled bombs and finally restored order after five hours of fighting.

No figures were available on the number of demonstrators detained and injured. Many were taken to hospitals in ambulances. But a student n e w s p a p e r banned Wednesday.

The paper had become a symbol of the limited freedom won by Poles when Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka was restored to Communist party leadership a year ago. The government shut down the paper, contending it had gone too far in its criticism of Stalinism and Soviet domination. Friday demanded immediate release of students arrested in the Thursday night demonstration,- an investigation of militia interference, and the resignation of the communist central committee official who directed the troop action.

Murder Charge Laid Against Welland Man

WELLAND (CP) — Thomas Sidey, 41, of Port Colborne was charged with murder today shortly after the death of one of two persons injured Friday night in a shotgun shooting they had in a house in Crowland Township.

Sidey appeared before a justice of the peace, Allister Marshall, and was remanded in custody until Oct. 11.

Dead is Orson Souder, 39, shot in the stomach as he left the house with Mrs. Mabel Sidey, 33, wife of the accused. Souder's wife and three children live at Port Colborne, five miles south of here.

Mrs. Sidey was taken to hospital with gunshot wounds in her side. She was reported in critical condition.

Police said Mr. Souder and Mrs. Sidey were shot Friday night as they were coming down the stairs of the house. Souder died at the foot of the stairs, Souder's wife reported in a pool of blood on the front porch.

SEES MAN RUNNING

Mrs. Sidey said she ran to the back door and saw a man running from the house. Moments later he fled in a car, starting.

Police picked up Sidey driving along a road toward Port Colborne at 11 p.m. He offered no resistance. The shooting occurred shortly after 8.

Police said they learned Mrs. Sidey had been visiting with her husband for the last six weeks. She was living with a sister in Port Colborne.

Both men were employed at the International Nickel Company refinery at Port Colborne.

Canadian Heads Of Universities Meeting in U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian university heads met in New York today for continued discussion of problems of higher education. The almost unprecedented conference of more than a score of college presidents—coupled with the location—also has political considerations.

Canadian external affairs minister, sounded the keynote at a dinner Thursday night when he reminded the educationists that Canada has ballot boxes of Britain and the United States in government assistance to universities.

In the United Kingdom, 73.6 per cent of the students in universities were derived from government grants. The U.S. percentage is 22.4. Canada's 42 per cent represented "a humiliating comparison for a Canadian government by any assurance that big business takes up the slack by its assistance. . . ."

Tax Officials Rocked by Judgment Given

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal income tax officials were rocked Friday by an income tax appeal board decision that a husband falling within Quebec's law of community property is not required to pay federal income tax only on half of his income.

Board member W. S. Fisher ruled that the other half of the husband's income is the property of the wife and one alone is liable to income tax on the amount.

The decision would affect perhaps 90 per cent of married taxpaying men in Quebec.

Mr. Fisher, deputy revenue minister for taxation, indicated that the ruling will be appealed.

185-Pound Earth Satellite With Scientific Instruments In Orbit 560 Miles In Space

Globe 9 Times Size of U.S. Project Circles Earth Once Every 95 Minutes

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia announced today it has launched the earth's first man-made satellite 560 miles out in space and it now is circling the globe at . tremendous speed.

The dramatic claim that Russia had beaten the United States in the satellite race came in an announcement saying the artificial moon was launched Friday by multiple-stage rockets. The site of the launching was not given.

The instrument-filled globe was described as 23 inches in diameter and weighing 185 pounds. The announced weight is about nine times that of a projected 22-inch U.S. earth satellite

An announcement by the official news agency Tass said the moon was circling the globe every hour and 35 minutes. It transmits radio signals back to the earth as it hurtles along.

The launching came just three months and four days after the opening of the International Geophysical Year, a concerted program by the world's scientists to learn more of the earth's secrets.

SAYS CAN SEE

Tass said the moon can be observed by simple optical instruments in the evening or early morning. Soviet scientists will trace the sky satellite by radar and radio.

The man-made moon carries no propellant. The thrust of the last rocket sends it speeding off at about 18,000 miles per hour. This speed is sufficient to offset the pull of gravity. It thus keeps circling the earth just like the real moon does.

The defence department in Washington said naval researchers Friday recorded three passes of the Soviet satellite over the United States, one in the vicinity of Washington. Radio signals were picked up from the satellite everywhere in the United States, Britain and Canada.)

The orbit of the man-made moon was not given. Soviet scientists said previously they expected to launch a satellite on a south path around the earth.

The successful launching of the first man - made satellite makes a tremendous contribution to the treasure house of world science and culture," the Tass announcement said.

SPACE TRAVEL

"Artificial earth satellites will pave the way for space travel and it seems that the present generation will witness the flights and successful labor of the people of the new Socialist society into the realm of the most bold dreams of mankind."

The announcement, coming in the Russian style that is characteristic of the Soviet Union and abroad, said:

"Scientific research in connection with the launching of the first artificial satellite in the U.S.S.R. will be continued according to the program of the International Geophysical Year. Satellites will be launched in the Soviet Union and abroad.

Canadian 'Hams' Pick up Signals From Radio on Russian Satellite

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Moscow radio report that Russia has launched an earth satellite brought Canadian scientists by surprise.

But Friday night amateur radio operators said they had picked up signals on the wavelength on which the Russians say the satellite, launched Friday, is broadcasting.

Dr. Donald C. Rose, Canada's senior International geophysical Year astronomer said in Ottawa he had been talking with Soviet scientists at a Thursday meeting in Washington, D.C. They gave no indication the Russians were about to launch the following day.

In Toronto, a spokesman for the University of Toronto's Dunlap Observatory reported the observatory had received from Northwest Territories and theoretically be visible within a 6,000-mile radius of a point on the earth's surface directly below it.

But its high speed would put it beyond human sight except through powerful binoculars in the rays of the setting or rising sun, he added.

In Ottawa, the CBC television news service Friday night broadcast a signal which, it said, was picked up from the Russian earth satellite by a Halifax amateur radio operator tuned in on the wavelength the Russians say the object is broadcasting. Listeners to the local television station heard a rapid beeping series of dots for 10 to 15 seconds.

Jo Hamilton, another radio amateur—Baden Landgen—said he had picked up what he believed to be a signal from the satellite, starting at 11:24 p.m. Friday and lasting only a few minutes later.

Dr. Rose said the Soviets in Washington had said they would give out full technical information on their satellite "as soon as it has been successfully launched."

Dr. C. S. Beals, Dominion astronomer, said a powerful pair of binoculars would be more useful than a telescope to watch for a huge telescope which would be difficult to track and the speed space object.

Ottawa would use small telescopes to try to spot it, Similarly, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Vancouver would find its' big, 73-inch telescope of little help.

Dr. Beals said the "keen" amateur would have a very good chance of observing the object

Soviet 'Moon' Seen 3 Times Over America

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet satellite was detected passing over the continent as the United States announced plans for another satellite launch of their quest to get a baby moon aloft.

The defence department said the naval research laboratory's radio tracking system had recorded three passes of the Russian satellite over the U.S. one apparently in the vicinity of Washington, the other two farther west. This report came in just before midnight.

Engineers for RCA communications in New York picked up radio signals on the wavelength of the baby moon. Ham radio operators in a number of places reported detecting the sound.

A scientist at the California Institute of Technology said the baby moon is transmitting coded information in addition to the steady "beep" radio signals.

NEEDS A CLUE

Dr. Henry L. Richeter Jr. of the electronic research section of Caltech's jet propulsion laboratory, said special equipment is needed for the transmission of coded information from the satellite. He added:

"Unless the Russians give us a clue we'll not be able to decipher the messages."

The defence department, meanwhile, issued an announcement that within a few days the navy expects to launch the first of its Vanguard test series at Cape Canaveral, Fla. Project Vanguard is the name given to the American satellite program.

JIMMY HOFFA RIDES TO VICTORY FOR PRESIDENCY

Firmly in Control Of Teamsters Union

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Jimmy Hoffa rode to a smashing victory for the presidency of the giant teamsters union at Miami Beach Friday and a lot of people are wondering how he could roll up such support in the face of the charges against him.

For Hoffa, who now is firmly in control of a 1,500,000 - man labor organization which includes 27,000 Canadians on its membership rolls, has been accused in the courts by the Senate labor rackets committee and by the parent AFL-CIO union of offences ranging from illegal wiretapping and corruption to misuse of union funds and powers.

Yet, despite the multiplicity of accusations against him, Hoffa captured 1,208 of the 1,754 delegate votes at the union's Miami convention.

Why?

HAND PICKED

The best guess of labor observers and others here who have kept watch on the controversy swirling around the truckers' union in recent months is that the majority of the delegates were hand-picked by Hoffa with the specific aim of ensuring his election.

These observers make a point of the fact that Hoffa, as former vice-president and No. 2 man in the organization, controlled the union's 18-state central conference which includes 600,000 of the 1,500,000 members, set to convention in Miami at the Carillon Hotel.

Hoffa was the man who signed the pay cheques of union officials within that area.

Students of Quinte Secondary Given Diplomas, Certificates At Commencement Exercises

The auditorium at Quinte Secondary School was filled to capacity Friday night for the annual commencement exercises which saw graduating students receive their diplomas and certificates as well as prizes and awards for their year's work.

Guest speaker for the commencement was C. W. Booth, Deputy Minister of Education, who urged students to take full advantage of educational opportunities offered so as to prepare themselves for complete living through the development of all their potential powers.

Miss Margaret Slavin, a member of the graduating class, was valedictorian.

The ceremonies were opened with invocation by Canon A. S. McConnell, followed by remarks by the school's principal, who declared that commencement was possibly the most outstanding event of the school year.

"It is at this time that we stop to review and to evaluate what has been accomplished during the past year. Commencement, too, is a very happy occasion because it is here that we pay public recognition to those of our students, who having excelled in academic work or in some non-academic activity, have made a significant and worthwhile contribution to our school and to the community".

Mr. Reid paid tribute to members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board who, he said, were conscientious and devoted public servants, exceedingly generous with their time in the cause of education.

TRIBUTE TO TEACHERS

He paid tribute also to the teachers at the school, whom he said were among the persons in any educational program.

The students also came in for recognition from the chair, saying he and his staff were proud of the behaviour of the pupils.

Mr. Reid invited all to tour the new wing following the commencement exercises.

Guest speaker Mr. Booth said that education must include cultivation of the mind so that we can think for ourselves, clearly, and logically.

He said that it involves also the development of our powers of communication, so that we can express our thoughts clearly and naturally to others; it means the broadening of the personality that we may be more interesting, ourselves, and become more interested in the welfare of others.

"Education also means the proper care and training of the body so that we may carry out our life's work with reasonable ease and pleasure, and finally it embraces the enrichment of character through living an honest and decent life".

Students some time may feel that they lack the advantages of other boys and girls, but this does not mean they cannot go on to success.

GREAT NAMES IN HISTORY

"Most of us do not soar to success, but struggle and sometimes fail disastrously. But as long as we pick upsetbys up and keep going we will succeed. Only we have nothing to fear or be ashamed of.

But intelligence alone is not enough to achieve real success, said the speaker, who spoke briefly on learning. It was the use we make of our native intelligence and our acquired knowledge that will determine success.

Another sense which students were urged to develop was the sense of wonder from which a great spiritual satisfaction may be gained.

The sense of wonder is the key to the universe, yet millions live and die without ever exercising it, he declared.

A seventh sense to be developed is that of responsibility without which no one can fulfill his or her potential powers. Students who have acquired the habit of accepting responsibility for tasks at home, for extracurricular activities at school and of giving the best in the classroom have already built a sound foundation for success in whatever field of life may be chosen.

SENSE OF SERVICE

An eighth sense was the sense of service.

Mr. Booth said by this he meant giving of oneself to others without counting the cost. He said there was no joy like the joy of giving, and no greater reward than that which comes from dedication to a noble cause.

"Wonder, responsibility, service — these I commend to each member of this graduating class. Add to these the full use of your five senses and practice them faithfully every day and I promise you real success in life," he concluded.

Principal Leslie Reid introduced the guest speaker while appreciation was expressed by Mr. R. Matthews.

Greetings from the district High School Board were extended by its chairman, Mr. Brooks Allen.

Valedictorian Margaret Slavin challenged her fellow students to find their own particular niche in the world and to stay where they were needed and do their part in transforming the world.

"Each of us has a great Divine plan for everyone to have his or her own specific task to perform and dedication such as received in secondary and universities was the most vital part of the training fitting young people to find their place in the world".

PRESENT CERTIFICATES

Presentation of Intermediate School Certificates was made by staff members Miss A. Somerville, Mrs. S. Park, J. R. Fry and G. E. Locklin, while presentation of graduation diplomas was made by Principal Reid, T. Boyle, J. S. Hayman and C. W. Millen.

Principal Leslie F. Reid, and W. J. Musgrove presented the honor graduation diplomas.

Entertainment during the commencement program included singing by the school band, a vocal solo by Marsha Dovey, and a choral selection by the school choir under the direction of Miss McEwen.

Following the commencement a graduation dance was held at the school.

Ballet Guild Branch Hears Celia Franca

By R. H. TANNER

"For its coming tour of Canada and the U.S., the National Ballet Company of Canada will have more dancers and musicians than ever before," Celia Franca, the company's artistic director told the Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild at its opening meeting of the new season. "For the first time, the company will be supported by a grant from the Canada Council." Miss Franca explained that this grant, generous and welcome though it was, would not by any means cover the expenses of taking so large a company on tour, especially over the great distances planned for the coming season, when it would range from Quebec City to Florida, and as far west as the State of Washington, returning home to Toronto by way of Victoria, Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary and Winnipeg. So once again, the Ballet Company is dependent on the kindness and generous support of Guild members in all the various branches throughout Canada.

Miss Franca mentioned that four new ballets would be added to the repertoire for the season, and that two of these would be premiered in Toronto on the evening performance on November 9th, together with "Offenbach In the Underworld" which has already established itself in popular favour with audiences. The first one, "Carnival" by the famous choreographer Fokine, to Schumann's "Carnaval" score of the same name, while the second will be Ronald Hynamanhoff's familiar 2nd Piano Concerto for its musical accompaniment. The third ballet this will be played by Toronto pianist Reginald Godden, who is the matinee performance will also be presented, with a repetition of "Offenbach" consisting of the 2nd act of Swan Lake, a delightful ballet called "Pas de Chance," a new Canadian ballet "The Shadow Maker" by Lois Smith, to Chopin's own Grant Strate, and dances from the Sleeping Beauty by Tchaikowsky's wonderful music.

DEMONSTRATION GIVEN

With the help of two of her pupils, Miss Franca herself and Donald Mahler and Musical Director Lucette Aarons at the piano, Miss Franca then gave her audience an insight into some of the intricacies of ballet "Pas de deux," or steps for two people, which is usually the most important part in all ballets. She pointed out that although the girl's part in these dances often looks very graceful, her partner's training is much more severe, and was no less important, and that the male dancer needed great strength as well as a great deal of skill to play his more unobtrusive part in the combined presentation.

In the course of her introductory remarks, Mr. Robert Hope-Jones, President of the Belleville Branch of the National Ballet Guild, welcomed members of Beta Sigma Phi, and of the Uniform Rebekah Lodge, and also shown such interest in the Ballet Company that they had arranged to combine their meetings with that of the Guild. Mr. Hope-Jones referred to the presence of a number of senior pupils from the Ontario School of the Dance, for which he said it was hoped that ballet might be established in Belleville. Mrs. Tanner mentioned that anyone interested could support the National Ballet Company in two ways, by joining the Guild, whose annual membership fee is only $2.00, or by donation to Guild funds. She emphasized that the Ballet Guild is not particularly no demands on its members, since it is held only three or four meetings a year, and its chief function was to bring the Ballet Company to annual visit to Belleville. All members were invited to be present, and were given to the dancers after the evening performance, where they would have the chance to meet and talk to these talented and delightful young people.

The Guild's thanks to Miss Franca for giving the class from a very busy rehearsal period to come and speak to the meeting, to her two pupils, who was very ably expressed by business manager Don Thomas, who said that he was sure that once again Belleville would maintain its reputation by turning out in force on Saturday, November 9th, and packing both performances.

Obituaries

MRS. JOSEPH GENEREAUX

TWEED — Solemn Requiem High Mass was offered by Rev. W. H. Carty at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Trenton, Tuesday morning, September 24, for Mrs. Rose Anne Genereaux, of Trenton and Tweed.

Mrs. Genereaux died at the family residence on Saturday, September 21st., after a short illness. She was in her 87th year.

Born in Queenaboro, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gorman, resided in Queensboro and Tweed before going to Trenton only fifteen months ago.

Mrs. Genereaux was predeceased by her husband, the late Joseph Genereaux, in 1937. She was a well-respected citizen and came of a highly esteemed family.

Surviving are six sons, Fred and Charles of Trenton; Gordon of Campbellford; Antoine and Henry of Tweed; Thomas of Actinolite, and one daughter, Mrs. S. (Evelyn) Castello, Trenton; 30 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren. The late Mrs. Genereaux rested at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. S. Castello, Trenton, where funeral arrangements were directed by Weseve'a Funeral Home, Trenton.

Interment was in Queenboro cemetery and the bearers were Joseph Cassibo, Fred Genereaux Jack Castello, Stanley Genereaux and Raymond Genereaux, all grandsons.

THE REV. J. McALPINE

TWEED — A former assistant principal and science master at St. Michael's College School, Toronto, the Rev. Joseph Gerald McAlpine, CSB, died on Tuesday, October 1st, in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, in his 71st year, a series of twenty-four months.

Father McAlpine was born in Marysville in 1907, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McAlpine.

He entered St. Michael's College School, Toronto, as a student in the year 1920. Five years later, he enrolled at the university, and on graduation, began his first year in Arts, entered St. Basil's Novitiate at Holy Rosary, Richmond.

Father McAlpine leaves three brothers, Jack and Jim of Marysville, and Mrs. Thomas Kelly (Lucille) of Tweed; three brothers, Bernard of Belleville; Ambrose and Charles of Marysville, and an aunt, Sister M. Pascal, SSJ.

The body rested at St. Basil's Seminary, Toronto, where the Office of the Dead was recited on Wednesday night and the Mass with Absolution, St. Basil's Church, Thursday morning at St. Basil's Church.

Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery in Toronto.

ARTHUR J. COURTNEY

TWEED — Arthur Joseph Courtney, formerly of Tweed, husband of Isabel Sarah Ryan, and dear father of Suzanne, and Jean-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Baron, Arthur Street, Tweed, died suddenly at his home, Thompson Crescent, Toronto, on Wednesday, October 2nd, after suffering a heart attack on the previous day.

His death came as a great shock to his wife, relatives and many friends.

The body rested at the Campbell Funeral Home, Tweed, on Friday, from where the funeral was held to St. Archangel's Church on Saturday, October 5, for Requiem Mass at the hour of 10 o'clock.

Interment will be in St. Archangel's cemetery.

MRS. MELVIN McCOMB

CAMPBELLFORD — Ethel May McKeown, wife of the late Melvin McComb died in Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Wednesday morning following a lengthy illness. She was 73.

Born at Stanwood, the late Mrs. McComb was the daughter of the late Joseph McKeown and Eliza Johnston. She and her husband lived at Stanwood prior to moving to Campbellford 23 years ago. Mrs. McComb was a cheesemaker by trade. He predeceased her in 1946.

Survivors are two sons, William and Bruce, and a daughter, Pearl, all of Campbellford, and two step-sons, Clinton McComb of Campbellford and Arthur of St. Catharines. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. John Miller (Ida) and Mrs. William Forde (Margaret) both of Campbellford.

Mrs. McComb was a member of St. John's United Church and in her earlier life was active in church work.

The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church will conduct funeral services from the late residence at 246 Albert Lane in Campbellford on Saturday afternoon at 2.30.

Interment will be in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM JOHN BLAKELY

(Madoc Township)

In ill health for the past five years, Mrs. Sadie (Sarah) Dean Blakely died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Moon, R.R. 1, Madoc, on Thursday afternoon. She was born in Madoc township 81 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William John Dean.

She has been a lifelong resident of the community, where she was well known and highly respected.

She was a member of Queensboro United Church and when health permitted was an active member of the congregation especially in the work of the Ladies Guild. Surviving are her husband, John J. Delyea, one daughter, Mrs. Ford (Grace) Tumelty of Madoc township, one sister, Mrs. Jim Broad of Queensboro. Also surviving are two grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Resting at the home of her daughter, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Belle Cleaners Safe Is Smashed

Early-morning intruders with an eye for easy money, broke into the Belle Cleaners' Coleman Street office early today and escaped with undisclosed amount after wrecking the company safe.

The safe, battered by what police believe were railway tools, was badly wrecked. The vandalism was discovered by city police dawn patrols at shortly before five o'clock.

Entrance to the office was effected through a rear window, police said.

Manager T. A. Carruthers did not desire to disclose what was in the safe. The contents are being checked.

Our fight against sickness is a continuous one. Research workers are always seeking better drugs and new treatments. About one-third of the ingredients in last year's prescriptions were unknown the year before.
We must keep well informed. A newly discovered drug can almost overnight change a physician's prescribing habits, so that there is no other choice but the one placed drug. Every prescription pharmacy regularly places these drugs that are no longer used.
Despite all this, the cost-per-illness of medicines grows less each year. You get better so much more quickly.

IN MEMORIAM
RITCH. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Fred (Pop) Ritch, who died October 6th, 1956.
Sadly missed by his pals on, But still in our hearts he lives on,
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
The one who made it worthwhile.
Ever remembered by your wife Gladys.
RITCH. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Fred, who passed away October 6th, 1956.
Sadly missed by his pal, hand.
To hand he used to be,
Now I reach out and see his smile no more, he's left me.
Ever remembered by daughter Jean at Cobourg.
RITCH. — In loving memory of our dear father, Frederick Ritch, who passed away October 6th, 1956.
He would not wish for sorrow,
He would not wish for tears,
But just to be remembered,
Through the passing years.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by daughter Margaret, son-in-law Ken and grandchildren.
RICHARDS. — In loving memory of Richards, who passed away October 6th, 1956.
There is never a day that passes,
But we think of you and pray,
Never a joy that comes our way,
But we wish you were here to share,
Your memory is our treasure,
God called you home, it was His will.
To us she has not gone away,
Nor has she vanished far,
Just entered God's eternal home.
A place for all the pure.
Ever remembered by husband and family.

CARDS OF THANKS
I wish to thank my friends and neighbours for the cards, gifts and their lovely bouquet of flowers received during my recent illness. Especially to those who sent me cards. Again a sincere thank you.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

MOMENT BY MOMENT

Dying with Jesus by death reckoned mine;
Living with Jesus a new life divine;
Looking to Jesus till glory doth shine,
Moment by moment, O Lord, I am Thine.

Never a trial that He is not there,
Never a burden that He doth not bear;
Never a sorrow that He doth not share,
Moment by moment I'm under His care.

Never a weakness that He doth not feel,
Never a sickness that He cannot heal;
Moment by moment, in woe or in weal

Maj. D.W. Whittle, popular nineteenth century singing evangelist, was attending the Chicago World's Fair in 1893 when he overheard a fellow preacher from London discussing man's constant need for God's love and care.

The Englishman was speaking of Mrs. Annie Hawks' hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour", and expressed the wish that Mrs. Hawks had used the word "moment" instead of "thou" in her song.

Maj. Whittle must have agreed, for soon afterward he sat down and dashed off his popular "Moment by Moment" poem which in the years that followed became a favorite gospel hymn in revivals everywhere. Ira Sankey, who was Dwight L. Moody's evangelistic teammate for many years, once told of how Maj. Whittle entrusted to him the task of publishing and circulating the "Moment by Moment" song. Its fame crossed the Atlantic to England almost immediately and a little later, according to Mr. Sankey, a South African preacher who had heard the hymn used in London brought it back to America, thinking he had discovered a grand new hymn for gospel leaders over here.

know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths when I brought them out of the land of Egypt."

In the days before the Jews were driven out of their own country, every family did literally build a specially constructed booth and move into it for the duration of the festival. The little structures were simply built but often elaborately decorated.

Their outstanding feature was the roof, made of branches of trees, still bearing the leaves and arranged to allow the sky to be visible through them. Fruits and vegetables were hung from these branches, providing decoration appropriate to a harvest festival.

In modern times the real booth has in most instances been replaced with a small replica which is kept on the family table during the seven days. As the real booths were symbolic of the hardships and insecurity of the early Jews, so these present-day miniatures symbolize the hope of the modern Jew from the land of his fathers.

But in spite of this somber note, the Feast of Tabernacles is by no means an unhappy time in Jewish life. In His instructions God said, "And thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, because the Lord Thy God shall bless Thee in all the work of Thy hands, and Thou shalt be altogether joyful."

The joy of a harvest festival, rather than gloom over thoughts of exile, is the real tone of Sukkoth.

THE FOUR SPECIES

A feature of the Sukkoth ceremonies is the procession in which the "four species" are carried. These are taken from four products of the soil: a branch of palm, three twigs of myrtle, two willow branches, and a citron.

In the combination rabbis have for centuries found a lesson about Jewish unity. The citron, fragrant and tasty, represents the pious and benevolent man.

The palm, tasty but without fragrance, is like the man who is conscientious about religious practices but is without ethical scruples.

The myrtle twigs have no taste but are pleasant in odor; they are like the person who is honorably but neglects his religious observances.

And the willow branches, having neither taste nor fragrance, are compared to the person who has neither piety nor ethics.

As the four dissimilar plants are united at the feast, so, the rabbis point out, must all types of Jews be in unity if Israel is to have peace, dignity and strength.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

World-Wide Communion

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, Oct. 6 — The first Sunday in October has, since 1940, been designated by many Protestant denominations as World-Wide Communion Sunday.

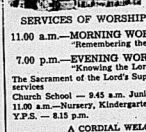
All over the world Protestants today will unite in spirit by celebrating the greatest of Christian sacraments: the Holy Communion, or Lord's Supper. There are few countries left where Protestantism is not represented — today's observance will be practically universal.

Each denomination follows its own form and ceremony for the Communion. There is no attempt to make the day's services all alike. Rather, it is a demonstration of the fact that unity does not require regimentation. There is a togetherness of spirit which lies much deeper than uniformity of ritual.

Monday, Oct. 7 — Today is actually the anniversary of a battle, but it is known in the Christian calendar as Our Lady's Rosary.

In the year 1571, while the battle of Lepanto was going on, thousands of people in Rome were saying their rosaries and praying the Christian forces might be victorious. A defeat might have delivered most of Christendom into the hands of the Moslem Turks.

In the Christian triumph Pope Pius V saw a direct answer to the prayers of the people and ordered an annual thanksgiving to Our Lady of Victory. The name of the observance was changed to its present form a year later.



JEWISH HARVEST FESTIVAL

Thursday, Oct. 10 — Today is the beginning of the Jews' happy Feast of Tabernacles, called Sukkoth in the Hebrew language. It is basically an agricultural festival, a time of thanksgiving for the fruit harvest, which occurred at this season of the year in Palestine.

But it has also a historical meaning as a reminder of the long years when the Jews, wandering in the wilderness between Egypt and the Promised Land, had to live in the flimsy Sukkoth.

In Leviticus, chapter 23, verses 42 and 43, God directed that during the festival "ye shall dwell in booths (a synonym for tabernacles) that your generation may

WHITE STUDENTS STAY IN SCHOOL

About 75 white students walked out of Central High School classes at Little Rock, Arkansas, Thursday, in a protest against racial integration.

Since there are some 2,000 students enrolled at the school, all but nine of them white, this means that, even allowing for heavy absenteeism, there were at least 30 white students who stayed in the school for every one who left.

If that ratio gives a correct indication of the feelings of the students themselves about the integration program, there is hope for the South.

It would be foolish to suggest that all of those students who remained inside the building are pleased to have Negroes join them in their school. But at least we may hope that by refusing to leave their classes they indicated their personal willingness to accept integration, even if they do not welcome it.

If there are only five per cent of the students who are so prejudiced that they are prepared to resort to a boycott rather than have Negro students attend classes with Negroes, this is an excellent record. In any controversy, the proportion of fools and hot-heads is generally higher than that.

Of course, the students who walked out have an "explanation." They say that the presence of the principal standing inside the main entrance encouraged many white students from leaving. This may be true. But that, far from causing misgivings, gives additional cause for optimism. It proves that these young people are amenable to discipline. And, it might be added, it is to be doubted whether the presence of the principal would do any more than offset the social pressure exerted by such shouts as "Come on you chickens!" on the demonstrating students. If 95 per cent of the white students inside the school resisted the normal "teen-agers' desire to conform and stayed in their classes, it was probably because they desired to do so, not because they were afraid of the principal.

BEVAN AND THE H-BOMB

Because, as the only present alternative to the ruling Conservatives, the British Labor Party is almost certain some day to once again rule one of the world's three great powers, deliberations at the party's annual conference are of international interest. Moreover, the Labor Party is so constituted that these national conferences do much more to determine party policy than do the so-called conventions of many political parties in other lands, which often merely rubber-stamp decisions made by a handful of leaders in a back room.

Canadians, therefore, as well as Britons, were interested to read that the Labor Party conference at Brighton had rejected by an overwhelming vote a resolution calling on the next Labor government to refuse to test, make or use nuclear weapons.

That there is considerable sympathy among the rank and file of Labor supporters for such a policy appears certain, despite the vote of the conference, which reflects not so much the desires of Labor Party voters as the decisions of the trade unions which, in the main, control the party's policy.

The notable point about the decision, though, was that it was reached after a fierce attack on the resolution by Aneurin Bevan, a left-wing rebel, which might have been expected to support the motion. There might have been little surprise had he merely refrained from taking a public stand, as this would have been viewed as a concession to unity in the party's inner circles. Instead he took the floor against it. This led to charges that he had changed his views because he wants the job of foreign secretary in any future Labor government. Bevan denied this heatedly and there is no sound reason to doubt the sincerity of his stand.

The true explanation may possibly be found in the words of another left-winger, John Strachey, who, like Bevan, opposed the motion. Strachey said that "the effect of Britain alone getting rid of the H-bomb would be to make her wholly dependent and a satellite of the United States."

It seems probable that Bevan, whether consciously or unconsciously, was influenced by this fact, that his stand against the resolution stems from the fact that his Left-expressed fear of U.S. domination of Britain is deeper than his detest of the H-bomb.

If this is so, his fear of U.S. policies has led him to support a decision which those responsible for these policies will heartily approve.

LIFE'S CONTRASTS

If everything we planned went right,
And every hope that we had came true,
If every day in the year was bright,
And every sky in the heavens was blue,
How sadly monotonous life would be
With nothing but good things to see,

If every heart was a merry heart,
And every face wore a blindly smile,
If never the tears were known to start
And grief ne'er came for a little while,
How grim and desolate life would seem;
We'd miss the joy of a golden dream.

Ah, no! Life is best as it is,
I'm sure.
We need the clouds and the falling rain;
We need the grief that we must endure,
We need the heartache and need the pain.
We struggle through darkness to greet the light
And we fight down wrong for the joy of right.

On Turning Men Into Gods

By Harold Weir in the Vancouver Sun

Certain sports writers have been staunchly chopping down to size, during the past few weeks, brash members of the public who have wistfully voiced the hope that the Lions football team might win a few games and, alternatively, have attacked, with alleged unreasonable malice, the apparent inability of the Lions to win games.

The number of discontent has been termed the "Season of the Big Mouth" by the long-suffering title, and has goaded the sports writers to fulminate, with magnificent scorn, against the resentful and the disappointed as sport-blind apostles of the cult of success.

One writer, not a million miles from here, has put it this way, "it is the winning, rather than the playing that counts with football fans. That attitude has buried all sporting values under the modern gospel of success for its own sake."

Now football is not my line of country and I can't think of anything of less consequence than football fans, except golf-ball and ball games. But this sort of platitudinizing is a big business in the second place, if football fans are disappointed and resentful, well, all the sports writers must bear part of the blame for their chagrin and choler because the sports writers have played full part in blowing up mediocrities into heroes.

When you insist on turning men into gods, you'd better have a pretty healthy guarantee that they'll be god-like. Year after year, the pre-season pumping has gone on. Some fair-to-middling player with some promise is enveigled into the club and immediately the sports writers build the illusion that we've just signed up the Apostle Paul in shoulderpads.

Then when the inevitable losses come along, the fans can't take it because, with a perspicuity unrevealed to sports writers the common fan knows that the only quality to be expected from supermen is perfection. The ordinary amateur can find a big winning and losing games, and if he loses as gracefully as he wins, that's good. But when men are puffed up into gods, they can't afford not to win because losing is inconsistent with divinity.

If Hercules had muffed one horse-dropping in that Augean deal he'd have been a bum.

The football application of this hero-worshipping business is the smallest part of it because, as I say, the Lions' fortunes in the field is so much rain on the roof. But this building up and puffing up and blowing up and building up American people as bedizened and lacquered as a Hindu god. When he turned out to be in fact a rather peevish and self-righteous man at that, dislike and impatience poured over him in great waves out of a garbage-burner.

The worst part of that ever happened to the Duke of Windsor was the high and exaggerated praise, the youth. When he chose to be a romantic and self-pitying mediocrity he fell with a thud to the level of civilization, bearing out the view of the late Queen Mother of Elizabeth that the higher you climb, the harder you fall, a fact that history proves is invariably bear out.

There's nothing really wrong with the Lions football team except that they don't redeem the promises the writers signed their behalf by the sports writers. They play like a reasonably good show at a reasonably high price. But they don't fly on wings of glory. Nobody obtained in this way will be used to bring Christmas cheer to deserving families and children.

The Rev. A. G. Sinclair, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday. His subject was "Thanksgiving" and his address was highly appreciated by the members. A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker, moved by H. Fetterley and seconded by Fred Douglas, the president of the club.

Tomorrow will be election day for seats in the Ontario Legislature.

October 5th, 1927

The corner store of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School was well and truly laid this afternoon by the Hon. John Martin, minister of education in the Ontario Legislative Assembly. Bishop Seager of the Anglican Diocese of Ontario, Kingston, was present as a guest of honor and recited the invocation. The pupils of the schools were present and sang under the direction of Miss Pearl Hart. On the platform were all the members of the Board of Education, the city council and the vocational committee. The minister of Agriculture was met at the station upon his arrival by John Elliott, the chairman of the Board of Education and Harry W. Ackerman, Arthur Jones and Col. W. W. Ponton and escorted to Hotel Quinte where a banquet was served at which representatives of the city council, Board of Education, the Canadian Legion and the county council were present.

This Spray For the Birds

Peterborough Examiner

Cobourg Councillor Fullerton's authorization to send a Chicago for a special kind of spray to divest Cobourg's trees of starlings is almost worthy of a fairy tale. The spray will not contain any pests forever — it will only move them on to another place. Revealing is the news report which says "If it works the starlings may leave town, and where they go, nobody cares."

This reminds us of a circulatory practice of farmers in Central America who are plagued with baboons. Shooting them is seldom successful, for the baboons because widespread damage to tobacco and maize crops they prefer to be destroyed somehow. The method is to chain a narrow-necked gourd to the ear and weight it with an ear of corn inside. Overnight a baboon puts his hand in the pot for the ear and when his clenched fist will not come out. Happily he is awake until daylight when the farmer and his help throw a rope net over the baboon. Shooting is out, for the baboon they fastened a collar with a small bell into their odious paws. The banded animal makes off after the rest of his tribe. They, hearing the bell, become frightened and move on. Thus the chase continues for thousands of miles, but the farmer is rid of the baboons for a while.

If Cobourg can only move to Peterborough (which has enough starlings as may have to move them on with the Chicago spray. Who will get the starlings in the end is anybody's guess. Perhaps they'll go back to Cobourg.

Taps Bullet From Brain

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The best example of "Do it yourself," which, by the way, is a 10-year-old boy played the leading part in removing a bullet from his brain, comes from San Francisco, and surely will have a place in medical annals. It came about thus:

The lad was riding a bicycle, and a companion, with a gun, was trying to catch up with him. The second boy tripped and fell, discharging a shot. The bullet, or bullet entered the young victim's right forehead, crossed through the brain and came to rest just under the skull on the other side. He was taken to the hospital half conscious but within 24 hours he was out of shock and showed no sign of nerve damage. He was given antibiotics against infection. The dead brain tissue and a few fragments of bone and metal were removed. The brain incision was closed and an anti-convulsive drug administered.

He was permitted to leave the hospital with instructions to lie flat when not up and about, trying to sleep and jar his head against the bedding from time to time. X-ray films began to show the bullet slowly travelling back to the front of the brain, the point of entrance. Five weeks later it was close enough to the surface to be removed, along with several fragments of bone.

Some children like to keep an extracted bullet as a memento, but we imagine this boy is proudly carrying this bullet around and showing it to envious friends.

Helicopters Stage Dance

Aviation Summary

With cloud draping the low-hills around the airfield, the flying program at the Society of British Aircraft Constructors' display was completed under difficulties at Farnborough, Hampshire, on 6th September, the first public day.

An amusing addition to the program on this day was a "square dance" by four Whirlwind helicopters of the Royal Navy, carried out to the accompaniment of appropriate music and instructions over the loudspeakers to the "dancers".

After executing around each other in bewildering fashion, with frequent changes of formation, the four Whirlwinds flipped daintily from the scene in line astern.

Answer Met Three Tests

Manchester Guardian

A story is circulating in Whitehall just now about a civil servant who made an ascent in a balloon. Shortly after he had gone up and the balloon was carried away into cloud-obscured skies, he observed anxious house-maid in a servant saw through a hole in the clouds and called to the gardener close above the top of a hill where a shepherd was leaning on a gate.

"Where am I?" he shouted through cupped hands.

"You're up in a balloon," the shepherd called back.

As the clouds engulfed him again the civil servant reflected sadly that by the familiar standards this was an excellent answer. It was short. It was to the point. And it added absolutely nothing to the information already available.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

Intelligent Neglect

Portage Enterprise

We heard an interesting phase the other day from a lady who is bringing up children. It was "intelligent neglect." In other words, a lot of us tend to fuss too much over our children.

Kids develop best if they have to rely on their own resources, work out problems for themselves. But we don't leave them to themselves, but sometimes let them wander off alone, even if they get into trouble or come back with a bruise or cut. It's the secret of the lesson of growing up.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Much of the present public sympathy with conservation arises out of the emphasis on recreation With the four and a half day week already here this year and increasing numbers of us in the executive and management level, and the five day week practically universal for everybody but housewives, farmers and people trying to make an honest buck on their own, it stands to reason that the preservation of plentiful wild regions in our rapidly widening world should have pretty great support.

In the current issue of the bulletin of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, Bruce Falls reports on a visit to Britain which he was privileged to visit several of Britain's nature reserves, under the management and protection of the Nature Conservancy.

"The significance of this organization," says Mr. Falls, "can be judged from its definition of a nature reserve — land managed for the study of the fauna and flora or special geological or physiographic features, and to preserve aspects of nature of special interest in an area. The emphasis is on the study and preservation of the interesting or unique in nature. There is no mention of recreation. This is the purpose of national parks, not of nature reserves. Indeed, access to nature reserves is limited, and one must obtain permission to visit them."

Mr. Falls describes a few of the nature reserves, some of them quite small but rigidly protected, even from being looked at.

Britain naturally enough is a long way ahead of Canada in such conception as this. But we're still in the frenzy of development and exploitation. Our attitude has been: if we can't eat it, skin it, peddle it, harness it, saw it, mill it, grind it, or make it into something, what good is it? We figure we have made quite a handsome concession in agreeing that a few things are good because they can be looked at. Hence our parks are growing precious, for recreation.

"We want to see an area preserved," says Mr. Falls," and yet to develop and use it as a park may destroy the very feature we wish to see preserved.

Letter From A Nice Kind Lady

"Dear Dr. Brady:

I promised I would send you a report three years after I started supplementing my diet with daily rations of calcium and vitamin D and iodin. Here it is.

"My poor stiff knees and wrists had been getting progressively stiffer for years until I began protesting mightily whenever I had to do any bending or twist manipulating.

"My rose beds were neglected as well as the golf course, for I could no longer enjoy myself in or on either. Aiding joints are a fine way of getting out of unpleasant tasks, but I was still in the forties and there were many things I enjoyed doing that were getting to be too much for me.

"So to the doctor I hied myself. After lengthy examination and X-rays the doctor said I had to take shots, cortisone and such, for a short time, a period." (Please forgive me for interrupting, Mrs. Brady, but in my opinion, indefinite in this instance means as long as the victim is willing to pay for the shots. . . cortisone and sundry unmentionables untoward effect stops the game.)

"I was crushed. Truth to tell, I just do not have time to be sick, and so I thought there must be an easier way out of the situation. I had read somewhere that a friend of mine had been taking something or other for the same thing, with great satisfaction, so I wrote to her and she told me to get 'Dr. Brady' you for your booklet on Rheumatism." (Not available in Canada).

"I followed the instructions to the letter. Have missed not one day for three years.

"Iodin — hair no less gray, but so what! I'm not 18 any more, but I feel wonderful.

Calcium and D—The knees and wrists are as painless as a baby's. I gallop over the hills of the golf course as agilely as a mountain goat. My rose beds have never looked better. It is wonderful to swim again, run up and down stairs and do my day's toil without groaning and putting with my arms to get up from a stooping position. I shall continue my calcium and D ration for the rest of my life, so help me.

Cod Liver Oil — Don't know. Nails not so brittle, hair seems softer, skin pleasanter, but that may be due to the calcium, vitamin D and iodin and the quart of milk daily, which you say everyone should consume. This is my report and I'm so grateful to you.

May the Dunhill add just a little pleasure to your game on the bowling green.

Fidgeting Fifties."

Please note that this nice kind lady just reports how she is getting along, is not prejudiced, and doesn't ask for anything.

Please understand that if she does continue the daily ration of calcium, vitamin D and iodin for the rest of her life it can do her no harm.

The nice kind lady doesn't say whether she looked out the window if Mrs. Sumsey or Ben Todd should get wind of it to inform her that the fourth assistant head doctor at the best advertised clinic" cautions about the danger of getting calcium deposits in her joints, kidneys, arteries etc. but reading between the lines, I imagine she wouldn't let that stop her.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A BEDTIME PRAYER

Our Heavenly Father, we upon this earth. Teach us to be come to the end of another day, and thank you for every blessing bestowed upon us. It has been good, to have lived another day under your watchful eyes, and to be given over to this restful bed for the night. Give to us clear minds and heart. Forgive us for every error, every mistake, and all our transgressions.

We ask for an increase of courage and for strength to endure, and we pray for the humility of Christ so that we may earn peace and good will and love from those others as you, our Heavenly Father, have blessed and influenced each one of us.

Purge us of all selfishness and love of gain. May we administer to the joy and spiritual success of others. Make us all more worthy servants in your Kingdom

Elot out the very memory of petty annoyances and worries. May our physical bodies profit us the peace and relaxation of sleep with your blessings upon us, and may your fingers of love touch this body of ours, redeeming it, upon awakening to a day of greater and happier usefulness. In the name of our Heavenly Father, through Christ, Amen.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD AND THY NEIGHBORS

What is prayer
Someone has defined it as talking with God. But prayer involves repentance, confession, praise, and petition — action also, action as the result of certain emotions, decisions and convictions. Jesus has said that the best prayer is what a man does when he is not praying. He must speak to be tempt — if we may use that word to characterize any of life's utterances — of the people who pray, and pray, add pray, and believe that they will be heard for their much speaking. Also He condemned those who cried "Lord, Lord" on all occasions yet neglected to do the things which He commanded.

Prayer and action go together. A life full of action which does not have prayer as the source of its power has very little power at best, and what it has is very limited to last. On the other hand, a life that is full of much prayer yet impotent or weak regarding good works, is a life in which very decidedly prayer and good acts do not match.

Above all other the definition already given: The best prayer is what a man does when he is not praying. In other words, prayer must eventuate in righteous acts and in love for one's fellow men. "Thou shalt love the Lord Thy God . . . and Thy neighbor."

The Exception

Fort William Times - Journal

Railway fares in Canada have not been increased since 1939. This was stated in support of the application of the railways for an increase this year. With everything else boosted in cost in the past 18 years, it is surprising that the application was not granted long before this.

Shooting Home Movies . . . with Bob Knight

The character-istic that dis-tinguishes a movie camera from a still camera is its unique ability to tell a com-plete story of whatever event or inci-dent at which its lens is pointed. Not just to capture high-lights, to tell a story with shots made from different dis-tances . . . of varying duration. Recreating the action and color before you — just as you would describe it in words, and sen-tences, and paragraphs.

Some movie experts have writ-ten that movie scenes should be ten seconds long . . . or twelve se-conds long. They might just as well have said, in addition, that movie pictures should all be shot from a uniform distance of ten or twelve feet. On either count, they couldn't be more wrong. For in this is just like declaring that any spoken or written sentence of ten . . . or twelve words . . . or any event should be reached in unvarying sentences of ten. to twelve words . . . which would be very darn dull, indeed.

VARY THE SPACE

Let's see, to demonstrate one point, that you want to "make a movie" of Dad, who's doing noth-ing more important than puffing on his pipe. But that's when he's his most typical self — and that's, of course, what you want in any picture of him, still or movie. With another type of camera you could simply stand back many feet and make one shot — and if you do that with a movie camera you might just as well shoot images. For that's exactly how it is when he's enjoying that pipe of his goes more like this:

He saunters out the doorway . . . stretches . . . squints at the sky. His hands search his jacket pocket for his pipe. He finds it — rises a puff on the empty briar — then a puff with the bottle from the bowl on the heel of his shoe. From a second pocket his other hand liberates the tobacco pouch. He unzips it . . . carefully the pipe with it . . . carefully tamps it full. Then out comes match or lighter — he consults brakes on catching a uniform burn — and a satisfying puff or two bil-lows past the briar. Contented, he thrusts hands into pockets and strides off to tackle the first of his weekend chores.

Just like that! With each little bit of action suggesting an individ-dual movie shot. The first one, perhaps, of that afore-mentioned ten seconds. Yet the one of him knocking the old ash from his pipe, only four or five seconds long. The former might well be made from a distance of ten or twelve feet. The latter, from three or four feet. The whole makes one movie sequence.

Certain subjects, too, suggest the timing of their shots. A spec-tacle such as a mighty waterfall . . . a flaming sunset . . . the in-troductory view of a vacation site . . . a stirring group of bandsmen in a parade — ten, fifteen, or even twenty seconds would not be too long for these. By contrast, you wouldn't want to give more than a handful of seconds to a golf drive . . . the smack of a fish on a floating lure . . . a highway route sign marking the path of an auto journey.

SCENE TIMING

Scene timing can also lend tempo to your movie sequences. A series of short shots will help you build up to the climax of the com-edy. A youngster, com-ing to bat with the bases loaded, for example. He selects his favor-ite bat . . . strides to the plate . . . rubs dirt on the bat handle . . . tugs down his cap . . . the coach shouts encouragement . . . the fans implore . . . the would-be hero sets himself . . . the batter throws . . . the batter swings . . . Whether the descouragement is a mighty clout between the outfield-ers, and a desperate slide into third, or a futile whiff and a de-jected trip back to the bench, the filmed story has drama and ex-citement. It's a movie — and a good one.

What it all boils down to . . . what everything about movie making boils down to . . . is a completely natural use of your camera. For movie making is a completely natural photographic process. It sees things . . . records things . . . just as do your eyes and mind. Best of all — movies don't forget. The bright-active-lies of today are yours for keeps in movies you shoot yourself.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here's the Story of a Widow Who Faced up to Life and Won

By THOMAS COLLINS

. . . THE STORY — SR

Many men who are now of re-tirement age have little to leave their wives except a few dol-lars in insurance and a mort-gaged home. Perhaps you are one of these. If you are, you may want to leave this story among your private papers in the desk.

It is the case history of a widow.

The widow Mrs. Ethel Bronson, was 62 when her husband died in June of 1955. He was 63 at the time, was still working, and was making a little over $500 a month.

Mrs. Bronson went through the valley much as any other wife would who had suddenly lost a partner of 38 years. And as the period eased in the weeks that fol-lowed she faced up to her future.

"There was a terrible void," she says. "But I was bewildered, too. A good husband who takes care of things doesn't leave his wife equipped to handle the mechanics of living alone in the city. I wasn't even sure I knew how to pay the light bill. . ."

COMPLETE RESOURCES

She had these resources: a $5,000 life insurance policy which her husband had provided would be paid to her over five years at $85 a month; a $2,000 life insur-ance policy with his company which would be paid to her in cash; Social Security of $41 a month; and a substantial three-bedroom house. The balance due on the mortgage was about $4,200 which they had been paying off at $90 a month.

"Out of our checking account and savings," she says, "I cleared up the funeral expenses and had around $400 in cash left. Then I had two weeks of my hus-band's salary, which the company pays in case of death, and I had two weeks of vacation salary, which the company also gives. . ."

Her total: $3,000 and $128 a month for five years, then $41 a month.

"My children insisted that I come live with them," she says, "and in the confusion of trying to figure everything out I came very close to giving up and going.

"But I didn't want to live with my children. And anyway, this house had been my husband and me. In the years treasured things we both had gathered over a life-time. It would be wrong to let all this go. And it would surely go, all at once or in dribbles, if I went to live with my children."

Mrs. Bronson took $1,500 of her cash and applied it as an ad-vance payment on the mortgage. At $90 a month, this would carry her more than a year and give her time to work things out.

Then she went downtown and got a job as a counter clerk in a small department store. "It was not a big problem. Older women can find this kind of job if they'll look. The only trouble is your children, who think it's scandal-ous.

"But I found working a horrible experience. I gave up my first job and got another one, thinking matters would get better. They didn't. I still had to stand on my feet all day. I still had to go every day. That's bad for a wom-an my age who never worked be-fore. . .

Mrs Bronson then turned to her two idle bedrooms. She decor-ated them, then put a want ad in the paper asking for roomers. In two weeks both rooms had been rented.

"But women aren't good room-ers," she says. "They're too much work and bother."

When one of the women left af-ter several months, she adver-tised for a man roomer. A man and woman didn't work, either, she found. She had to stay home as chaperon. Finally she was able to get two men.

"I serve them no meals, but on Saturday and Sunday I give them the run of the kitchen," she says. "I charge them $40 a month each.

"I do extra things for them. They do extra little things for me around the house. They are pro-tection to me and to the house — I come and go as I want. And of course they are nice — I would ask them to go and get somebody else. . ."

Your Car

Always Allow Stopping Space

By EUGENE MILMOE

Many highway accidents occur because some drivers foolishly depend on the brakes to stop the car almost in its tracks. Even those in perfect working order can't be that good.

Reaction time and the distance the car will travel after the brakes are applied must be con-sidered. For example, three-fourths of a second is generally average reaction time: e.g., time required to move the right foot from the accelerator to the brake pedal.

At 40 miles per hour, the car will travel approximately 41 feet during that three-fourths of a sec-ond interval. Then with the brakes applied on a level, dry, hard road, the car will run an ad-ditional 41 feet or so before it comes to a stop.

In other words, at a speed of 40 m.p.h., the approximate safe stopping distance is 82 feet. Un-der wet road conditions, twice the normal braking distance may be required.

* * *

From A.C.: "You have writ-ten about the importance of the manifold heat control valve as far as good carburetion is con-cerned. Exactly how does this heat valve help carburetion?"

(A) The manifold valve directs heat from the exhaust to the in-take manifold when the engine is cold. This aids vaporization of the fuel and air mixture on its way from the carburetor to the cylinders.

* * *

From S.M.: "Right now I am shopping around for a new car. I still prefer a standard gear shift model, but some dealers are also trying to sell me an overdrive. Can you tell me the advantages of overdrive?"

(A) At high or cruising speeds, overdrive reduces the number of engine revolutions per minute without sacrificing car speed. Thus, overdrive saves en-gine wear, tear and noise, and promotes better gas mileage, too.

P.L. writes: "Why would a car owner have the inside door and window handles covered? I rode in a 1953 sedan the other day and noticed what looked like wisps of rubber tape on all of the inside handles."

(A) The rubber tape was prob-ably put on to eliminate slight shock sensations when the hand touches bare metal. These shocks, caused by static electricity, are common in certain types of seat covers or upholstery. Some car owners insulate the handles by merely coating them with a clear shellac.

* * *

J.Q. asks: "This may have been going on for some time, but just last weekend I saw a smoke haze drifting from the oil filler pipe after the engine had been running for a few minutes. The car is a 1952 model and hasn't been giving the best oil or gas mileage late-ly. What sort of trouble is indi-cated?"

(A) Not an uncommon one slowly is the usual name for it. It means that combustion gases are getting by poor piston rings and into the crankcase.

$80 a month room money to the mortgage, and using her $128 a month to live on. Before her $85 a month is used up she intends to have the house paid for. And she is still holding $1,500 for a rainy day.

Coal Boat, Running Aground On Shoal, Soon Pulled Off

TRENTON (Special) — The Barquinte coal boat, which is such a familiar sight to the townsfolk of Trenton ran aground off the mouth of the Trent River earlier this week. A shoal which was brought nearer to the surface by reason of the prolonged drought during the past summer was the cause of her grounding. The boat remain-ed on the shoal for two hours while coal was moved from one hold to the other to shift the bal-ance. This manoeuvre caused her to slip off the shoal. She then steamed backwards until she could enter a wider channel. This is the second time that Barquin-te has run aground for the same reason this season.

Firemen from Trenton, Frank-ford; Batawa, Picton, Belleville, Bancroft, Bloomfield, Marmora, Tweed and Deseronto were pre-sent Wednesday evening at the Jo-rescue technical demonstration held at the RCAF Station Tren-ton by permission of Group Cap-tain R. C. Cox, and W/C J. F. Easton. Fifty five firemen, all members of the Firemen's and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Fire Association watched motion pic-tures, slides, demonstrations and lectures, all of which were ex-plained by W/O I B. Bettin, of-ficer commanding No. 6 Field Training Unit and three of his instructors, F/S A. Westwell, F/S D. Johnston and F/S P. Warken-tin. Chief J. M. Vicker, Deseron-to, president of the Mutual Aid Association thanked the hosts of the firemen for their interesting demonstration. Chief Clarence O'Dell was the host on behalf of Trenton firemen.

The service of the Bell Tele-phone Company in Trenton was extended on Wednesday by the laying of a four inch waterproof cable across the Trent River.

The cable, which was laid from the east to the west bank of the river contained 1,535 pairs of wires, and now lies on the bed of the river. R. M. Patterson, from the company's office in Belleville, supervised the laying of the cable. It is the largest one he has yet laid for the com-pany.

Miss Ann Johnson was the speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the King Street United Church Woman's Mission-ary Society. She showed a film commentary on the United Na-tions. Miss Johnson was the provincial representative of the Business and Professional Wom-an's Club on the Dominion Liaison Committee to the UN Miss V. Nelson, president, opened the meeting, and Mrs. Clifford Baker led the devotional period. Mrs. T. Spear and Mrs. H. Lang-don, accompanied by Mrs. G. Little, were the vocal soloists.

Red Cross Pins Presented to Hospital Staff

The Belleville Branch of the Ontario Division, Canadian Red Cross Society, presented certi-ficates and pins to the staff mem-bers of the Belleville General Hospital who successfully com-pleted the advanced instructor's course in first aid. The mem-bers representing the local Red Cross branch were Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, Mrs. E. McCabe, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan and Mr. A. S. Lewis. The presentations were made in the lounge of the nurses' residence by the hospital General Hospital.

Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, was in-troduced by Miss M. L. Peart, Director of Nursing. In her in-troductory remarks, Mrs. Ket-cheson spoke of the projects being carried on by the local Red Cross branch. The certifi-cates and pins were presented by Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson and Mr. A. S. Lewis. The recipients were Mrs. Eleanor Bolting, Miss Norma Davis, Mrs. Violet Else, Miss Yvonne Fortin, Miss June Frost, Mrs. J. Goodwin, Miss Eva Nickle, Miss Elinor Boyce, Miss June Meyers and Mr. Wil-liam McKinnon.

Afternoon tea was served by the staff of the School of Nursing.

Arts and Crafts Class Filled

Arts and Crafts registration for fall classes have been very suc-cessful with people showing much enthusiasm and interest in all phases of the Arts and Crafts Classes.

The artists with brush and pencil are shown the most talent-est. The Art Class under the di-rection of Marg Robbins is now filled to capacity and the Recrea-tion Office is taking names for an additional similar course. A few more registrations and this second course will begin next week.

The Metallcraft Course with Mrs. Jane Sheppard instructing is filled and classes will get under way on schedule next Thursday evening.

Much interest has been shown in Ceramics, Silk Screening, Weaving, Copper Enameling, and Leathercraft. However there are a few vacancies for registration in each of the classes mentioned and those who wish to take advantage of these fall classes should call the Recreation Office now.

All classes run for a period of 10 weeks, one night each week.

Complex Staging Necessary For Unfolding of Passion Play

Unusual lighting will be used for the staging of the world fa-mous Oberammergau Passion Play here in the Collegiate aud-itorium and the 25 soul-stirring scenes, Biblically and historical-ly correct, necessitate profes-sional handling by a crew skil-led in the staging of historical events which occurred two thousand years ago. One of the bigger features is the manner in which modern-day methods and equipment are employed to create settings which radiate all the Old World artistry and at-mosphere of "the greatest story every told."

Val Balfour, internationally known Christus portrayer, is seen in the role of Jesus of Naz-areth in the Oberammergau Passion Play. Mr. Balfour has preserved the ancient beauty and splendor of the age-old story of the Cross and heightened its dramatic power through the skillful use of modern equip-ment. The "ins and ons" and hour production flows smoothly without pauses between scenes. This is accomplished through the effective use of "a stage within a stage" — while one scene is presented, another is being rea-died.

Highlights of the 25 scenes are The Triumphal Entry, which takes place in the early morning hours of Palm Sunday. The lighting and costumes all blend with its regal Roman atmos-phere. The Crucifixion Scene, which takes place on the Mount of Golgotha, is created by the use of elevated platforms upon which three crosses are moun-ted and coupled with somber lighting effects and a back-ground of gathering storm clouds, it creates an ominous mood of impending tragedy.

In order to facilitate the light-ning like changes of scenery that take place, several elevated platforms are used, and a sec-ond arch is erected. Every bit of available space from the front curtain of the stage to the back wall is utilized by the Ob-erammergau Passion Play pro-duction. The company carries its own electrical control board and a large amount of lighting equip-ment which is set up and used to create the lighting effects which have been described as being "the most beautiful in the world."

The members of the Oberam-mergau Passion Play cast trav-el in fleets of cars, while large vans transport the scenery and properties, lighting effects and costumes.

The Rotary Club is sponsoring the Obermmergau Passion Play as one of its civic projects. Re-served seat tickets are available from $1.65 to $3.30 and may be obtained at Passion Play head-quarters, 207 Front Street, Belle-ville.

Weddings

PORTER — DELTEA

TWEED — A pretty early fall wedding took place in St. John's Anglican Church, Flinton, on Saturday morning, September 14th, when Rev. F. Fergusson united in marriage Eleanor Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deltea, Flinton, to Donald Elmer Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Porter, R., of Tweed.

The ceremony was performed before the altar, which was brilliant with lacy baskets of gladioli and summer flowers.

Mr. Bert Dion played appropriate wedding music during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church gowned in a beautiful ankle-length dress of white embroidered net over taffeta. The overskirt in the back was caught up to a large satin bow. The bodice was topped with a white lace jacket and she wore nylon mittens. Her shoulder-length veil was caught to a crown of seed pearls, pearl, and she carried red roses, rosebuds, asparagus fern and ivy.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Colleen Bergeron, of Tweed, wore a white taffeta dress with blue nylon net over taffeta, matching bonnet and mitts. She carried also a nosegay of pink roses and ivy.

Mr. Raymond Lessard was the groomsman.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at a local restaurant to the immediate families, and in the evening a reception was held in Flinton community hall.

The bride's mother received guests gowned in a gown of navy crepe with corsage of carnations and fern. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in navy pure silk, with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Wheeling, West Virginia, and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a dark checked tweed suit and corsage of white carnations. The couple are now making their home in Flinton.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Hamilton, North Bay, Sharbot Lake and Flinton.

TRUDEAU—CRAWFORD

TWEED — A quiet wedding took place in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, on Saturday morning, September 28th, when Rev. Father Fitzpatrick united in marriage Miss Gilbert Crawford of Detlor, was married to Clarence Trudeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trudeau, Otter Creek. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick officiated.

The bride was becomingly attired in a street-length dress of green figured taffeta, black hat, and black and white accessories, with corsage of red roses.

Miss Edmund Trudeau, of Tweed, was her attendant, wearing a street-length dress of metallic blue, with navy accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. Edmund Trudeau was his brother's groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

The young couple will make their home at Otter Creek.

St. Margaret's Little Helpers Hold Party

On Sunday afternoon the members of the Little Helpers' Organization at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church, met in the church with their parents, to celebrate the annual Little Helpers party.

Mrs. George Mountford, the parochial Little Helpers' secretary, and her assistants, Mrs. Walter Roblin and Mrs. William Todd, greeted the guests upon arrival.

The Rev. A. Page conducted the short service. Mrs. Page was the accompanist for the singing of "All the Little Children of the World" after which Mrs. Roblin acted as narrator for a pageant which exemplified the various races of the world. In suitable costumes, Lynne Mountford, Kerry Hill, Bonnie Bishop, Diane Thompson and Margaret Robin represented the Indian, Japanese, Chinese, African and Eskimo children.

Mrs. William Todd asked the children to come forward in groups according to their age with their mite boxes, Mrs. Leslie Reid and Mrs. E. Whyte received the offering, which were then dedicated to the work of missions.

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

Graduation certificates were presented by Mrs. Mountford to all who had celebrated their seventh birthday in the current year. Those receiving certificates were Peter Bishop, Alexander Bradley, Donald Brett, Ricky Brown, Frances Burns, Mark Acquaviva, Joy Chamberlain, Deborah Fournea, David Flindall, Andrea Fry, Donalda Hart, Kerry Hill, Gregory Kaye, Thomas Lewis, Heather Mann, Lynne Mountford, David Mc-Pherson, Deborah Platt, Deborah Slovan, Diane Thompson, Paul

Missionary Tells of Work In Bolivia

The Senior Women's Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Church, Belleville, met recently in the newly decorated S.S. auditorium for the Fall Supper meeting. The members had as guests the Vota Vila Mt. Carmel and Cliff groups of Victoria and Fairway Avenues.

The tables were most attractive with their white damask cloths, centred with unique and beautiful arrangements of fall flowers. Ferns and bouquets decorated the rooms.

The supper was convened by Mrs. T. Hetherington, assisted by Mesdames Phillips, Parker, Hales, Berry, Wells and Payne. Mrs. Neal and Mrs. MacDonald assisted with the serving.

Mrs. A. E. Berry extended a hearty welcome to everyone and voiced appreciation to all who helped in the meal. The supper meeting such a success.

Following the repast, a 15 minute grace period was enjoyed with Mrs. Welbanks accompanying at the piano.

At 7.30 p.m. the meeting opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. Hetherington, and hymn by Mrs. Campbell.

Miss Nora Hales, on behalf of the Mission Circle, and Miss Christine Wilson, on behalf of the YCIT group, expressed their appreciation for the invitation to be present.

Miss Hales favored with a delightful solo, "Speak to Me," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. Price.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Arnold Orr introduced the guest speaker, Miss Clarke, missionary on furlough from Bolivia.

Miss Clarke talked mostly of the natives and the Bible School for secretarial work, explaining that is where the Protestant church trains its students. Evangelizing is done mostly before being sent out to the mission fields as there are not enough missionaries so welcome the chance to train the natives.

Miss Clarke especially mentioned Miss Ida Scott, who is the director and lives at the seminary. His wife, Betty, helps too, also in the marketing and she sees that the boys are up in the mornings in time to do their chores before classes start at 8 a.m.

There are 31 students there at present. These students range in age from 17 to 25 years and help with their own living by working when not in school, doing various jobs, like carpentering, tailoring.

There is only one good road in Cochabamba, the people travel mostly by airplane. There is a railway line to the north. Sometimes deacons are used if there aren't enough ministers.

CANADIAN TRIBES

The work is slow but encouraging. With the aid of a handmade felt map, Miss Clarke pointed to a dense jungle called "Green Hell," situated partly in Bolivia and in Brazil. This dense jungle is inhabited by tribes of cannibals. They never come out of the jungle. They know nothing about Christ or anything else.

Last year a group of linguists visited there and tried to contact these tribes. Their aim is to make a grammar, translating the native language and then do parts of the Bible which they will pass on to the missionaries. There are many tribes in this area and they each have a different language. Some are numbered 1,000, others as few as 100. These linguists contacted 10 tribes.

Miss Clarke delighted all with her amusing call of John, a native, who started out on his own in Oruro.

Bolivia is a thickly populated country. There are many oil wells and about ten mines. Some of the country is good for farming, especially growing vegetables, but absolutely nothing will grow on the plains.

Miss Ethel Nurse thanked Miss Clark for her interesting address.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. Stovell.

Willerton, Barbara Wright and Margaret Tripp.

Mr. Page pronounced the benediction following the service to a close.

The gathering later assembled in the church hall where refreshments were served by the members of the Women's Auxiliary under the convenership of the president, Mrs. J. Bennett.

Going Places

Before You Buy a Foreign Car Better Check These Pros, Cons

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

More and more travellers have been giving considerations to those novel foreign cars as a means of going places. If you've got your eye on one, here are some of the pros and cons to be considered. First, for 'em:

1. Economy. That's the big item. Depending on their weight and engine size, they'll run anywhere from 20 to 40 miles to the gallon, compared with the seemingly average 15 of high-powered American and Canadian models.

Tires are smaller and hence less expensive to replace, oil capacity is lower and there are few-er and smaller engine parts, body components, and gadgets to repair. Practically none have automatic transmissions, which are notoriously expensive to fix. Most states and provinces where taxes and registration fees are based on price and size, there's a savings too.

FAIRLY CHEAP

The typical foreign family car is fairly cheap, ranging in price from $1,500 to $2,500, even less in Canada. British makers, Rootes, Austin, Morris, Standard, Triumph, Jaguar, Rover, Austin-Healey, Triumph and Sunbeam, have been producing sports cars, which are limited in production and have a higher detail quality, cost considerably more.

2. Size. For those who are willing to settle for a small car, there are unquestioned advantages to being able to thread through traffic and park in small spaces.

3. Maneuverability. Created by lands where roads are often ill-paved, narrow, and winding, foreign cars have, on the whole, better road-holding and steering qualities than the super-highway bred domestic models. To many drivers these characteristics result in sure-handed control, the joy which softly sprung Canadian cars bring about when they're leaning, skittering and leaping on bumps, and causing liggity-jaw and involuntary grabbing at the steering wheel.

4. Fun. Instead of turning the steering wheel two or three times to get around a corner, you turn the wheel of a typical European car approximately as far as you want the front wheels to turn — which makes parking and backing for a sensation of direct contact with the car and with the road. And because the cars are modestly powered, they don't use heavily on proper driving for maximum power.

Such combinations of road feel, responsiveness and use of the old-fashioned physical skill of shifting and clutching are highly valued by many drivers who are bored by American cars that all drive alike — sometimes not as you want them to.

5. Low Depreciation. Initially, with American cars that drop in value 40 to 50 per cent almost the moment they are registered, foreign car owners here have been pleased to find that their position, costing little to begin with, being comparatively scarce, and being little harmed by year to year, have maintained their price far better than have American products.

6. Quality. More attention seems to be paid to detail in assembly and workmanship on foreign cars than on the mass-produced U.S. models. Their designs also impart feelings of one-piece, rattle-free solidity.

7. Distinctiveness. Well, they do look different.

And the objections:

1. Ride. Those used to cushiony Canadian suspensions are unusually find foreign cars uncomfortably hard-riding, although enthusiasts like to argue that this is compensated for by the absence of swaying, floating, and being thrown around as well as by the high support of the seats in these models. While the car may feel the bumps, you don't as much as you may imagine.

2. Cost. While they are fairly cheap, foreign cars are over-priced in the sense that they don't offer as much for the money in terms of American luxuries. Power steering and brakes, automatic transmission, and the like can be had on many Canadian cars at comparable prices. Most of what you pay goes for import duties.

3. Maintenance. Many of the European cars are not as rugged mechanically as American makes and require frequent attention with the engines to keep them in peak condition. And while the number of distributorships is growing, there still aren't enough of them to make competent mechanics and parts readily available everywhere.

4. Size. An advantage in one sense, it is a disadvantage in others. Few of the imports hold more than four persons without cramping and most sports cars hold only two. Be sure to see that drivers complain of feeling tossed up.

5. Safety. Should you tangle in one with an American behemoth, let alone a truck, you seem to have a chance of its being standoff.

6. Inconvenience. Removable tops go up by hand, not hydraulically, and sometimes require special tools to fit the particular place. Lower priced sports models often have plastic side curtains which must be attached, instead of roll-up windows. Trunk space is small and some ports models have almost none. And not everyone likes to shift gears. Depending on the car you have in mind, this could be located on either side of the driver. Some sports models are sleek, beautiful, and far advanced in styling, but others have long sleeves. Here three bridesmaids will wear white lizette.

STYLED BY HARTNELL

Miss Molson's dress was styled by Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker, and those of the bridesmaids by Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Molson, the bride's parents, are in London for the occasion along with their other daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morton. The couple will spend a four-day honeymoon in Holland before returning to London, where Mr. Morton is in a motor show.

Miss Molson says she always will be a bit nervous about her husband-to-be's dangerous pro-fession.

"But I have great confidence in his racing-car driving. He doesn't take unnecessary risks and he's a sensible type. The thing that worries me is the car — what if something goes wrong with it during the race!"

Christ Church Men Plan Auction Sale

On Tuesday evening Christ Church Men's Club held its regular weekly meeting with President Eldon Livingston presiding and 26 in attendance.

The treasurer, Vern Eagle, gave his report on finances. Walter Pallant reported for the social committee. At this time, Rev. Everett Smith thanked the club for the gift and cards sent to him in the hospital.

Les Lennox reported on the paper pasting project. The committee under the chairmanship of Les Lennox and Fernando Ferrari made arrangements for the coming auction sale, reported that the sale would be held on the evening of November 8th, and Saturday afternoon, November 9th at Cameron Bunnett has been engaged as auctioneer.

The business meeting concluded a social time was spent by some members playing euchre while others worked to install shelves in one of the rooms.

Refreshments were served.

Jean R. Newman To Speak Here

Mrs. Jean Newman, only lady controller for the city of Toronto, will address the Women's Canadian Club Monday evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Hall, on the topic, "Women in Municipal Affairs."

Mrs. Newman was educated in Oakwood Collegiate, and the University of Toronto, of which she is a graduate. She is a member of the Board of Control and president of council, also on the Metropolitan Toronto Council, as well as serving on committees of both councils.

Monday Bride Trying to Ward Off Influenza

By SILVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Glamorous Katie Molson moved out of her bridesmaids' apartment Friday and into a hotel. The objective: To ward off Asian flu!

"My roommates have the sniffles and I want to be at my best next week," said the dark-haired Miss Molson who will be married Monday in St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, to Hugh Fraser, a British racing motorist, Stirling Moss.

Five hundred guests, including stilled persons and some well-known racing drivers, will celebrate the event at a Savoy Hotel reception, scheduled to run from dusk to midnight.

The 22-year-old Miss Molson, of the Montreal brewing family, will wear a white satin dress and lily-of-the-valley tiara. The dress has a high-necked bodice and long sleeves. Her three bridesmaids will wear white lizette.

STYLED BY HARTNELL

Miss Molson's dress was styled by Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker, and those of the bridesmaids by Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Molson, the bride's parents, are in London for the occasion along with their other daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morton. The couple will spend a four-day honeymoon in Holland before returning to London, where Mr. Morton is in a motor show.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Next week, Thursday 10th., to Saturday 12th., The Oberammergau Passion Play will be presented to the men, women and youth of the Bay of Quinte community at the Collegiate auditorium. Our thought for this week-end is the historical presentation of the last seven days in the life of Jesus commencing the last paragraph of The Quest of the Historical Jesus by Albert Schweitzer.

"In proportion as we have the Spirit of Jesus we have the true knowledge of Jesus. Jesus as a concrete historical personality remains a stranger to our time but His Spirit, which lies hidden in His words, is known in simplicity, and its influence is direct. Every saying contains in its own way the whole Jesus."

And the last few lines. "He comes to us as one unknown, without a name, as of old, by the lake-side. He came to those men who knew Him not. He comes to us the same word: 'Follow thou Me!' and sets us the task which He has to fulfill for our time. He commands. And to those who hear Him obediently be they be wise or simple, He will reveal Himself in the toils, conflicts, and sufferings which they shall pass through in His fellowship and, as an ineffable mystery, they shall learn in their own experience Who He is."

Oberammergau is a village of Bavaria, Germany, situated among the Bavarian Alps mountains, a range of the Alps. It has a population of about 5,000. The outside walls of many of the houses are decorated with fresco paintings, reproductions of famous masterpieces. The villagers make toys and potteries and carve crosses, crucifixes, rosaries and images of saints. These carvings are shipped to all parts of the world and are found in many churches.

The village is famous for the performance of the Passion Play which dates back to the 17th century. In 1633 the village was stricken with the Black Death, when the plague passed away the inhabitants vowed to enact the Passion Play portraying the Passion and Death of Jesus every ten years. The first performance was given in 1634. Until 1674 it was performed every ten years but at that time it was decided to extend to fall on decimal years. The Passion Play was performed successfully until the Franco-Prussian war brought one interruption in1ffice.

Churchill H-S Assoc. Holds 'New Mothers' Tea

An afternoon tea for new mothers was held on Wednesday in the school auditorium of Sir Winston Churchill School with about 50 mothers attending.

Following the reception of guests at the door by Mrs. Bruce Kerr, a "get acquainted" game was played and the prize was won by Mrs. John Trafford.

The school principal, Mr. E. S. Fairman, welcomed the mothers and spoke briefly about the importance of a close relationship between teacher and parent, encouraging the mothers to attend Home and School meetings and maintain co-operation between the home and the school. The teachers were then introduced.

Tea was served with Mrs. Charles Farrell and Mrs. Ross Hou se presiding at the tea table. Assisting were Mrs. G. Mountford, Mrs. D. Grant, Mrs. F. E. Huson, Mrs. Blake Kerr, Mrs. C. Shuldiner, Mrs W. L. Cantell and Mrs E. D. Ayres.

The tea was convened by Mrs. B. Nemptin and Mrs. J. A. Brown, assisted by Mrs. M. Major and Mrs. William H. Rothergill.

Low Cost High Fashion

BY ALICE ALDEN

High fashion, in this wonderful land, is for all of us, just as is the sun, with so many items that we take for granted and which are on the luxury list elsewhere. For instance, here is a very high fashion hat with a low price tag. Brown velvet is used for a sleek, flattering profile silhouette and for the luxury touch, it is trim-cuffed with leopard, not the fake job, but honest-to-goodness leopard.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: . . . looking for a recipe ,a sauce for Italian Meat Balls. Our club is planning a supper with Italian dish as a specialty . . . advised to contact you . . . will serve from 200 to 250 plates . . . tell me the approximate quantity of meat and sauce ingredients necessary.—Mrs. L. H. G.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

Swiss Steak with Gravy; Mashed Potatoes; Buttered Vegetable Marrow; Fall Fruit Dessert Salads; Cheese; Honey Nut Rolls (see Thursday); Coffee.

ANSWER: You ask for a sauce for meat balls and later for quantity of meat and sauce. What I am giving you is a meat sauce for 50. Multiply it by 4, or 5 according to the number to be served. If you are making meat balls over which a meatless tomato sauce is to be served, allow 10 lbs. meat for meat balls for 50 people and omit meat for sauce below.

SPAGHETTI WITH MEAT SAUCE (for 50):

Six pounds of spaghetti, 4 lbs. ground beef, ½ cup salad or olive oil, 8 cups chopped onion, 16 large cloves garlic, minced, 4 tablespoon salt, 2 teaspoons black ,pepper, 3 whole bay leaves or 1 tablespoon sweet basil, 1 tablespoon chili powder, 3 cans tomato soup (48-ounce size cans) and 2 cups water. Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water. Drain. Cook beef in olive or salad oil, until browned. Add onions, garlic and cook until tender. Blend in remaining ingredients, heat or boiling and simmer for 1 hour. Serve over well cooked spaghetti with or without grated Parmesan cheese if desired.

QUESTION: Because of my affection for your style of writing and for your exuberant outlook on life in general, I can't stand not being part of your mailbag any longer. I have no better excuse than a small annoyance of long standing — the word "quart" in recipes for fruits and berries. I could of course telephone the Home Service Dept. of my local gas company—but what of my excuse As you know, from your connection with the West (I missed you last two appearances, darn it!), the quart basket is unknown to us. We buy our berries in little baskets, the size of which varies with the shipper, and the stores don't know how much they contain anyway. We buy cherries and the likes by the pound. /So when we come upon a quart of berries in a recipe we are left wondering how many cups. Help? The second thing that pops into my mind when I wake up a Mary Moore's column, the first—eating, my favourite indoor sport. This would be a poor thing without your column. Keep the economy dishes coming. Mrs. L. H. W.

ANSWER: I have to keep my head here — such compliments are liable to turn it—but tell me more!

Measure your fruits in a 2-cup pyrex measuring jug and have one which is indispensable to me. The red lines mark off ½, 1, 1½ and 2 cups, then 8 ozs. But if it is filled to the rim it measures 1 Imperial (Canadian) pint—20 ounces. Use it filled twice for measuring fruits and vegetables when my recipe calls for a quart. I'm sorry I missed meeting you but I'll be in Calgary again.

Winter Millinery Abolishes Top-Heavy Hats of Past Years

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — The small hat is back in Paris. Couture and modiste collections of winter millinery have abolished the top-heavy wedding-cake styles of the last few years in favor of supple and neatly-manipulated turbans, caps, berets and Charlottes.

These youthful shapes are pretty and extremely wearable. There is still an occasional shocker, like Givenchy's amusing step-ladder hats for formal wear, which tower two feet in the air. But the basic tuno has changed from previous years.

Among the varied themes, the leading trend evolves in back-swept movements, elongated in peaked and pointed crowns extended into the head. One of the new effects is the windsock hat, or "born of plenty," and other conical shapes, draped and manipulated.

A second important theme is the revival of the beadfit hat with built - in construction replacing the "perched feeling in which hats stayed on the head only thanks to an assemblage of pins and wired clamps

TURN BACKWARD

As 1920 styles have swept into fashion with the short - skirted chemise and Charleston dresses, close-fitting cloches and asymmetrical profile hats keep pace in a modernized tempo.

Leading Paris creators agree that the most harmonious balance and over-all sense of proportion from top to toe is achieved with backswept and downward movements in millinery.

Charlottes and floppy artist's berets worn back off the brow epitomize this feeling.

Christian Dior shows a type of Velasquez coif in dark grey suede, featuring with extended side brim in a triangular effect. Other trends at Dior include "cache - chignon" styles like a model made entirely of a single giant ostrich feather or the neat little bowlers, boaters, sailors and copies of a French priest's hat in low-crowned, wide brimmed shapes.

TWO TYPES

Svend, designing for Jacques Heim, takes opposing full-blown and low - brow themes. The ascending line derives inspiration from the Italian primitives with back emphasis, while the low brow models are flat and worn with draped and pleated treatments evolved in asymmetrical cloches and side-tipped berets.

Paulette endorses the turban, worked in beautifully - draped conical shapes like the pixie cap with the peak slanted backwards. It is made of yards of paper-sheer, white silk jersey, with spiraled folds of fabric plaited in and out of velvet-covered spokes.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHEN TO MAIL MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My groom-to-be and I are both in our late forties, and this is the second marriage for both of us. We are following the suggestion in your column several days ago, and are planning to announce our marriage ourselves also following the form you suggested for this. Now what we would like to know whether it would be in "good order" for us to mail the announcements before or after the marriage ceremony? — L. W.

Marriage announcements should not be mailed until after the ceremony has been performed. They tell the news that the ceremony has been performed. However, they should be all ready . . . engraved, addressed, stamped . . . so that they can be mailed directly after the ceremony, that same day, if possible, so that they will be received the following day or so.

WHEN MARRIED MAN IS GROOM'S BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell us if it is proper for the groom to have a married man (his best friend, because the groom has no brother) as the best man and for the bride (in this case, mother) to have his wife be the matron of honor?

— Bride-to-be

Yes . . . this is entirely proper. It is not necessary for the bride to invite the best man's wife to be her matron of honor unless this is exactly what she wishes to do. It is the right of the groom to choose his best man and it is the bride's right to choose her attendants, particularly her honor attendant.

IS IT PROPER TO GIVE SHOWER FOR SECOND BABY?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear friend of mine is going to have a baby in December. This is her second child. But her first child was born when she was living at a great distance from here, her friends here were not able to plan a stork shower for her. Now we would like to know if it is proper to give a shower for her second baby?

— Margot C.

Certainly. It is just as proper for the close friends of the mother-to-be to give a shower for the second baby or third (or how-ever-many) as it is for the first baby.

SEATING TWO GUESTS OF HONOR AT A LUNCHEON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give an all-girl luncheon at my home for twelve guests, including the two guests of honor, both girls whose engagements have been announced and who are to be married quite soon. How small I seat these two guests of honor without offending either? Our table is oval.

— Frances R.

Seat the guests of honor next to you, one on the right and one on the left. If one is perhaps older than the other, seat the older one on your right. Or, if you wish, you may give the seat on your right to the one whom you have known longer. As a matter of fact, if you are honoring both, neither one will, I am sure, see any distinction between them in the seating arrangements.

BRIDE'S POSITION IN FORMAL PHOTOGRAPHS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a bride and groom have their wedding photograph taken, should the bride be at the right or the left of the groom? — M.G.

. . . abiding by the fine tradition of "the bride on the right of the gentleman." (Also in the receiving-line at the wedding reception, the bride should stand at the groom's right.)

FLOWERS FOR THE HOSTESS OF A "MIXED SHOWER"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine is giving soon a "mixed shower" for my fiance and me. Will you please tell me how my friend the hostess very well, but, being a very busy person, she would like to send her flowers and a note to thank her for her hospitality. How much should I spend and if you would advise that he send the flowers before or after the party?

— Inez

I'd like to have him, send the flowers to the hostess on the morning of the day of the shower so that she may have them as a decorative note at the party (or, if a corsage, wear it at the party). With his enclosed card, he might write, "Thank you, so very much, for your kind plan for our happiness." Then the following day he would write his thank-you note, telling the hostess what a delightful time he had at the shower, and again saying his appreciation.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and one social worker. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with 'by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Jane R. — I want to put my Sister-in-law wise.

Felix R. — We shouldn't rock the boat.

Jane R. — A few months ago my young niece, a girl of 13, came to spend a few days at my home. I noticed she looked very unhappy and I asked her what was wrong. She burst into tears and said, "My father doesn't love my mother."

I figured her parents had had some sort of squabble and I tried to reassure her, explaining that even though parents have an argument now and then, they don't stop loving one another.

She just shook her head and said it wasn't like that. She said she could tell from the way her father looked at her mother that he hated her. Nothing I said seemed to comfort her.

Knowing my brother to be something of a Don Juan, I decided to look into the matter. I could not get anything definite out of him, but I very much suspect he is having a serious affair.

I have no influence with him, but I feel if my sister-in-law were to put wise, she could do something to save the marriage. She is now blissfully ignorant. My husband is against saying anything.

Felix R. — I don't think we have anything definite to act on. . . . except little girl's notion . . . and it may be that, just a childish notion. Hate and love are not really see things like that."

Jane's brother is the kind of man who doesn't know how not to flirt with women, and they are all crazy about him. Yet we have every reason to believe he has always been faithful to his wife. She seemed very happy last time we saw them both and he appeared as affectionate as ever.

He did seem a little troubled and distracted when we saw him alone once, but that could mean anything. Basically I see a decent sort of man and very fond of his family.

I think the best thing we can do is just keep our mouths shut about all of this. I am against their going to the host when it comes to anybody's marital problems.

Jane says her woman's intuition tells her something really serious is going on, but I say all the more reason then to keep quiet. Maybe they'll work it out for themselves.

The Council: We agree with Felix it is unwise to rock the boat when it comes to other people's marital problems, but both Jane and Felix overlook the face that they are now in possession of a piece of information they may have no right to withhold.

Jane's brother and his wife ought to know their daughters is seriously disturbed about their relationship. It may be a simple thing to tell them and it may very well have the effect of "rocking the boat," but it doesn't seem right that these parents should be left in the dark about their child's suffering. Jane should simply repeat what the child said to her, without embellishment.

If the brother may be a "decent sort of man and very fond of his family" and still get involved beyond his depth in an extra-marital affair, it is just possible his child's unhappiness could be the life belt that will save him from disaster.

If the whole thing is nothing more than "a childish notion," the parents still ought to know about it so they can help their daughter to a better understanding of her family life.

A Lift for Living

The Necessity of Belonging

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

One day the taxicab in which I was riding got caught in a traffic jam — and those who live in large cities know that jazz means screeching less pleasant than Grandmother's preserves.

Then, from a nearby window on a little area — confusion — gesturing drivers, scurrying pedestrians, cautious, even frightened, faces. But in the midst of the jostling throngs a boy about 5 looked for his father's hand.

His big blue eyes were like two lakes into which the sunlight tide. He was not scared. He was not worried. He was looking around in unclouded confidence. Why? He was secure in the hand of the one to whom he belonged. He was his father's boy, and his father was with him.

Great is the security derived from belonging to a family. Well do I remember the days when I was to me by a friend at the time of my father's death. He said that when a man's father dies, it is like moving up to the front-line trench in a battle. I had not fathered ahead of him are removed.

In the struggle of life when we have to make difficult decisions, do we not often look longingly back to the days when we were longed to our parents and enjoyed a security behind their frontline feeling of responsibility? And soldiers can testify what it means in the danger zone to feel your family is behind you.

SECURITY OF A NATION

Belonging to a nation also gives a sense of security. In the summer of 1946 a member of our Red Cross delegation to Russia was a prominent Jewish philanthropist, Louis Levine. When we reached Prague he was taken out at midnight to the Polish border where the poor Jewish refugees were being smuggled out of Russia. He told me how he waited in the dark until there would come to him from the blackness the bedraggled fugitives, frightened and desperate.

The Czechoslovak Government winked its eye at the proceedings and was willing to have the refugees pass through its territory But when were they to go? They were people without a country.

No form of insecurity is more acute than that of belonging." The orphan without a family, his enclosed case, might write, "Thank you, so very much, for your kind plan for our happiness." Then the following day he would write his thank-you note, telling the hostess what a delightful time he had at the shower, and again saying his appreciation.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI.VIVE

BATHING FOR BEAUTY

If you're immune to shock, the cold morning shower is stimulating and refreshing.

Cleanliness, stimulation, and relaxation are the three watchwords of beauty. Boil them down and you have the bath!

The daily bath is the basis of all good grooming. You may take it cold or hot for stimulation, or you may take it warm (80-98 degrees F) with plenty of soap for cleanliness and relaxation. Combination baths — warm and soapy for cleanliness, followed by a quick cold splash to stimulate the circulation and invigorate you, are perhaps the ideal daily method if you tub in the morning. Plenty of friction by means of the washcloth and bath brush helps free the body of dead skin cells and germs as well as dust and perspiration, and also serves to arouse the circulation. A brisk rub with a fairly rough bath towel should complete the good work and leave the body in a pleasant glow.

Some people prefer a warm cleansing bath at night and a cold dip or shower in the morning. If you like this method, put yourself dry instead of rubbing hard after the nightly bath. This is relaxing, and you can get what stimulation your body needs in the morning bath. Shower baths are excellent for cleansing provided they are taken properly. Don't just jump under and out of the shower, however, and call yourself clean. Soap yourself thoroughly and then, on moderately warm water, lather freely and scrub with brush or washcloth while the warm water is running. Then slowly cool the shower till all the soap is rinsed away and you feel tingly and refreshed.

No one should take a very cold tub or shower if it proves a great shock, or if he does not immediately get a warm peppy reaction after he comes out of it. On the other hand, no one should take as extremely hot bath without pretty good assurance that it's beneficial. Sometimes doctors prescribe the warm water baths for reasons. Generally speaking, however, the warm bath serves best purposes of cleanliness and relaxation much better than one that

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in BELLEVILLE

FIREMEN CAN PUT OUT FIRES . . . BUT ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT THEM. CHECK YOUR HOME FOR FIRE HAZARDS NOW. TOMORROW MAY BE TOO LATE. FIRE IS NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS . . . REMEMBER A LITTLE CARE NOW MAY SAVE A LOT OF DAMAGE LATER.

Family Should Co-Operate to Prevent Fires

Instruct your family on what to do in case of fire. They too must be made aware of the horrible tragedy it can cause. Make the family a household fire prevention team. Remember you may not be there when fire strikes your home.

It only requires a moment's carelessness or neglect and then: "It Happened in a Flash". More than 85 per cent of the fires in homes are caused through carelessness, warn the fire services of Canada in the vital appeal for Fire Prevention Week. Have a family conference on fire hazards. Advise adult members of your family to always keep matches and lighters out of the reach of children. Keep flammable liquids in metal containers and on high shelves or in locked cupboards and closets.

Don't teach your children to be careless by your own carelessness. Set a good example for them to follow.

Advise your wife on handling the coal furnace. Don't load it with coal before going to bed. Make sure it is properly banked for the night. Show her how to do it for when you are away for an evening or out of town on a trip.

Warn the mother of your children not to tamper with faulty wiring or household appliances, such as toasters, kettles or other equipment using electricity. An expert is always within reach of the telephone.

MATCHES TABOO

Caution children to keep away from the stove when the burners are on. It is so easy for a sleeve to slip and touch a red-hot burner. Playing with matches is taboo. Don't allow children to tinker with any electrical appliance or play around the furnace in the basement. Children should not be allowed to play with firecrackers. A nasty burn, sometimes serious, can result. Let Dad light the firecrackers.

Bonfires are nice but they also can cause tragedies. On a family outing let an adult supervise the bonfire. And keep children a proper distance. Don't let them throw any old thing they find on a bonfire. It may be an empty gasoline container.

All Canada has been horrified by the number of child victims of fire each year. Every winter takes its toll. Never leave your children alone at home. Have an adult who is aware of fire hazards, stay with them.

Family cooperation is vital in preventing fires. Sure you are busy but just take a little time out to hold a family discussion on fire safety. You will be glad you did. Don't you ever think that a fire tragedy cannot happen to you. It will if you are careless.

Firebugs can be as common as flies around the house. They can breed in trash and oily rags and the like, and, far too frequently, in the hides of careless souls who fan fierce flames in stoves, or use coins as electrical fuse connections, or smoke thoughtlessly or leave matches around for children or mice to play with. Swat all these "firebugs" hard, the firemen urge.

Own a ski lodge, a hunting cabin or just a plain everyday kitchen with a stove and exposed pipes? Never for an instant forget the wet clothing or the laundry left close to the Fire Prevention Week Program Here Includes Inspections, Talks

Traditionally, Fire Prevention Week each year is the full calendar week including October 9, anniversary of the Great Chicago fire in 1871. It is observed at the same time in Canada and the United States by proclamation of the Governor-General of Canada and the President of the United States.

This is an annual observance to bring to the attention of the public the need for a year round program of fire prevention and fire safety. With Canada's per capita fire loss still one of the highest in the world, the forthcoming Fire Prevention Week campaign affords Canadians another opportunity to wipe out this black mark on Canada's record. This useless and needless destruction is a handicap to the normal development of our community, province, and nation. Fire prevention is the responsibility of everyone. It requires the full co-operation of most fire departments, municipal councils, industry and each individual citizen of any community, the combined effort of everyone is essential in dealing with this problem, in which every citizen has a vital interest and responsibility.

Like most of the other "Weeks" dedicated to worthy causes, Fire Prevention Week will only be of value if it serves to remind citizens that there is work which cannot be accomplished in a week but must continue throughout the year.

Belleville's fire prevention program will consist of fire inspections by the members of the department of the business district, industrial plants and requested home inspections, a school program, which will include fire drills and lectures at all the schools, a poster and essay contest with prizes being awarded to the best posters and essays submitted by pupils of the different grades, issuing of proclamations and literature, window displays and announcements through the press, radio and churches.

BURNING DWELLINGS.. AND Their Contents!!

More than 40,000 residential properties are attacked by Fire each year, on an average in Canada!

Canada's 10-Year Fire Toll 5,082 Dead, 16,000 Scarred

Proclaiming October 6-12 as Fire Prevention Week, Governor General Vincent Massey has drawn urgent attention to the national importance of the protection of life, property and natural resources from fire.

In the last 10 years, His Excellency states, fires in Canada have taken a tragic toll of 5,082 lives and have burned and disfigured at least 16,000 persons. The direct financial loss of 647,000 fires in the decade was $878 million. In 1956 alone, the death toll in 83,000 fires was 601 and the cost of these fires in the communities and countryside of Canada's ten provinces was $115 million. The figures include Yukon and the North West Territories. They do not include forest fire loss, approaching another $15 million.

As the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals and the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs jointly point out, one single fire in which 601 persons perished and $115 million of property destroyed would constitute one of Canada's greatest national disasters. And such a conflagration would rate as one of the worst in all world history. Only six lives, for example, were lost in the Great Fire of London in 1666.

CARELESSNESS MAIN CAUSE

Because human carelessness and neglect is the cause of most fires, a program of public education was deemed to be the most effective way of meeting the shocking situation in Canada. And for the past three years, the two Associations, representative of the army of Canada's 27,000 firemen — professional and volunteer — have energetically pursued their jointly-sponsored crusade.

The appeal is directed especially to the home. It is in the home that most fires and most deaths occur—especially tragic because many of the victims are children, women and folk of senior years.

But while the appeal is highlighted each year during Fire Prevention Week in October — the start of the long winter period of cold weather and hot fires —the appeal to the men who must always be ready to answer the call of "fire" is maintained throughout the entire year, particularly in the encouragement of free and voluntary inspections of the home's hazards, whether such hazards be "built in" or the result of indifferent housekeeping. That the effect seems to be achieving some result, the firefighters are hopeful.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

Relesing today comparative 1956 and 1955 provincial and federal property loss figures, the Joint Fire Prevention Committee of the two associations reported a slight reduction in the total for the year, per head of population. The figures:

	1956	1955
Per capita loss	$7.21	$7.36
Deaths	601	569

"While the achievement may be short-run," says the committee, "it is a step in the right direction. Less optimistic, despite last year's 400,000 population increase, is the fact that deaths increased to 601, from 569 in 1955."

That this battle of public education — one of the great battles of peacetime — can surely if slowly prevail, is the belief of the fire services and the many agencies which contribute wholeheartedly to the cause.

Sad, oft-repeated explanation by bereaved parents in every province of Canada in 1956: "We just left the house for a minute . . ."

An "early bird" to watch: the man who opens wide the stove drafts before he goes to work, leaving family in bed.

Belleville

A PROCLAMATION...

WHEREAS authoritative statistics compiled and published by the Dominion Fire Commissioner show that during the past ten years, six-hundred and forty-seven thousand fires in Canada have destroyed property valued at eight hundred and seventy-six million dollars and that during the same period, five thousand and eighty-two persons have lost their lives and it is estimated that at least sixteen thousand others have been seriously injured as the result of fire;

AND WHEREAS such losses are increasing year by year;

AND WHEREAS humanitarian and economic considerations imperatively demand that human life and material resources in Canada be so far as possible conserved in order that the national prosperity may be maintained;

AND WHEREAS it is desirable that the attention of the public be directed to the extent and underlying causes of the preventable loss of life and property by fire and to the best and most practicable means for its control and that a specific period of the year be set apart and properly designated for the dissemination of such information;

Therefore I designate the week commencing Sunday, THE SIXTH OF OCTOBER, AND ENDING ON SATURDAY, THE TWELFTH OF OCTOBER, in the present years as in the City of Belleville and do recommend that at some time during that week;

"FIRE PREVENTION WEEK"

1. All dwellings, public buildings, stores, warehouses, factories, farms, mines and forests be carefully inspected by their occupants and all conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fire be removed.

2. All theatres, hotels, hospitals and other institutional buildings be inspected and provision made for all changes necessary to protect the occupants in case of fire.

3. Fire drills be held for the children in all schools, for the inmates of all institutions and for employees in all factories, in order that greater degree of safety be ensured by acquainting the occupants with the best and most expeditious mode of exit in time of danger.

4. Special instruction on the subject of fire prevention be given by the teachers and by municipal officials in the schools and that such appropriate literature as may be made available be distributed to the pupils.

Signed,
JANE FORRESTER.
Mayor.

Fires Are Always Costly!

Easy precautions like these can help you avoid the high cost of fire: Remove papers and other fire hazards from basement and attic. Be careful with matches and inflammable liquids. Have an electrician check your wiring. And be sure you're on the safe side, insure with us.

Victoria United Church Observes 60th Anniversary

GORE — A red-letter day in the history of Victoria United Church on the Redersville charge occurred recently, for on that day the church celebrated its 60th anniversary.

The weather was ideal, a beautiful autumn day and the church was beautifully decorated with ferns and baskets of flowers. Centring the floral decorations around the chancel was a large basket of cut flowers in memory of the church's pioneers and on either side were potted mums in memory of Mrs. Lorne Brickman and of Mrs. Fred Bonter, placed there by their families.

For the morning service, the church was full of present and past members and adherents gathered from far and near and all listened with keen attention to Mr. Ross Strike's thought-provoking message on the cure for the world's present crises.

Mr. Strike, a Bowmanville barrister, is a son of the late Rev. J. J. Strike, who was minister on the charge when Victoria church was built.

In a humorous vein Mr. Strike told how his mother was organist in the new church and how he, from his baby basket placed close to the organ under his mother's watchful eye, helped the choir sing.

The Rev. T. F. Townsend, former pastor, and now of Belleville, brought greetings both for himself and neighboring ministers.

A letter of kindly good wishes and greetings from the Rev. and Mrs. van Walsem, of Enopress, Alberta, was read.

The evening service was in charge of the Rev. H. Kippen, resident minister, and many friends were present. All heard his helpful message. The church choir, with Mrs. W. Faulkner as organist, was heard in fine anthems. The offerings at both services were most gratifying.

Many of the visitors were entertained to dinner at the various church homes of Victoria.

RCAF Prepared To Place Big Arrow Jet Order

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The RCAF is prepared to place a $150,000,000 order for 39 supersonic Arrow jet fighters once they have been proven, informants say.

However, Defence Minister Pearkes did not commit the government to purchase of the Avro Aircraft Limited plane in his speech preceding unveiling Friday of the twin-jet two-seater.

The Arrow, a mean looking Avenger with a needle nose, will require about another four years of development work before it can be in RCAF squadron service. It is not expected to make a first flight until late December at the earliest. Avro has seven of the 1,200-mile-an-hour planes on the production line for this intensive development task.

As shown Friday to some 12,000 persons at Avro's plant in nearby Malton, the Arrow has a huge belly to carry the armament bay, air intakes and the two jet engines. It has bat wings and a high fin.

Its tricycle undercarriage appeared almost too spindly to carry the plane's 30-ton weight. The aircraft is 78 feet long and painted a gleaming white.

RESEMBLES HUSTLER

The Arrow much resembles the United States Air Force B-58 Hustler bomber and to a lesser extent the British Avro Vulcan bomber. However, the Hustler is considered to have more speed and much greater range than the Arrow. The Hustler has been flying for some time.

Air Marshal Hugh Campbell, chief of air staff, said "The planned performances of this aircraft is such that it can effectively reach and deal with any likely bomber threat to this continent over the next decade. . . It has been designed to make a great contribution to the over-all defence of North America."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Trying to get a slant on some of the alleged top puck talent being secured by the rival camps in the Eastern senior hockey league is about as tough as prying loose a pair of Grey Cup pasteboards from the mink and caviar set.

However, occasionally the odd item slips out through the keyhole. Up Pembroke way, Wally, (the Man with the Golden Arm), is busy negotiating with players and clubs. Latest word from the northern town has it that Pistol Pete Horeck, who once wore a Belleville hockey uniform and more recently NHL garb, has been dickering with the Pembroke boss.

But, the information says, the Pistol wants the moon with a fence around it and all the green cheese he can eat. It's been a draw, thus far.. Lennox is reported to have paid the Buffalo Bisons a neat bundle of lettuce for Jim Farelli. The amount was not disclosed. Pembroke is trying out Jacques Gaigner in the nets and the story goes the former Quebec junior, who came out of his league with an all-star rating, has an excellent chance of signing on the dotted line.

Vern (Montreal Gazette) DeGeer columns that an old pal, one Bun Cook, dropped in the Montreal Forum the other day with a buddy. Bun was apparently on a shopping spree for his Kingston CKLC's, for DeGeer writes: "I don't know what happened but Bun came out of the huddle with a goalkeeper and two players," or words to that effect.

Down Cornwall way Manager Ray Miron and playing coach Joe Lepine are going far afield in their efforts to track down available talent for the opening of the riverside city's training camp. Chick (Stratford Beacon-Herald) Appel says: "Their pitching will be held up by the draft in western Ontario and the club feels sure they can make a deal to get him, but they might have to part with some dollars. Give you one guess who that key man is and you may not need to leave the Classic City (Stratford) to put a finger on him."

We understand Cornwall has signed young Ron Muir for his second season with the Chevies. Muir will be joined by a former junior team-mate at Brockville, one Ted Sadlowski, a defenceman whom coach Eddie Bush branded as the best team man in the league.

Thes northern Ontario sports writers should keep in closer touch with the outside world. Paul Patton writing in the Sudbury Star, tells all and sundry that Russ Kowalchuk hasn't reported to the Belleville Mohawks' camp as yet. If he hasn't who is this big good-looking huskie who has been cavorting along right wing for the past week or ten days? If it isn't Russ then Manager Drury Jones plans the club will be a lot of fans have been fooled. Not to mention that very attractive young lady who goes by the name of Mrs. Russ Kowalchuk.

Could friend Appel be a little off beam regarding that "key man" being sought by Cornwall from the Classic city. Likewise Bulldog Jim Hildebrand and Toronto Indian George Aliken turned out with their club after being drafted. The Bulldogs have been using Reg Guldolin partly on defence and partly on left wing. Beside on a forward line. Remember Bob Wilson? Bob has been at the Black Hawk training camp but will do his puckchasing again this season with the Windsor team.

Freddie Hildebrand, who could be a brother of Ike, is a much sought-after player. Windsor says Hildebrand is reporting to the Bulldogs with whom he played the first season. Maxie Silverman, who is recruiting the troops for the new Louisville Rebels of the International League is dangling offers under the Hildebrand nose.

Two Bobs, Turley and Buhl Will Hook up in Third And Key Game of Series

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Baseball-mad Milwaukeeans jammed County Stadium for the first world series game in the city's history today to see the third game of the classic, a right-handed fireball duel between Bob Buhl of Braves and Bob Turley of New York Yankees.

Everything appeared to be in perfect setting for what may turn out to be the key game of the series. Although Yankees remained a 6-to-5 favorite following Milwaukee's victory at Yankee Stadium in the first game of a best-of-seven series apiece, a triumph today would make Braves a prohibitive favorite to upset the defending world champions. A Milwaukee defeat, of course, would make Yankees a solid choice to win their second successive world championship.

BREEZY AND SUNNY

A breezy but sunny day with the temperature in the upper 60s was predicted with southeast winds that should help the right-handed Buhl. If that is true, another pitchers' duel was in the making because both managers have stacked their lineups with left-handed power against right-handed pitching.

The game was to start at 3 p.m. EDT. A crowd of some 47,000 was expected. The attendance record in the six-year-old park is 49,641, set Sept. 3, 1956.

History has shown that the winner of the third series game usually takes it all. In the 53 previous October inter - league clashes, the third game winner went on to capture the series 33 times.

FAST BALL HITTERS

This is the game Yankees should win, according to the analysts. The reasoning is that Buhl primarily is a fast ball pitcher and the Yankees usually murder fast ball pitching. Few apparently had taken into account that the Braves are the best fast ball hitting club in the National League.

Turley finished the regular season with a 13-6 record, striking out 164 and walking 96 in 164 innings. His earned sun average was 2.77. Buhl won 18 and lost 7, the best winning percentage in the club, walked 119 and fanned 186 in 256 innings. He ended up with an earned run average of 2.90.

Turley has appeared in six world series games since joining Yankees in 1955, has started two and lost both, one of them a 1-0 defeat by Brooklyn in 10 innings. Buhl has never pitched in a world series.

Braves, who arrived here Thursday night from New York by chartered plane, worked out yesterday afternoon for the first time since Wednesday's opener. Manager Fred Haney did not even bother to come out on the field.

The little skipper, after employing the righthanded shock troops of his two-pitchers staff against southpaws Whitey Ford and Bobby Shantz in the first two games, will present a revised lineup against Turley, with the accent on lefthand hitting.

The first four batters — Red Schoendienst, Johnny Logan, Ed Mathews and Henry Aaron — remain unchanged except that the lefthitting Schoendienst will eat lefthanded. Wes Covington, a lefthanded hitter, will move up from seventh to fifth. The newcomers will be Frank Torre at first base, Bob Hazle in right field and Del Rice behind the plate.

The only uncertainty is Torre. Haney at first named him, then apparently decided to stick with Joe Adcock at first. But Torre's wife, who is expecting their first child in December, had a fall in a New York hotel, leaving Adcock quite upset and worried.

"I'll have to wait and see Adcock tomorrow," Haney said. "I'm afraid he may be emotionally upset and if he is, I'll have to use Frank anyway, but right now I'm leaning to Torre."

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees also will have a line-up change. Instead of the batters who got one of the Yankees' seven hits off Lew Burdette on Wednesday, Stengel will restore his place in left field will be taken by young Elston Howard, versatile rookie, after playing the first game in left field, was shifted to third base for the second game and made a costly error on a throw from Kuenn's ter. The new third baseman will be Jerry Lumpe, the rookie who singled as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning Thursday.

TOUGH FOR HITTERS

Casey said he would bat second, Gil McDougald fifth, Harry Simpson sixth and Lumpe seventh. Otherwise the Yankees' batting order will remain the same.

The Yankees, who arrived around noon Thursday after an all-night train ride from New York, held an hour-long workout at County Stadium and appeared refreshed after a long, tough park for the hitters. Only three times were hit over the stadium fences. Mickey Mantle, the Yankees' greatest slugger, hit two of those and Yogi Berra the other.

One reason for the small production was a "pitchers' wind," which blew from east over left field fence toward home plate. The hitters were promised the same kind of wind today.

Flu Bug Prevalent

Not Expected to Affect Bumper Crowds at All Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Although the flu bug may slow senior Intercollegiate football Union teams in their season opener today the virus isn't expected to affect bumper crowds of Eastern Canada fans facing their first full card of weekend football action this season.

In the college league, defending-champion Queen's University Golden Gaels are at home to Dalt White's flu-ridden University of Toronto Blues. The other game, in Montreal, has McGill University Redmen against University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Flu shouldn't affect the outcome of Montreal Alouettes Big Four game with winless Toronto Argonauts in Toronto, but it could have some say in the action in Ottawa.

Coach Frank Clair's Ottawa Rough Riders, tied with Als for second place, are slated to second-place Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The senior Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule has another winless Toronto club, Balmy Beach, playing London Lords in Sarnia, tied with London for first place, will match plays with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in Kitchener. Dutchies are in second place, one point back of the top rung.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair must have designs on a repeat of his own personal attack of the flu— his team is in the best possible physical shape for the Ticat tussle.

Hamilton coach Jim Trimble would like to see his club was in the same kind of shape. He's faced with a major decision in choosing his starting quarterback.

Regular signal - caller Bernie Faloney is just recovering from a bout with the flu, while second-stringer Tony Cecilio is only now exhibiting throwing accuracy following an injury Sept. 6.

Alouette coach Doug Walker is sticking with the same lineup he used in the game against Hamilton. He is backed against using kicker Avatus Stone. Earlier reports had Stone in the lineup, using a brace to protect his injured knee.

Meanwhile Argos are on the spot following their usually reserved coach-general director's prediction of a win. Lew Hayman made the forecast on the basis of the improved form Argos displayed in the last half of their game with Ottawa and won, which Ottawa won 40-21.

In the Western Interprovincial Football Union Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan Roughriders are due for some of the balmy breezes of Indian summer, travel to Edmonton and Calgary, where some of the worst early-October weather conditions are memory.

The forecaster promises a temperature of about 20 degrees today when Bombers tackle the first-place Eskimos at Edmonton in a game that could determine the bye into the league final.

At Calgary, similar conditions are predicted for the Stampeder-Roughrider encounter. A victory would almost assure the Cowboys of their first playoff berth since 1952.

World Series Notes

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Veteran lefthander Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves suggested today there may be no returning to New York for further world series games.

"Now that the Yanks have the opening day butterflies out of their systems," he said, "I wouldn't be surprised to see us wrap up the series right here. We're all confident we can take it the next three right here at Milwaukee County Stadium."

Braves second baseman Red Schoendienst, credited with pulling the Milwaukee defence together after coming to the team in the trade with New York Giants last June, calls Wes Covington of Braves and Gerry Coleman of Yankees the outstanding performers of the world series, so far.

"Covington's work," the baseball veteran said, "may come as a surprise to some, but not to me. Wes is big and strong. He can run, throw and has as much power as anyone in baseball."

Schoendienst hailed Coleman for his fielding, tops in series play for Yanks.

Tony Kubek, Yankees' sensational rookie, is a native Milwaukeean, who likes it in New York.

A player with Milwaukee sandlot teams four years ago, Kubek said today: "It's great to be able to see here, but I'm real happy to be with the club I am."

What ever else happens while Yankees are in Wisconsin they are going to eat well.

Harold Schlensky, of the Brown's Lake resort at Burlington, Wis., takes over as the New York headquarters, said today that at the request of the Yankees front office the players will be served kirbish steaks exclusively as their main meals.

It was suggested the diet might become monotonous, but Schlensky answered, "steak is never monotonous."

Mrs. Edna Stengel, wife of the New York Yanks' manager, was happy to talk about baseball, but she also wanted to discuss what she called "Casey's new bank."

The bank is in Glendale, Calif., the Stengel's winter home, and Mrs. Stengel said Casey was a director. "I'm secretary to the director," she said, then told that rank sometimes doesn't mean much.

She explained that she deposited $5,000 to cover world series expenses, but the cheques bounced. "They gave the credit to another depositor," she said.

Ernie Williams Beats Substitute In Tenth Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams having disposed of a fill - in opponent wows to take on the man he was supposed to fight in his debut as a main eventer.

Williams, 21-year-old Washington, stopped Dave Walden of Youngstown, Ohio, on a technical knockout in 39 seconds of the tenth round of their scheduled 10-round lightweight bout at Capitol Arena Friday night.

Sonny Boy," who fought six rounds gave Bud a five-pound edge, then completely outmaneouvred Walden.

In the ninth Sonny Boy jarred Walden with a right, then almost crumpled him on the ropes with a short left uppercut, a right and a left hook. Referee Marty Gallagher darted in to stop the barrage.

THROUGH FOR SEASON

TORONTO (CP) — Avelino Gomez, announcing his intention to have a go from the hockey boots said Friday he will not ride any more this season in Canada but may finish out 1957 on Mexican tracks. Gomez said he would like to return to Canada next year.

ALS INK POWELL

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes Friday signed Ken Powell, an import end cast loose by Toronto Argos. Powell, waived by other Big Four football Union clubs, has been working out with Als for several days.

Demarco, Akins Will Meet for Welter Title

BOSTON (AP) — The Sharkey Athletic Association says welterweight contenders Tony DeMarco of Boston and Virgil Akins of St. Louis will meet in a 15 - round bout that will be billed "for the world welterweight title." The fight will be held at the Boston Garden, Oct. 29.

The promoting club said Friday the winner would be recognized as successor to Carmen Basilio. Basilio dropped as welterweight champion by the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission after he won the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson. Both forbid double champions.

Before the fight was announced the Massachusetts Boxing Commission said it had recognized Isaac Logart of Cuba, Ains and Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., as eligible to meet DeMarco, for number one welterweight, for a title bout.

DeMarco, former welterweight ruler, is rated first by the NBA and also ranks Logart second, Martinez third, Gil Turner of Philadelphia fourth, and Akins fifth.

Julius Helland, chairman of the New York commission, said that it would be up to the world championship boxing committee, to approve.

Helland said the winner of a DeMarco - Akins fight would not be recognized as world champion.

In Milwaukee, Fred Saddy, chairman of the NBA's ratings committee, said no request had been made to the NBA to sanction a DeMarco-Akins bout for the title. He said such a request would be rejected if it was made.

Saddy said further that Akins is not included among the first four tentatively selected for the eliminations. The four were DeMarco, Logart, Martinez and Turner.

NOHA Opens On October 16

TORONTO (CP) — The six team Ontario Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series opens its 60-game schedule Oct. 16.

The series, a new grouping of northern and southern teams, comprises Sudbury, North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie, Oshawa, Kitchener-Chatham and Windsor. In addition Whitby Dunlops, this year's Allan Cup champions who will represent Canada in the 1958 world hockey tournament, play home-and-home games with each team in the series.

The senior grouping opens with North Bay at the Soo and Kitchener at Chatham. The schedule winds up Feb. 28.

Sandy MacKenzie scored both touchdowns for Tech, one in the second quarter and the other early in the final quarter.

Ryerson Tech Wins

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Penalties and intercepted passes interwingled with shoddy defensive play cost University of Western Ontario Colts their first Intermediate Intercollegiate League football start here Friday when they bowed to Toronto Ryerson Tech 18-6.

It was an inauspicious beginning for Colts under new head coach Mike Yuhasz. The few times Colts did get within easy striking distance—inside the 10-yard line—Ryerson threw up a human defensive line that stopped Western cold.

SERIES HERO

Hitting and fielding star of the Milwaukee Braves is 24-year-old rookie lefthander, Wes Covington. He boosted his series average to .500 and triggered the game-winning single in the second inning of the second World Series contest. In addition, Covington's brilliant backhanded catch of Bobby Shantz' fly in second inning was termed by manager Fred Haney as the turning point of the game.

Demarco, Akins Will Meet for Welter Title

BOSTON (AP) — The Sharkey Athletic Association says welterweight contenders Tony DeMarco of Boston and Virgil Akins of St. Louis will meet in a 15 - round bout that will be billed "for the world welterweight title." The fight will be held at the Boston Garden, Oct. 29.

The promoting club said Friday the winner would be recognized as successor to Carmen Basilio. Basilio dropped as welterweight champion by the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission after he won the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson. Both forbid double champions.

Before the fight was announced the Massachusetts Boxing Commission said it had recognized Isaac Logart of Cuba, Ains and Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., as eligible to meet DeMarco, for number one welterweight, for a title bout.

DeMarco, former welterweight ruler, is rated first by the NBA and also ranks Logart second, Martinez third, Gil Turner of Philadelphia fourth, and Akins fifth.

Julius Helland, chairman of the New York commission, said that it would be up to the world championship boxing committee, to approve.

Helland said the winner of a DeMarco - Akins fight would not be recognized as world champion.

In Milwaukee, Fred Saddy, chairman of the NBA's ratings committee, said no request had been made to the NBA to sanction a DeMarco-Akins bout for the title. He said such a request would be rejected if it was made.

Saddy said further that Akins is not included among the first four tentatively selected for the eliminations. The four were DeMarco, Logart, Martinez and Turner.

Ernie Williams Beats Substitute In Tenth Round

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams having disposed of a fill - in opponent wows to take on the man he was supposed to fight in his debut as a main eventer.

Williams, 21-year-old Washington, stopped Dave Walden of Youngstown, Ohio, on a technical knockout in 39 seconds of the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round lightweight bout at Capitol Arena Friday night.

Sonny Boy," who fought six rounds gave Bud a five-pound edge, then completely outmaneouvred Walden.

In the ninth Sonny Boy jarred Walden with a right, then almost crumpled him on the ropes with a short left uppercut, a right and a left hook. Referee Marty Gallagher darted in to stop the barrage.

THROUGH FOR SEASON

TORONTO (CP) — Avelino Gomez, announcing his intention to have a go from the hockey boots said Friday he will not ride any more this season in Canada but may finish out 1957 on Mexican tracks. Gomez said he would like to return to Canada next year.

ALS INK POWELL

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes Friday signed Ken Powell, an import end cast loose by Toronto Argos. Powell, waived by other Big Four football Union clubs, has been working out with Als for several days.

NOHA Opens On October 16

TORONTO (CP) — The six team Ontario Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series opens its 60-game schedule Oct. 16.

The series, a new grouping of northern and southern teams, comprises Sudbury, North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie, Oshawa, Kitchener-Chatham and Windsor. In addition Whitby Dunlops, this year's Allan Cup champions who will represent Canada in the 1958 world hockey tournament, play home-and-home games with each team in the series.

The senior grouping opens with North Bay at the Soo and Kitchener at Chatham. The schedule winds up Feb. 28.

Sandy MacKenzie scored both touchdowns for Tech, one in the second quarter and the other early in the final quarter.

Ryerson Tech Wins

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Penalties and intercepted passes intermingled with shoddy defensive play cost University of Western Ontario Colts their first Intermediate Intercollegiate League football start here Friday when they bowed to Toronto Ryerson Tech 18-6.

Trenton Community Gardens Opened By Lieutenant Governor

Dream of Years Comes True

Trenton's new Community Gardens was officially opened last night before an admiring overflow crowd. The Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, the Hon. Louis O. Breithaupt, declared at the ceremonies. The governor was accompanied by Mrs. Breithaupt. Pictured above is the handsome new building that is the realization of the dreams of a few community minded Trenton citizens.

Management in Capable Hands

Administration and operation of Trenton's new Community Gardens will be in the hands of capable men. Shown above from left to right are: His Worship Mayor Ross Burtt, Clifford Baker, chairman of the Gardens Board of Directors, and Gardens manager, Ted Steadman.

Stone and Steel Monument To Civic Pride, Endeavor Splendid in Every Respect

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

TRENTON — The sign outside reads "A Dream Come True." The sign doesn't lie.

Not too many years ago three men of this flourishing Bay of Quinte town had a dream. So did several others.

The dream of the many returned intermittently. That of the trio, Messrs. Jim MacDonald, Lyle Carr and Jack Goldberg persisted.

So much so, they decided to do something about it. They did.

Last night, in the background of many celebrities, these men saw the complete realization of their dream.

Proudly they watched the official opening ceremonies of Trenton's new Community Gardens, a stone and steel monument to civic pride and endeavor.

The fine new quarter-million dollar building overlooking the placid waters of the bay is not only the material climax to the dreams of community-minded citizens, but is the symbol of concerted individual and organizational effort.

Messrs. MacDonald, Lyle and Goldberg laid the groundwork of their construction visits to town council, service clubs, individuals and town organizations. The idea took root and in 1954 a committee of ten was formed.

The town council got behind the idea and said it would raise $100,000 by debenture if the committee could raise $70,000. A grant from the Ontario Department of Agriculture of $10,000 was secured.

Industry, the professions, individuals, clubs, organizations and the Royal Canadian Air Force, Station Trenton, rallied to the appeal. Steadily the fund grew. It reached $55,000.

PAID BY YEAR'S END

"The balance is as good as in the bank," declared chairman of the Community Gardens Board, Clifford Baker. "We shall have it by the end of the year. We have $4,000 already.

"We know that," proudly said Mayor Ross Burtt. "The Gardens is something we have needed for a long time. And the joint efforts of the citizens of Trenton, the board, and especially two council members, Van Lange and Jim MacDonald, besides Messrs. Goldberg and Lyle made it a possibility."

An athlete and former hockey player in his own right, Mayor Burtt told district radio and newspapermen that with the cooperation of the Gardens Board, and the Gardens' efficient manager, Ted Steadman, hockey will again resume its rightful place in Trenton.

Said Mr. Alex. Gilbert, manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce: "In keeping with the growth of the community, the Gardens will further help and promote the commercial and industrial welfare of Trenton."

Mr. Steadman, of the Community Gardens opened another virta of community enterprise.

Beyond the large frontal parking area which will accommodate 400 cars is part of the 26 acres reclaimed by the town for its Gardens. This is being filled in. It will be sodded and converted into a park. A community swimming pool is not beyond the realm of possibility. The new sewage disposal plant will be situated at the foot of Campbell Street on a point into the bay.

The handsome building which faces the east contains a regulation Ontario Hockey Association ice surface, 85 feet by 190 feet and a roomy, airy auditorium with a seating capacity of 550. The Rotary Club of Trenton has donated 500 plywood stacking chairs for seating facilities.

The auditorium contains a large stage and has a floor space of 40 by 90 feet. A modern public address system listing announcements to all parts of the hall.

LAST WORD IN LIGHTING

The last word in lighting facilities has been installed and these are controlled from a central point in Manager Steadman's office located on the second floor of the auditorium. From his office the manager has a full, complete view of the ice surface.

The acoustics are exceptionally good. Also downstairs are five dressing rooms, a first aid room, a skate room, two ticket offices and rest rooms for ladies and gentlemen.

Also off the large rotunda of the Gardens is a large board room which will be used not only by the Gardens Board, but those of town organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce, the Kinsmen Club, etc. Two large canteens will cater to the wants of the public. A central unit heats the auditorium, dressing rooms, offices. The large parking area in front of the Gardens will eventually be illuminated.

Five rows of turn-up seats will accommodate 1360 hockey fans or patrons of other attractions. Up and behind the seats is accommodation for 1,000 standing people. A modern timer is located at the east end of the ice surface over and back of the goalnets.

With the completion of the Gardens, Mayor Burtt and Manager Steadman, both experienced in many phases of sport, predict Trenton's return to the once proud place it held in hockey circles of the province.

A team will be entered in OHA Junior "B" hockey and will likely be grouped with teams from RMC, Kingston, Queen's, Gananoque and possibly Belleville.

The Trenton Minor Hockey Association has been formed and will look after the hockey needs of some 400 youngsters, from "squirt" to juvenile. Heading this organization are Mayor Burtt, Manager Steadman and Joe Gould, another well-known Trenton sportsman and former athlete.

It is hoped that service clubs and other organizations of the town will sponsor the minor clubs. There is also a possibility that Trenton will be represented in OHA intermediate ranks.

GOOD COACH SECURED

The junior "B" club will be coached by Stan Irvine, of Toronto, a former professional pilot with Buffalo and Washington clubs and who has coached junior teams from East York and Owen Sound. Steadman will act as team manager.

Many summer activities are being planned for the new Gardens, Manager Steadman said. He hopes to bring in named orchestras, variety shows, lacrosse, roller skating and other forms of entertainment.

Mr. Steadman comes to the new Gardens with a wealth of managerial experience. He has managed arenas at East York, Owen Sound and Corner Brook, Newfoundland, before coming to Trenton this year.

And he will have solid support.

Cleveland Trims Whitby 7-1 To Sweep Series

TRENTON — The Cleveland Barons, 1957 champions of the American Hockey League slid to their fourth consecutive triumph over the Whitby Dunlops here last night, before a large, cheering crowd that marked the official opening of the new Community Gardens. The score was 7-1.

After a closely-fought first period, the Barons demonstrated why they ever championship belts with their smooth passing and heavy defensive play.

The game was the last of a four-game series that saw the Barons sweep the victory sheet. They plainly demonstrated, at least, last night, the difference between senior "A" amateurs, so to speak, and the minor professional groups.

The game was highlighted by a near free-for-all with about three minutes to go when Bus Gagnon and Bill Shetzv and Dan Pollizani of the Barons started to mix matters. Pete Gregg later got in on the hassle.

Referees Dalton McArthur and Gordy Fevereaux of the National Hockey League finally got the warriors separated only to have the feud break out again near the players' bench. The Barons' members leaped on the ice and swarmed around the Dunlops' bench. A few fists swung but no actual damage occurred. Gagnon and Pollizani were assessed with majors for fighting and major misconducts on general principles.

In fairness to the Dunlops they were without the services of Myles, Maxwell, Roth, Flick and Tom O'Connor, all down with the flu.

The teams fought to a scoreless tie in the first period which was featured by the outstanding efforts of the respective goalies, Johnny Bowers for Cleveland and Long John Henderson in the Dunlop cage.

George Bouchard opened the scoring for Cleveland early in the second heat. This was matched by the Dunlops' only goal five minutes later from Freddie Etcher.

Freddie Glover and Bo Elik put the Barons out in front 3-1 before the period ended.

Joe Watson ripped home two quickies midway through the third heat with Pollizani and Johnny McLellan rapping home two more, one of them an easy counter after tempers had cooled following the hassle.

Belleville fans saw an old favorite in action in Don Hogan, now a member of the Barons, and who formerly played with the city junior "B" squad in the Bill Cook regime.

The teams:

Cleveland — Bowers, Bouchard, Hudson, Kraftchek, Geogan, Moore, Glover, McLellan, Velprava, Stearns, Schvetz, Watson, Hogan, Elik.

Whitby — Henderson, Ted O'Connor, Casey, Burns, Lineman, Etcher, Attersley, Samalenko, Gagnon, Bonello, Williams, Air, Sinden, Trenn.

Lieut. Governor Breithaupt, MP's and Invited Guests Present to Open Gardens

TRENTON (Special) — Dignity marked the scene when the Honorable Louis O. Breithaupt, LL.D., Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, officially opened Trenton's new $250,000 community gardens here last night.

Among those sitting with the Lieutenant - Governor's party in the section draped in flags and red, white and blue bunting at mid-ice on the west side of the arena were Senator and Mrs. W. A. Fraser; Hon. and Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow, Mayor and Mrs. Ross Burtt, Gardens' chairman Clifford Baker and Mrs. Baker, high ranking RCAF officers and their wives, members of the Federal and Provincial governments, OHA and OMHA officials and Gardens' directors and their wives.

The Lieutenant - Governor was accompanied by his wife, F/O Sopper of Toronto acted as his A.D.C. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sopper.

CROWD GATHERS EARLY

The large crowd which attended commenced filing through the main entrance into the spacious foyer at 7.00 o'clock. The RCAF No. 6 Repair Depot band under the direction of bandmaster Sgt. H. Kelly, was playing musical selections as the patrons, many of them seeing the new building for the first time, walked to their seats.

The following words of welcome from Mayor Ross Burtt, the Rev. George J. Minielly, president of the Trenton Ministerial Association, led the audience in prayer; Clifford Baker, chairman of the Gardens' Building committee, spoke briefly. Then there was a fanfare of trumpets and roll of drums to mark the arrival of the Lieutenant-Governor and his party. Mr. Baker welcomed the party.

PRESENTS KEY

In a brief colorful ceremony the Lieutenant Governor presented the key of the Gardens to Mayor Burtt who accepted it and replied with appropriate remarks. Then Mayor Burtt presented the Lieutenant Governor with an engraved silver tray as a token of appreciation for taking part in the program.

On arrival the guests were received in the foyer by Mrs. J. MacDonald and Mrs. O. V. Larry, who handed each official guest a program. Miss Charyn Lange made the presentation of a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Breithaupt.

In brief remarks Senator Fraser praised the people responsible for the creation of Trenton's new recreational centre and public meeting place. Hon. Mr. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, added further favorable comments, followed by a message from Lorne Cook, president of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Before the exhibition hockey match started, drum majorettes from Barbara Thrasher's School of Dancing presented a pleasing display and later, between the first and second periods, the members of the Trenton Figure Skating Club turned in a worthy performance. Art Duncan of Batawa acted as master of ceremonies for the entertainment program.

Meeker Always Felt He Was on 'Shaky Ground'

TORONTO (CP) — Howie Meeker, fired as manager of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs in a sudden move Thursday, said Friday that he knew for some time he was on "shaky ground."

Meeker said the decision by Stafford Smythe, chairman of the Leafs' hockey committee, wasn't a complete surprise. "When I agreed to take the job I knew it involved a big risk," he said.

Meeker, promoted to the job in April, will be supplanted by Smythe.

"He feels he can make the deals that can put Toronto in the playoffs," said Meeker. "He felt I couldn't. If he can, then I'll be happy."

Meeker discounted the report that he would join the public relations staff of Maple Leaf Gardens. "There was never any mention of my going to work on publicity full time," he said. "I'm free to look for another job at any time."

CAMPBELLFORD

High School Defeats OSD By 56-6 Score

CAMPBELLFORD—The Campbellford High School grid squad took the season's opener by a decisive score on Wednesday afternoon when they defeated the Ontario Schools for the Deaf team of Belleville on the Campbellford campus. The score was 56 to 6.

The local lads took the lead early in the first quarter and held it throughout the game. J. Bearry and T. Holmes each were credited with three touchdowns, with Holmes also racking up two converts. E. Holmes got two TD's and W. Rutherford 1.

The Campbellford team will play their next game on Wednesday when they meet Albert College of Belleville on the Albert campus.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was drinking his 2nd cup of coffee this morning, and ma said, I have a bizzy morning ahead of me, it's my turn to have the bridge ladies for lunch today.

I'm afraid I wont be able to join you, pop said, and ma said, I should hope not. The last thing is to serve all hore durvers. It's the same idea as smorgesboard, without being so fishy, she said.

Maybe I could drop up from the office for half an hour, pop said, and ma said, No thanks. There's a whole chapter on hore durvers in Mrs. Rummerer's Festive Food Book. Strips of smoked sammon, for instance, in dainty rolls, she said.

No matter how daintily you roll em, some people might think it was fish, pop said, and ma said, Then there's thin slices of bacon, each rolled around a pickled onion and pinned with a toothpick and broiled.

The toothpick sounds tasty, pop said, and ma said, Of course there's litterly countless things to stuff eggs with, from cheese to crab flakes.

An egg stuffed with another egg would be a surprize, pop said. The guests might not even be able to tell the difference, he said, and ma said, Never William, you might at least try to be constructive.

All right, how about a baby sardeen with a dab of pickel in its mouth, the whole thing imprisoned in an olive pop said, and ma said, Why William, there's something like that in Mrs. Klugmeyer's book. How did you know? she said.

I didn't know, I just feered, pop said. Well, I think I'll go while I'm ahead, he said.

And he klassed her goodbye and left for his office.

Brantford Ticats Defeat Beaches By 42-6 Score

BRANTFORD (CP) — Brantford Ticats spotted Toronto Balmy Beaches a 6-0 lead early in the second quarter Friday night and then went on to a 42-6 win as they racked up their eighth straight win and remained unbeaten in Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate play.

Brantford quarterback Paul Hryska blotted up points on three touchdowns and four converts. He also threw two touchdown passes to Pudge Chandler.

Gary Kennedy scored the Toronto touchdown on a nine-yard end run.

Kelly Bettger Picked for Role After Success in Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The actor least likely to play the crusader for victims of false imprisonment is Lyle Bettger.

Yet he's doing it on NBC's new show, Court of Last Resort, every Friday night. Bettger plays the investigator for the group of citizens who review cases of prisoners who claim they are innocent of the crimes they were sentenced for.

The paradox is that Bettger is an expert in portraying mean cusses on the screen. You'll remember him as the sadistic animal trainer in The Greatest Show on Earth and the outlaw leader in Gunfight at OK Corral. Of his 18 movies, only one showed him as a nice guy — The Carnival Story.

So how did he get the TV series?

"It was a matter of chance," he related. "Two years ago, I did a half-hour film for the Reader's Digest series about a successful businessman who goes off his rocker from overwork. It was a very tense role, but at the beginning and end I was interviewing a woman whose husband had also blown his top. Then I told my story in flash."

LOOKING FOR DIRECTOR

"Well, the producers of The Court of Last Resort were looking for a director and saw my Digest film as an example of the work of Peter Godfrey. They liked the way I interviewed the wife, and I got this role. Undoubtedly, they never would have thought of me for it if they had seen any of my movies."

Bettger, 42, is a veteran of 22 years of acting. For 12 years, he played in nothing but flops on Broadway and found himself being supported by his wife, a successful actress.

"I hit the bottom, spiritually," he said. "I told my wife that I'd better get into some other line of work, maybe selling. A few hours later, Rodgers and Hammerstein called me for a job in John Loves Mary, which was a big hit."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, October 7, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Moon and Mercury positions, effective in Aries, urge caution in signing contracts, in legal matters, giving estimates, etc. On the other hand, day pushes artistic affairs, skilled work.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You possess the happy faculty of handling delicate situations and artistic endeavors well. Today favors these but warns against making careless promises.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — This is your day for emphasizing your cleverness in judgment and discernment. Cooperate with the right persons. Think!

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Your talents and the things you like and for which you are trained are governed by good aspects now. Don't be too unbending, recognize new and valuable trends and keep up with them.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Every day can produce some good, bring you closer to the realization of your goals. Follow a definite pattern now and you can save time, steps. Don't worry, but keep alert.

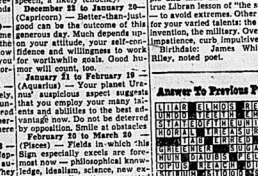
August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Some tension likely, so be on guard and avoid unpleasant discussions. Go ahead with your day's program cheerfully. Add artistry, finesse where they will do you credit.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Your Venus and Neptune are the planets in most auspicious positions now. They favor artistic and home affairs; confidential matters, activities concerning the sea, liquids, the military.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Little things that are vital to the solution of problems and to happiness are likely to be forgotten if you are not careful. Set a sound pace, plan a cautious route, and go forward with faith.

November 23 to December 21— (Sagittarius) — You may find it necessary to change some plans. Don't be hesitant where real improvement is possible. And don't be too abrupt in manner or speech, a likely tendency.

December 22 to January 20— (Capricorn) — Better-than-just-good can be the outcome of this generous day. Much depends upon your attitude, your self-confidence and willingness to work for worthwhile goals. Good humor will count, too.



January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Your planet Uranus' auspicious aspect suggests that you employ your many talents and abilities to the best advantage now. Do not be deterred by opposition. Smile at obstacles.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Fields in which this Sign especially excels are foremost now — philosophical knowledge, idealism, science, new experiments, all matters connected with liquids, the water. Forward!

Your born today have a deep respect and love for the beautiful in life. You admire and are capable of courage and discernment. You can reach the heights in whatever is right and appropriate at the time. You have tremendous inner pride, which should be carefully nurtured and directed, as should your ambition. You will respond quickly to thoughtfulness but will resent being "bossed." Your fine sense of justice innately fits you for the law, the judiciary, managing people and their affairs. Learn the true Libran lesson of "the scales" — to avoid extremes. Other fields for your varied talents: the stage, invention, the military. Overcome impatience, curb impulsiveness.

Birthdate: James Whitcomb Riley, noted poet.

REJECT REQUEST

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese foreign office announced today the Soviet Union has rejected Japan's third request for suspension of nuclear tests.

SOVIET 'MOON'

This announcement was issued shortly after news of the Soviet satellite. There was no indication whether the statement was motivated by the Russian development.

WITH DUMMIES ONLY

The third test vehicle, known as TV-3, will have the appearance of the final earth satellite launching vehicle. However, except for some test instrumentation, the second and third stages used in this firing will be dummies.

Following TV-2, the defence department says, four test firings with complete three-stage rockets are planned. These will have a theoretical capability of placing a small grapefruit-sized satellite in orbit, and will carry tiny test spheres.

These small spheres are only 6.4 inches in diameter and weigh only four pounds, compared with the 22 pounds of the larger satellites. The small satellites might be launched beginning next month.

Dr. Fred Whipple, director of the Astrophysical Observatory, was asked in Cambridge, Mass., Friday night whether the satellite gave the Soviets any military advantage.

"It is not a military advantage but it indicates the Russian potential in the area of missiles," he said.

185-POUND

U.S. scientists still are making plans to launch their first earth satellite next spring rather than this fall.

The announcement by Tass was spread over the front pages of Pravda and Izvestia without comment. No comment was necessary, however, to tell the Soviet people that their leaders again had carried off a feat whose propaganda value may far outweigh its scientific contributions to ICY studies.

Tass said the Russians plan to launch several more heavier earth satellites in the next year.

It reported the satellite is fitted with radio transmitters sending continuous signals to earth on the 15 and 7.5-metre wave lengths. It added the signals could be received easily by amateurs.

PREDICTS GAINS

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Revenue Minister Nowlan said Friday night another federal election "will come in due course and without undue delay." Speaking at a Conservative meeting, he predicts large Conservative gains in Western Canada when an election is held.

The Week's News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two Canadian soldiers went on a routine desert patrol that ended in sudden death and merciful rescue.

Sgt. Floyd Taylor of Hamilton, due for leave for home soon, was showing his replacement, Sgt. Ivan Stark of Vedder Crossing, B.C., his new duties with the United Nations Emergency Force. They were to patrol the fringes of Sinai Desert areas mined by the Egyptians and Israelis in their fighting last fall.

Taylor and Stark drove their jeep along a warning fence, which may have been moved by Arab children at play. A mine exploded and the jeep was shattered. Stark was killed—one week after he arrived in Egypt.

Taylor, unconscious, was found by desert tribesmen, who carried him to their tent and cared for him. Doctors later said that although not critically injured he would likely have died if left alone in the cold desert night.

TRADE TALKS

Canada's proposals for a significant shift in trade patterns reached a stage of frank-talks bargaining.

Commonwealth finance ministers finished a four-day meeting at Mont Tremblant, in the Laurentians, with agreement on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's request for a full-scale, 11-country conference on trade and commerce Britain surprised the conference with a proposal for gradual abolition of customs tariffs on Anglo-Canadian trade.

The full-scale meeting, aimed at increasing Common wealth trade, likely will be held in Canada in mid-1958.

The talks were followed by a bilateral British-Canadian conference in Ottawa, where senior officials sought the practical answers on how to increase trade between the two countries.

PREMIER FAUR

French President Rene Coty went about a familiar task—looking for a new premier.

Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury's coalition government fell in a parliamentary vote after being in power since June.

The French National Assembly, beset by economic problems at home, selected the 49-year-old premier's plan for a policy that would give a measure of autonomy to Algeria, rebellion-torn North African territory.

LABOR ON BOMB

The British Labor party held its biggest debate on the hydrogen bomb. The star of the controversy was fiery Aneurin Bevan in a somewhat surprising role.

Bevan, long-time leftist firebrand of the party, pledged that a Labor government would take unilateral action to suspend hydrogen bomb tests for a set period.

But Labor's "shadow" foreign pleas that the party also commit itself to a policy of unilaterally and permanently ending the testing, manufacture and use of nuclear weapons.

Bevan in the past has been one of the loudest critics of nuclear minister rejected impassioned bomb testing. The party adopted its policy by an overwhelming margin

LITTLE SQUABBLING

Confusion reigned in the racial scrabble at Little Rock, accompanied by violence when white students kicked Negro boys who refused to left unguarded for a time. President Eisenhower and four southern governors held a meeting at which agreement was reached for withdrawal of federal troops provided Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus guaranteed compliance with the school integration law.

But Faubus did not satisfy the president on this point, the troops remained—and 50 to 150 white youths roughed up the Negro boys. A few white students were expelled from school.

CREEPING SICKNESS

Asian flu, continuing its creeping encirclement of the earth, crossed Canada and the United States and was reported at epidemic proportions in some places. There were some deaths.

Canadian officials put into action plans for the country's first large-scale flu vaccination. Some schools were closed.

UN ELECTION

Canada, Panama and Japan were elected to fill three non-permanent seats on the United Nations Security Council.

The posts will become open Dec. 31 when the terms of Australia, the Philippines and Cuba expire.

The UN action was a defeat for Russia, which had sought to win election of Red Czechoslovakia to the seat.

FATAL FLIGHT

Four employees of Pacific Western Airlines were killed when their aircraft crashed and burned on takeoff from Sovereign Lake, 25 miles from Quesnel, B.C.

The biplane, an amphibious Stranraer, had flown to Sovereign Lake to replenish a PWA fuel cache when the accident happened.

Round-World Flight Across Poles Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans for a round-the-world air flight crossing both poles and named in honor of the late Admiral Richard E. Byrd were announced Friday.

It would be the first such crossing of the bottom and top of the world in a continuous series of hops, said Cmdr. Frederick C. Dustin, an Antarctic veteran and close friend of Byrd's. Byrd had flown over both poles in separate expeditions.

Dustin said the flight, financed by a group of businessmen, is scheduled to leave Boston about Nov. 10.

One leg would take the crew and sponsors on a never before attempted flight from Punta Arenas, Chile, over the South Pole to McMurdo Sound in the Antarctic—a distance of nearly 3,500 miles.

Dustin announced this planned itinerary:

Boston to Trinidad, to Buenos Aires, to Punta Arenas and McMurdo Sound. Then to Christchurch, N.Z., Melbourne and Darwin, Australia; Manila, Tokyo, Anchorage, Alaska and then over the North Pole to Thule, Greenland. From there to London, Frankfurt, Paris and back to Boston. The flight is expected to take at least two weeks.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

CONFUSION!

New Canadians from Europe are apt to be puzzled by the names of our birds. The word "robin", for instance, to them means quite a different bird from the one we refer to. The same may be said for the word "redstart". Our robin is the member of the thrush family which has the colouring of an English robin; our redstart is a warbler that happens to look something like the European redstart. Actually, there is no relationship in either case. The blame for this mixup should be put on early settlers in the New World who thought they saw a resemblance between certain birds here and in their homeland.

The bird we call "quail" is not really a quail — that is, not the quail of Europe — but actually a partridge; whereas the bird we call "partridge" is truly a grouse. No wonder there is confusion!

FOUND ON BOTH SIDES

However, there really are a number of birds that may be found on both sides of the Atlantic. If you look at a globe of the world, you will see that in the extreme north the distance to be travelled over water is not so very great. Consequently, it is not to be wondered at that in the northern part of North America those birds especially are much the same as those in Europe; some are identical. A few may be found all over the world. The turnstone comes into this last class. Its unique habit of turning over stones in its search for mollusks, crustacea and the like accounts for the appropriate name. This is a shore bird which prefers sandy beaches, but is not discouraged by muddy or rocky shores if the right food can be had.

Then there are birds, like the raven, so similar in the two continents that they might be called first cousins. And, unfortunately, we have scarcely other species from Europe because they were definitely imported by man. Most people are sorry that the English sparrow (not related to our sparrows in any way) and the starling were brought to America, because they are crowding out our own species.

But although many of our birds are closely related to European ones a number are quite unfamiliar to folks from the Old World. Indeed, during a British ornithologist visiting eastern Canada had the opportunity of joining a group of birders on an early June field trip. The wooded area abounded in songbirds, such as warblers, vireos, and flycatchers. Presently he asked to see the check list on which 25 of these birds had already been marked as identified. Passing it back he shook his head, "I don't know any of them."

Garden Notes

Plant Summer Lilies in the Fall

By FLORA L. SAVILLE

I visited a friend's garden not long ago to see her pink lilies. They had been brought from the Southern States several years ago. Each year the bulbs sent up a large tuft of strap-like leaves but no flowers. The leaves died down and disappeared by late summer. This year, after the leaves had gone a thick flower stocks came up and were crowned by several large and beautiful pink lillies.

Many of our best summer blooming lillies must be planted in the fall. Several nurseries send out special fall catalogues which include the lillies and the spring blooming bulbs such as tulips and daffodils and other small bulbs. You will find these catalogues at your library, or write for them. You will find planting instructions for the different lily types included.

Late maturing bulbs which must be shipped from Holland will arrive in November. For these, prepare the bed while the weather is still reasonably mild.

Most lillies like rich loam soil with good drainage. If you have clay soil mix in some fine gravel, peat moss, or other humus and a good balanced chemical fertilizer. Lillies like to have cool feet and sun on their head. Plant some low growing spreading annual, such as petunias, or verbena. This will shade the roots keeping them cool and the soil damp. The flower stocks should be in full sun. Some will tolerate light shade.

Madonna lillies and all scale lilies should be planted with the bulb set slightly tipped on its side. This prevents water collecting in the scales and rotting the bulb. Plant madonna lillies three inches below the surface preferably on a slight slope. Plant in irregular groups. They do not look well in straight rows.

Stem rooting lilies such as the regal lily require deeper planting from 6 to twelve inches deep is right for these. In sandy soil twelve inches is best, in clay soil ten inches.

The choice of garden lilies ranges from the tiny, fern like big mid-century hybrids down to the low growing anemones. The anemones are half hardy in Ontario and with a light loose mulch will come through most winters. St. Brigid is perhaps the best known, but there are several other strains of equal beauty and these provide a good variety.

You will also find listed Amaryllis in the fall catalogues. These are strictly for pot culture, too tender for our winter climate. But this is the time to buy them for winter bloom. One strain, The Herald, can be forced into bloom by Christmas. Colors range from pure white to deepest red, with many shades between.

Lillies are a genus of showy and hardy bulbous plants not often teen in gardens. One type introduced from Iran grows to a height of two and a half feet with a dense number of lilac flowers. They come each on separate stems these a good addition to the July flower parade.

Lilies are heavy feeders and root deeply. They like a mulch of well rotted manure, or spagnum moss, or leaf mold. Renew the mulch through the year as it becomes absorbed into the soil. This will discourage weeds and make cultivation unnecessary. Hoeing might damage the roots which are close to the soil surface.

HOFFA VICTOR IN TEAMSTERS' VOTING

Happy James Hoffa waves to acknowledge the cheers of the convention at Miami Beach, Fla., following his election to the presidency of the giant International Brotherhood of Teamsters. The 44-year-old target of labor scandal, who was elected chief officer of the 1,500,000 members by a margin of nearly three to one over his opponents, pledged to turn the organization into a "model of trade unionism." But before that happens the union will have to survive the almost certain ouster from the AFL-CIO, which found Hoffa corrupt and unfit to remain in organized labor, a renewed investigation by the U.S. Senate rackets investigating committee and a court attempt to throw Hoffa out of office.

MURDOCHVILLE 9-MONTH STRIKE ENDS SUDDENLY

Strikers Not Likely To Get Jobs Back

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) After seven months of bitterness and strife, 1,200 of mine workers at the Gaspe Copper Mines Ltd., here came to a sudden end during the weekend.

About 300 workers, members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) voted Saturday to end their walkout and return to work. But the company — which fired them all last August—said the men would not be given back their work like new employees, and held little hope that all would be hired.

The mine officials gave the strikers a back-to-work ultimatum more than two months ago, and then started to hire outside workers to keep the copper smelter. Since then 800 men, including new immigrants to Canada, have joined the company and limited production has been stepped up. Dr. Herve Beruhe, assistant general manager of the mine, said today the present employees will be dismissed to make room for returning strikers. He indicated that only 300 men were needed now to reach the mine's full complement of 1,000 workers.

UNION VIEW

But Roger Bedard, USWA official who has directed the strike since it started March 5, said he expected 300 strikers would be able to get their jobs back.

"The others will try to find work elsewhere," he said.

Returning strikers will be rehired "only as fast as we can absorb them," Mr. Beruhe said.

"It's hard to say how long that might be," he said, "perhaps as long as six months."

"We have no blanket policy for them," he said. "Each case will be decided on its merits."

While members try to find employment, officers of the steelworkers union will continue to provide financial help. Some 45 strikers remain in the area—the rest had either rejoined the company or had moved outside Murdochville.

Violence marked the strike. Three times, dynamite blasts echoed over the Gaspe countryside. Company and union fierce fistfights, died after one explosion.

When Premier Jean Lesage's Labor leaders marched on Murdochville in support of the Steelworkers, Duplessis' Provincial Picketers and company employees battled them. Police had to use gas to break up the dispute. Then non-striking workers raided the union hall, wrecked it, smashing strikers' automobiles in the streets at the same time.

Archbishop Renison, Legend Of North, Dies in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Most Rev. Robert J. Renison, retired Anglican Archbishop of Moosonee and Metropolitan of Ontario, died Sunday in a clinic here after his most colorful chapters in the story of the Church in the Canadian North.

The prelate, who retired Sept. 8, 1954, was 81 and a veteran of 51 years in the service of the Church, most of it in the Ontario Northland. He was born in Tipperary, Ireland.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. from St. Paul's Anglican Church in Toronto.

Rev. Robert Renison brought his family to Canada from Ireland in 1883 and went to work in the rugged Northern Ontario diocese of Algoma as a missionary. His son, Robert, Jr., developed admiration for the Ojibway Indians and resolved that one day he also would work among them as a missionary.

He began studying at Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ont., the University of Toronto and Wycliffe College in Toronto but midway along, decided his future should be relieved of some of the burden of growing sons.

He hired on as a transatlantic cattle boat, drew $50 pay and worked his way to the U.K. in three days of the voyage. He landed at Glasgow, went to London and joined the Royal Inniskillin Fusiliers under the name of Fletcher. He served through the war for 18 months before his father bought him out of the service for £21.

He returned to Canada and was ordained in 1909. The following years were spent among the Ojibway and Cree Indians of the Hudson Bay area. He learned the dialogues during which he learned the native language, and translated hymns from the English.

"I paddled down every Ontario river emptying into Hudson Bay," he said later, "The Albany, the Moose, the Abitibi and the Harpethouse, and I walked in wintertime on snowshoes. . . Back in 1908 I went to the Peace River mining and Northern Ontario Railway (now the Ontario Northland) up from North Bay to Cochrane, I walked south on the snowshoes trail."

In 1927, he was appointed rector of Christ Church in Vancouver. Dean of New Westminster in 1929, and, in 1931, Bishop of Athabasca in the Peace River country. In 1932, he began an 11-year stay at Toronto's St. Paul's parish.

The Church honored him in 1943 with the appointment as Bishop of Moosonee, a 350,000-square-mile diocese. He travelled 5,000 miles a year by plane, train, birch-bark canoe, dog team and snowshoes to minister to 105,000 scattered northerners.

The Indians came to know him as "Shegoos"—"The Good Medicine which comes once a year." Robert Renison Jr. came south in 1912 and served as rector of Church of the Ascension in Hamilton for 15 years with time out for First World War chaplain service overseas. He later became Archdeacon of Hamilton.

He revitalized the North in 1916 to recruit Indian trackers for a forestry unit (they were rejected on grounds of flat feet) and went overseas as chaplain to the 21st Battalion, a Kingston unit. He was chaplain of the 4th Infantry Brigade in France and Belgium.

He was awarded the King's Jubilee Medal in 1935. He was a freemason (Scottish Rite). Along with his devotion of fishing, hunting and golf, he found time to write three books, numerous essays and articles and a weekly column for the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Archbishop Renison married Beatrice Maud Bland of Hamilton in 1914. They had two sons, Robert and George.

He received Metropolitan in May, 1952, succeeding Most Rev. Isaac Stone of Rupert's Land.

As archbishop designate he was asked whether he planned to retire to the "soft" life south in the North.

"As much as I can," he replied. "I shall return first to my home in Schumacher. It will be a long time before I am called up there. I would like to get together all my notes and observations from the past.

"There is little enough literature about the people of the North, their legends and their habits. Northern Ontario is the best part of Canada and one that science will come day turn into a veritable industrial heartland."

Much of his affection for the north of the Northland has been written into his autobiography, which he compiled in book form under the title One Day at a Time.

"I remember to me as this meant so much to me as this Northland," he said in farewell to the Anglican priests of his diocese and their wives.

"I realize that for me this is the end of the trail. But I know that I shall be called to do and will do things that I have done. It has been a rough trail, but a very happy one."

POLICE BATTLE RIOTERS FOR FOURTH NIGHT

Polish Students Hurl Rocks, Scatter eby Gas

WARSAW (AP) — Polish students demanding more demands for more freedom today but seemed to be backing away from street fighting which has shaken Warsaw for four straight nights.

Carbine - carrying police went into action again Sunday night against crowds at a busy crossroad by the Soviet-built Palace of Culture.

The demonstrators hurled stones at passing police cars but were scattered by tear gas bombs and clubs.

The brief outburst followed three nights of similar trouble during which 130 persons were arrested, according to a government announcement.

Students of the Warsaw Polytechnic School touched off the first disorders Thursday night and fought again Friday night when police moved in.

But most of the students stayed away from the riots of the last three nights. Observers said they saw a least 20 civilians beaten up by police Sunday night.

Notes of moderation were sounded by a student committee head by Bohdan Cywinski, physicist, the Roman Catholic primate and the Communist detention of a year ago when the Soviet grip on Poland was loosened.

The committee urged the students to stay away from trouble and not to be identified with rioters.

Cardinal Wyszynski made his appeal in St. Anne's, the students' traditional church, while services occurred a short distance away.

"I well understand your fight for freedom of speech and thought," he said, "but respect what you have, do not destroy, remember that our country is in a difficult situation. By working hard you will build a better future."

Russians Plan More Satellites, One Around Moon

Western Scientists Hoping Reds Will Share Secrets

MOSCOW (AP) — As Russia's earth satellite zipped toward its 40th circuit of the globe today, Pravda predicted the Soviet scientific success will force the United States to revamp some of its foreign policies.

Already, the Soviet Communist party newspaper said, some U.S. statesmen "are showing signs of hysteria."

In a dispatch from New York, Pravda said the success of the satellite puts before U.S. leaders "the inexorable necessity of peaceful coexistence, cessation of the arms race and renunciation of their cold war policy."

It said U.S. newspapers are showing reluctant but substantial recognition that "in numerous spheres of scientific research the Soviet Union is often equal and sometimes superior to the U.S."

FUNCTIONING PERFECTLY

Pravda's Monday edition carried a prominent column of reports and comments from abroad on the flight of the first earth satellite. It reported with pride that the satellite sped from New York to Moscow in special broadcasts early today. It said the satellite is functioning perfectly.

Moscow was jubilant over the scientific success. But it came as no surprise to the Soviet masses.

The Russian people believe Soviet science leads the world.

Only one Soviet newspaper and radio accounts of the first man-made moon circling the earth, the Soviet government newspaper, Izvestia, and several leading scientists announced the next targets in the satellite program.

Soon, they said, will come bigger satellites than the 184-pound globe now circling.

In time—the Russians didn't say when—a satellite will be sent up which will be brought back to earth intact and will not burn up when it re-enters denser atmosphere, as the one launched Friday will.

AROUND THE MOON!

And then, the statements added the Russians will dispatch a satellite that will go around the moon before returning to the earth.

Presumably Soviet scientists already are hard at work on these targets, quite apart from most complete secrecy, as they worked on the 184-pounder.

Only scant advance information was given out on the first baby moon. There were no details of drawings or public showing of models, no lengthy progress reports and no discussion of failures or setbacks.

Every Moscow newspaper now is printing columns of comment from all over the world on the satellite, but there was little ballyhoo in the cities of the world.

Canadians Scan Sky for Satellite But No Confirmed Sightings Listed

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians hopefully scanned the skies for satellites Sunday and enthusiastically reported sighting various objects — mostly odd substance, round objects, stars and a flying saucer.

But as Russia's two-foot space satellite whizzed monotonously through the heavens Monday there were no confirmed sightings by scientific bodies anywhere in the nation.

Radiomonitoring was a different proposition. There were scores of reports from ham operators whose ear had been picked up the intermittent "beep" of the baby moon's transmitter. Most of the reports put the bit at 18,000 miles an hour at a height of 200 miles.

Capt. Roger Desgagnes, 30-year-old skipper of a St. Lawrence River ferry, reported the round object high in the air" off Sorel, Que., and said he was sure it was "the Russian satellite."

Desgagnes said the object was visible with the naked eye. He and his brother gazed at it through binoculars but it disappeared within nine minutes "as it entered a cloud formation."

Dr. Peter Millett, Burke-Dalhousie, mathematician and astronomer at St. Mary's University, Halifax, noted Moscow radio said the sphere was supposed to pass over the port Saturday but said nothing was glimpsed through specially-mounted telescopes.

Earl McCutcheon, manager of radio station CHSJ, Saint John, said he caught sight Saturday night of an "orange-pink substance about the size of a fist." Sparks trailed behind it, he said, but the image remained only about a second.

Garnett Wafer, a ham radio operator at Bathurst, N.B., said he sighted "a streak in the sky that didn't quite look like a shooting star." Fellow Ham Hugh McCrea said he, too, echoed the "beep" twice Sunday night.

Charles Hedley of Halifax said he saw a "bright object" streak across toward the western horizon Saturday night. He said: "It was just a flash, nothing more."

Muriel Low, a housewife standing at the door of her home, saw a bright spherical ball about 10 minutes to 11." Others nearby said they saw nothing.

Earlier, Dr. C. S. Beals, Dominion astronomer, said no Canadian observatory had reported sighting the elusive satellite. The Dominion reported Saturday it should be visible with binoculars in the rays of the rising or setting sun.

Annette Dionne Plans to Wed University Student Friday

NORTH BAY (CP) — Oliva Dionne, father of the famous quintuplets, said today Annette plans to marry a university student in a public ceremony at Montreal Friday. She would become the first of the famous girls to marry.

Mr. Dionne said he knew nothing of the wedding plans until Annette and 22-year-old Germain Allard paid a surprise visit Sunday to the family home at nearby Callander.

He said he and his wife have recently been sick with influenza and because of this, plus the short notice, they have decided not to go to Montreal for Friday's ceremony.

Neither he nor his wife had any previous indication 23 - year - old Annette was ready to marry, Mr. Dionne said in an interview.

Another of the four surviving quints, Cecile, announced earlier that she will marry Phillipe Langlois, 26-year-old CBC technician, in Montreal late in November.

TO GRADUATE IN JUNE

Mr. Dionne said Annette's fiance is a friend of two girls who attended school with the quints at a private school in the city of Montreal and is scheduled to graduate next June. He told the press Father he already has a job lined up.

Annette left her home in 1950 to attend school with her sisters at Nicolet, Que. She took music and domestic science and is described by friends as an accomplished pianist.

In recent months Annette lived with Marie in a Montreal apartment. Another of Yvonne, the other quints, recently graduated from a Montreal hospital as nurses.

U.S. Outstrips Competitors in Selling Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is far out in front of its major competitors in selling wheat around the world, International Wheat Agreement (IWA) statistics show.

This was reported by the International Wheat Council as the top-ranking Canadian officials came here to discuss trade policies with members of the U.S. cabinet.

Canadian officials have charged that U.S. policies provided unfair competition and that as a consequence of them, Canadian wheat is moving into markets traditionally served by Canada.

The council said that since August 1, the U.S. has sold for export 37,000,000 bushels of wheat under the agreement, or about 29 per cent of its quota of 123,000,000 bushels for the full year.

Canada has sold only 18,000,000 bushels or 18 per cent of her 100,000,000 bushel quota. Australia has sold only a nominal amount from her quota of 68,000,000 bushels.

American officials say this country is merely seeking its share of world markets.

U.S. and Canada Plan Prince Albert Radar Reseach Into ICBM Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—A large radar research installation is planned for the Prince Albert area of Northern Saskatchewan as "a major" joint project of Canada and the United States, Defence Research Board announced today.

The installation, seven miles west of Prince Albert, would engage in investigation into "research problems concerning the ballistic missile defence of North America."

Russia announced last month the successful testing of an intercontinental ballistic missile, but Western observers have said they believe it to be a prototype only and several years removed from an operational-type missile.

An ICBM, travelling at 15,000 miles an hour and 600 miles above the earth, could explode over a North American target area within 15 to 20 minutes of being launched in the Soviet Union.

The continent's present anti-invasion defences are geared to attack by conventional aircraft and their radar warning networks would be expected to give a few minutes more than to three hours' warning.

One problem facing defence research scientists is to devise radar warning sufficiently delicate to detect an ICBM as soon as it is launched. Such radar would have to have a range of 2,000 miles, against a present range of 300 miles.

A DRB spokesman said the Prince Albert station will be the scientific study of the various factors that influence radar operation in the auroral zone, the electrically disturbed region entering the auroral zone.

The movements of ions or northern lights, go with some forms of radio disturbances and if means that radar signals reduce their effects upon detection the defence problem would be closer to a solution.

The Canadian scientists are to work in collaboration with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Lincoln Laboratory, whose staff will represent the United States Air Force, the DRB announcement said.

Canada and U.S. Commence New Round of Trade Talks

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States today open a fresh round of talks aimed at removing some of the irritants which disturb the economic relationships between the two countries.

Cabinet representatives of the two governments, meeting at the state department, will deal largely with Canada's persistent complaint that U.S. trade policies have depressed prices for Canadian surpluses of wheat and other farm products, are undermining Canadian agriculture.

The Canadian delegation is headed by Sidney Smith, Canada's newly - appointed external affairs minister, and includes Finance Minister Donald Fleming, Trade Minister Gordon Churchill and Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness.

On the American side is a four-man cabinet delegation headed by State Secretary Dulles and including Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks and Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

The eight meet as members of the revitalized Joint Canada-U.S. committee on trade and economic affairs, an inter - governmental group created in 1953 to look into common trade problems but allowed to languish after only two meetings. It was revitalized last met at Ottawa in September, 1955.

The committee now takes on fresh importance because of Canada's decision to seek closer Commonwealth. Progressive Conservative government leader and Minister John Diefenbaker's current drive to right the towering $1,700,000,000 deficit Canada suffers in her commercial dealings with the United States.

The talks, which run two days, give the American cabinet representatives their first face-to-face meeting with the members of the Canadian government since their first chance to sound the Canadians out on what steps they feel should be taken to solve the Man in Moon Sends Message, 'Beware Bear'

MONTREAL (CP) — George Good, Montreal ham radio operator, suspects a practical joker is behind the "beep" of Russian satellite's broadcast frequency.

He said he picked up the satellite's radio signal early today. "But a little later on the same frequency a message in Morse code came through."

"Decoded, the message read: 'This is the man in the moon. Better watch out or the big black bear will get you."

economic problems.

American interest is aroused, too, by the fact the Canadians have broken from the Soviet bloc plant. Que. conference where Commonwealth prime ministers spoke in Canada's proposal for a full-dress Commonwealth trade conference next year. Ottawa hopes he would like to see Canada direct 15 per cent of her trade to the U.S. to the United Kingdom.

Canadians are expected, among other things, to bring up the efforts made to increase sales of the last session of the United States Congress to impose restrictions on imports of Canadian lead and zinc.

TO HONOR PRINCIPAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Will Allan Archibald Mackintosh, vice-chancellor and principal of Queen's University, Kingston will give the address at the University of British Columbia's Oct. 25 fall convocation. He will also receive honorary degree of LL.D. degree, as one of six distinguished Canadians to be so honored.

U.S. and Russia Both Explode More A-Bombs

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia exploded a new hydrogen bomb warhead of new construction" Sunday, the Soviet news agency announced today.

The news agency Tass said the test was successful.

The warhead was exploded "at a great altitude" to protect the population and the persons taking part in the test.

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission fired the 24th and last explosion of the 1957 test series today.

The shot was detonated from a balloon floating 500 feet above the Yucca Flat test area. The AEC said the energy yield was below nominal, or less than the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

O'Keefe Company Presents Trophy

Recognition for individual play in the Canadian Legion cribbage tournament held during the past season was accorded to Clarence Reed, sports officer of the local branch on Friday evening by O'Keefe's Brewery. O'Keefe's branch president; James Williamson, O'Keefe's representative, and Cecil Chapman, branch secretary.

Carleton Band of Ottawa Heads Sea Cadets Program

Headed by the 30-member Carleton Band from Ottawa, 210 Sea Cadets from Belleville, Picton, Kingston, Port Hope and Trenton, paraded through Belleville streets Sunday morning; attended church, Tabernacle United Church and St. Michael's and in the afternoon enjoyed a waterfront program.

The afternoon's program consisted of a concert by the famed Carleton Band of Ottawa, a sailboard races on the Bay of Quinte and tug-of-war.

In the morning the cadets formed up outside the cadet barracks on South Front Street, and marched to Tabernacle and St. Michael's churches.

Following the service at Tabernacle conducted by Rev. A. E. MacKenzie of Albert College, church parade proceeded along Front Street where the salute was taken by Commander R. Chance, commanding officer of HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston.

On the saluting stand were Major Angus Duffy of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Addison Lloyd, president of the Belleville Navy League, and J. MacDonald, commanding officer of the Quinte Sea Cadets.

DINNER IN HYGIENE

Following the church parade members of the Carleton Band had dinner provided by the Navy Veterans' Club at the Canadian Legion Hall, while the officers and other dignitaries had dinner in the officers' wardroom on the ship "Quinte." The Cadets had dinner on the main deck.

The Carleton Band, under the direction of Lt. Gerald Healey, staged a fine program on Victoria Park to get the afternoon proceedings under way. The program was held up a short time by public address system trouble but the many visitors agreed the wait was well worthwhile.

Display sailboard races were won by the Kingston crew, while the Belleville "Quinte" Corps topped the program in the tug-of-war. Cutter races had to be cancelled.

Best cadet on parade was Leading Seaman Boddison of Port Hope.

Drivers Cut As Cars Collide

The drivers of two autos were taken to Belleville General Hospital for emergency treatment Saturday afternoon when their vehicles collided in a crash on Canniff ton Road north of the city.

Provincial Police said that Ward Hall, R. R. 6 Belleville, and Maurice Austin, 44 Canniffon Road, were treated for cuts and then allowed to go home.

The accident occurred when one of the vehicles is said to have swung wide on the curve. Property damage was extensive.

Safe Containing Large Amount of Money Stolen

TRENTON (Special) — Mrs. Rita Hartman, owner-operator of the I.G.A. grocery and meat market of Dundas St., W., and Lorne Ave., returned home about 12.30 on Sunday to find a small and old, missing from an upstairs bedroom containing a considerable sum of money.

Investigators found that the robbers had entered through a window way on the second floor at the rear of the house and apparently left by-the same route.

The safe, police said, was carried from the bedroom to the porch on the second storey and dropped into the back yard below. The safe is believed to have contained more than $1,000 which Mrs. Hartman said she had there.

Police are still investigating.

She had been out for the evening after closing the store at 6 p.m. Saturday.

MOTORCYCLE DESTROYED

The buyer never bargained for this one — till he'd when he bought the motorcycle a few minutes earlier.

Danny Crosby, 19, who lives on Front St., Trenton, lost his newly acquired method of transportation shortly after lunch Saturday when it suddenly caught fire. It was almost a complete wreck when the last ember stopped smouldering.

He stood by, helpless, watching his dream of years go up in smoke.

Police Holding Man After Woman's Death

OTTAWA (CP)—Police today held a man in connection with the death of a 56-year-old divorcee who died in hospital of a possible fractured skull.

Police said the woman, Mrs. Alice Prud'homme, either jumped or was pushed from a moving automobile. The driver, identified only as an acquaintance of the woman, has not been charged.

Police Inspector J. A. Cavan said there is no question of murder. He added: "We want to find out, if possible, whether there was a scuffle before Mrs. Prud'homme left the car."

The woman was found wandering in a dazed condition early today by two motorists, Murray Gray and William Gillespie, on Baseline Road, southwest of the city.

She was taken to hospital, where doctors closed a deep cut on the back of her head. They found other marks on her body.

Insp. Cavan said police are awaiting the result of an autopsy.

Whitby Dunlops Beat Bulldogs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Whitby Dunlops picked up their first exhibition victory of the season Sunday when they defeated Windsor Bulldogs 7-4 in a senior hockey game before 1,302 fans.

Whitby had too much conditioning and speed for Bulldogs, who were likely to be the team to be behind one week of training. Dunlops have been working since Sept. 21.

Gail McAuley, 8, Fatally Injured on College Street

Renewed demands for the widening of College Street are expected to be made by residents of the Parkdale district following the death Saturday of eight-year-old Gail McAuley, who was fatally injured when struck by a car at the corner of College and Lemoine Street, when she was knocked down by her bicycle.

The little girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McAuley, 11 Lemoine Street, died en route to Belleville General Hospital.

The girl had been sent on an errand by her mother and was emerging onto College street from Lemoine when she was struck by a car driven by Miss Marilyn Elmy, 20 Dunbar St. The accident occurred within a few feet of a Parkdale community traffic sign urging motorists to drive slowly and watch out for children.

The accident happened on the north side of College Street, which is a boundary road between the city and the township of Ameliasburg.

Provincial Police Constable James McBride investigated.

USES AS SPEEDWAY

CLAIM

"People use College Street as a speedway," stated the father of the dead girl following the accident. "We have been trying to get the street widened for several years. We now hope they will get some action."

Another Parkdale resident said that residents of the community had been living in constant fear a young child would be killed along College Street. "It could have been anyone," he said.

"It's a miracle that it hasn't happened before."

Residents said they had made petition to both Thurlow county council and the city of Belleville to have the roadways widened. There is no sidewalk between Quinte Secondary School and Sidney Street, and before and after school time the road is packed with children.

Miss Elmy was driving one of two cars taking a part of Northern Electric workers to dinner at the Parkdale Hotel lunch counter when the accident occurred. Miss Elmy had just checked off work at 12 o'clock.

Miss Elmy's car was said to have been passing the other vehicle at the time of the accident.

Although the accident took place within a few yards of the McAuley home, Mrs. McAuley knew nothing about it until a neighbor woman came to the door.

"They told me a girl had been hit. I didn't know it was Gail until I got to the corner," she said.

Barbara Gail McAuley, who was in her 9th year, was born in Belleville and was a member of Holy Rosary Parish and attended Holy Rosary Separate School. She is survived by her parents, A. G. (Mike) McAuley, and his wife, the former Grace Prentice, and by a brother, Dennis. The family resides at 4 Lemoine Street.

The little girl's body rested at the George F. O'Brien Funeral Home until Monday morning, when Requiem Mass was celebrated at Holy Rosary Church at 9 a.m., by Rev. Michael Simpson, who also said prayers at the graveside in St. James' Cemetery, where interment took place. Rev. J. J. Buckley read the committal at the sanctuary for the mass. There was a profusion of floral and spiritual offerings, and the funeral was very largely attended by surrounding friends and relatives. The bearers were six playmates of the deceased, James Maund, Richard Twining, Carson Stratton, Robert Michaud, Adrian Mullin and Gerald Mullin.

St. John Cadets Observe Day By Assisting Others

St. John Ambulance Cadets were out to do a good turn on Saturday as members of the local cadet division marked St. John Day by assisting at the theatres, at Belleville General Hospital, and by assisting people on the streets.

Elderly persons and others were helped with their parcels on street corners and helped to their stops and even babies were minded, giving parents the opportunity to do some shopping.

Local officials of the St. John Ambulance point out that their cadets are well trained in first aid, home nursing, child welfare, fire prevention and in the care of animals. They are also trained in knitting, sewing and in making handicrafts.

"Our Belleville Cadets are a fine example", stated Mrs. Harold Reid, local corps member. "They are on public duty at the Odeon Theatre all winter; they assist at summer camps and have a voluntary baby sitting service."

They also repair toys for the needy at Christmas; entertain at the Home for the Aged and each year at fair time they take care of lost children, baby sitting and minor first aid.

Their training is thorough and will serve to make them better citizens by teaching them how to help others.

By doing this they are exemplifying their motto: "For the Service of Mankind."

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Jeffrey wish to thank most sincerely their friends and neighbours who, by their kindness and floral tributes received during their recent bereavement, so greatly assisted them during Dr. Carleton for his services.

Obituary

MRS. JAMES LUFFMAN

TWEED — Shortly after suffering a stroke while visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jim Parks, in Marlbank, Mrs. Ida Luffman, wife of the late James Luffman, of Kisby, Sask., passed away in Kingston General Hospital, on September 29, at the age of 87.

A daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bonter, of Tweed, she had lived in Tweed, where she was a housekeeper at the Rayburn home before her marriage in 1921 in Arcola, Sask. Following the death of her husband, she returned East to live with her brother and sister, Frank and Alice Parks, in Tamworth. Since their death she has lived with her brother and W. Frost in Napanee.

Surviving are two stepsons, Harry and Earl Luffman, Kisby, Sask; two nieces, Mrs. Horace Whittle, Kingston, and Mrs. Bessil VanDusen, Marlbank; three nephews, Clifford Parks, Kingston, Garry and Harold Thompson, Shannonville; also her sister-in-law, Miss Ruby Bonter, and a brother-in-law, J. J. Luffman, Tweed.

The funeral took place on September 23rd from the Hannah Funeral Home, Tamworth, to Christ Church (Anglican) with Rev. W. Wrighton officiating. The bearers were Messrs Figley Bell, M. Ware, Charles Jamieson, Edward Glenwood, C. I. Wager and Stanley Haggerty.

RAY E. (SPARKY) HILTON

The funeral of Ray Ernest (Sparky) Hilton was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Highland Avenue, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 5, at 2 p.m. and conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were: Charles Wagner, Clarence Little, Charles Cook, Earl Cousins, Herbert Benn and Jack Grain.

MRS. SADIE DEAN DELYEA

MADOC — The funeral of Mrs. Sadie (Sarah) Dean Delyea, lifelong resident of the Madoc district was held on Sunday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Grace Tumelty, R.R. 1 Madoc. Rev. W. Glover officiated, assisted by Rev. J. F. Lane. The funeral was largely attended and there were many very beautiful floral tributes, testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment took place in Lakeview cemetery.

The bearers were Will Glover, George Glover, John Thompson, Earl Saper, Clayton McMurray and Russell Lewis.

Traffic Mishaps Claim 26 Lives During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thirty-five Canadians died in weekend mishaps, 26 of them in highway crack-ups.

A Canadian Press survey of the period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed four deaths by fire, two drownings, an electrocution in Quebec, the death of a Cornwall district child from a cow's kick and the death in a bathtub at Sudbury of a man thought to have been overcome by the fumes of a cleaning agent.

Ontario led the grisly list with 21 fatalities—16 on the highways including three multiple - death pileups; three by fire, a drowning and two others.

Eight persons died in Quebec, seven in highway accidents and the eighth in the electrocution. There were single traffic deaths in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia. Alberta had one fire death and one person drowned in British Columbia.

Ontario deaths:

Lawrence Bernard, 59, and his wife, Margaret, 34, were apparently suffocated by fumes from a smouldering fire in the living-room of their new Wallaceburg home. Firemen found the bodies early Saturday.

Gail McAuley, 3, died when her bicycle collided near her Belleville home Saturday, with a car driven by Hartley Bell of Belleville. The accident occurred a few yards from Gail's home where a picnic on the lawn asks motorists to watch out for children.

Gail was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. G. McAuley.

Tobacco Farmer Charles P. Smith, 51, and his wife Louise, 42, of the Straiton district were killed Sunday 20 miles east of St. Thomas when their car crashed into a bridge wall.

THREE KILLED

Morris Olchowsky, 38, of Fort William; Roland Boulin, 35, and Michael Gerald Fikes, 36, both of Geraldton, Ont., died on a high-way 15 miles northeast of Port Arthur Sunday when their car collided with a truck.

John Weber, 40, and Alfred Astill, 42, of the Lake Simcoe district were killed Saturday night when a car went out of control on Highway 11 near Barrie and overturned.

An unidentified man was killed by a car early Saturday as he walked along the highway near the northern mining community of Elliot Lake.

George Portice, 67, of the Park hill district was fatally injured Sunday when a freight train smashed into his automobile in a level crossing near Strathroy.

CAR OVERTURNS

Hubert Langman, 50, of Hamilton died early Sunday after his car missed a curve, overturned and hit a hydro pole near Brantford. Lanigan was trapped in the car for about an hour before being freed by firemen. Lanigan's car skidded over 100 feet before coming to rest on its side against the pole.

Cyril Warrington, 19, a Smiths Falls store clerk, died in an Ottawa hospital Sunday a few hours after a car went out of control in Smiths Falls, 50 miles southwest of Ottawa. Another man was seriously hurt in the accident, in which the car knocked over nine power poles, sideswiped two trees and rammed into a third.

Mrs. Lilie Jane McCabe, 66, was killed when her automobile hit a bridge abutment Saturday eight miles east of Dresden.

Lawrence Adams, blind treaty Indian of about 40, was drowned near Fort Frances Sunday when he apparently walked into a creek.

DIES OF INJURIES

Edward Aubin, 84, hit by a truck Friday night near his Ayr-ner, Ont., home, died of injuries in an Ottawa hospital Sunday.

Samuel Snelgrove, 58, apparently overcome by the fumes of a cleaning agent, was drowned in the bathtub of his Sudbury home Saturday.

Charles Murphy, 75, was killed

Egyptians Have Plenty of Water But Can't Use It

CAIRO (AP)—Egyptian peasant Ahmed Mahmoud is content by itself that water pump in front of his mud hut.

As Ahmed understands it, the American aid project pump means so he could have clean drinking water and now they will not let him use it.

Through an economic aid program, the United States government spent $7,000,000 for a drinking water system for the Nile delta. For the first time in history the peasants were drinking clean water.

Now some of the pumps won't work. The peasants can't get lubricating oil. The United States has cut exports of lubricating oil to Egypt to the amount imported during the last quarter of 1956.

The cutback is all out of spite is part of the American economic pressure on Egypt. Some Americans call it a policy of "calculated indifference" and that it will be continued until President Nasser becomes more co-operative. Egyptians call it the "big squeeze."

Here are other items in the "big squeeze."

The United States has frozen Egypt's dollar assets, amounting to around $30,000,000.

The $40,000,000 economic aid program has been suspended at the $30,000,000 level. Egyptians are conscious only of the suspension, not of the benefits already received.

American officials suggest Egypt should tone down anti-American propaganda and frankly co-operate to counter the Communist threat to the Middle East.

The Egyptians see the big squeeze as deliberate American hostility to Egyptian nationalism. They insist that America should be friendly without placing conditions on its friendship.

Moscow radio has quoted some details of the mechanism from rocket and jet experts.

MORE POWERFUL

Maj.-Gen. G. Pokrovsky, a jet expert, said the rocket which took the satellite some 560 miles into the sky was 25 per cent more powerful than the rocket which carried the Soviet Union's first intercontinental ballistic missile 5,500 to 5,000 miles on its successful test last summer.

Otherwise most of the performance figures on the satellite are still a deep secret.

Many foreigners in Moscow cannot understand why the Communist bosses did not delay the launching until closer to the 40th anniversary of the Red revolution, on Nov. 7. These observers wonder if something even more spectacular than the satellite or the ICBM is waiting in the wings for unveiling then.

Geo. S. Hatton Named New Chief Of Civil Defence

OTTAWA (CP) — George S. Hatton, 58, Canadian-born retired British Army major-general, is to be Canada's next federal co-ordinator of civil defence, reliable sources said today. He would succeed Lieut.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, who retired Sept. 17 at 68.

Mr. Hatton, deputy federal coordinator since January, 1955, is a native of Peterborough, Ont., joined the British army on graduation in 1917 from Canada's Royal Military College at Kingston.

He returned last week from a two-month tour of European civil defence organizations, ranging from Sweden to Belgium and the United Kingdom.

He was to see Defence Minister Monteith, the minister responsible for civil defence, later today.

SALARY INCREASE

Sources said Mr. Hatton, running the co-ordinator's office in Ottawa temporarily, will continue to do so until the cabinet is ready to announce his permanent appointment. The post carries a $11,000 salary, against the $9,500 Mr. Hatton now receives.

Lois McDonell, 4, died Friday night on her parents' farm near Cornwall as she was struck by a car when she was kicked by a cow.

CAR HITS TREE

Andrew Lepage, 20, was killed early Saturday near Sault Ste. Marie when the car he was riding in crashed into a tree beside the highway.

Mary Duke, a 59-year-old nurse due to retire in nine days died Sunday when fire swept through her second-floor Toronto bedroom.

Fire Destroys Greater Part of Business Section

ST. JOACHIM, Ont. (CP)—Fire destroyed the greater part of this town's business section Sunday as it swept uncontrolled for more than three hours through the Raymond Forbes general store.

The blaze, which levelled the two-storey frame building and one storey of an adjoining frame home, destroyed the post office, hardware and paint department, grocery shop and $25,000 worth of stock in the general store. Estimates of damage ranged from $75,000 to $100,000.

Fire departments from Belle River, Comber and Tilbury fought the blaze.

St. Joachim is 25 miles east of Windsor.

Abandon Search For Lost Man

PETER BOROUGH (CP)—Searchers have abandoned their hunt for Charles Hopkins, 32, of Toronto, who disappeared on a hunting trip last week in the Bobcaygeon area.

Jess Bradshaw Ontario lands and forests officer, said relatives became discouraged at the inability to find a trace of the hunter and asked that the search be called off. Mr. Bradshaw found Hopkins' car on a road near Silver Lake, 15 miles north of Bobcaygeon.

Think Satellite Weight Tenth Of 184 Pounds

LONDON (CP) British scientists speculated today that Russia's baby moon weighs only about 18.4 pounds, not 184 pounds as first announced from Moscow. The scientists think a decimal point was misplaced.

The announcement from Moscow Friday gave the weight of the satellite as 83.6 kilograms, which is 184.304 pounds.

It was this weight that astonished Western scientists who computed it would take a rocket of 100 tons or more to put 180,000 pounds to put such a satellite into the sky.

The Daily Telegraph and The News Chronicle both reported that some British amateur radio operators later overhead Moscow broadcasts giving the weight of the moon as only about 15 pounds.

"That sounds like a much more reasonable figure," was the comment of Prof. A. C. B. Lovell, who helps operate the world's biggest radio telescope at Jodrell Bank, near Manchester.

The proposed U. S. baby moon is figured at about 22 pounds.

LONDON (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill will receive the freedom of Margate, Kent, at his London home in November.

International Space Missile Control Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The West today readied a United Nations disarmament resolution calling for international control of outer-space missiles while a Soviet satellite circled the earth.

United States sources said they thought Russia's launching of the world's first man-made moon would deeply affect "the whole feeling about the urgency of the disarmament negotiations."

They said about 20 countries will submit the resolution Tuesday for debate in the General Assembly's political committee.

Diplomats said the resolution would have the 82-nation assembly call for resumption of negotiations in the UN disarmament subcommittee.

The proposal on outer-space missiles is that within three months after a disarmament pact takes effect, a technical committee should be set up to work out an inspection system to see that such missiles are devoted "exclusively to peaceful and scientific purposes."

IN STRAIGHT GAMES

SARNIA (CP)—Corunna Giants defeated Chatham Panthers twice during the weekend to take the best-of-three series for the Ontario Baseball Association Intermediate B title. They won 9-1 and 4-3 in straight games. Giants won 8-1 at Chatham Saturday and 9-5 at home Sunday.

Missing Black Swan Killed, Man Left Rifle

PORT DOVER, Ont. (CP) — A black swan which flew from a Stratford River park in August was killed Sunday on Lake Erie near miles east of here Port Dover is 25 miles south of Brantford.

Game warden J. W. Allen said today a search has begun for the man who left a .303 army rifle near the scene.

Vincent Hildred of nearby Crescent Bay spotted the swan with a flock of ducks near the Lake Erie shore Sunday. He called Mr. Allen who reported to Stratford parks superintendent G. L. Mavity.

Mr. Hildred was asked to attempt to lure the swan into an enclosure with food. He said he was working on a plan to do this when he heard a shot from the shore and ran out to discover the bird dead. He saw a man running away.

Mr. Hildred said the game warden started a search for the man and found a rifle partly buried.

"I'd like to get my hands on the fellow," the game warden said. "Some people will kill for the love of killing — this was no accident."

A week ago Stratford's parks board offered a $125 reward for the live return of the bird, one of a pair valued at $400. The dead swan was discovered by Mr. Hildred and will probably be returned to Stratford.

DIEFENBAKER SHOWS FINE RESTRAINT

"Canada and the United Kingdom have agreed that an expansion of trade between them is a primary policy of both their governments." That, in the view of The Canadian Press, summed up the most important point made in a joint communique issued following conferences between Peter Thorneycroft and Sir David Eccles of the United Kingdom and Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his colleagues and advisors.

Any Canadian who had been away on a holiday in the northland, beyond the reach of newspapers and radio, and who returned to read this announcement would have been justified in greeting it with a snort of derision. The expansion of trade between the United Kingdom and Canada has, we suspect, been a primary policy of the governments of both countries for many a year, but they have been hard put to discover by what means by which this policy could be implemented.

Yet events at the meeting of Commonwealth finance ministers at Mont Tremblant, preceding the Ottawa conference, made the joint communique and the apparent good feeling between those who drafted it, truly newsworthy.

For the truth of the matter is that, in the opinion of most observers, the United Kingdom's chancellor of the exchequer, Peter Thornecycroft, had acted at Mont Tremblant in a manner which, to be charitable, was unwise and which, lacking a charitable outlook, one might even denounce as an exhibition of cheap politics at Prime Minister Diefenbaker's expense.

The headline-grabbing announcement that Britain was prepared to discuss a free trade union with Canada placed Mr. Diefenbaker in an embarrassing position. Following his earlier announcement that he would like to divert 15 per cent of Canada's import trade from the United States to the United Kingdom, Mr. Diefenbaker could hardly ignore the offer, or reject it out of hand without being accused by the unthinking, or those interested only in harassing the government, of having acted in bad faith in his original offer. Yet the vast majority of Canadians realize that no Canadian government, regardless of party, could entertain any proposal that tariffs be abolished and British manufactured goods admitted free to Canada. The fact that the Conservative party is traditionally the party of protection has nothing whatever to do with the situation, except to heighten the possibility of some opponent endeavoring to make political capital out of it.

At the worst, Mr. Thorneycroft may have been endeavoring to pay Mr. Diefenbaker back in kind, for raising the issue of Commonwealth trade at a time when Britain was committing itself to a scheme for a common market in Western Europe. But Mr. Diefenbaker did not deserve such treatment. It may be that events will show his objective of diverting 15 per cent of Canadian import trade to Britain unwise or even impossible, but there is no doubt that he was sincere in announcing his desire to accomplish such a diversion.

The Ottawa Journal appears to take the most lenient view possible in contending that Mr. Thorneycroft did not make an offer but merely a casual suggestion. This defence, though seems rejected by developments. In any event, The Journal says that the U.K. chancellor of the exchequer "would have done a better service for Commonwealth trade and also for Canada - - assuming he has such ideas - - to the Canadian Government at the right time in the right way in the right place."

The general consensus would indicate that Mr. Thorneycroft may have spoken to government officials of free trade intentions before his "casual suggestion" at a press conference, and a report from London suggests that this was done. "British spokesmen say the offer was discussed in general terms as early as September 19," says a Canadian Press dispatch. If Thorneycroft spoke of his offer to government officials, "then it must be said that the Canadian Government slipped seriously in not dissauding him from any such idea, in not making clear to him that such a plan would have no chance of success, that the suggestion could contribute nothing to furtherance of Commonwealth trade," says the Journal. The Montreal Gazette, though, will find it extremely difficult to believe that if forewarned of the free trade suggestion, Canadian officials would not have discouraged it. To have the suggestion advanced in spite of such discouragement would force one to accept the interpretation placed on the proposal by Arthur Blakney, the well-informed Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Gazette, who viewed it as a bet in a poker game in which cards are being played very close to the chest.

If this cut-throat poker game has broken up with the participants still good friends, most of the credit, we think, must go to Mr. Diefenbaker and his colleagues, who must have amazed many political observers by concealing, at least from the public, that annoyance which many of them must have felt.

It is worthy of note that the joint communique issued following the Ottawa talks stated that in view "of the long-term nature of the proposal," the British representatives "did not ask the Canadian ministers for an expression of their views" on the free trade plan. Wiser counsel seems to have prevailed - - but credit for the fact that the situation developed in a manner which made this wiser course possible must be given chiefly to the self-restraint exercised by the Canadian ministers.

Visit to Czechoslovakia

Orenda

Spend three days behind the Iron Curtain and you'll even think income tax is wonderful. That's the opinion of Pat Murphy, of Toronto's Orenda Engines, who spent part of his vacation in Prague, Chechoslovakia, on a personal business matter.

"Only after a visit to a country like that can you really appreciate Canada," said Mr. Murphy.

"My main impression was that the Czechs were a depressed, unsmiling and subjected people," he said. "To a Canadian, such an existence would be intolerable.

"There was no trouble about getting a visa," he stated, "but I had to pay for my trip and hotel accommodation before I received it. Coupons are bought rather than a pay-as-you-go plan, and they have to be used up before you get out of the country. There are no refunds."

Pat spent most of what was reputedly the best hotel in Prague, but added that it couldn't hold a candle to any of the good Canadian hotels.

He found that the city had excellent trolley buses much larger than the Canadian vehicles, and was quite impressed with government buildings and churches — many of which are 500 years old. Pat also had a look at the ruins of a state-built for buildings and found them very modern and well-designed for practical purposes.

"One thing that had me scared at first and then finally amused me, was one type of elevator in the new building," said Pat. "There are no doors on them and they are continuous. They go up one side, across the top and down another side, so you want to get in or out, you have to be very quick because they don't stop."

There are a few movie houses that show some French and Russian movies, but they're not too heavily patronized, stated Pat. No Western magazines or newspapers are available for sale to the public. He said that many store fronts had merchandise displayed and advertised that couldn't be obtained.

When talking to a Czech official on a business matter, Pat noticed that another man sat in on the conversation. This happened three times, and Pat finally learned that a witness has to hear all conversation with visitors. He said all hotel rooms are wired for microphones, and found that the churches are all open, but attendance is discouraged by the state. Priests are made to do other jobs as well as their church duties.

"Chewing gum is a luxury there," he said. "Even the Department of Heavy Industry was planning to set up a big factory for the production of chewing gum. One way to get a smile in Prague is to offer someone gum."

Pat said there were two rates of exchange for Czechoslovakia. One for the tourists and another for the people. The official rate for the dollar is seven crowns. However, for tourists, the rate is 20 crowns per dollar, but since the visitor must use up all his coupons and money in the country, there isn't too much difference to the state.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SO USE IT

There is a church in England which, during the World War II, was a dark, unattractive place. It faced on a narrow little street. In the chancel was a beautiful altar, but the chancel itself was a dark and forbidding place.

Then the German came across one night in their bombers, and the church was left in ruins. The altar was not seriously damaged, however. The congregation, which had formerly gathered themselves to the church for some decades or more, seemed to be inspired with new life. They decided to build a new church, and they further arranged to do a quite unusual and beautiful thing. The chancel of the old church, looked out over beautiful country which ended in a lovely harbor full of ships. The people decided that in the new church, the chancel would have a window behind the altar — not a stained glass window — but one through which the people in the new church could look across the altar and out into the country and down across the harbor.

It was a beautiful and symbolic gesture that hereafter the religious life of this congregation would be definitely tied up to life. The inspiration of the chancel would go out to life, and life would come to the chancel and the hard work which men and women do in the field — God's altar sanctifying all.

Religion is only useful and genuine if we use it.

GET ON BASE

If I were a baseball player all my youth, I'd study the art of batting in learning how to get on base. It's the base runner who thrills the crowds, not the batter, even to "die on third"! There is so much to be learned about the science of players of a baseball game. They are intelligible and valuable objects in small boy makes no mistake in taking many a one as an idol.

Years ago, I witnessed a baseball game with the bases full and two men out. Ted Williams batted. What happened A home run, releasing three base runners, and the batter himself, rewarded with a "grand slam home run"! How inspiring to helpless fans those three other players on bases. There is a lesson here for every boy. Get on a base so that when the opportunity comes we can try for that grand slam home run.

Saddest Statistic

Ottawa Journal

The saddest statistic of the day is the report that 1,500,000 people are living alone in the United Kingdom, some because they like it, others because they cannot avoid it. The National Council of Social Services says that loneliness in Britain is distressing and widespread and its alleviation is one of the great needs of the age.

Deadlier

Nine persons were killed and 1,200 injured critically hurt in a head-on automobile collision on a straight stretch of highway in Mississippi Sunday. Not an isolated case. SAD

There is no beauty in the skies,
The morning sun has lost its charm,
There's sorrow lurking in her eyes,
She views the future with alarm.
A sense of dread prevades her life,
She even hates her new fall hat.
The world is but a scene of strife;
She knows that she is getting fat.
The food she likes she will not eat,
And thirsty plods along her way.
A glass of cooling water sweet
Makes finish, she hates the doctor say.
She thinks she has a double chin,
And death were better far than thin.
She signs for stuff to make her thin
And mourns because she's getting fat.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Somebody presented a niece of mine with a brace of beautiful Rhode Island Reds.

"What on earth," she phoned me, "do I do with them They're just hens."

"Raw!" said I.

"They've got all their feathers on, and their insides in," she squealed.

"Well, you pluck them, and draw them," I outlined.

I then learned that she had never drawn or defeathered a fowl in her life. She is a grown woman with several children. On a little further inquiry, the astonishing fact emerged that hardly any young woman in city or town in the present generation connects a hen scratching fowsily around the barnyard with the beautiful pullets, roasters, or bird which buys, all done up tidy in cellophane, in the stores. She knows some weird and wonderful transition most occur, like that of the creamy caterpillar transformed into the lovely butterfly. But who does it, how it is done, she does not know and has no wish to know. It is all part of the mystery and magic of the modern way of life. She is shielded from the unpleasant particulars. To her, a hen in the barnyard is one thing. The chicken in the cellophane is quite, quite another. The connection between them is so remote as to be negligible.

"Well," I said, "there are fine bottle-fed chickens, dressing fowl. You can take your ducks down to the market and have them plucked and drawn for about a buck."

"Uncle Greg," she plezaded, "you like wild duck, don't you?"

"Indeed I do."

"Then I'll be bring them over. :" she suggested.

True I came by a brace of mallards; and I took them down to the market and had them plucked and drawn for about a buck.

Personal Health Talks

Asiatic Flu's A Flop

"Please give a series of articles on the Asiatic influenza threat which is causing so much comment. Such articles should be most helpful. (W. E.H.)"

So far it's all "threat" and nothing more to speak of. The comment is largely "I see by the papers," and the papers print such asinine predictions as the one that there will be 70,000 cases or some similar absurdity.

Discounting the "threat" whipped up by the superfluous "health authorities" who have plenty of time to spend on publicity work — the so-called Asiatic flu appears to be a false alarm. In the medical journals, where one looks for reliable evidence, the reports have been singularly unsensational so far. You see, medical publications can't print a lot of rumors and statements ascribed to unimpeachable but unidentified authorities and stay in business.

A typical news item tells of three inconclusive cases of influenza and pneumonia. The county health officer said throat cultures of the victims showed nothing — "and therefore a virus infection, possibly Asiatic flu, is suspect." Sherlock Holmes couldn't tie that one.

The symptoms of Asiatic influenza — American, Spanish or Asiatic are: great weakness, high fever, cough, headache, sore throat and general aches and pains. The illness lasts four or five days. Following the illness the patient complains of extreme weakness for a week or two; and self-described lethargy. Taking pain-killers without resting for an hour or two every day is a foolish practice in any circumstance, in my judgment. If you continue to be coming down with flu, it is likely to prove disastrous, because every such drug damages the heart and breaks down or interferes with the red blood corpuscles — whose function is to carry oxygen to all the body cells. If you even suspect you have flu, yet can't afford or don't want to call the doctor, stay snug and warm in bed for 24 hours; isolate yourself before a suitable mask; abstain from acetylsalicylic acid, acetanilid, phenacetin or the numerous nostrums of which these semi-deadening drugs are the main ingredients; eat what you like when you're hungry; and drink water, fruit juice, soup, tea or coffee.

No, harm applying oil, salve, Vicks vapor, hand, cold, camphor or other "penetrating" or smelly stuff in such treatment as I've given. But such things you don't believe the moon is made of green cheese!

Navy's Pride in Graveyard

By Gerda L. Cohen in The London New Statesman

At first sight, the Garelochhead appeared an odd compromise between a naval base and a Victorian health resort. Three battleships, with turrets towering like mournful elephants, lay moored at the lochside. Under their bows shivered the delicate masts of launches and other shiny yachts, dwarfed to toy dimensions by the huge vessels. Parked with the pertinacity of a dental drill into a cruiser.

"Aye, she'll be for the graveyard," said Maclaren, who had a face like wet gravel and a cheerful sentiment. "We'll soon be getting our teeth into the three like these," and he referred to the battleships, misted with prickly rain.

Maclaren used to build boats, anything from whalers to regattas, but he changed to the break-up trade, "where you can put by a wee bit of silver."

There's no money in wooden boats, he explained, now the firms down in England can manufacture them cheaper out of steel. With some difficulty I had patience for the traditional builders, planing their blond larch planks, bending them in hot water, knocking in copper nails between a plank and a beak. Maclaren drew a mouthful of the vile, intoxicating shag known as Highland Slice and, preoccupied dourly, "Give me a dead ship, now, for a decent profit."

Around the loch, rent in silkins yellow as haddock, were moving here and there the admiralty would get out of those three grey monuments, for they were to be towed to the breakers' yards.

"Brass'll fetch two hundred an' fifty," said Mac, out of them picking his large teeth with a rusty pin, "an' steel goes a climbing as well. I mind, back a year ago, he recalled fondly, copper reached £400 a ton, and that's no mean sum. Although it's been falling. "I won't say no to a nice load o' copper rivets."

George V. Anson and Duke of York were both launched in 1937, together with the mighty Rodney. Garelochh so long, yachtsmen regard them as part of the natural scene, are avoided in a high wind, berated for commandeering too much room. They are dinosaurs, pathetically huge, doomed by their own overwhelming armour.

Their keels were laid in 1937, together with the battleship Prince of Wales, all of the same class. Each had 10 main guns, cannon, now-dating, as well as pillar boxes, and up to 70 AA guns. The turret for the quadruple 14-inch cannon weighed 1,500 tons.

They should have been invincible. Prince of Wales did indeed achieve vapor, having, 1941, escorted Sir Winston Churchill to that mid-ocean meeting with President Roosevelt where the Atlantic Charter was born. Later, on December 10, Admiral Phillips sailed in his new flagship to intercept a Japanese fleet. But a Japanese plane intercepted him. Prince of Wales sank in the Java Sea, and the era of floating titans died with her.

"Clyde makes 'em and Clyde breaks 'em," remarked Maclaren, "good for business either way." On the shore nicotine-brown with sea water two males argued about the dismemberment. Laundries would remove internal fittings before the oxyacetylene jets carved up the armour.

The amount of metal both lurried and squatted there, "enough to fix a fair size and nae mistake," pondered a welder with arms tanned purple by the sun, freckled, bogeys and stanchions. At night, a torch signalled from one hulking leviathan. Lone watchmen were prowling instead of 2,000 sailors. Full steam a wide river between them, knowing that no food would come from bare decks.

Behind Maclaren's office stood a neo-Gothic villa built by a Victorian baronet playing at laird. It burgeoned with turrets and mullioned windows. In the rain, its slate roof glistened like a black jelly. Purchased at £500, with 60 rooms and an imitation portcullis.

"We've just buy the place," grunted Maclaren shaking moisture off his beard, wiping hair, "they're breaking it up." A contractor's gang had begun to strip the roof, leaving the grey stone, which should fetch enough to hire a caravan on Loch Lomond around the corner. This demolition made Maclaren growl with approval.

"It's all progress," he said, gesturing at the crumbled dome, "and progress is a fine thing. We all live by it."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

EGYPT DEFENDS SYRIA AS "BLOOD RELATION"

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ahmoud Fawzi is seen arriving at U.S. headquarters where he spoke out in defense of Syria before the U.S. General Assembly. Without specifically naming any Western state or Russia, the Egyptian foreign minister said, "I feel impelled to state that Syria is Egypt's ally as well as Egypt's blood relation and I wish in no equivocal terms, to leave no scope for doubt whatsoever that Egypt for its part, shall not tolerate that even a fingertip of Syria be hurt, or a hair of Syria be ruffled by any aggressor..." Fawzi went on to say that Syria, in receiving Soviet arms, is "merely preparing and providing for its own defence."

Bowling Notes

The summer recreation on the bowling greens is fast coming to a close but the members have no regrets because the season has been a successful one. The last tournament of the year was held on Saturday on the local greens when the O'Keefe trophy was competed for and it journeyed to Kingston after the firing was over. Gilbert and Mrs. McCorquodale won the three-game high score, with Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Smith of the local club, finishing second. George McGee and Mrs. Grace Clapp were winners of the two-game high score, while William Hazard and Mrs. Myrtle Smith took the one-game high score. There were 14 rinks entered in the tourney, three being from Kingston, two from Peterborough, one from Trenton and the remainder from the Belleville club.

The greens were in excellent condition and the tournament was started in the morning so that the bowlers would get away from the cool of the evening.

Mrs. Mary Colling, who so capably filled the president's chair of the women's section of the Bowling Club during the past year, was the unanimous choice of the members to again head the organization when the annual meeting was held recently at the clubhouse. The members enjoyed a potluck supper and heard excellent reports from the year's operation.

Mrs. P. Fonger was chosen as first vice-president, Mrs. M. Edgar as second vice, and Mrs. Addison Lloyd as third vice. Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon was elected secretary and Mrs. H. Putnam as treasurer.

The Tuesday games convener, Mrs. H. Boyle, while the Thursday games will be in charge of Mrs. P. Fonger. Mrs. Orlo Smith will be tournament chairman; Mrs. D. Elvidge, the bridge convener; Mrs. Grace Clapp, house convener; Mrs. R. Bulford, telephone committee; Mrs. Joan Watkin, sunshine committee. The press reporter will be Mrs. R. Coleman and the chairman of the membership committee, Mrs. Elsie Humphreys.

Another Week Starts Quietly At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The third week of army-enforced integration began quietly at Central High School today.

In Little Rock, only the presence of troops around Central High School betrayed the appearance that all was well. But elsewhere:

A South Carolina county bought nine sub-machine guns to repel any federal troops which might be sent there as they were here.

A burning cross, symbol of southern resistance reaching back to reconstruction days, blazed on the lawn of Governor Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, a critic of Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas, whose acts are blamed by some for touching off the Little Rock crisis.

HOUSING HATRED

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said in Chicago that the "greatest sin" of Faubus, "has been arousing and fanning ugly racial hatred in the minds and hearts of impressionable white children in the North and South."

PLAN PRAYERS

Many pastors Sunday asked their congregations to attend special services next Saturday when city-wide prayers for reconciliation of views on the racial dispute will be made.

Eisenhower and Faubus remained deadlocked. The governor refused to give the president the assurances Eisenhower seeks that Faubus will not obstruct federal court integregation orders.

Harry Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette and a critic of Faubus, said in a country-wide television discussion Sunday at New York that "so long as the governor remains in an essentially negative posture there is a threat of mob violence."

L. Ewing Scott Goes on Trial On Murder Count

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The strangest murder trial here in years begins today. It is the state's attempt to prove L. Ewing Scott killed his long-missing wife, Evelyn.

The prosecutor, Deputy District Attorney J. Miller Leavy, has the task of establishing murder although the body of Mrs. Scott has not been found nor has an official theory been advanced as to how the wealthy matron may have met death.

Defense lawyers F. Basil Lambros, Al Matthews and Tom Williams are expected to attack the state's case on the ground the prosecution can not prove Mrs. Scott is dead.

Mrs. Scott was 63 when she vanished from her $75,000 home in suburban Bel Air May 16, 1955. Scott, hey fifth husband, did not report her missing to authorities until jogged by relatives.

On March 6, 1956, Mrs. Scott's brother, E. Raymond Throsby, filed an estate guardianship petition in superior court in which he alleged Scott not only had refused to report his wife's disappearance but had taken no steps to conserve her $500,000 estate.

Four days later police found Mrs. Scott's dentures and two pairs of eyeglasses near an incinerator in the back yard of her home.

A grand jury indicted Scott, self-styled investment counselor, on charges of theft and forgery in the administration of his wife's estate. But when the dapper Scott was called for arraignment he, too, had disappeared.

Five months after he vanished the grand jury indicted him on a murder count. His arrest in Windsor, Ont., last April ended the most extensive manhunt in Los Angeles crime history.

ESTRANGED HUSBAND IS HELD IN SHOTGUN SHOOTING

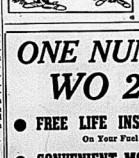
A 41-year-old father of three has been charged with murder following the shotgun shooting of his estranged wife, Mrs. Mabel Sidney, 33, and Orson Souder, 42. Thomas Sidney of Port Colborne, Ont., was taken into custody as seen above, an hour after an assailant shot the couple as they were leaving Souder's apartment. Souder later died of stomach wounds in Welland hospital where Mrs. Sidney is suffering from a wound in her side. A shotgun was found in accused's possession.

SEEKS GOVERNOR'S SEAT

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif), senate minority leader, is shown as he announced in Sacramento, Calif., his intention of seeking nomination for governor of California on next year's GOP primary ticket. The 49-year-old, veteran of the senate and a potential presidential candidate in 1960 or 1964 will engage in an all-out battle with Governor Goodwin Knight in the June, 1958, primary election. Democratic party standard - bearer is expected to be Attorney - General Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. Knight has already announced that he is in the race for another four-year term.

Amateur Fans Pick up Signals From Satellite

Amateur radio fans in the Belleville district over the weekend had their sets tuned to the 7.5 and the 20 megacycle bands hoping to pick up signals from the Russian earth satellite which is circling the earth at 18,000 miles per hour.



At least three fans in Belleville picked up the signals as the "earth moon" swept around the earth every 95 minutes and recorded them on tape recorders.

The steady three "beeps" per second signal is being "broadcast on two known wavelengths while a code message is believed also being broadcast sending back temperatures and other data. However, the broadcast band of the code message is known only to the Russians.

The three local radio "hams" who recorded the satellite signal were Howard Frailick, Lemoine Street; Ross Dryden, of Cannifton Road, and William Barrie, Montgomery Blvd.

Local "hams" said the satellite signal was coming in strong every hour and a half as the "earth moon" hurtled around the earth approximately 560 miles up. Mr. Frailick said the signals could be heard for as long as 20 minutes each time the satellite passed.

Aussie Girl Writes Way Around World

EDMONTON (CP)—Gwen Peck of Sydney, Australia has literally written her way around the world since leaving Australia in 1953.

Gwen spent six years working for a Sydney newspaper and then set out to see the world—by royal train, native bus, army plane and barge.

One of the stories which helped the Australian girl to finance her world trip was a 1953 article, A White Christmas in Africa. In gathering her material Miss Peck climbed 19,500-foot Mount Kilimanjaro.

Miss Peck was one of three women and 32 correspondents who covered the tour of the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret through Rhodesia in 1953.

In Kenya she covered trials of Mau Mau leaders and with eight policemen armed with grenades travelled to a Kikuyu village.

She interviewed the Sultana of Zanzibar and toured her summer palace.

In Canada, Gwen interviewed the Dionne quintuplets, Charlotte Whitton, former mayor of Ottawa, and long-distance swimmer Marilyn Bell as well as touring the north talking to Eskimos, army personnel and clergy.

Recently she signed as cook aboard a barge bound from Aklavik to Hay River on the Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

After a stop here she headed for Vancouver, the Fiji Islands and home.

WEDDINGS

FLYNN—BURNS

TWEED — The sanctuary of the Church of The Annunciation at Enterprise, was beautifully decorated with gladioli and ferns on Saturday, July 6th, for the wedding of Lucille Margaret Burns, only daughter of Alex Burns, Enterprise, and the late Mrs. Burns, to George Raphael (Ray) Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Flynn of Tweed. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. R. J. Whalen, P.P.

The acolytes were Michael Murphy and Bernard Burns, brother of the bride.

Denise Nolan played the wedding music and sang during the Mass.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown of net over satin, with Chantilly lace inserts and sequins enhancing the skirt. The lace bolero had a Peter Pan collar trimmed with seed pearls and long lily-pointed sleeves. She wore a fingertip veil with a wide lace edging which fell from a headdress of rhinestones and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Mary Burns, of Enterprise, as maid of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of nylon net over yellow taffeta, in strapless style, with bolero of nylon lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow and mauve 'mums with fern. Her headdress matched her bouquet.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Vincent McGrath, Marlbank, and the ushers were Messrs. James Burns, Enterprise, brother of the bride, and Earl Healey, Kingston, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a dinner was served at Morrison's Lounge, Kingston, with the bride's godmother, Mrs. W. J. Burns, receiving the guests in a gown of navy crepe with turquoise accessories, and corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a gown of teal blue and pink accessories and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding trip to St. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, the bride chose a light blue suit with navy accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Flynn are now residing in Kingston.

EARLY MAILS

A post office at Halifax, N.S., having communications with London and Boston, was established as early as 1755.

SOLMES — FRASER

BONARLAW — A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mark's Anglican Church, on Saturday September 28th when Carol Elizabeth Fraser daughter of Mrs. S. Fraser of Bonarlaw, and the late S. H. Fraser was united in marriage to John McKeown Solmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Solmes, of Spring Brook. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. G. Fleming.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Fleming, with Mr. J. Grant, of Marmora, the soloist.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Harry Fraser, of Marlbeth, Pa. who gave her in marriage.

The bride was gowned in a floor length gown of nylon over taffeta with bolero.

Her finger tip veil was held in place by a headdress of tulle, seed pearls and sequin, her only ornament was a gold locket, a gift from her mother., she carried red roses and white 'mums.

Mrs. Don Leonard, Marmora, sister of the bride was matron of honor, gowned in coral nylon over taffeta with matching accessories. She carried a nosegay of coral and white 'mums.

Miss Laura Fraser, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and was gowned in a waltz length pink nylon and taffeta dress and carried pink and white 'mums.

Mr. Tom Solmes, Marmora was groomsman for his brother. The ushers were, Mr. Roy Solmes, and Mr. Donald Leonard.

The luncheon was served in St. Mark's parish hall, where the bride's mother received wearing a brown crepe dress with white accessories and a corsage of white and yellow carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother dressed in an embroidered crepe with accessories and wore a corsage of white and yellow carnations.

The bride travelled in a mink brown sheath dress with beige accessories and corsage of yellow rosebuds. On their return they will reside at Bonarlaw.

PLEDGES SHORT

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Twenty-one countries Friday pledged $28,200,000 toward Palestine Arab refugee relief and 12 governments offered $3,200,000 toward a United Nations' plan to clear refugee camps in Europe. The pledges of both funds fell short of the long-range goals set by UN officials.

Women's C.C. Plans for New Season

The Women's Canadian Club of Belleville and district has been busy planning activities for the coming season and feels that it has been able to procure some very interesting speakers, each an expert in his or her own field.

It is the policy of the Canadian Club to build up a wider understanding of world affairs and this country's part in them by listening to speakers of both national and international affairs. In these critical times it is felt that everyone will want a wider understanding of world conditions and how Canada might be affected.

Canada within the last few decades has become a rich and powerful nation and it is yet not widely known. Canadians still have much to learn about themselves and others. This task is the obligation of the Canadian Club and has been constantly kept in wing when the speakers were selected for the coming season.

NON COMPETITIVE

The Canadian Club does not compete with any other organization and makes no demands on its members. It is not a money-making organization. It meets about eight times during the year. Coffee is served after several meetings and a social hour is enjoyed.

The club welcomes new members from all localities within 25 miles radius of Belleville, especially the rural areas. The annual fee is $3.00 and membership and not transferable. Guests beyond a 25 mile radius are always welcome and may attend by paying a fee of fifty cents for each meeting. Gentlemen are always welcome.

SEASON'S PROGRAM

The program for the coming season announced recently by the president, Mrs. E. S. Fairman, is varied and interesting: Mrs. Jean Newman only lady controller for the city of Toronto, will speak on "Women in Municipal Affairs"; Hon. Louis R. Beaudoin, former speaker of the House of Commons, will speak on "Parliament." The guest speaker for the dinner meeting will be Mr. Larry Henderson, CBC TV news commentator. He will speak on his travels in the Far East. The

QUINTE 4-H CLUB

The second meeting of the "Quinte Cereal Circle" was held on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Clifford Reid.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "Father's Whiskers."

Roll call was answered by each of the eight members present.

It was decided to hold the next meeting on the afternoon of October 19th, at the home of Jane Thomson, RR 6, Belleville.

The discussion included: review of food plan; It's all in a grain of wheat; A trip to town with Betty Brown; and Around the Clock with Cereals.

The demonstration was the making of whole wheat or graham muffins.

The exhibit, consisting of the articles discussed by Betty Brown on her shopping trip, was presented by Mrs. Reid.

In the group work, the girls compiled a list of rules for buying, which are to be kept for discussion at the next meeting.

Home assignments and roll call were read.

After the meeting closed Mrs. Reid and June served refreshments.

Television Needed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A wedding reception in Vancouver's Chinatown Saturday was so big that television was needed so everybody could see what was happening.

Closed circuit television was used at the marriage of Joy Mah and Rose Lee. Five hundred guests attended the reception at a cafe while cameras beamed the ceremony to an overflow of guests at another cafe next door.

dinner will be held at Hotel Quinte. Mr. Grant MacEwan, a member of the Alberta Legislature, will speak on his latest book "Between the Red and the Rockies." Mr. James Thompson, OBE, the deputy High Commissioner for U.K., is an outstanding speaker and will use as his topic, "Britain Has Her Problems." Mrs. J. F. Davidson who was born in Riga, Latvia, and is now a news commentator will talk about, "The International Scene." Other outstanding speakers have been contacted, everyone of whom promises to be of great interest and value to Canadian Club members.

Active in French Red Cross Now a Canadian Citizen

VANCOUVER (CP)—Holder of the Croix de Guerre from her native France, Mrs. Paul Bissley took the oath of allegiance here to become a Canadian citizen.

Mrs. Bissley must have had deep thoughts when her decision became final, changing citizenship from the country for which she fought and suffered. She also holds the golden medal of honor from the Red Cross, awarded posthumous award.

In the Second World War Mrs. Bissley volunteered as a conveying nurse in the French Red Cross. She transported wounded from the occupied zone in France to Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia and Switzerland.

Later as chief of the Ambulance Drivers' Corps she was sent to tend wounded in all the bombed cities of France for more than two years.

SIEGE OF MENTONE

When Allied forces landed in southern France in August, 1944, she was chief of the Red Cross section, stationed in Mentone, near the Italian border.

The Germans retreated before the Allied barrage and took Mentone as their final stand.

"We were cut off for two months," said Mrs. Bissley. "There was no food and no water and the curfew was imposed all day every day. The only ones allowed out were 16 Red Cross workers.

"We were desperate for food and we gathered what we could from garden patches."

"National soup" was served by the Red Cross twice a day to the more than 8,000 Mentone residents.

The town was bombed continuously by British, Canadians and Americans because of a huge ammunition depot there.

"Finally the Allies came and the Germans retreated to a fortress in the Italian Alps," she said.

MANY CASUALTIES

"The 16 Red Cross women, driving trucks powered by charcoal and wood burners, nursed the wounded.

"There were so many casualties that at one time we had to care for 85 in half an hour."

As chief organizer, Mrs. Bissley headed an evacuation of all residents in three days and three nights. She stayed on as liaison officer with the Allied troops.

"The Germans were about 20 miles away, and in the middle

Nurse Resigns Executive Post

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Julia Robertson of Grafton, resigned from the executive of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, she said Saturday, because a recent executive decision opposing collective bargaining "overrides the vote of the annual meeting."

Mrs. Robertson was president of District 6 which contains the Bowmanville-Belleville area.

She said she was the only director to oppose the executive decision to present a brief to the Ontario legislature's select committee on labor asking that nurses be removed from the provisions of the Ontario Labor Relations Act.

MONSTER SPUD

EDMONTON (CP) — Joseph Ethier, 70, dug up a four-pound potato from his garden. Horticulturists said the potato, a Pontiac measuring seven by four inches, was the biggest they have seen from the district.

BEAUTY

PUT EXERCISE FIRST ON YOUR FALL BEAUTY PROGRAM

There's nothing so stimulating as a brisk walk in Autumn's crisp outdoors.

Fall's the time when most people experience a yearning for themselves over." New are intriguing . . . make-up to go with them, to suit the world . . . but, what's even more important, there's a crispness in the air which stimulates, makes a gal feel that nothing's impossible . . . that, with very little effort, she can be a "new woman."

Well, it's true. New clothes, new make-up and the invigorating Autumn air can make you feel like a new woman. But why stop there? Why not plan now to feel like a new woman all through the dreary winter months ahead? Make a beauty program that you can and will follow — as well as exercise at the top of the list.

Remember how fine you felt all summer when you got so much time out of doors? Well, why stop now that the calendar says it's Fall. You enjoyed swimming so much. Well why not sign for another season at your pool? Swimming's just as much fun in the fall as in the summer and perfect for keeping a slim figure.

You may have played golf all summer. There's no reason why you can't enjoy this sport just as much throughout the fall. In fact, we'd say this game is even more enjoyable at this season of the year, when the brassie of the lovely scenery all about give so much extra zest that strokes seem to be miraculously cut down each time one plays.

Then there's bike riding — such a wonderful exercise for toning up leg muscles and promoting grace and coordination. Bike rides through the countryside are not only healthful, but fun!

And, even if you're not addicted to any of these sports, you can still plan outdoor exercise — by putting a daily walk on your agenda. A brisk mile of walking every day will keep you feeling fine, slim your figure, give a ruddy glow to your complexion — what more could you ask as a beauty prescription.

When you're walking, however, don't dawdle. Make it real exercise. And pick your own time — morning, afternoon or evening — whichever is most convenient. But do try to make it the same time every day. If you're not used to such "beauty sessions", you may look them as a bother at first, but within a few days, you'll begin to look forward to them. And begin to enjoy your reflection in the mirror, too.

Three - Meat Loaf; Chili Sauce; Baked Squash; Fresh Green Tomatoes; Waldorf Salad; Warm Applesauce; Gingerbread; Coffee.

All went as smoothly as possible. He even fixed his eyes directly on Mr. Zurbrigg's as Carl prayed his direct prayer to him: "May the Lord bless you and keep you . . ."

Afterwards the star performer had a sleep at home (and my guess is that the invited guests had a sleep when all congregated at our house and we had a buffet supper.

The fact that shrimp were featured had nothing to do with Gary for, sitting in his high chair, he ate lamb dinner which came from a can, and apple-sauce for dessert. But 7 of the adults ate 5 lbs. of shrimp, every one of which was shucked and cleaned to perfection by Mabelle. During the process he decided that in his old age he would go into the shrimp-shucking business as a better occupation.

We also had Chicken Tetrazzini for 3 of our guests were not shrimp enthusiasts, but everybody else dipped into that.

Here is the menu:

Shrimp Cocktail with Dip, with Rice; Chicken Tetrazzini (see below), Curried Shrimp with Rice; Chicken Tetrazzini; Fresh Corn Saute; Homemade Whole Wheat Pan Tan Rolls; Eleanor's Green salad; Peach pie with Ice Cream and/or White Cream Cheese; Milk; Coffee.

I will give you the recipes for the items I think you will want to try today and on Wednesday.

PREPARATION OF "GREEN" SHRIMP

The first thing I did was to boil the 5 lbs. of "green" shrimp in boiling water to cover, with a stalk of celery, a slice of onion and a bay leaf, for 5 minutes and allow them to cool in this liquid. Then I gently drained them and with meticulous care shelled and removed only the intestinal tract. This is a long trying job so choose your man. Leave the tails on for cocktail. Remove them for curry.

COCKTAIL SAUCE

(For seafood) Force 1 medium raw tomato through sieve. To 1 cupful add 1 tbsp. each of tablespoon each horseradish and lemon juice, and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce. Mix and chill. Herbie hooked the shrimp on the rim of the glass and the sauce bowl. I stood a stemmed glass full of sauce in the bowl, and stood the bowl on a big glass platter and arranged a border of assorted crackers around rim of plate.

The recipes for Shrimp Curry, Chicken Tetrazzini and Corn Saute will appear here on Wednesday.

Many Thanksgiving dinner are going to be eaten while audiences 125 per-cent. will hear the Queen open parliament on TV or radio. Would not a buffet meal like the above be the ideal solution for TV viewers?

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TEN DAUGHTERS PLAN CELEBRATION FOR PARENTS!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our mother and father, will be observing their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary considering these daughters, are getting together to give a reception for them. It will be on a Sunday. They will renew their vows in their church at one o'clock. Mother and Dad have quite a few out-of-town friends and relatives (sisters, cousins, nieces and nephews), and since most of them will be here, we thought it would be the perfect thing for us to invite them to dinner right after the church ceremony. Do you approve?

2. Then our plan is to have the Reception later in the evening, principally for our parents' close friends here. About this guest-list we have several questions. (a) First, who sets invitations: those friends? For example, when the parents who were Mother's and Dad's close friends have passed away, should their children be considered those friends, and so should all of them be invited? (b) Should all the in-laws of us 10 daughters (husbands and sisters-in-law, brothers-in-law) be invited? (c) Also since the 10 of us are giving this reception, would it be right for us to invite some of our friends who knew Mother and Dad through us?

— One of the daughters

What a Golden Occasion you 10 daughters are planning for your parents! Golden Weddings!

1. Yes, this is an excellent plan, and certainly most thoughtful of you to provide so generously for the happiness and comfort of these relatives and friends from out-of-town.

2. (a) Your mother and father are the ones to decide this. If they know these daughters and sons very well, they might very well be kind and gracious to invite them. (b) If space and general convenience permit, it would be a fine idea for each of you co-hostesses to invite her in-laws. And (c) a good and proper idea too if your parents "receive" the notice that each of you to invite some of the friends who are also intimate friends of your mother and father.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Genevieve R. — Betty shouldn't live by herself.

Betty T. — I can handle those wolves.

Geeceiveve R. — My sister is a divorcee of 30. She was only 17 when she married and the marriage didn't last a year. One reason she married was that she was so unhappy at home. She doesn't get along with our father.

Well, she went back home after the divorce and things were just as bad as ever, so I had her come to live with me. I have three young children and I find the surroundings aren't all a young girl would want, but I feel she should stay with me. She says my home isn't attractive and she'll never get married again. A young men call for her there.

But Betty doesn't realize there is a more important problem. Men have no respect for a divorcee — especially if she lives alone. A friend of mine who was divorced told me she had dozens of propositions but no proposals.

Betty T. — What Genevieve says is partly true. Some men have no respect for a divorcee and seem to expect her to have affairs with them. What Genevieve doesn't realize is that it's no better when you live with your family. I know because the propositions have already been coming in for some time.

I don't mean to offend Genevieve when I say it is really awful at her house. She can't help it, but what can you expect when there are three children under 6 around the place? There is always squalling and screaming and the house looks as though a hurricane hit it most of the time. I'm embarrassed when anyone calls for me there.

I can't see I have anything to lose by striking out on my own. I'm a big girl now and should be able to handle those wolves. I long for peace and quiet and know of the perfect little apartment for me.

The Council: Geneviève's home doesn't sound like an ideal setting for a young woman bent on matrimony, but Betty is rather hasty about striking out on her own.

Despite her status as a divorcee, Betty is still a very young girl. She doesn't realize that the "propositions" which now come to will be a little more difficult to handle when she is alone. She may know how to manage some varieties of wolves, but she is surely unfamiliar with others.

More important, Betty still lacks understanding of her own nature and is probably somewhat shaky about her chastity and privacy and protection. The 7 and women's hotels or boarding houses are satisfactory in some areas.

A better arrangement may be to board with a childless or elderly couple. In this way she could have a homelike atmosphere at least and she would pay for her own apartment.

Club Activities

TRINITY LADIES CLUB

MADOC — A fine representation of members and many guests attended Trinity Ladies' Club meeting at the parsonage. Mrs. Carl Howse presided over the evening's activities, with Mrs. Empey in charge of the devotional period.

Mrs. George Devolin, director of the program, presented a beautiful film in color on "Flowers in Holland," which proved of great interest.

Douglas Pigden, who kindly showed the film, explained briefly, on behalf of the Kiwanis Club, of the sale of tulip bulbs and welfare work done by the Madoc Kiwanis Club.

Several piano selections by Mrs. George Murray completed the program.

Miss Grace Raney, Mrs. P. Bronson and Mrs. Drinkwalter, were in charge of the refreshments.

Mrs. George White extended thanks to all who contributed to a worthwhile meeting.

'Going Steady' Frowned on By Father

CALGARY (CP)—The increase in the birth rate of illegitimate children stems from the current teen-age practice of going steady, says Father Timothy of the Mount St. Francis retreat house at Cochrane, Alta.

Father Timothy told a service club meeting Thursday night going steady" leads to emotional intimacies which in turn lead to immorality. It also tends to draw children away from their parents.

He defined going steady as "choosing one person to the exclusion of all others to date and be a companion of."

He said the rate of unwed mothers in North America has increased 400 per cent in the last 10 years, counting being the girls

VISIT YOUR DRUGGIST DURING PHARMACY WEEK OCTOBER 6th to 12th

Become better acquainted with all his services and goods

Your family pharmacist is a man of many skills. The prescriptions he dispenses, the drugs and medications he compounds, are all part of an exacting science which must be perfectly understood.

Continuous study is another necessary part of his busy life—keeping abreast with to-day's medical pharmaceutical research and discovery.

It is the great variety of goods and services available from your independent druggist, plus his technical knowledge, that have helped make him so indispensable to you and your neighbours.

Make it a point to visit your druggist during Pharmacy Week and get to know him just a little better. Remember, you can depend on your family druggist.

ONTARIO RETAIL PHARMACISTS' ASSOCIATION

Springbrook United Church W.A. Sponsors Successful Bazaar

The members of Springbrook United Church Woman's Association were hostesses to an afternoon tea and bazaar held recently in Springbrook Orange hall with ladies from several surrounding communities being present.

The hall was decorated in pink and white while baskets of autumn flowers and a table covered with a lace tablecloth were arranged on the platform.

The bazaar tables were placed in the centre of the main floor, with the seats arranged on each side.

The guests were met at the door by the reception committee, Mrs. A. Beare, Mrs. S. Meiklejohn, Mrs. D. Fleming, past president, and Mrs. Clayton Burkitt, president, while Mrs. F. Cosbey and Mrs. P. Smith had charge of the admission, with Mrs. Clayton Burkitt in charge of the program.

A welcome was extended to all the visitors and, with Mrs. Florence McKeown at the piano the W.A. theme song was sung as an opening number.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Beare with Mrs. C. Sine reading the Scripture, taken from Luke 10.

Guests were present from Wellman's Corners, Hoard's Station, Salem, Stanwood, Petherick's Corners, Carmel, Rylstone, Stirling, Mount Pleasant, St. Thomas', Bonarlaw, Gospel Hall, Bethel and Marmora.

The program was made up of numbers given by the visiting societies as follows: reading, "Autumn in the Orchard," by Mrs. Clifford Clancy of Wellman's Corners; solo, "Stranger of Galilee," by Mrs. Walter Anderson of Hoard's Station; reading, "Judge Not," by Mrs. Lorne Hagerman of Salem; solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," by Mrs. D. Lain of Stanwood; reading, "Telling the Truth," by Mrs. Jack Watson of Petherick's Corners; skit, by the Carmel ladies; reading, "Love Thy Neighbor," by Mrs. Ellis Joner, Rylstone; solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Mrs. Ross Hart, of Stirling; reading, "The story of Mrs. Pickle," by Mrs. G. Mumby of Bonarlaw; reading, "Today," by Miss E. Tanner of St. Thomas; skit, "Putting the Spice in Housekeeping," by Marmora ladies.

GUEST SPEAKER

At the conclusion of the program the guest speaker, Mrs. Toombes, of Campbellford, was introduced by Mrs. Beare.

Mrs. Toombes chose as her subject her "House of Happiness." She spoke on their own true experiences with retarded children and urged her listeners to respect the unfortunate handicapped child as they too are children of God.

The Rev. A. Beare extended thanks to Mrs. Toombes, on behalf of all the ladies for her interesting talk and then officially declared the bazaar open.

Those in charge of the various booths were: fancy work, with its lovely array of aprons of all styles, fancy and plain; knitted goods, crocheting, novelties, children's clothing, were Mrs. B. Bateman, Mrs. F. McKeown, Mrs. C. Sine, Mrs. K. Thompson and Mrs. G. Webb.

Candy, with its assorted baskets and boxes of homemade fudge, creams and taffy, were Mrs. R. Wellman, Mrs. H. Haslett, Mrs. H. Mumby and Mrs. D. Fleming.

Farmers' booth, laden with home grown vegetables, jams, jellies, eggs and cream, was in charge of Mrs. P. Mumby, Mrs. T. H. McKeown, Mrs. C. Robbins and Mrs. M. McMullen.

Home cooking, with its varieties of pies, tarts, breads, buns, rolls, cookies, cakes, both light and dark, fancy and plain, was served by Mrs. E. Bateman, Mrs. Fred McKeown, Mrs. I. Switzer and Mrs. P. Bateman.

Parcel post, with various sizes shapes and colors of parcels, were sold as they were received from the mail by Mrs. Arthur Reid and Mrs. Murney Mason.

After the guests had made a tour of the tables and purchases selected, the seats were pushed back and refreshments were served, consisting of plain and fancy sandwiches, pickles, celery, olives, assorted cookies and tarts topped off with whipped cream.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Chris Bateman and Mrs. George Williams.

The Springbrook ladies extend a hearty "thank you" to their guests for the contributions to the program, also for making the bazaar a decided success.

Proceeds realized from the day were $163.99.

LEATHER LUXURY

By VERA WINSTON

New leather tanning and coloring techniques, and new styling have given the leather coat a complete new place in the wardrobe. Delicate pastels in pearlized leather appear on the evening scene, many embellished with fine fur, such as one of palest beige with a dark ranch mink collar. Now comes a fine fur-trimmed leather coat for daytime wear, the color a warm beige, the line double-breasted, the buttons placed low. A seam marks the low-placed waistline and there are flapped patch pockets. Making the coat truly of this season's vintage is the shawl collar of racoon.

Women's Institute

MADOC W.I.

MADOC — Mrs. K. S. Nickle entertained the Madoc W.I. members for their recent meeting on Friday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Albert Bailey, in charge.

Plans for the fair booth were made and committees appointed. The secretary reported that the flag had been purchased and handed over to the veterans to be used in the Memorial Park.

Mrs. Bailey reported on the rally held in Bancroft recently and described the visit to the new school at Bancroft. It was decided to have a bazaar, home cooking sale and tea in November. Each member was asked to donate to the bazaar and cooking.

Mrs. Empey gave current events and Miss Vankleek dealt with the motto, "Words are Little Things, but They Strike Hard."

Mrs. McCrimmon gave a talk on education and dealt on education in the schools in Russia, as compared to the methods of Canada, which proved interesting.

The history on the life of Nellie McClung was given by Mrs. Kernohan.

At the October meeting the roll call will be "A Display of Antique Articles."

With a vote of thanks to the hostess and those taking part, the meting closed and was followed by a social hour.

More than a new way to wash and dry...

A MODERN WAY TO LIVE!

WESTINGHOUSE SPACE-MATES LAUNDROMAT and CLOTHES DRYER

designed to save you washdays... effectively... inexpensively in just 25" of floor space!

It's the newest, smartest idea in automatic home laundry equipment. Only Westinghouse offers you this NEW WAY TO WASH AND DRY in compact models just 25 inches square. Now no home is too small for a Laundromat and a Dryer because where space really counts, Westinghouse Space Mates are designed to fit in.

Small in size but BIG in performance, the Laundromat Automatic Washer does a full, family-size load. Wash one full load while drying another full load. You can wash or dry whenever you want... as often as you want... and do it economically. Yes, Westinghouse really takes the work out of washdays—does it all for you... automatically! So start enjoying the MODERN WAY TO LIVE... with more time to spend with your family—extra time to do the things you really like doing.

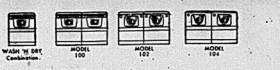
Just 25" wide, they fit anyway... anywhere!

So versatile you can stack them or place them side-by-side free standing... whichever way you prefer. Choose your compact Space-Mates in fashionable colours to blend in with the color scheme of the room: Mint Aqua, Lemon Yellow, Frosting Pink and Sugar White.

WESTINGHOUSE SPACE-MATES specially built to save you time, space, money!

NEW WAY TO WASH!

As tub revolves continuously, clothes are flushed through hot, sudsy water to loosen all dirt. Then they are lifted, turned and tumbled back through wash water again—50 times a minute. This thorough, uniform cleaning action washes all your clothes cleaner, whiter, brighter. And once your wash is clean—it stays clean! Dirty water is rinsed down the drain away from your clean wash. And the Laundromat even cleans itself.



NEW WAY TO DRY!

Exclusive Direct-Air Flow Drying blows fresh warm air directly into tumbling clothes not through a perforated basket as in ordinary dryers. Therefore the Westinghouse Electric Dryer dries faster —costs less to operate than any other electric dryer. Dries all kinds of fabrics safely—they come out soft, fluffy, fresh.

You can be SURE... if it's WESTINGHOUSE

INDIANS ON WARPATH FOR LAND

Indian Chief Standing Arrow, 24, leader of a Mohawk tribe settled on the banks of Shohoharie creek, near Fort Henry, is shown, right, holding copies of treaties which, he says, give his tribesmen title to land in that area. One of his followers points to the disputed land as they make a survey after their claims had been turned down by New York state. "On the war path," they will take their case to the U.S. court of claims in Washington and, if refused, they will appeal to the United Nations.

CAMPBELLFORD

Mr., Mrs. Fred Barnum Celebrate 50 Years of Married Life

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnum of Seymour East, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Wednesday afternoon when scores of relatives and friends called on the couple to congratulate them.

Members of the family were present during the afternoon and the couple received gifts from their family and friends.

Mrs. Barnum was the former Cora Mickeljohn, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Mickeljohn of Rawdon township. Mr. Barnum is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Amos Barnum. The couple were married at the home of the bride's parents on the 12th concession of Rawdon, by the late Rev. J. E. Smith, Presbyterian church circuit minister of Burnbrae and Rylstone.

At the wedding ceremony 50 years ago, Mrs. Percy Oddie was bridesmaid, and Mrs. B. Barlow was flower girl. The groomsman was the late Wesley Duncan.

Present on Wednesday for the celebration were members of the Barnum family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barnum of Campbellford; Mrs. Albert Chase (Evelyn) of Toronto; Dr. and Mrs. Donald Barnum of Guelph; Dr. and Mrs. Loynes (Helen), of Belleville and seven grandchildren. One grandson, Robert S. Barnum of the R.C.M.P., who is stationed at Sydney, N.S., was unable to attend.

Scores of flowers decorated the home and the dining room table was centred with a large three-tiered wedding cake, with crystal candle holders and golden colored candles.

Gifts from the neighbors and friends in the community were two easy chairs and a foot stool. The family gave the couple a floor lamp, mirror and mantel clock. Mr. Barnum's gift to Mrs. Barnum was a gold watch and Mrs. Barnum's gift to her husband was a gold ring.

In the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Barnum entertained their family, the bridesmaid and flower girl, Mrs. Allan Watson, Campbellford, who played the wedding march 50 years ago, Miss Mabel Stewart of Guelph, who made Mrs. Barnum's wedding dress, and Mrs. Edgar McKown of Sine, sister of the groomsman, as well as their present minister, Rev. Gordon Whitehorne, United Church circuit minister, at George's restaurant in Campbellford, where all enjoyed a turkey dinner and spent a social evening.

The couple have lived on the same farm in Seymour since their marriage in 1907.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

These men are examining a "test spool". It is used by Inco to broaden the knowledge of the effects of corrosion on metals. The spool is made up of a number of small discs of different metals and exposed to conditions that cause corrosion in industry . . . chemical solutions and vapours, for example. At Inco's laboratories the nature and extent of corrosion on these specimens is determined. The results are freely available to industry. Already, Inco has accumulated in such ways over 150,000 items of corrosion information. And new tests are constantly being made not only in Canada but throughout the world.

INCO RESEARCH helps fight a billion-dollar battle against corrosion

Rust is the most common form of corrosion. It is caused most often by the action of air and water on iron. In industry, corrosion is caused by many chemical compounds—acids and alkalies, liquids and vapours.

In the repair of equipment, in replacement parts, in the idleness of machines, corrosion costs more than six billion dollars a year throughout the world—probably several hundred million dollars in Canada alone.

For many years, Inco has carried on a relentless fight against corrosion in the plants of many companies faced with these serious problems, in its laboratories in Canada, the United States and Great Britain . . . at its marine testing station in Kure Beach, North Carolina.

Through continuing research and the development of new corrosion-resistant alloys, Inco helps Canadian industry save many millions of dollars every year.

Anglican Church Receives Gift Of Linen Veil

TRENTON (Special) — St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, has received the gift of a most beautifully hand-embroidered fine linen veil from Miss Anne Johnson, a member of the Altar Guild. Miss Johnson, who has spent many hours on the making and lace edging of the veil, which is to be used to cover the chalice during the Communion Service, says that she expects to have a second veil finished early in the coming year.

SUCCESSFUL SALE

The sale of clothing and miscellaneous articles held by the combined West and East Trenton Local Girl Guide Associations on Saturday morning at Canterbury Hall raised the sum of $60, which was enough cash to cover all the commitments of the Association.

The sale committee decided to pass on any clothing and goods left over from the sale to Miss Eva Morrison, president of the Quinte Disabled Persons Club, to be used in the Club's forthcoming rummage sale. Conveners and assistants were Mrs. E. Baker, Mrs. G. Samuels, Mrs. I. Walling, Mrs. D. Baker, Mrs. J. Knack, Mrs. K. F. Blachford, Mrs. L. Whitley and Mrs. W. Emory.

RUMMAGE SALE

The Saturday morning rummage sale held by the ladies of Group One of the Woman's Association of Grace United Church was also very successful. Mrs. Louise Riddell, who convened the sale said that with the help of the ladies who worked with her, Mrs. E. Clarke, Mrs. H. Parker, Mrs. L. Wilson, Mrs. J. Clapp, Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. J. Ackerman and Mrs. M. Boese the sale had gone very well.

The committee members followed their usual practice, and divided the remainder of the goods which had not been sold among a bale for missionary work, the Opportunity Shop, and the forthcoming rummage sale for the Quinte Disabled Persons Club.

WELL ATTENDED

Trenton market was well attended on Saturday, with a good supply of fruit and vegetables, which sold briskly. McIntosh apples were well in evidence, and there was an abundance of late tomatoes and potatoes. Eggs were on the scarce side, however. Chrysanthemum plants just coming into flower were popular, and the delicious looking homemade cakes on view in the market building were soon disposed of.

WEST GERMANS HOLD MANOEUVRES

Youngsters and their elders stand on the sidelines and watch tanks roll through the streets of Hamburg near the East-West German border. The tanks, among manoeuvres of the West German army, were manned by the first draftees who have now completed their basic training. The unit, however, did not participate in the NATO exercises because they had not completed drilling program.

U.S. Defence Cuts Causing Concern in Many Quarters

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States is reducing its armed forces and cutting its defence expenditures at a rate that is creating genuine concern in some quarters.

Scarcely a week goes by without announcement of another slash in manpower strength, the cancellation of a military development program or the abandonment of another military installation.

In recent weeks, the defence department has taken steps to discontinue four divisions, abolish 18 anti - aircraft gun battalions, lay up 96 naval vessels and close 14 depots, plants and other facilities. Hundreds of defence contracts have been cancelled and aircraft production and missile programs slowed down.

2,500,000 MEN IN ARMS

Military manpower, which totalled 2,800,000 just a few months ago, will be brought down to 2,600,000, including 900,000 army, 875,000 air force, 645,000 navy and 180,000 marine corps, by a series of cuts announced by retiring Defence Secretary Charles Wilson. Defence planners are aiming at a force of 2,500,000 by the end of next year.

American newspapers have begun to voice a real concern about th wisdom of reducing the country's defence establishment at a time when the Soviet Union appears to be reviving the cold war. Political foes of the Eisenhower administration also are criticizing the retrenchment program.

Defence scientists express fear that the economy wave will jeopardize the basic scientific research necessary to maintain American technological superiority in arms.

ELECTIONS UPCOMING

The administration's answer is that the defence program must be kept within the $38,000,000,000 budget approved by Congress. Inflation has boomed defence costs and—to quote the defence secretary—"obviously the people in the country are in no mood to spend more dollars."

However, politics are believed, in part at least, to be behind the economy program. Congress will be up for re-election next year and the Eisenhower administration will be under great pressure to provide a cut in personal income taxes. The last cut was in 1953.

The national debt also plays its part. The debt now totals more than $271,000,000,000 and by next spring is expected to approach the legal limit, set by Congress, of $275,000,000,000. U.S. political leaders always have been reluctant to ask Congress to increase the debt limit in an election year.

ISLAND GROWING

PONTA del Gada, Azores (reuters) — A newly formed volcanic island near Fayal Island in the Azores still is growing. It now is about 2,295 feet in diameter and 230 feet high. Smoke is rising from the crater more than 25,000 feet.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was wishing I had something to think about besides my homework, and I said, G, pop, I hope I'll never have so mutch money I wont be able to spend it even if I have a house in the city and one in the country and one by the sea, and a private airplane to go from one to the other whenever I feel like a change of climate and people

I hardly think you'll ever be that imbarressingly rich, pop said. The government has thought up a very clever sistem to help people from accumulating too much money, he said.

Meening taxes, and I said, Just the same, pop, you still hear about millionaires.

Well yes, a few honest men strike oil and a few former bank robbers go into politics, pop said. But most of them manage to get rid of their money. Some buy ocean going yotts that used to belong to the Bushway of Kloodle, and some back plays written by unsuccessful playwrites, he said, and I said, But even that wouldn't use up all my money if I was a big billionaire, Beck, I'd have to leave it in my will to a lot of hospitles that I've never even been in, I said.

The situation is serious, pop said. I better give you a helping hand right now by decreasing your allowance, he said, and I said, Aw G, pop, no, heck.

Then will you promise me to stop worrying about it pop said, and I said, Sure, pop, I've stopped already

Which I had.

Add another to the list of plants that may be grown in water. It's Pedilanthus, the red-bird cactus, a tropical succulent plant (grown indoors elsewhere). Foliage is delicately rose tinted, flowers tiny and bright, red. Stems curve and angle; stripped of foliage they're distinctive in flower arrangements. Stems may be cut from growing plant, will root and continue to grow in water.

CHECKING FOR COMMUNISTS IN SAN MARINO

Italian federal police are shown checking cars for Communists at a roadblock on the San Marino border. San Marino's Communists, challenged for control of this tiny mountain republic by anti-Red provisional government, have appealed to the United Nations for help. The police, blocking all seven roads leading to San Marino, which is surrounded by Italy, have turned back some Communists and other agitators at the border.

Science Puts Gas Molecule Into Solitary Confinement

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Science has perfected an astonishing new jail.

It puts a single molecule of gas into solitary confinement.

That's quite a feat considering that you draw in some 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 (10 sextillion) molecules of gas with every breath.

Even the most perfect man-made vacuums still contain about half a million molecules for every cubic inch of gas. Outer space may be about as nearly crowded with molecules of gas that go whizzing about, continuously bumping into one another at high-speed travel.

With the new scientific jail, you can in effect hold a gas in your hand.

The individual gas molecules are trapped inside tiny, invisible "cages" of crystal material. It's done through a process known as clathrating — from the Greek meaning lattice — being developed by Dr. Gerhard Sprenglng and Dr. Lyon Mandelcorn, chemists of the Westinghouse research laboratories here.

Clathrating permits scientists to study the individual behavior of a single molecule of a gas, inert and isolated from all its companions. The study can produce fundamental knowledge, and even unusual practical applications.

Isolated gas molecules can behave quite differently than when they are in a crowd.

Oxygen molecules ordinarily are very active, eager to combine chemically with many other materials. In mob action, oxygen molecules produce burning and rusting. Dr. Sprenglng said.

But jailed in clathrate cells, they can't get together to do this. Each stays chemically inactive.

One future possibility is that oxygen might be trapped this way inside the fuel for rockets. The rocket wouldn't have to carry separate tanks for the fuel and the oxygen with which it must combine to produce power. SET FREE

The trapped molecules inside each cell can be set free by burning the crystalline material, or by dissolving it.

A clathrate is made by combining chemicals so that one becomes physically trapped inside the crystal structure of the other.

Atoms and molecules of a crystal are grouped in a regular pattern, with spaces between. Dr. Sprenglng explains. Molecules of the second material become trapped inside the spaces as the crystal is formed. The spaces or cages in the crystal have to be large enough to hold the gas molecule, but light enough so it can't escape through the "bars."

A gas molecule can move about inside its cage, but not get out. It doesn't combine chemically with the crystal material.

Clathrates can capture liquid or gas molecules.

Little Rock Represents Mob Violence, Unbridled Passions And Utter Defiance of Law

Editor's Note: Nine Negro students are in school, but in Little Rock's problem unsolved. A Pulitzer Prize - winning reporter, who has been on the scene since the violence started, looks back for a long, objective look at what has happened and what's to come.

"By RELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — This is the eye of the hurricane, the dead centre of the storm.

There is the same deceptive calm, the same oppressive feeling th air, the sense of vast, destructive forces swirling toward disaster.

This is Little Rock.

A police car siren screams in the street. People who wouldn't have noticed it a month ago look up anxiously now. A riot starting?

"I've got a loaded shotgun beside my bed," says a man. If he hears a sound in the night he will reach for it.

At night the telephoning starts, the threats and the curses.

"Who is this?" A click. The phone goes dead.

The calls come to parents. Segregationist would like to force a mass boycott of Little Rock High School.

"There's going to be trouble at school . . . Better keep your daughter home." No name.

They come to the father of a boy who delivers the Arkansas Gazette, the Little Rock newspaper fighting Governor Orval Faubus. "If you don't want something to happen to your . . ." No name.

It's hardest on the parents.

Most are letting their children go to the high school—and worrying over what the children may do in reprisal.

Some are keeping their boys and girls away—and worrying for a different reason. A woman, in tears, calls the segregationist citizens council. "My daughter wants to go back. She's falling behind in her studies. What shall I do?"

Soldiers inside a high school . . . Fights and muttered threats there . . . Business slowed to a standstill . . . Feeling between neighbors so deep it may never be bridged . . . The atmosphere heavy with menace, dark and brooding.

Twice a day, the power of federal authority pushes through massive resentment to take nine Negro students to school, against the wishes of most of the people. Seventy per cent? Eight? Who can say?

And no end is in sight in Little Rock. Nothing has been settled. A decision is postponed. But what happens when the troops are withdrawn?

Moderates can only hope. "Maybe people will get used to it . . ."

Segregationists say they are simply waiting. "We can't do much now. But you'll see . . ."

Little Rock is a good looking city, clean and bright with tree-shaded streets. There is a church on almost every block, handsome buildings, good schools. People have two interesting and well-edited newspapers. It is a good community.

Yet tragedy, Little Rock is an ugly symbol. It represents mob violence, unbridled passions, defiance of the law.

It represents the most critical clash between a state and the federal government since the civil war and the reconstruction.

What of the future?

If the "Little Rock nine" should be forced out of school again, it will strengthen the hands of segregationists everywhere. Who can expect compliance with law anywhere in the South?

Yet, if they stay, will segregationist opposition go down like a row of dominoes, with Little Rock the first domino?

Further, is this to be the pattern for integration everywhere? Violence, followed by the rumble of army trucks and naked bayonets?

In short, for both sides, a gauntlet has been thrown.

Perhaps, somehow, reasoning people on both sides will find the compromise. And perhaps history will mark Little Rock as the turning - point in the greatest social struggle of a century.

British Papers Praise Russians But Voice Fear

LONDON (Reuters) — Newspapers today hail Russia's earth satellite as a technical triumph but express concern over its implications for the west.

The Times says:

"Admiration there must be, and also gratitude at such a milestone in scientific progress. But in most people's minds these feelings will not be unalloyed with fear."

The Manchester Guardian says:

"The Americans—or the British—may have better bombs, though there is little enough now to support this assumption, but the Russians have the best means of delivering them."

The Daily Telegraph suggests that the Russian success probably came about because of the advantage inherent in "a dictatorship and a closed economy."

QUESTION OF PRIORITIES

"It is a question of priorities and the power to enforce," it says. "In the United States or Britain, it would not be possible to impose controls of men and materials to right the production of consumer goods and services should languish while military priorities reign supreme."

The Daily Mirror comments:

"The most stupid comment on the satellite launched by the Russians comes from an American admiral — Rear-Admiral Rawson, chief of naval operations. He says: 'It's a hunk of iron almost anybody could launch.'

"Thank heaven most other Western statesmen do not share this childish outlook. The fact is that the Russians have performed a tremendous scientific feat in launching the first manmade moon. They have beaten America to it."

20 New Guinea Natives Laughing Selves to Death

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Twenty New Guinea natives afflicted with the kuru-laughing disease—are laughing themselves to death in Okapa Hospital, in the eastern highlands of New Guinea.

Dr. MacFarlane Burnet, director of the Walter and Keliza Hall Institute for Medical Research in Melbourne, says the disease, probably inherited, is one of the world's rarest and almost always is fatal.

So far, 34 natives are afflicted with kuru.

An Okana hospital official said the walks these victims take from time to time with hysterical outbursts of laughter could be seen.

He said of the 70 victims already are laid down to die, after exhausting themselves with laughter. Soon they'll be paralyzed and die."

The official said he had been told there is one village in the highlands populated with laughing men and women."

Canadian Troops With UNEF Glad to Get Out of Egypt

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NAPLES, Italy (CP) — Canadian troops passing through this southern Italian port after almost a year's service with the United Nations Emergency Force say they are leaving Egypt with few regrets.

All find it a great relief to get away from the barren desert, the tough living conditions and a relatively idle, useless existence among thousands of Arabs with whom they could have little social contact.

Invariably they pay tribute to the high ideals and objectives of the precedent - setting international force but many add that if they have a choice, they will not serve again with a force organized along similar lines.

This group expresses the feeling that the activities of UNEF are unduly hampered by frustrations arising from a civilian-military command and restrictions imposed by the Egyptian government. But things could be worse.

"Sure, we've all had problems and frustrations," said Maj. Stan Tait of New Westminster, B.C., the commanding officer of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers at Rafah.

"But I'd sooner go through a dozen times UNEF's than have to take part in another shooting war.

"We all want to get home and we'll be happy when we're there. But I feel that all personnel, almost just officers, believe in the force and the good it is doing."

There is a strong feeling among Canadian personnel to compare UNEF with the multi-nation force which fought in the Korean War. The Korean force was organized and it acted largely by the United States. American administrative patterns were followed closely.

UNEF, on the other hand, was created by the United Nations General Assembly resolution. No one country was destined to dominate it, but troops of all countries were soon basking in their praise of the job done by Canadians in making it work. A senior Swedish officer said:

"Canada seemed to know naturally how to compromise and improvise to get things done. Without them UNEF would have had a tough time surviving."

Canadians claim the feeling of frustration is caused by the inactions of senior civilian administrators at UNEF headquarters who have little or no military background. Key roles are played by the administrative, finance and supply officers who serve only six months before being transferred to another posting.

"In Korea we at least had the feeling we could get something done," said one Canadian. "We didn't have to spend hours explaining something to a civilian boss who knew little or nothing about a military problem."

Military personnel say they don't object to the administrative officers as such but to the inevitable changes of policy resulting from the frequent meetings they follow. They add that every new man brings with him changes in the procedure or general policy.

One senior officer said: "The first Canadians to land in Egypt last November, said he felt Canada should have played a larger and more dominant role during the early life of the force.

"I don't see it. I see of the force. The more I think we should have been the first in getting our way across. We could have done it then.

"Instead we always gave in to make the other fellow happy. We had to fight to get our personnel in each of the national contingents and tried to make them fit into a pattern established by the administrators. You just can't do that and get results."

The Canadians also are riled over Egyptian restrictions imposed on the activities of the force. Egyptian government officials and customs officers are constantly reiterate UNEF troops are "guests who came to help a friendly country."

They have developed many caustic remarks for these "guests" to abide by. Before a Canadian convoy of trucks can move from one point between the frontier area and the canal zone a two days' notification is necessary, permission must be obtained from the Egyptian liaison staff. Stringent regulations govern the movement of all UNEF aircraft in Egypt.

Canadians generally feel these regulations merely create friction. They would like to see them eliminated, but prospects are for even more restrictions for the new group of Canadians than have existed in the past.

Four Ministers to Represent Canada at Top-Level Talks On Canadian-U.S. Trade

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Top-level ministerial talks open in Washington today on Canadian - American trade problems.

They come after two big meetings in Canada aimed at angling more of Canada's trade toward Britain and other Commonwealth countries.

Four ministers will represent Canada at the conference, a revival of a joint ministerial committee established in 1953 by Canada and the U.S. to settle their trade difficulties. The committee has met only twice.

Canada's major grievance will be the U.S. wheat giveaway program, particularly its American practice of using that program to bribe other countries to buy wheat - buying contracts. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has charged the U.S. program is violating the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The meeting, however, also is certain to discuss the trade talks in Canada.

At Mont Tremblant, Que., last week, Commonwealth ministers agreed to hold a full-scale Commonwealth trade and economic conference next year.

And at a three-day bilateral meeting in Ottawa, Britain proposed to Canada the gradual implementation of a free-trade area between them. Canada made no decision on that major proposal.

Canada agreed to send a major trade mission to Britain to try to step up this country's buying in the United Kingdom.

This Canadian policy of attempting to swing a segment of Canadian trade into the British orbit from the U.S. forms the background for the Washington meeting.

Canada's representatives are Finance Minister Fleming, External Affairs Minister Smith, Trade Minister Churchill and Agriculture Minister Harkness.

They will meet their opposite numbers in the U.S. administration: State Secretary Dulles, Treasury Secretary Anderson, Commerce Secretary Weeks and Agriculture Secretary Benson.

The Conservative government says there are dangers in the growing trade between Canada and the U.S. That trade is heavily weighted in favor of U.S. manufacturers and exporters.

Last year Canada piled up a record $1,283,000,000 deficit in American trade. In the first eight months of this year the deficit was running at $976,000,000—only slightly below the level of a year earlier.

Informants here say no definite decisions are expected to be taken during the meeting. Another major topic will be the heavy U.S. investment in Canadian industry and natural resources—a flow of capital into this country which offsets the deficit in commodity trade.

Canada's ministers are not likely to seek any steps which would cut this capital influx. But they may urge measures to encourage Canadian investment in U.S.-owned subsidiaries in this country.

Await Moscow's Reaction to Saturday Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — State department officials awaited Moscow reaction today for evidence on whether the unprecedented Dulles - Zhukov talks Saturday will lead to some improvement in Soviet-American relations.

Secretary of State Secretary Dulles and his aides were studying Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's comments in the person-to-person discussion to see whether they speed up new avenues of approach.

Dulles and Gromyko met in Dulles' home for 3 3/4 hours. A joint statement said they talked about the Middle East, disarmament, the European situation and contacts between this country and Russia.

TALKS HELPFUL

The statement said that exchange of views had been helpful in clarifying the policies of the two governments on these major areas of common interest. Gromyko told reporters upon leaving Dulles' house, with a friendly farewell handshake at the front door, that he considered the session "useful."

Informed officials said neither man had put forward any new ideas or proposals for dealing with the problems raised.

MORE SATELLITES TO FOLLOW ONE NOW CIRCLING EARTH, REPORTS RUSSIA

Russian scientists attending the International conference on Rockets and Earth Satellites in Washington toast Russia's launching of the world's first artificial moon now streaking around the globe 560 miles out in space. All satellite experts, S. M. Poloskov, at left, A. A. Blagonravov and A. M. Rasnikin attend a party given scientists at the Russian embassy. A multiple-stage rocket launched the earth satellite on October 4, the Russians are shooting it upward at about fives miles a second. They said the satellite, a globe described as 23 inches in diameter and weighing 185 lbs., can be seen in the orbit with glasses and followed by radio through instruments it carries. Plans to follow this one, they added.

Ham radio operators all across Canada sat up all night following the launching, listening for radio signals on the wave length of the Soviet moon which sound like a deep beep, beep, beep. Gil Stevens, above, of Toronto, was one of the few to pick up the satellite broadcasts more than once. His two signals were almost one hour and 35 minutes apart. In announcing the launching of the first earth satellite ever put into orbit, the Soviet Union claimed a victory over the United States, which is planning to launch its satellites next spring.

Teamsters Union Starts Journey On Rocky Road

MAIMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The International Brotherhood of Teamsters, with president-elect James Hoffa at the wheel, headed out on a rocky road today in the wake of its convention here.

Pending in federal court in Washington is an effort by New York attorney - general Javits to get members to discredit the acts of the convention on claims of "intrigue" voting delegations.

The AFL-CIO council meets in New York Oct. 14. It had ordered the convention under pain of expulsion not to elect Hoffa and said both Hoffa and the retiring president, Dave Beck were unfit to stay in organized labor.

If the council suspends the 1,500,000-member teamsters union, and the AFL-CIO convention expels the teamsters at its Atlantic City convention Dec. 5, Hoffa has made preparations for a court fight to block the ouster.

PERJURY CHARGE

Hoffa faces charges of wire-tapping conspiracy and perjury in New York Supreme Court Oct. 15.

That is the same day the 44-year-old Detroit labor leader was scheduled to succeed Beck. Hoffa probably will resume the office earlier through arrangement revealed Sunday by Beck.

Beck, 63, told reporters he has suffered Hoffa his resignation effective anytime Hoffa wants it. He said that probably would be in a week or so. Beck's five-year term is scheduled to expire Dec. 5.

"Jimmy's to let me know," Beck said. "I'm terribly anxious to get away."

Beck will receive a $50,000-a-year pension.

Express Calls Trade Parley Disappointment

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Express says the communique issued at the conclusion of Anglo-Soviet trade talks in Ottawa Friday is a "miserable disappointment."

The Independent, right - wing newspaper, says that "When Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker made his bold and thrilling offer to switch to Britain 15 per cent of the market enjoyed in Canada by the Americans, who would have expected the outcome to be so paltry?"

What has emerged from the talks, it "is not action, not a plan, but only fine words concealing a disappointing commitment," the Express says in an editorial.

The Manchester Guardian comments that the talks had ended "without any important decisions being taken." The Liberal newspaper adds that it looks as though it will be left to the British governments to make the next move and asks whether any attempt would be made to keep the free trade idea afloat.

Gomulka, Communist Boss In Poland, Twice Escaped Firing Squad in Long Career

By COLIN FROST

WARSAW (AP)—One of the strangest facts about Wladyslaw Gomulka is that he is alive at all.

Twice this soft-spoken Communist with steel grey eyes has escaped the firing squad. It was amazing that he had lasted long enough to step from the shadows and pull off his quiet revolution last October.

A year in office, he is one of the world's remarkable paradoxes: A Communist accepted as leader by a nation as thoroughly anti - Communist as any in Europe.

A year ago he was a political unknown.

The youngsters who helped as much as anyone to bring him to power have been fed from the Marxist textbooks that called him a deviationist and said his Titoist theories would eventually stimulate the possibility of building socialism."

Today they know little more. He is a politician who never patted a baby, has the slight grey-suited figure, his quiet even voice have nothing of the demagogue.

With his horn-rimmed glasses, his wispy grey hair and slim, long - fingered hands he looks more like a successful lawyer than a non-conformist Communist.

Since 1947 Gomulka has shown a consistency of thought remarkable in a Communist and his subtlety.

But at 52, he neither looks nor acts like a sick man.

Walking and swimming are his only hobbies. He takes his few weeks holiday in Poland's southern mountains.

He lives simply in a two-room apartment with his tiny dark-haired wife Zofia and a 20-year-old son. His salary of 4,000 zloty a month—less than twice that of a skilled worker at the time—is magnificent.

Now Gomulka is trying to make the Polish Communist party into his own austere image.

The crackdown on party privileges (top Communists' wives once bought their groceries in shops closed to the public) and the open war on corrupt officials does come straight from him.

Until the late 1940s, his career was indistinguishable from that of a Communist fighting his way to the top. At 16, according to the official biography, he was already a revolutionary and soon knew the inside of a jail.

He was in jail in 1938 when Stalin ordered Polish Communist leaders to Moscow and liquidated them. Thus he escaped the first firing squad.

Gomulka was released in 1939 at the outbreak of war and fought in the underground. Polish Communists reorganized as the Polish Workers Party and by 1943 Gomulka was their recognized leader.

In the post - war government Gomulka was first secretary of the Communists and worked as hard as anyone to put the whole nation under Communist control. At the same time, he began to preach what by Soviet Communist standards was blackest heresy.

He was perhaps the first to recognize the bitter anti-Russian feeling which lifted deep into the Polish character. And he recognized above all the rugged independence of the peasantry.

His first real break with Soviet teaching came in January 1947. Gomulka told the Communists:

"We have rejected the system of collective farms because under Polish conditions it would be economically and politically harmful."

In May 1948 he made a speech to the central committee. It has never been fired. It is a fair assumption that he spoke against merging the Communist and socialist parties.

Gomulka found himself again in jail. But unlike Czech and Hungarian devlationists, he somehow escaped the firing squad again.

From the moment of his release in 1955 Gomulka started planning his return to power.

Party leaders tried to neutralize his influence by adopting some of his ideas and offering him lesser posts.

Gomulka was playing for bigger stakes. He built a core of supporters inside the central committee and in two or three key Warsaw plants.

In October he was back, a popular hero because of his straight talk with Nikita Khrushchev.

His first speech was a devastating indictment of the policies of the previous eight years. Since then he has gone slow on criticism and has pushed through a series of hard economic measures.

It is beyond doubt that Poles are getting a little better and dressing better than they were a year ago.

Escaped North Korea Pilot Trying to Get Mother to U.S.

By GEORGE KELLY

NEWARK, Del. (AP)—Kenneth Rowe has $100,000 in the bank. He's earning an engineering degree, owns a car, plans to make a down payment on a house.

All of this came about since the September day in 1953 when Rowe flew a MIG-15 to Seoul, handed his Russian MIG-15 on an American airfield in Korea and was awarded $100,000.

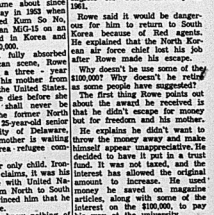
Today, almost fully absorbed into American society, Rowe is still fighting a three - year battle to bring his mother from Russia to the United States.

"I think if she dies before she comes here I won't be happy," said the former North Korean pilot. A 26-year-old native of Berdyansky, Russia, Rowe said his mother is waiting in South Korea—she's 60 pounds.

Kenneth is her only child. Irene Dudin, Rowe's sister, claims that it was this statement that convinced him that he too must escape.

Rowe said he knew nothing of the $100,000 offer for a MIG-15 by Gen. Mark Clark until after he had been stationed in Manchuria where he had taken part in the famous Panmunjom Nation forces.

Rowe was transferred to a base near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang and took off Sept. 21, 1953 on a routine reconnaissance flight. In 13 minutes he was waggling his wings, flashing all his lights and preparing his landing gear over Kimpo air force base in South Korea. Both Russian and Americans would hold their fire.



Stepping from his plane, the Russian pilot walked into a series of events that took him even farther from his mother than before. In fact he was permitted only two hours with her before he was flown to Okinawa. Officers told him through Japanese interpreters that it would be easy for him to arrange his mother's entry into the United States.

He began trying to get approval soon after his arrival in this country. Unsuccessful, he tried to get her visitor's visa, but he too was a visitor, so that failed. Her name now is Mrs. Vera Rosalia Ist for U.S. Immigration. Rowe himself will be eligible for U.S. citizenship in 1960.

Rowe said it would be dangerous for him to return to South Korea because of Red agents. He explained that the North Korean air force had lost his job after Rowe made his escape.

Why doesn't he use some of the $100,000? Rowe said that as far as some people have suggested? Rowe said he has received gifts about the award he received is that he didn't escape for money but for freedom for himself and his mother.

He explains he didn't want to throw the money away and make his escape appear commercialized. He decided to have it put in a trust fund. It was not taxed, and the interest has allowed the original amount to increase. He used money to be saved on magazine articles, along with some of the interest on the $100,000, to pay his way at the university.

Two Detectives Face $50,000 Damage Suit

TORONTO (CP) — A young bride who spent four days in jail after her parents swore out a warrant for her arrest has started action against two London, Ont., detectives for $50,000 on a claim of false arrest.

Her husband is seeking $25,000 from the same detectives on the grounds of loss of his wife's services.

Writs initiating the action were filed in court at Osgoode Hall on behalf of Mary Goudie, 18, and her husband, Robert, who live in Montreal.

Defendants are detectives John V. Parker and Glen L. Oliver.

Lawyer Richard J. Hassard said the girl and Goudie went from Montreal to London to be married last March because under Quebec law the girl was too young to be married without consent of her parents.

He said the girl's father, Walter Herron, swore out a warrant in Montreal for the girl's arrest on a charge of living immorally and the warrant was transferred to London police who served it. The girl was arrested in London April 20 and held in jail three days until released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Complaints against the girl were subsequently withdrawn in social welfare court in Montreal.

Dess Buckland Talks to Many Camera Fans

CAMPBELLFORD — Members of the Campbellford Campers Club were hosts this week to members of camera clubs from Belleville, Trenton, Peterborough and camera fans from many surrounding communities when they sponsored a visit to the town by Mr. Les Buckland, managing editor of Canadian Photographer magazine.

Mr. Buckland, who spoke to members of the Rotary Club at noon, and later addressed a large group at the Campbellford High School auditorium, was introduced by Mr. William Reid. Mr. Buckland was a free lance photographer in Europe for five years before coming to Canada three years ago. He became editor of Canada's only photographic magazine and has travelled more than 20,000 miles during the past three years promoting photography in general. He is leaving the magazine soon to accept a position with a large United States photographic manufacturer.

Mr. Buckland's address was both informative and humorous. He pointed out several rules which one must follow in order to improve his photography, and illustrated his points with color slides.

The Campbellford Camera Club will resume their regular monthly meetings after the summer recess on the last Monday of October, when an election of officers for 1958 will be held. At the October meeting, members will present the best slides they have taken during the summer, and will compete in various categories for an award of merit offered by the club.

Booths' Peewees Edge Simcoe 15-14 To Square OASA Titular Playoff

A grandslam home run which featured a six-run sixth-inning explosion gave the Booth's TV peewees the margin of victory in their second game of the best-of-three OASA championship series against Simcoe here on Saturday. The score was 15-14. The third and deciding game will be played in Oshawa next Saturday.

Jim Ross, Booth hurler, was one of the heroes of the game. He fired the base-loaded homer that turned the tide of victory although he was touched for 14 hits by the Simcoe batters.

It was Ross' second homer of the game. He pounded out the first in the second inning after Bob Ethier had driven out his first four-bagger. Ethier also slammed out a circuit hit in the sixth-inning outbreak. Ricky Denard hit the fifth homer for the Bombs, a two-run wallop in the third inning.

Simcoe was leading 12-9 with victory practically in their grasp when the Booths came to bat in the sixth. They made a valiant effort to come back in the sixth, scoring two runs, but it was not enough. Ross retired the side striking out two in the last innings.

The visitors scored one run in the first inning and three each in the second and third frames. They added five in the fourth to grab a substantial lead and their last pair in the sixth.

Booths sent two runners across in the second inning and three more in the fourth. They came within striking distance with four runs in the fifth, then came the six-running explosion in the next frame and that was the ball game.

Ross went the route for Booths whiffing five and walking six, four of them in the fourth when Simcoe pushed across five runs.

Bill Slavin hurled the game for Simcoe being pounded for fifteen hits, walking four and striking out two. Caseell, with four hits paced the Simcoe youngsters while Mcinally good for three.

Ross and Ethier were tops for Booths with two home runs each with Denard having a homer and a single. Boyle came through with a pair of singles.

The teams:

Simcoe — Graham, Neidrauer, O'Heron, Stanley, Mcinally, Caswell, McDonald, Kownsky, Demiller, Kawn.

Booths — Denard, Boyle, Mullins, Wardle, Glancey, Ethier, Ross, Mitchell, Mott, Williamson, Boomhour.

Soccer Teams Tie

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto Italia battled Montreal Hungaria to a 1-1 tie Sunday in a controversial inter-city soccer contest. The Italia team is a member of the outlawed Toronto National League. The Quebec Football Association warned the local National League (eastern division) that it could not sanction the game.

Tibor Stankovics scored for Hungaria in the first half. Pete Cassin tied the score with a second-half goal.

Dodgers Waiting For Reply From L.A. Council

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Time's a wastin'." a Brooklyn Dodgers official told the Los Angeles city council, which today faces a showdown on the proposed construction of baseball club here.

The remark was made by Henry J. Walsh, attorney and secretary of the Dodgers, after conferring with members of the council Sunday.

The contract comes up for what is expected to be a final vote although some minority members indicated they would try to delay action for a few days in view of the fact that the National league has given Dodgers president Walter O'Malley an extension until Oct. 15 to make up his mind about moving.

Mayor Norris Poulson says he is confident he has the 10 votes necessary to approve the contract. The council has 15 members.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Hartney, a gelding owned by Col. K. R. Marshall of Toronto, scored the 21st victory of his career in winning the $7,500 Seaway Stakes at New Woodbine Saturday.

A daily double of $1,369 was recorded when Frivolette and Pinal won the first two races. There were 31 winning tickets on the double.

Hartney finished two lengths ahead. Noble Bruin ended third a neck behind Canadian Champ.

The co-featured race, the $7,500 Maple Leaf Stakes was won by Turn Me Loose, owned by Miss Blanche Armstrong of Toronto. Taffy Smash was second while Silly Lilly ran third.

NEW YORK (CP)—Greentree Stable's Riley broke his right hind leg during the running of the $35,400 Manhattan Handicap at Belmont Park Saturday and was destroyed.

The 11-year-old race was won in 2:29 2-5 by Woodley Lane Farm's Reneged, who finished two lengths ahead of Carvet. Third Brother was third.

The purse of $27,300 brought Reneged's earnings in three years to $258,550.

At Chicago, R. Douglas Prewitt's favored Terra Firma shaded Elegante to win the $29,400 Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap.

Terra Firma ran the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5. Music Man Fox finished third. The victory was worth $20,300 to Terra Firma.

River Divide Farm's Deathion and Lord Jeep finished in a dead heat in the $25,000-added John Alden Handicap at Suffolk Downs, Boston.

Windsor Wins Int. Industrial Title, Defeats Point Anne 7-2 in 2nd Game

Windsor Duplates behind the four-hit hurling of Dan Renaud won the OASA Intermediate industrial championship on their home diamond Saturday, defeating Point Anne 7-2 to sweep the best-of-three titular series in two straight games.

Renaud hurled an outstanding game holding the Pointers to a single hit until the eighth when cashing up for the ninth to allow two more clouts and both Point Anne's runs. He struck out four and issued two free passes.

The Windsor bats found Pat Marsele's offerings for nine safe clouts, four of them clustered in the seventh, when the winners pushed across four runs to tie up the victory. Marsele had allowed but five hits up to this point. He whiffed five and walked one.

The winners took a one-run lead in the second innings and added two more in the third. They put the game on ice with that quartet of markers in the seventh.

Windsor scored their first run in the second off Zdonek's lead-off double, the left fielder scoring on Ethier's follow-up single. Singles by Ethier, and Zdonek, a hit batsman and a Point Anne left-fielder bobble were good for two runs in the third frame.

G. Renaud drew a walk to open the seventh and was sacrificed to second by brother Dan. Ethier clouted out a single scoring Renaud and later scoring himself on Glade's pulout. Brooks drove out a home run and Zdonek banged out his third hit going to second on a centre-field bobble and scoring on Ulicny's single. Bacon popped out to short to end the rally.

Sammy Mulholland, the first man up in the game, hit safely and that was all the Point safeties until the eighth when Bradshaw singled and died on second base.

The Pointers started a rally in the ninth when Mulholland was hit by the pitcher and was sacrificed to second by Genereaux. Hull was tossed out and Pete Green rapped out the third Point Anne hit scoring Mulholland. Green later scored on the Point's only extra-base clout a double by Pat Gilmour. Elliott flied out to end the rally.

Mulholland, Green, Gilmour and Bradshaw were the only Point Anne hitters.

Zdonek paced Windsor with a double and two singles. Ulicny and Ethier each had two singles and Brooks a homer. Bacon with a single rounded out the Windsor hitting.

The teams:

Point Anne	—	Mulholland, Genereaux, Hull, Green, Gilmour, Elliott, Bovay, Bradshaw, Marsele.
Windsor	—	Ethier, Glaude Brooks, Zdonek, Martinelli, Ulicny, Bacon, Rawson, Renaud.

Golden Gaels Lose to Varsity, Mustangs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Mustangs of University of Western Ontario, after a long cellie in the intercollegiate football cellar, served notice during the weekend they're back among the big boys of the conference.

The football machine that turned out Doug Mitchell for the Montreal Alouettes and Don Getty for the Edmonton Eskimos came up with a couple of crashing fullbacks Saturday to plaster McGill University Redmen 26-7 in Montreal.

Last year's champion Queen's University Golden Gaels and second-place University of Toronto teams most likely to recede this year—met at Kingston, with the Blues punching out a 16-8 victory almost by accident.

One of the Blues' two touchdowns came almost by halfback Peter Malk got a bad snap while trying a 30-yard field goal in the second quarter, dropped, Malk got off a weak and wobbly desperation pass to end Doug Risk and Risk flopped over the goal-line for an unconverted touchdown.

LONG PASS CLICKS

In the third frame, quarterback Bryan Aston looped a 40-yard pass to end Bert Kellogg and Kellogg raced another 15 yards for the converted touchdown. Malk, the game's hero, kicked a 20-yard field goal and Risk scored a single to round out the Toronto scoring.

Queen's lone touchdown came on a 30-yard pass from quarterback Bob Campbell to halfback Ron Stewart in the end zone, with Jocko Thompson converting.

Malk was tagged on Thompson's third-quarter kick for the last Queen's point.

At Montreal, fullbacks Bill Britton and Dale Creighton bulled over for one touchdown each and Roger Stewart carried Britton's wide pitchout 10 yards for another, all three converted by Willie Casanova.

Casanova added a field goal, and end Morgan Clark a safety touch scored when McGill quarterback Dick Carr was nailed in his own end zone.

McGill's scoring came on a first-quarter single by fullback Jan Sandalius and a breakaway touchdown by end Johnny Bennett.

Obtain Winger

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League have announced they have obtained a 23-year-old left-winger from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

He is Ross (Butch) Graham, a six-foot, 185-pound player who was with Stratford Indians of the Ontario Hockey Association last year.

Barons Whipped By All-Stars

ROCHESTER (CP)—Erupting for four third-period goals, the American Hockey League All-Stars Sunday whipped the Calder Cup champion Cleveland Barons 5-2 in the annual all-star game Sunday night. A crowd of 3,219 was on hand.

Jimmy Anderson of Springfield Indians paced the winner's attack with a pair of goals. Paul Masnick of Rochester Americans and Willie Marshall and Dunc Fisher of Hershey Bears shared the others.

Bill Shvetz and Dan Polizzani scored for Barons.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Big, genial Jim Hendry, general manager of the Cleveland Barons, last year's American League hockey champions, sat in the press box in the new Preston Community Arena on Friday night, watching his proteges hand the Canadian national senior champions from Whitby a 7-1 lacing.

The Barons with the victory that night had swept the four-game exhibition series with the Dunlops. But Hendry was not in a gloating mood. In fact he paid a splendid tribute to Manager Wren Blair and his Dunlops.

"Certainly we defeated them. And that is what I expected the Barons to do. After all they are the American League champions and should be able to beat a topflight senior "A" club. But that is not taking anything away from the Dunlops as far as the team goes. I think they have a splendid club which should bring home to Canada the world title next February. Besides my boys have been training since September 15 and have played quite a number of exhibition games. Whithy has been on skates only a couple of weeks and in my opinion they have done a fine job to extend the Barons. If they can't defeat the best Europe has, then we had better send over the Detroit Red Wings or another National Hocky League club.

Someone, we think it was Max Jackson of Kingston TV, Radio and Appliance paraphrased Ogden Nash in an unusually News which was written by a one in Woodstock and which expressed the writer's opinion that the line between hockey classifications, especially senior "A" and senior "B" was "purely, imaginary."

Hendy snorted. "Don't believe it. There is as much difference between these classifications as between the American League and senior "A" or the American and the National Hockey League. I have seen many a boy who showed sensational poise as a promising junior went as far as senior "A" and reached his peak there. I have seen players who lacked that certain something that is the definite difference between a minor and a major league player."

BOOTH'S PEEWEES WIN

Lee Culhane's Booth's TV peewees exploded suddenly out of a 'blue sky in their OASA preseason final at CNRA Park Saturday and scored enough runs in a six-tally explosion to edge the starry Simcoe youngsters 15-14 in a free-wheeling, free-hitting contest. Young Jimmy Rose, who has seven playoff victory, actually was the hero of the piece with a pair of round-trippers, one of them a grandslammer in the sixth. Bobby Elder also came through with a pair of home runs and Ricky Denard contributing one. Culhane's kids were down by a substantial margin before they ignited the sixth-frame powder keg to snatch the win out of what looked like certain defeat.

On the youngsters' shoulders rests Belleville lone hope for an OASA provincial title since the Point Anne Cementmen, the only other squad remaining in playoff series, were eliminated Saturday by the Windsor Duplates. The Oji Pointers have held the Canada Cement cup for the past two years but they were up against tough opposition on Saturday and were forced to bow out of further competition.

Bootie face the final test next Saturday when they meet Simcoe in Oshawa in the third and deciding game for the Ontario championship. Culhane's kids are keyed up over this tilt for they have been bridesmaids, but not brides, for not a few seasons. Three or four times they have reached the semi-finals or finals but could not come through with the final punch to pull a title out of the fire. Simcoe was the team that eliminated them a year ago. They will go all out on Saturday to bring home their first titular bacon. More power to them.

BOOSTER DANCE

President Dick Beare of the McFarland Booster club, and his executive and committees were highly pleased with the results of the "Meet-th-Macs" dance last Friday evening. What looked at first to be a slim crowd turned out to be a gathering of well over 200—and the evening was a pronounced success. The greater number of the Macs were on hand with their wives and were formally introduced over the public address system by President Beare. The Macs were highly delighted with their reception—and the hospitality of the Booster Club. A tasty buffet lunch was served and everybody went home at one a.m. after a highly enjoyable evening.

POINT ANNE OUT

Point Anne could not do much with Dan.Renaud's shoots in Windsor Saturday, the righthanded batting four-hitter on them for a 7-2 win and the OASA intermediate industrial title. Renaud blanked the Pointe with two hits for eight innings, then eased up to allow two hits and all the Point runs. Pat Marsden was knocked for three hits. So that's the end of the softball line for the Ox Pointers as far as OASA play goes. They proved to be a fine club and were a credit to the game and the league. Windsor proved the toughest opposition the Point met in three years of industrial play, and they had just a shade too much for Phil Loft's crew.

Detroit Lions Defeat Packers

NEW YORK (CP) — Detroit Lions pounded Green Bay Packers 24-14 Sunday in a National Football League game punctuated by fist fights in the last quarter.

A crowd of 32,000 saw the contest at Green Bay.

Washington Redskins ground down Chicago Cardinals 37-14 in Chicago.

Veteran quarterback Y. A. Tittle engineered three spectacular pass plays to give San Francisco 49ers a 23-20 upset victory over Los Angeles Rams. A capacity crowd of nearly 60,000 saw the 49ers come from behind.

Milwaukee Stages Dramatic 10-Inning Triumph to Even Fall Classic at 2 Games Each

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Practically a new world series started today as Milwaukee's Lew Burdette and New York's Whitey Ford go after their second victory in the fifth game of the October classic with an all-important 3-2 edge for the winners hanging in the balance.

With the series all square after two victories apiece, after Milwaukee's dramatic 10-inning, 7-6 triumph over the Yankees Sunday, the see-saw battle must return to New York no matter what happens today.

Even the most partisan New York rooters, who watching the Braves bounce back twice to pull abreast of the world champions, must be convinced that the Yankees are in for the fight of their lives to retain their laurels. Having a rubber collapse by either team, the series seems almost certain to go the limit of seven games distance.

After New York's 13-3 triumph Saturday in the third game, the Yankees had a chance to wind up the series here Sunday's fine comeback by the Braves wiped out that hope.

For the last contest at County Stadium here today the weather-man said there will be good baseball weather for the game, scheduled to start at 3 p.m. EDT. A victory for either team today will leave the winners needing just one triumph in New York. Since Tuesday has been set aside for travel the issue can not be decided before Wednesday at the earliest.

"Those National Leaguers have proven to me what I've thought right from the beginning," New York manager Casey Stengel said Sunday. "I warned my fellows at the start not to press too tightly. Make no mistake about it, this Milwaukee team is tough. It has the pitching, the defense and the hitting. It proved that in every game but one. Tonight I feel that we have all my pitchers but one. That's Ford. Now we'll see how those fellows do against him this time."

In Ford, the Braves will be facing a pitcher who muffled them with five hits in a 3-1 success in the opener.

In Burdette, the Yankees will be facing a pitcher who has shackled them with seven hits in his 4-2 triumph in the second game.

Undaunted by his team's failure to disturb Ford in his previous effort, Haney asserted he will use the same lineup which came so close to being shut out by the lefthander. That means Andy Pafko will be in right field in place of rookie Bob Hazle and Joe Adcock will be back at first base replacing Frank Torre.

Stengel said he would return to the lineup that assaulted six Milwaukee pitchers in Saturday's rout. Jerry Lumpe will be at third, Tony Kubek in left and Harry Simpson at first base.

WENT THE ROUTE

It was 36 - year - old Warren Spahn,Falls' opponent by the bludgeoning bats of Henry Aaron, Torre, Johnny Logan and Eddie Mathews, who gained the all-important Milwaukee victory Sunday. He went the nerve-wracking 10-inning distance despite only a three-day rest and allowed 11 Yankee base hits that included a last ditch three-run homer by Elston Howard and a near-fatal triple by Hank Bauer.

Until the ninth, Spahn was superb. He had limited the Yankee powerhouse to only six hits and had not permitted a run after the first inning. From the second through the seventh, he had faced the minimum of three batters an inning. Two double plays wiped out the only two hits he allowed in that interim.

THIRD DOUBLE PLAY

A double by Andy Carey and a pinch single by Lumpe put Yankee runners on first and third in the eighth but a third twin killing, snuffed out that threat.

The ninth was a nightmare for Spahn. After retiring the first two batters, the brilliant southpaw seemed certain of an easy 9-1 triumph but a tremendous Yankee rally left the score tied at 4-4 and the partisan crowd of 45,804 stunned beyond speech.

Hardly before Spahn knew what had hit him, Yogi Berra Gil McDougald singled and Howard, connecting with a 2-2 pitch, sent the ball screeching into the left field bleachers for a mighty three-run homer.

HIT BY PITCHER

Spahn managed to wiggle out of that inning with little further damage but in the 10th, again after he retired the first two batters, Kubek beat out an infield hit and scored on a triple by Bauer. All seemed set when the Braves came to bat in their half. But Tommy Byrne, who had taken over in the eighth, hit pinch-hitter Nippy Jones with the first pitch for his 20th career pinch ace, who had saved numerous games for the Yankees during the regular season, was summoned from the bullpen.

Red Schoendienst sacrificed pinch runner Felix Mantilla to second. Logan smashed a double into the left field corner to tie the score. Then Mathews, after pitching the count to 3-1, smashed a fast ball over the right field fence, breaking up the game and sending the jubilant crowd into hysterics. It also hung the loss on Curtis.

Six of the seven Braves' runs were manufactured by home runs. Besides Mathews' payoff wallop, there were those of Aaron in the fourth, Torre in the fourth inning, off starter Tom Sturdivant, who had pitched one-hit ball through the first five innings.

FIRST AT HOME

In the process, however, Logan ted off with a walk and Mathews got his first hit of the series. He scored on a single by Aaron, who had hit a home run in Saturday's losing cause, did it again with a shot over the left field fence, putting the Braves in front, 3-1. Torre's blow came later with another home run, the first he has ever hit at County Stadium.

The Yankees opened the scoring quickly. Kubek beat out a bunt in the first inning and, after two were out, Berra walked and McDougald singled home Kubek.

Spahn, however, got Howard to hit into a force play and did not permit another Yankee to reach second until Carey led off the eighth with a double.

Tony Kubek Hero In Yanks 12-3 Win Saturday

By JACK HAND

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Tony Kubek, a 20-year-old Milwaukee boy raised in his home town's first world series game Saturday with two home runs in a 12-3 New York Yankees victory over the Braves.

Kubek, who played five positions for the Yanks in his rookie year but hit only three homers in 127 games, drove in four runs with his two blasts.

Mickey Mantle also homered, after Kubek singled in the fourth inning.

Six Milwaukee pitchers, starting with Bob Buhl, eased the Yanks' way with 11 walks as New York set a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Henry Aaron, whose two-run homer rekindled hopes in the fifth and made the score 7-3, left eight runners on base to tie the National League homer and runs-batted-in record held with three on in the second and sixth and two on in the first.

Yankee starter Bob Turley walked four and allowed three hits before Casey Stengel brought in Don Larsen in the second.

SET RECORD

A total of 19 walks by the six Milwaukee pitchers and two Yankee hurlers set a new record. The old mark was 18, set by the Yankees and Giants Oct. 3, 1936.

Kubek hit Buhl's third pitch into the right field seats in the first.

Walks to Mantle and Yogi Berra and a wild pitch gave Turley an 8th inning, one-run lead. Gil McDougald's sacrifice fly, Harry Simpson, first of three Yank first basemen, singled home Berra.

Kubek had men on first and second with none out and loaded the bases with two out in the first but Turley got off the hook by throwing a third strike past Aaron.

A walk to Bob Hazle, Del Rice's single and Red Schoendienst's single produced a run in the second. Turley recovered to strike out Johnny Logan but when he walked Mathews on a 2-2 pitch Stengel lifted him.

DAVIS BOO BIRD

Stengel drew boos by his appearance after it had been reported Friday that he snubbed the welcome party held in the mayor and some Yankee was supposed to have sneered "bush" at the planned celebration.

—— more Yank runs came in the third off Juan Pizarro, the 20-year-old Puerto Rican southpaw who had relieved Bob Rush in the first. Singles by Mantle and Berra and a walk to pinch-hitter Elston Howard had loaded the bases with only one out. Jerry Lumpe singled to left for Berra and McDougald who had reached first while Mantle was being cut down at the plate on his grounder to third.

Gene Conley gave up the next pair of Yankee runs in the fourth on Kubek's single and Mantle's home run.

The Yanks scored five runs in the seventh against Bob Trowbridge. Walks to McDougald, Jerry Coleman and Larsen filled them up with one out. Hank Bauer singled home the first two. Kubek's second homer of the day brought Larsen and Bauer romping in front of him.

It was the most lopsided score since the Yanks thumped the Giants 13-1 in the fifth game of the 1951 set.

'I Love Eddie' Chatter Theme In Braves' Dressing Room

By JERRY LISKA

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Reporters virtually had to kick down the dressing room door of the delirious Milwaukee Braves Sunday.

Some 15 minutes after Ed Mathews clouted his two - run homer which gave the Braves a remarkable 7-5 victory over New York Yankees, the sports writers spilled eagerly into Milwaukee's joyous clubhouse.

Gendarmes had held the writers outside while the Braves congratulated each other, peeled off sweaty work togs and enjoyed the presence of TV star Desi Arnaz, who somehow scooped the lads of the fourth estate.

Arnaz is one of the stars of the I Love Lucy show but the theme in the Braves' dressing room was "I love Eddie."

Mathews had to explain and then explain again how he measured a fast ball from the fifth Yankee pitcher, Bob Grim, to drill it over the right field fence for the final two runs of the thrilling game.

The 25-year-old Mathews, a "bust" in the first three games of the series, told of borrowing first baseman Joe Adcock's bat on the instep." Berra conceded to break his slump of nine hitless trips. He drilled in the fourth to end the drought. Then Eddie talked of the big clout in the 10th.

"It was a fast ball I hit off Grim with a 2-2 count," said the baseman. "I knew it had the distance and I got the best feeling of my life. For a second I got scared. Hank Bauer (Yankee right fielder) rapped his hand into his glove like he had a chance. But he didn't. It was gone."

Mathews' dramatic smash came after Johnny Logan had doubled home pinch-runner Felix Mantilla from second. Mantilla ran for Nippy Jones, who got plunked on the foot by Tommy Byrne while pinch - hitting for pitcher Warren Spahn.

It wasn't just an ordinary plunking. Umpire Augie Donatelli first missed the play. Then the ball became the object of in-tense scrutiny. Yankee catcher Yogi Berra seized it while the Braves bollered it should be inspected for polish from Jones' shoe. Donatelli looked at it, saw no black marking and waved Jones to first.

In the dressing room, Jones said: "Certainly it hit me, right the same fact in the Yankee clubhouse.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel said: "We did all right—we came back pretty good. Everybody booted it away. We got ahead in the 10th but couldn't hold it."

Stengel also explained why he took out Byrne after the left-hander hit Jones with the ball. The Yankee manager called in wanted a low-ball pitcher." The left-hander Don Larsen was Red Schoendienst who batted left-handed and sacrificed. Then came the right-handed-swinging Logan whose booming double tied it up.

In each dressing room there was vivid example of how fleeting fame was in the hectic game. Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, who pitched 10 dogged innings for the victory, was asked only what kind of pitch he served Elston Howard, New York third baseman for his three-run homer which put the score at 4-4 in the ninth.

"I'd say it was a sinker that turned out to be a stinker," said the Bravez ace lefty.

In the Yankee dressing room, Howard was a forgotten man although his powerful homer was a magnificent clutch performance on a 2-2 pitch which theoretically could have been the last Spahn toss of the game.

Another Yankee star who dressed in comparative privacy was Hank Bauer. His two-out triple in the 10th scored Tony Kubek, who beat out an infield hit just before, for what seemed a 5-4 victory.

Alouettes, Rough Riders And TiCats All Even For Big Four Title

Toronto Argos Upset Dope By Trouncing Als 41-31; Hamilton Beats Ottawa 18-17

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A three-way traffic jam has developed at the top of the Big Four football title race among Ottawa, Montreal and Hamilton and each is casting wary eyes in the direction of Toronto Argonauts, a club that could put a few kinks in their playoff hopes.

The triple dead heat developed during the weekend when Hamilton Tiger-Cats squeaked past Ottawa Rough Riders 18-17 and Argonauts pulled Montreal Alouettes up short with a 41-31 pasting. The results left the Riders, Ticats and Als with 10 points each and Toronto with two.

They chuckled last week when Argonauts' general manager Lew Hayman predicted his club would spoil the Als, Argonauts had stumbled through the first half of the 14-game schedule without a victory and no one figured they would start at the expense of the defending eastern champs.

But the week-end eye-catcher was Argonauts' victory. They uncovered five new Americans for Toronto fans and these met with unstinted approval from the all-time 14,922 crowd at Varsity Stadium.

ALS WERE LEADING

The Als opened them with a three-touchdown splurge to lead 21-21 earlier in the fourth quarter and that appeared to be the ball game. But Argos refused to roll over and play dead and promptly added three touchdowns of their own to take the decision.

They uncovered at least a couple of solid ball players in tackle Sam Deluca from New York Giants and two-way halfback Keith Russell from San Francisco 49ers. With halves Ray Shiver from Los Angeles Rams and Corky Tharp from New York Giants and quarter Freddie Wyant, another Giants' cut, the team trundled into a well-knit pattern that could be troublesome from here in.

Menan Schriewer led scorers with two touchdowns. Dick Shatto, Wyant, Davey West and Pete O'Garro came up with one-touchdown efforts and Bart Mohl kicked five converts. Wyant tossed touchdown passes to O'Garro and Schriewer and Shatto fired another to Schriewer.

Quarter Sam Etcheverry of the Als clicked on three touchdown passes—to Red O'Quinn, Jerry Paul and Pat Abbruzzi. Harold Patterson scored the other on a 46-yard gallop. Bill Bewley kicked the converts and Bob Deal booted a second-quarter 41-yard field goal.

ALMOST WIN

The Ticat-Rider game at Ottawa was a thriller. Behind 18-5 early in the final period, Rough Riders scored two touchdowns and could have won it with a last second 22-yard field goal by Gary Schreider but the ball was fumbled on the one-yard line.

Just two minutes before the field goal attempt, Schreider's attempted conversion of a touchdown by Bobby Simpson was no good.

Paul Dekker and Cookie Gilchrist scored a touchdown each for Ticats. Steve Oneschuk converted one, kicked a field goal and two singles.

Quarter Tommy Dimitroff, who was over from Hamilton Eastern last in the game, ran nine yards for Ottawa's first touchdown and passed to Simpson for a 61-yard touchdown play. Schreider had a touchdown and two converts, a field goal and a single.

Britain Wins Ryder Cup First Time in 24 Yrs.

LINDRICK, England (AP)—Britain won the Ryder Cup Saturday for the first time in 24 years, crushing a scattered team from the United States.

The final score was seven for Britain to four for the U.S. with one match halved.

In a great rookie-attack, the British professionals won six of Saturday's eight singles matches. They had last three of Friday's four Scotch foursomes, leaving chance of pulling the match out of the fire.

Here was the way the singles went:

Eric Brown, Scotland, defeated Tommy Bolt, 4 and 3.

Peter Mills, England, downed Jackie Burke, 5 and 3.

Bernard Hunt, England, turned back Lionel Hebert, 4 and 2.

Dai Rees, Wales, blasted Ed Furgol, 7 and 6.

Bernard Hunt, England, defeated Doug Ford 6 and 5.

Christy O'Connor, Ireland, conquered Dow Finsterwald, 7 and 6.

HAWKINS OVER WINDSOR

After the British victory was assured, Fred Hawkins came in with the only individual victory. He beat England's Peter Allis 2 and 1.

Then two in the tail-end match—Dick Mayer of the U.S. and Harry Bradshaw of Ireland —came down to the 36th green and halved that hole and the match and honors for the day.

Rees, the British captain, received a victory kiss from his wife and told reporters:

"It is wonderful. This is the greatest shot in the arm British sport has had.

Bolt tossed down his clubs in the Lindrick club house and complained bitterly about the partisanship of the gallery.

"It was disgraceful," he said. "I trought these people were supposed to be sportsmen."

Sarnia Quarter Pressing Celeri for Top ORFU Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's always been easy to grab Bob Celeri's name when picking the best quarterback in the Ontario Rugby Football Union the last few seasons.

The Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen signal caller was the big reason his team has won three of the last four championships and this season Gene Rossi is pressing the Kitchener triple-threat for some of his honors. Rossi has sparked Sarnia Golden Bears into a tie for the league lead.

Rossi guided the Golden Bears to their second win over Celeri's team Saturday, scoring on his own touchdowns to give Sarnia a 31-21 decision and their fifth victory in seven games. They are tied for first place with London Lords who have only suffered one setback. The Lords kept pace with the Bears by pasting Toronto Beaches 44-14 for their ninth straight setback suffered by the all-Canadian last-place club.

The Lords, with a 5-game win hand, and the Lords have each won five games. Sarnia, however has only lost one game and tied another while the London team has two defeats and one tie. Kitchener - Waterloo is in third place with eight points on four wins and two losses.

Sarnia beat the Dutchies 24-14 a month ago and their latest victory Saturday at Kitchener was just as decisive. The Bears held a 17-0 lead at halftime and although outscored 18-12 in the second half they never were in serious trouble.

Rossi's passing was a major determinent in the victory. He completed 19 of 30 passes for 340 yards and two touchdowns to Jim Waddell and Bob Smith. Dick Dixon and Dick Gregory counted two more touchdowns on ground plays. Gene Lekenta converted all four and in addition kicked a field goal.

The Dutchmen scored three touchdowns and all came off passes from Celeri to Al Romine, an end who couldn't make the grade with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four. Stan Norcia converted the three touchdowns.

In the Beaches game at London, it was the same old story for the spunky but winless Toronto team. They haven't been able to score a single point against the Lords in four games against them while London has piled up 197.

Leroy Thompson sparked Lords' attack with three touchdowns.

Eddie Mathews Used Adcock's Bat for Homer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — "This overshadows everything else," declared Eddie Mathews after pounding out his "get even" homer in Milwaukee's 7-2 world series victory over New York Yankees Sunday.

The dramatic drive off reliever Bob Grim evened the series at two games apiece, got Eddie even with Grim who had struck him out at New York and emphatically ended the Yankees' third baseman's slump worries.

"All I could think of was Hodges," said Mathews who went hitless in the first three games before doubling in the fourth inning of the fourth game. Gil Hodges of Brooklyn Dodgers went 0-for-21 in the world series which Yankees won in seven games.

"Slumps are unpredictable," said Mathews who had 32 homers and a .292 season average. "You never know when you're going to hit in one or when you'll get out. But I'm out now, thanks to these lucky pennies and Joe Adcock's bat.

Before the game started, a batter slipped three pennies to Mathews' back pocket "for luck."

Whether it was the three pennies, Adcock's bat or just the law of averages, Mathews doesn't care. "The pennies are going to stay right in that pocked throughout the series," said Mathews, "and I'm going to have to stick with Adcock's bat."

Mathews switched to an Adcock bat after developing a blister in the palm of his hand. "My bat has a knob on the end," Eddie explained, "and that irritated the blister. So that doesn't have a knob."

The nine highlights of the two players' bats are the same except. "mine is a little heavier at the end and the weight in Joe's bat is more evenly distributed."

OAC Will Be Power in New Football Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario Agricultural College made its debut Saturday and promptly established itself as a power to be reckoned with in the new Ontario Intercollegiate Football Conference.

Under the sharp generalship of quarterback Murray Atkinson, the Aggies rolled over Ottawa University 29-0 in a game at the capital.

At Waterloo, Carleton College Ravens bounced back from a defeat at the hands of McMaster University a week ago to whip Waterloo College. A third scheduled game, McMaster against Royal Military College at Kingston, was postponed when several players were ill.

SHINES DESPITE DEFEAT

Quarterback John Mules was brilliant in defeat for the Miles of Waterloo, playing their first game.

Taking over in the second quarter with regular signal-caller Glen Biderman went down with a broken arm from a heavy tackle, Enns scored a pair of touchdowns and a convert. End Jim Harris added a single and Bill Biggs tackled a Waterloo safetyman for the Miles' goal line for a safety touch to provide the additional victory margin.

Atkinson set up all the Aggies' touchdowns. They were scored by ends Jim Brown and Bill Sproul and halfbacks Ron Bigart and Bob Black. Bert Somerville was successful on two converts.

North Carolina Surprises Navy With 13-7 Win

NEW YORK (CP) — The top five college football teams in the United States roared to expected victories Saturday on the fall of No. 6 Navy threw the scramble for eastern supremacy into a new puzzle.

Oklahoma, the No. 1 team, won its fifth game by crushing Iowa State 40-14 in a Big Eight game.

Michigan State, No. 2 behind Oklahoma, topped weak California 48-7 and maintained third team in last week's Associated Press poll, beat Purdue 21-0 with Tom Larson scoring twice and passing for another touchdown.

FOURTH-RANKED

Fourth-ranked Maryland, 14-0, for its third straight league win, Texas A and M, No. 5 and Auburn, No. 7 all posted 26-0.

Navy lost 13-7 to North Carolina.

Notre Dame took some of the heat off coach Terry Brennan by coasting to its second straight victory, a 26-0 decision over Indiana.

NHL All-Stars Score 5-3 Win Over Montreal Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League's All-Stars struck for two third-period goals Saturday night to whip the Montreal Canadiens 5-3 and handed the Stanley Cup champions their second all-star defeat.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings and Dean Prentice of New York Rangers scored the final goals.

Canadiens have fought in all-star competition three times, losing two games and tying one.

The 11th annual game drew a crowd of 13,003, below the record 14,198 set in 1947 at Toronto. But gate returns of $33,347 topped the previous record of $30,286.75 in 1952 at Montreal.

Proceeds go to the NHL Players Society.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored the only Montreal first-period goal. Bert Olmstead and Glenn Hall tallied in the second frame.

Goalie Glenn Hall of Chicago Black Hawks held off Canadiens in the third period

PLANTE LESS EFFECTIVE

Jacques Plante turned in a less effective job in the nets. He was scored on by Howe, Edward Kelly and Allan Stanley of Boston in the first period, by Andy Bathgate of New York in the second and by Howe and Prentice in the third.

The game, lackluster for most of the first two periods, became livelier in the third. Olmstead drew a third-period penalty for spearing Chicago's Ed Litzenberger during a blow-up involving Olmstead, Hall and Rocket Richard. Stars drew six of 11 penalties.

Stars were coached by Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins.

The Richard brothers, Rocket and Henri, and Dickie Moore made up the most effective Montreal line.

In all-star play the the Stars have won five times, tied twice and lost twice—both times to the Detroit Red Wings.

TAKES TITLE

CORNWALL (CP) — Hogansburg, N.Y., won the Eastern Lacrosse Association senior championship Saturday by downing Caughnawaga, Que. 6-2 in the second game of their two-game, total-goal series. The opener was tied 9-9.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—Lady's Lad from Norwich, Ont., won the featured $2,000 pace at Blue Bonnets Raceway Sunday covering the 1 1-16 mile course in 2:12.

The five-year-old black gelding driven by William Harvey was followed across the finish line by Worthy Melody and True Jack.

Breezy Pete from Kingston, with Allan Pacey in the sulky was the winner in a $600 D trot with a 2:11 mile. Eddie Rea from Orono, Ont., reined by Jack Gordon, won a $600 D pace stepping the mile in 2:10 3-5.

Teams in Western Playoffs Could Be Decided Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As the Western Interprovincial Football Union moves into the home stretch, any one of three teams could reach the wire first. But as far as the other two clubs go, it looks as if it's just a question of who's going to finish last.

Edmonton Eskimos, in their familiar role as league leaders, have 12 points, four up on second place Winnipeg Blue Bombers and six ahead of third-place Calgary Stampeders.

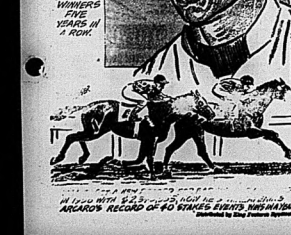
Saskatchewan Roughriders with five points and British Columbia Lions with three are well off the pace.

Saturday night, Riders bowed to Calgary 36-9 and Edmonton swamped Winnipeg 41-6 in the season's first shutout.

Lions meet Calgary in Vancouver tonight and a loss will put them out of the playoff running. Roughriders, up against Winnipeg tonight in Regina, aren't as badly off. They can lose two and Calgary can win two before their playoff aspirations are scotched.

The Edmonton-Winnipeg game, last meeting for the two teams in the regular schedule, was played on frozen turf in 24-degree weather at Edmonton. Bombers never got inside the Eskimo 50-yard line.

Fullback Normie Kwong led the scoring with a pair of touchdowns and end Joe Mobra and halfback import end John Bell each took a Don Getty forward for touchdowns.



Halfback Jackie Parker maintained his league scoring leadership, getting one touchdown to increase his total to 67 points. Bright also got a touchdown and halfback Ken Hall kicked a single. Mobra converted four.

At Calgary, Stampeders all but cinched their playoff spot in a game where saw Stamps set an unofficial league record in yards from scrimmage with 653. Riders previous mark of 607 yards — a game last year with Winnipeg.

Jim Morse, Howie Waugh, Dean Renfro, Jack Gotta and Bas Nadie scored touchdowns for Stampeders, Bud Korchak added a field goal and one convert, and Ted Duncan kicked two singles.

Riders' points came on a touchdown by guard Fred Hamilton, who pounced on a fumbled ball behind the goal line, a convert by Reggie Whitehouse and a safety touch.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When watching masters duffering, I make this diagnosis: A lot of them are suffering from bidding hallitosis.

Take this world championship deal number 141:

NORTH
♠J 7
♥A 6 2
♦J 7 3
♣A Q 10 3

WEST
♠8 6
♥K 10 9 4
♦Q 10 2
♣5 4 2

EAST
♠K 10 9 4 2
♦K 9 8 4
♣K 9 8 7

SOUTH
♠Q 5 3
♥Q J 8 5 3
♦A 6 5
♣J 6

In room one the bidding went like this:

North	South
1 H	2 C
2 S	2 H

In the course of play, declarer gave up a club trick early and stuffed two dummy diamonds on his clubs. He thus lost no tricks in diamonds, although opponents ruffed the fourth club.

Besides the club trick and club ruff, opponents got a trump trick and two spades. This meant eight tricks for declarer, which was just enough to make his contract.

Room two bidding went like this:

North	East	South	West
1 C	1 S	2 H	2 S
Pass	3 S	All Pass

North and south got two clubs, a heart, and a ruff. Declarer thus made the three spade contract without much effort. But notice the bidding difference by team pairs with the same hands.

Each north player had his own idea of the kind of opening bid he liked. The hand is too light for a sound opening bid of any kind. But if they insist on opening it, one club is the safer bet.

Room one east and west had no business letting it go for two hearts when they can make more in spades. But not a peep out of them. And the club-ace hand bid in that room look fantastic. It was their way of keeping the bidding alive.

Some keep the bidding alive even if it kills them.

Gordon Dickson Wins Road Race For Second Time

HAMILTON (CP) — Gordon Dickson of the Hamilton Olympic Club Saturday won the 64th running of the annual Canadian Labor day road race. It was the second year in a row the 25-year-old distance runner has captured the event.

Dickson's time of one hour, 46 minutes and 22 seconds set a modern record for the 19-mile event, eclipsing the record of 1:48:25 set in 1932 by Browning Ross of the Penn Athletic Club, Woodbury, N.J.

Ross finished third Saturday behind Doug Kyle of Hamilton. Lorne White of Guelph was sixth.

The 31½-mile junior event went to Bruce Andrews of Guelph in 12:16. Ed Graydon of Hamilton was second and Frank Weaver of Guelph third.

Buffalo Bisons Beat Dutchmen

BRAMPTON (CP)—The American Hockey League's Buffalo Bisons Saturday night defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 8-4 in an exhibition game here. The Dutchmen play in the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A league.

Bisons' goals went one apiece to Norm Corcoran, Sid Finney, Lou Jankowski, Ken Wharram, Les Lilly, John Sleaver, Doug Barkley and Harry Watson. Gerry Theberge scored two for Dutchies. Others went to Howie Lee and Howie Youngberg.

Major Dramatic Theme Of TV Season Is 'Suspense'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — A major dramatic theme of this new television season is "suspense" over the outcome of one or another criminal act—usually murder.

Among the new offerings in this area nothing superior to old standbys has yet appeared. But among the better attempts is Suspicion (NBC-TV, Mondays, 10 p.m.).

Tonight comes Murder Me Gently, starring Kurt Kasznar and Jessica Tandy. It concerns a wealthy gentleman who feels he has nothing to live for and wants someone to murder him. A lady writer of mystery stories tries to oblige him.

It will be interesting to see how Tonight's show, the first live program in the series, compares with last week's Alfred Hitchcock Presents production of Four O'Clock, the first Suspicion presentation.

Four O'Clock was second-rate Hitchcock because the old master and his craftsmen didn't bother to develop the characters of the jealous watchmaker and the wife he thought was unfaithful and planned to murder. Yet, G. Marshall and Nancy Kelly, the principals, simply didn't have material that could lift their roles above caricature—in a parasitical sense. Or an innocent lamb.

There were moments of Hitchcock's fine symbolism, the child watching a beetle at the window of the cellar where the watchmaker, caught in his own web, saw his life ticking out. But too many other devices used in the film were hackneyed. Nevertheless, you cared how it ended; you were in a state of suspense.

Probably the finest thing about it was the ending. The watchmaker, who had been acting insane, was reduced to straitjacket madness. It was a proper, tough ending. Too many suspense dramas end soft, the criminal turning out to be only a misunderstood person, the erring husband saved by his ever-loving wife.

That softness marred The first program of Turn of Fate (NBC-TV, Mondays, 9:30 p.m.) which in its second offering tonight presents Digrid Nixon in something called Circumstantial.

This is about a lawyer who gets himself convicted of first-degree murder while trying to demonstrate that circumstantial evidence can convict the innocent.

Last week's initial offering was a pip but almost any man who thought he was a killer. But he really wasn't. Joan Crawford and hero Robert Ryan came on acting like such a good guy while thinking he was a bad guy that the viewing audience knew all the time he fust be a good guy. No suspense.

STEADY GROWTH

Norway's population, growing by about 23,000 annually, passed the 3,500,000 mark in 1957.

Japanese Girl Makes Big Jump to Stardom in 2 Months

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From 560-a-week travel agency clerk to Hollywood star in two months—that's the amazing success story of Miiko Taka, a girl who says she "never had a desire to be an actress."

"Imagine," Miiko says, "six months ago I would have walked across Los Angeles just to see Marlie Brando. And now I'm on the screen making passionate love to him."

The vehicle for this love-making is the film Sayonara in which Miiko plays Brando's sweetheart in the James Micsener love story. She had never acted before, but Brando picked her for the part.

LIVE THE PART

A frightened Miiko told her parents of her good fortune. Her father said:

"Maybe this is the way meant for you. Do the best you can. Don't act. Live the part."

Miiko, a lovely young Nisei—Japanese ancestry but American birth—rode to stardom for her portrayal.

Brando calls her one of the most sensitive performers he ever worked with. Producer William Goetz goes even further:

"Miiko acted with a simple naturalness and sensitivity that great actresses have taken years to perfect."

At the 24-year-old beauty tells her own story:

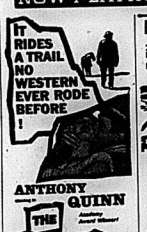
"It is all such a beautiful dream. I hope others have the same dreams. A girl friend told me a search was on for the face to make lead in the film and then director Joshua Logan said I must be a Japanese girl. My friend suggested that I write Mr. Logan.

"I had been spotted by a talent scout at a festival in Los Angeles where I live. He gave me his card, but I never had a desire to be an actress. However, my friends insisted . . . I decided that if my friends had faith in me, I must have faith in myself."

Last Dec. 3 Miiko was given a script to read.

"I hoped," she explains now, "they would tell me to go home and not come back. But Hollywood never tells you what's on its mind . . . when they gave me the part, I thought Hollywood had a hole in its head.

WORK NOT OVER



Miiko learned soon though that the end of one job isn't the end of work on any film.

Publicity men then took over Miiko's time, and began to introduce their new star to the world. Their first publicity entailed 36 hours of telephoning to newspaper men all over the globe.

Sitting in her dressing room at the studio with their telephone hooked up to a loudspeaker, Miiko began. The first call was to Rome. By midnight she was talking to Tokyo where it was 5 p.m. the next day.

When she finally knocked off after calls to Europe and Australia, Warner's toted up the phone bill—a long-winded $5,000.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Author of the new "Astrology and You")

The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Opportunity is present today to get true pictures of your relationship with partners, friends, foes. And competition is also eager to come to better understanding; old friends and customers you have lost, etc.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Privately, many fine things are looking for you that will mean a radical change for the better. Be alive to them and co-operate. Also, think out how best to perform your daily tasks with less work, better results.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) It is your opinion that there should be less talk and more work. Fortunately others see it your way now. Therefore, be specific, expansive. Listen to their side, too. Then harmoniously work out all ideas and go!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) All kinds of chances come up today to benefit from aspects that have been dormant for some time. Be prepared for them and take advantage quickly of the best. This will soon increase your popularity and fame.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Luckily, your basket of ideas is filled for easy attunement with data and information to be derived from local paper, TV, or the turn of your dial on the radio. Have a wonderful day. Act quickly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Money matters with vital persons are the first order of the day this brand new week, be they bills to pay or send out, tax matters, bonds, contracts, etc. Be practical at home, too. Get on a firm footing.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The day should be spent trying to understand exactly the motives behind the actions of your associates, personal or business, so that you know how to proceed more intelligently and wisely.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are blessed with an extraordinary amount of vim and vigor. You'll unsparingly today getting home, business surroundings in perfect order, putting out a wonderful day's work. Then the week starts off right.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The moment you awaken you feel wonderful. See that you maintain this healthy attitude by enjoying others more, forgetting past unpleasantness which usually has you bearing the full load alone. Study, laugh, sing, be gay.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There are many basic matters that first have to be cleared up before you can jump into that new venture you contemplate. It would be well to discuss it with home ties first, and they will give you the courage you need.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your intuitions are fine today, so follow them and contact those persons you know will aid materially in raising your prestige and increasing your bank account. Shop, read, confer, etc.

Be your dynamic, happy self.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) This is your day to employ the original, interesting ideas you come up with regularly. Plan new ways of operating more profitably and with greater efficiency. Get busy right away.

If your child is born today . . . The child born today is the delightful kind with an unexplainable something about him or her that is unique. And don't judge by the rather mild manner of outward gentility: Underneath is the dynamic personality that will accomplish wonders. A splendid horoscope for the astronomer, the scientist, the most dynamic actor, actress of the future. Give a fine education.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was looking through her desk, saying to pop, Oh dear, where did I put that birthday list for the Fin P Club? I know one of the other four members has a birthday the first of next munth, but I cant remember whether it's Polly or Peggy or Patricia or Pearl, and if I skip this one, something dredful is likely to happen to me, she said.

What, for example pop said, and ma said, Goodness knows but we've kept the chain unbroken for years and years, because our motto is, Skip not a birthday greeting to a single sister P, or bad luck will dog your footsteps, and your life unhappy for.

You're not really superstitious, are you? pop said, and ma said, Certainly not, but why take chances? Oh dear, all 4 of them still live in Laketown, but that's no clew to whose birthday it is. Cant you think of some way, William? she said.

Well yes, but you may consider it far fetched, pop said, and ma said, Tell me anyway. A drowning man clutches at a straw in the wind, she said.

Well, my idea is to send a singing telegram to Lakewood, without putting any name on it, pop said, and ma said, But what shall I say in it?

Say, "Happy birthday to you from me, Happy birthday, sister P," pop said. If the one with a birthday happens to werk in the telegraff office, she'll figure it out at once it's for her, and if any one of the other 3 were there, she'll know who to send it to. So you've got 4 chances, which is more than you can say for alot meddle-some gamblers, he said.

Oh good, I've found the list, it's Pearl's birthday, ma said. Thanks just the same, William, she said, and pop said, Feel free to call on me any time.

Wich she genrelly does.

CAPTIVE 13 YEARS

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—A badly - scarred 19-year-old Chinese girl, locked up for 13 years at the suggestion of a fortune teller, has been freed by police. Police are holding her mother, who says she shut the girl up when she was two because a fortune teller said her presence was a curse on the whole family.

WINTER ARRIVES EARLY

CALGARY (CP)—Winter woollens were unpacked Thursday as the first heavy snowfall of the season swept across Southern Alberta. Nearly two inches fell on Calgary during the day. A 25 mile-an-hour north wind kept temperatures below 30 degrees and the weather man said there was no immediate relief in sight. The vacancy resulted from the resignation of George H. Doucett, former Ontario highways minister, who was elected by acclamation a month ago as Progressive Conservative member for Lanark in the House of Commons.

RED MISSILES COULD RAZE LAND BASES

'Age Of Bomber Over' Says Khrushchev

'Flesh And Blood Cannot Fight Things Like That'

International Control for Satellites, Missiles Urged

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev said today it is no good any more sending human-controlled machines to fight against missiles and rockets.

"The age of the bomber is over —you might as well throw them on the fire," he told two British members of Parliament.

Khrushchev told Conservative MPs Cyril Osborne and Capt. Henry Kirby in an interview in the Kremlin that the intercontinental ballistic missile is "only one of the many things we are doing."

Referring to the Soviet earth satellite and ICBM, he said: "Surely this points to the fact that we have more up our sleeves."

He added that rocket development has ushered in the stage where "you cannot send human flesh and blood to fight things like that."

OBSOLETE FOR WAR

In a talk Monday night at the East German embassy, Khrushchev said Soviet advances have made planes obsolete for war. He noted that some people "scoffed when Russia announced its ICBM.

"Some people said it was only psychological warfare — that we were only trying to impress people. Now we not only have a rocket that can fly to other countries but we have a satellite that flies around the world.

"I don't have to point to this with my finger—any idiot can see it. I don't tell you a secret.

We stand at the doorstep of a phase of technical development where fighter and bomber planes are ripe for the museum.

"Their place is being taken by the merciless and unstoppable rockets. Those in whose hands the fate of the peoples rest should keep that in mind and they should contribute to the prevention of war."

Khrushchev continued that the Soviet Union recognizes the existence of capitalist states with a different system, and is "ready for peaceful competition with these states in all fields, he added, and both sides approach each other as equals there is not a single question in the world that could not be solved."

The party boss, using an interpreter, also prepared statements on a list of topics submitted to him in advance, then answered supplementary questions put to him by Reston on each topic:

DIDN'T HEAR NEWS

FUNCHALL, Madeira (AP)—A father died as triplets were being born to his wife in Funchal Civil Monday night. Manuel Ramos, 47, was in bed with pneumonia when his wife was taken to the maternity home. He died before they were reached him that two girls and a boy had been born to his wife.

Today's Chuckle

John: "But couldn't you learn to love me, Anna?"

Anna: "I don't think I could, John."

John (reaching for his hat): "It is as I feared — you are too old to learn."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The leading edge of cool air which is now approaching Lakes Superior and Michigan from the west will reach Lake Ontario late Wednesday. Cloudy skies and showers ahead of this cold front are now occurring north of Lake Superior.

Temperatures in Southern Ontario will continue to be on the mild side Tuesday and Wednesday but some cooling is expected for Thursday.

STORMY SESSION TELLS ELECTIONS NEAR AT HAND

Montreal Council Broken Up in 15 Mins.

MONTREAL (CP)—A stormy city council session on a controversial slum - clearance plan broke up within 15 minutes Monday night after police were summoned to hush singing students and noisy councillors.

The big rumpus proved one thing: Montreal was living up to its reputation for lively, unorthodox civic elections. The city election campaign is getting hotter.

Mayor Jean Drapeau called the special council sitting to present a long-promised plan for redevelopment of the run-down old rundown district in midtown Montreal.

Councillors never heard his proposal in the meeting was quickly adjourned when two council members were expelled with a police escort and a shouting, singing public gallery made speeches inaudible.

PROVINCE CENTRE

Mayor Drapeau released his plan to the press ahead of the session. He proposed that a giant radio-television centre be built when the slum buildings had been demolished.

But a rival plan—already approved and under way—calls for a vast housing project to rise where the slums are. The project is called the Dozois plan and will cost $13,750,000. About 800 families live affected in an area about three blocks by two blocks, bounded by St. Dominique, Sanguinet, Ontario and St. Catherine streets.

Lucien Croteau, a political foe of Mayor Drapeau, heads the municipal bureau established to complete the Dozois project. He also leads the newly formed Greater Montreal Rally, set up to fight the Civic Action League in the Oct. 28 elections.

Mr. Drapeau the Soviet council that because of the impending elections he would merely "communicate" the plan at the meeting, and that no discussion would be allowed.

And the storm broke. Mr. Croteau a member of the city's executive committee, declared he had the right to speak on the mayor's plan. The chairman expelled him when he refused to sit down.

"Did we come here to discuss," asked another council member. Nat Arnoff. "We are supposed to hear a political meeting of the mayor?"

He was also expelled—and the gallery crowd, looking down from the balcony ringing in, began to sing a French-Canadian song. Some booed and others cheered. Another member, Dr. Morris Arnoff was surrounded by a noisy group, and police constables ordered him. There were no arrests, and no damage was caused.

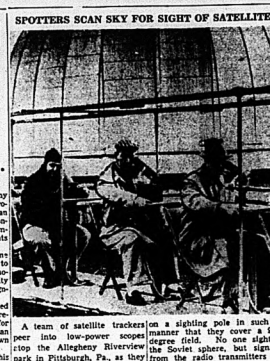
Mayor Drapeau was told of the jostling outside, so he resumed the chair and declared the meeting adjourned. It took police another hour to clear the building.

Soviet Scientists Offer to Put U.S. Instruments in Red Satellite

NEW YORK (AP)—The Times says Russian scientists offered to put U.S. scientific instruments in one of their satellites.

The offer was made Monday during a visit by Soviet rocket experts to the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory in Washington The Times says.

Anatoly A. Blagonravov, a Russian rocket scientist, was told that the U.S. Vanguard is the lightweight device for analysis of the outer fringes of the earth's atmosphere but lacked space for it in the four American satellite packages planned.



"Hence the Russian and his colleagues suggested that it take a ride in a Soviet one," The Times article says. The instrument is a spectrometer, a device that can analyze components of the atmosphere in terms of scientific weight.

The account, written by Walter Sullivan continues:

"They (the Russians) also suggested that United States scientists send whatever data they desire to Soviet research rockets in Franz Joseph Land in the Soviet Union in the Arctic Ocean. The Russians, in turn, showed an interest in viewing firings at Fort Churchill and Hudson Bay—the chief center of American rocket research during the IGY (International Geophysical Year).

The story describes the American scientists as "enthusiastic about the proposed exchanges" but said they "conceded that the plan was subject to veto" by the government.

SPOTTERS SCAN SKY FOR SIGHT OF SATELLITE

A team of satellite trackers peer into low-power scopes atop the Allegheny Riverview park in Pittsburgh, Pa., as they try to spot the Soviet satellite launched by the Russians. The scopes are lined up and focused on a sighting pole in such a manner that they cover a 90-degree field. No one sighted the Soviet sphere, but signals from the radio transmitters in the satellite have been picked up in many parts of Canada and the U.S.

Flu Forces Extended Holiday For Many School Children

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

School children in many areas of Quebec and Ontario looked forward to an extended Thanksgiving holiday next weekend as influenza continued to sweep through the East.

Many schools announced they will close until Oct. 15 and others considered the move.

Hospitals in Montreal and Toronto imposed visiting bans and warned of the danger to patients. Health officials agreed the flu was of a mild variety. Four persons have died of complications since Friday.

Doctors in Pembroke were investigating what part Asian flu may have played in the death of Roy Fitzpatrick, 28, of Ottawa, Dr. W. Long said Fitzpatrick had died of encephalitis, a virus that attacks the nervous system, and that flu might have been a contributory cause.

In Quebec, the Protestant school board of greater Montreal closed two elementary schools until Oct. 15 while one Roman Catholic school was temporarily closed because of staff illness.

Jonquiere and Arvida in the Lake St. John area closed 20 schools until Oct. 15 but in nearby Chicoutimi 10 schools closed last week re-opened today.

With more than 200 of its 800 pupils down with flu, the Quebec Seminary announced Monday it will close for 10 days. Rev. Jacques Lesage, the school's head-master, said the school which has both boarders and day students, will reopen Oct. 17.

It is the first Quebec City school to close. Dr. Berchmans Paquet, city health director, said Saturday about 1,500 of Quebec's 28,000 students have the illness.

In Toronto Dr. L. A. Pequenat, medical officer of health, said two days of snow districts showed a higher incidence than expected but that schools would not be closed. "Closing them couldn't be depended to halt the spread because it wouldn't isolate the children," he said.

But at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., four schools were closed and Dr. J. E. Gimby, medical officer of health, said flu had "positively reached epidemic proportions."

Windsor schools will decide Wednesday whether to grant an extra two days to the Thanksgiving holiday and London's 44 schools may be closed if the outbreak worsens. At Owen Sound some schools reported absenteeism doubled from last week's peak figures.

The Brant County health unit in Brantford reported flu, which had been severe in the secondary schools for the last week, had shifted to public schools and that closures were possible.

West Must Boost Spending On Science Says Diefenbaker

MONTREAL (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called for more free world spending on scientific projects to prevent Russia from gaining a strategic lead in technology over the West.

He said Monday that Russia's feat in launching a satellite "should be a challenge to cooperate in making large financial resources available to scientists."

The prime minister spoke to the annual convocation at McGill University, where he received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

The Russian man-made moon has made real the non-realities of space fiction, he said. It presented a challenge to the gradualists and the free world.

He said the free world should not be afraid to "acknowledge this triumph of technology and pay tribute where it is due."

Russia does not restrict expenditures on such vast scientific projects, he said. The democracies must therefore make larger resources available for such work.

Although Russia was to be commended for its triumph, it was the encouragement of Russia had mobilized science "with the terrible objective of ultimate domination of all mankind."

Mr. Diefenbaker said there is information to the effect that the total number of Russian science graduates this year will exceed the total in the Western world.

"We can free men not achieve as much!" he asked.

The challenge offered by the Soviet Union could not be ignored. But, he said, Russia's methods must not and cannot be used in a democracy.

He said free world universities "must plan to make provision for the encouragement of a material increase in the numbers of undergraduates who, having the ability, will enter engineering and applied science courses."

But, the prime minister warned, Western universities must not make intellectualism their guiding principle.

GOVT. MAY DROP PLANS FOR NEW AIR SQUADRONS

Could Take Form Of Missile Batteries

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans announced by the former Liberal administration to build three new fighter squadrons for Canadian defence are being quietly shelved by the new Progressive Conservative government.

Informants say they doubt that the three squadrons will ever be formed. The main reason is not economy but rapid technological strides in the military field.

It is considered likely now that the squadrons, if they ever do form, will take the form of anti-aircraft missile batteries, possibly operated by the army and not the RCAF. Such missiles are likely to be assimilated into the Canadian defence structure in the next two or three years.

The Liberal government in 1956 announced plans to build three new CF-100 jet fighter squadrons at Bagotville, Que. There now are nine CF-100 squadrons in Canada and four in Europe.

The plans were delayed—but not abandoned—earlier this year when the North Atlantic alliance asked Canada to train 360 West German fighter pilots. This training scheme now is under way.

The instructors and bases now being used to train the Germans were to have become the nucleus of the three new squadrons.

Now, officials say, such big advance are being made in the field of guided missiles that it is felt it would be pointless to build new CF-100 squadrons only to have them become obsolete in a short time.

The defence department, however, believes that there will be a need for manned interceptors for a long time.

Consequently, the RCAF plans to re-equip the present CF-100 squadrons with the supersonic Arrow. This bat-winged fighter, unveiled last week at Toronto but still untested, will take as long as another four years to work up to an operational standard.

Warsaw Riots Dwindle in Size

WARSAW (AP) — For the fifth straight night street fighting broke out in this Communist capital, but the anti-government demonstrators had dwindled from a mass student protest to a small group of rowdies.

About 100 riot police charged Monday night to disperse at most 1,000 with clubs after a teen-age gang set up wooden flower block in Victory Park. Forty persons were reported arrested in the melee outside the Warsaw Palace of Culture.

Canadian Defence Scientists Say Satellite Aids Them in Studies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While Canadian defence scientists listened in on the Russian earth satellite, astronomers in Ottawa watched the sphere as it gamited dawn and dusk watches beginning Oct. 20 to see and possibly photograph it.

Director Francois Baby of the Quebec section of the Royal Astronomical Society said Monday night he hoped to recruit 15 rig watchers in Ottawa in the city district to try to track down the satellite for a few minutes. The watchers would man field glasses and smaller telescopes as well as the 16-inch telescope at the observatory.

In Calgary, Roy Lee of Idaho Falls, Idaho, an engineer working on the United States satellite programme, said that Western scientists, by triangulation, can use the Soviet object to determine the exact height above the equator and the distance between continents. It could also be used to pinpoint the locations of cities in any country of the world—the basic information for a guided missile attack.

Meanwhile, scientists of the Canadian Defence Research Board were maintaining a constant, listening watch. Superintendent J. C. W. Scott said Monday its passage would be tracked and probably recorded at least 17 times.

The satellite was useful in helping keep tabs on the problem of studying the upper atmosphere, in connection with the location of the flight of an intercontinental ballistic missile, he said.

By determining what happened to radio signals received from the satellite, the Canadian scientists might gain some knowledge of the ionosphere—an electrically charged layer between 60 and 300 miles above the earth which seriously distorts radio and radar signals. The satellite was far above he ionosphere.

U.S. Navy States Russia Possesses 1500-Mile Rocket

Could Place Atomic Bombs On Fixed European Bases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Navy credited Russia today with another first, possession of operational intermediate range ballistic missiles capable of placing nuclear warheads on virtually every fixed Allied base in Western Europe.

The disclosure, coming on the heels of Russia's pioneer launching of a space satellite, was made by Capt. I. C. Miller, of the office of the chief of naval operations.

He said in a briefing prepared for the National Security Industrial Association that the known Soviet possession of the IRBM at present seriously prejudices our tenure of any base within 1,500 miles of Soviet launching sites."

Naval officials have expressed frequently during the last several years the belief that the Russians were developing long-range missiles, but this is the first public and unhedged statement that they have such weapons.

IN TESTING STAGE

The U.S. Army, Navy and Air Force are in the process of developing 1,500-mile ballistic missiles, but they still are in the testing stage.

The navy long has contended that the coming of the missile age makes aircraft carriers a vital part of the U.S. military machine; Fixed air bases could be destroyed much more easily by ballistic missiles, the navy contends, than could its carriers and other vessels which move from one place to another.

Miller referred to that today, saying the mobility of the ships lessens the danger of a devastating attack by missiles.

Capt. Miller is acting director of the progress analysis group in the office of Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations. He spoke to a gathering of industry representatives closely associated with the defence department's military research, development and production programs on the navy's planning or action in a nuclear war.

Chinese Peasants Battling Drought

PEIPING (Reuters)—Tens of millions of peasants living in the northern China plain are struggling against drought which threatens the winter wheat crops in the provinces of Honan, Hopei and Shantung.

The Peiping People's Daily reported today that in Honan, China's top wheat producing province, thousands of the people needed for winter wheat sowing was being held by the drive, while a further two-eighths was short of water. More than 10,000,000 people in the province are working to irrigate lands.

Workers Bound For Venezuela Land in Capri

NAPLES, Italy (AP—Bound for Venezuela, the 10 Italians loaded their luggage on the boat and kissed the friends and relatives from their home village farewell.

An hour later the voyage was over. They were on the ferry between Naples and the Isle of Capri, just across the bay from the city.

The story was told in court Monday and Pasquale Cortino, a fugitive, was sentenced in absentia to 10 months in prison on a charge of cheating. He had collected the equivalent of $300 from each of the 10, promising them passage to Venezuela and jobs when they arrived. Instead he put them on the Naples-Capri ferry and then disappeared.

Satellite 'Beep' Stops But Radio Still Operates

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian defence scientists said today the "beep-beep" signal from the Russian satellite has ceased but they believe the satellite's radio transmitter still is operating.

One scientist at the space research board's telecommunications establishment said a meter has detected a "silent" transmission from the satellite on its regular wavelength.

"But it is no longer sending a signal—the characteristic beep-beep-beep signal. For some reason the keyer has stopped working."

He explained that it is like an ordinary broadcasting station where no one is speaking into the microphone, although the station remains in the air. The silent transmission can be detected by a special instrument.

Would Extend Free Trade Offer

LONDON (CP) — The Labor party today called for proposals for increasing British-Canadian trade should be broadened to include all commonwealth countries.

"We welcome the proposal for an Anglo - Canadian free trade area," said Harold Wilson, the party's financial expert. "But why limit it to Canada?"

RED RASPBERRIES PICKED IN GARDEN ON YEOMANS STREET

Anybody for fresh raspberries?

Bram Humphreys, 33 Yeomans Street, reported that his wife picked enough red raspberries from their garden yesterday for use on the dinner table last night. The late season berries were of good quality and variety.

PROVINCIAL POLICE CONTINUING PROBE OF SATURDAY'S MISHAP

Provincial Police are continuing their investigation into Saturday's accident on College Street which saw 9-year-old Gail McAuley fatally injured when struck by a car and knocked from her bicycle.

Officers have questioned many witnesses and are still anxious to find other persons who may have seen the accident. Any persons who witnessed the accident and not yet contacted by police are asked to get in touch with Constable J. McBride of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Vote to Set Up 7-Man Traffic Commission

Belleville city council will set up a traffic commission to deal with traffic and other related matters.

Council last night approved of a recommendation to set up the commission to consist of four members of council, a representative of transportation in the city to be appointed by the transportation industry, a representative from the Chamber of Commerce to be appointed by the Chamber of Commerce and a representative from the city at large to be appointed by council.

The chairman of the commission will be a member of council.

There was no discussion on the motion, presented by Aldermen Les. Digby and Robert Temple, the matter having previously been debated in committee.

Also appointed last night was a special committee to meet with the finance committee of the hospital board. Appointed to the committee by Mayor Jane Forrester were Aldermen Dr. John Stack, Gerald Hyde and Douglas Moxam.

NO PARKING ZONES

Council ratified two recommendations dealing with establishment of no parking zones.

One is north side of Church Street from Victoria Ave. to the limits of St. Michael's Academy from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturdays, Sundays and school holidays excepted.

The second no parking area to be established will be on the north side of Bridge Street, west from Cedar Street to the junction of Highland Avenue and Bridge Street.

DELAY ZONING DECISION

A recommendation to change the zoning of lands in the block surrounded by East Bridge Street, Pinnacle Street, Church Street and Campbell Street to general business was again laid over for a month to permit Ald. Ben Safe to take part in the discussion. Ald. Safe has been away from council through illness and last night was granted a month's leave of absence.

The Ontario Municipal Board held a hearing on the proposed re-zoning of the above area but has delayed its decision pending a report from council and from the suburban planning board.

Originally the board was to give its decision on Sept. 30 if no request was received from council at that time. This deadline has now been extended to October 15th, council was told.

Three-Barrelled Question Instead of 'Package' Deal To Be Voted on by Electors

Belleville taxpayers will have a still another referendum to vote on at the forthcoming municipal elections — this time a three-barrelled one pertaining to city manager form of government, possible reduction of council and a two-year as opposed to one-year term of office for mayor.

Alderman Gerald Hyde introduced the motion and sought to have the entire motion placed before the electors as a "package" deal.

However, on the insistence of Aldermen, the motion was broken down and will be presented to the electorate in three parts. A. Are you in favor of making application to the Ontario Legislature for amending legislation to provide for a city manager form of government, B. Are you in favor of council being decided to eight members and a mayor with the mayor to be elected annually, and C. Are you in favor of a two-year term for all elective offices in the city.

In presenting his motion, Alderman Hyde said his reason for doing so was to make certain that the city manager form of government in the city could not be terminated by will of council.

Last year city manager form of government had been voted down with a great majority but this year there had been opposition at least to the man in the position and he "only knows what could happen another year."

MORE EFFICIENT CLASS

"If we are going to have city manager form of government it should be so it cannot be altered without going to the people," he said.

Referring to the second part of his motion Alderman Hyde argued that a smaller council would be more efficient and said a manager should not require more than eight aldermen.

He decided it advisable that aldermen should be elected for two-year terms as this was a tradition for council members to become fully acquainted with council business.

The motion received mixed reception from other members of council, some being completely opposed, while others agreed that it deserved consideration but asked the question be broken down.

Ald. John Stock seconded the motion and in doing so accused council of making no progress this year.

"We have made no forward steps until now, most have been retrograde," he stated. "It all boils down to the fact that council cannot make up its mind."

He said council activity has been one of delays, defeats, delays and lack of continuity.

He said he favored a proper form of city manager form of government but not "a watered down version" and called for action which would have the city money.

SOME OPPOSED

Several aldermen were opposed to any reduction in the number of council, pointing out that annexation could mean increased population which in turn would call for greater representation.

Alderman Argue warned that the question as a "package" deal would not get an intelligent expression of opinion as even some councillors were not agreed as to what council manager form of government was. He said a manager's duties were not as wide as was generally believed.

Ald. Robertson Collins was opposed declaring that the motion tended to change the whole format of a democratic policy which had existed for years. Quoting the words of a former Canadian statesman he said there should be no taxation without representation.

Alderman Argue moved an amendment calling for the motion to be broken down into three parts and finally Ald. Hyde rewrote his motion; the question to be presented in three parts. On a recorded vote the motion carried 9-3 with Aldermen Collins, C. L. Hyde and Moxam opposing.

Intimation that a permanent city manager might be appointed at the next meeting of council was made in a letter read by Alderman A. E. Hyde, who said his motion two weeks previously was a result of disappointment of city treasurer Drury Denyes as city manager.

COURSE TWO POSSIBLE

His motion would call for coupling of the offices of treasurer and city manager with the position with Mr. Denyes to be known by the dual title of city manager-treasurer. Salary would be $6,500 per year.

Mr. Denyes has been acting city manager since the dismissal during the early summer of Dennis P. Herring.

Earlier in the meeting Ald. C. D. Tree had moved that the appointment of city manager was to be made, noting that council had decided on a caucus who was to receive the appointment.

Alderman Hyde's notice of motion followed a short time later.

Two Search, Rescue Crews Out From Station

TRENTON (Special) — Two R.C.A.F. Search and Rescue crews in Dakota aircraft from Trenton and United States Air Force search units yesterday in the hunt for a three-man crew missing from a four men aboard since October 2.

The Canadian built plane attached to the U.S. Army was to reach Burlington via Trenton and Syracuse yesterday. When it was one hour and a half overtime air searchers from Edwards Camp, New York were alerted and searched without results until last night, the U.S. search coordinators believe the army Beaver may have come down in border area of down someplace in Canada.

Searchers expect the job spotting the wreck will be a tedious one since it is camouflaged and olive drab and will easily blend in the autumn colored countryside.

PRESENTED WITH GIFT

Lady golfers of the Trenton Country Club held an election of officers at the annual meeting during their season's activities last Saturday. The following were elected: Lady captain, Mrs. Gerald president; Mrs. Gertie House, vice-president; Miss Laura Lee, secretary; Mrs. Earl Farrell, treasurer; Mrs. Gladys Wice, games captain; Mrs. Ross Bowen, social convener. Miss Margaret Bowen, the retiring president of the ladies section presented club women's champion Margaret Ubukata with a handsome gift on behalf of the members.

The eighth member of the gang involved in a series of recent Trenton break-ins and thefts pleaded guilty to a number of offences and was remanded for sentence by Magistrate R. B. Baxter yesterday.

Harold Hills, 18, of Coe Hill, was arrested Friday night and lodged in the Cobourg County jail to await trial yesterday. Earlier seven others in the ring were picked up and charged. All of them police say are implicated in one of the worst rashes of breaking and entering police have had to deal with in years. All of them await court sentences.

The gang operating at night in fast cars ranged between Bedersville and Coe Hill, leaving behind a trail of 17 breaking and entering charges.

HOLD HOCKEY SCHOOL

The Junior "B" Hockey School convenes here at the newly opened Trenton Memorial Gardens Sunday, commencing at 10 in the morning. Players who are residents of Belleville are not eligible to attend but the arena management has invited all prospects from Frankford, Bala-wa, Brighton, Colborne, Cobourg and Wellington.

Pilots Taken To Hospital

EDMONTON (CP)—Two pilots who spent three days in freezing weather in northern Alberta before their crashed plane were brought here Monday night for hospital treatment.

The two men, sighted Monday, were picked up by helicopter and taken to McMurray, 225 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Flu Bug Finally Catches Up With District H. S. Students

Old Man Flu has finally caught up with high school students in the district with a total of 790 students away from classes today at Belleville Collegiate and at Quinte Secondary School.

Hardest hit is Belleville Collegiate where 510 students failed to report for classes today after a marked attendance drop over the weekend. Monday morning 464 students failed to report at school and in the afternoon the number jumped to almost 500.

Over at Quinte Secondary there were 280 students away today with three teachers also down with the 'flu.

At the Collegiate seven of the regular teachers are away but for Principal Arnold Orr has been able to secure sufficient relief teachers to staff all classes.

"It it doesn't get any worse we will be able to carry on," Mr. Orr said, referring to the number of regular teachers off sick."

At the same time, however, he noted that several other teachers were feeling slight touches of the 'flu' and these also possibly should be at home.

NO THOUGHT OF CLOSING

Although close to 50 per cent of the students are on the sick list and away from classes there is still no thought of closing the school.

"The matter has been left in the hands of Dr. Melrose Metcalfe, medical officer of health, but I don't think the school will be closed," he said.

Hit hard last week with about 50 per cent of the pupils away was St. Michael's Academy.

Here however the situation was reported much better today with attendance being almost back to normal.

"We are definitely on the upgrade anyway," reported a school official.

In the public schools, Queen Alexandra seemed to be the hardest hit while attendance was also down at several of the other schools.

R.K. King George School four teachers were said away with the 'flu.

Recreation Committee Chairman Defends Location of Centre

Members of the Belleville Recreational Committee will shortly commence a program to "sell" to the electorate the idea of renovating the building on the Pinnacle Street parking lot for use as a recreational centre.

The matter of renovating the buildings at a cost of about $200,000, has been left to the taxpayers to decide at the next municipal election.

Last night at city council, recreation committee chairman Wilson Tassel addressed members in refutation of statements made by certain persons in council regarding the proposed renovation of the Pinnacle Street building.

As opposed to the claim of some persons that the north section of the building was a "rubble of stone," Mr. Wilson referred to a report of the architects Watson and Wiegand who, he said, had said the building was sound and with renovation could be made into a serviceable building.

TOO VALUABLE TO TEAR DOWN

Neither did he agree with another statement made by several aldermen that the Pinnacle Street property had been purchased for parking only. The concrete building on the lot was too valuable to be torn down, he said.

Neither could he agree that there was anything wrong with the location as a recreation centre. Members of the committee, along with recreational director Lloyd Doran, felt the location was suitable.

The present concrete structure on the lot would not be large enough to serve the committee purpose without the stone building to the north. It would cost an additional $9,000 to raze the stone structure and rebuild it, Mr. VanTassel said.

Value of the property following proposed renovations would be close to $90,000, he said.

Booster Club To Hold Meeting

Due to important business to be brought before the Booster Club, the members are requested to attend a meeting at the City Hall on Wednesday evening at eight bells.

At the meeting the members will finalize details on the present draw and also arrange for another draw that will be completed in the Christmas season from date of sale. A financial report on the "Meet the Macs" dance held last week, which was considerable business to be transacted and the executive looks for a large turnout.

On Monday, Ald. Robert Temple, secretary of the Booster Club received a letter from Robert Ballard of Ajax, who is connected with the Whitby Booster Club as executive dispatch and who is in charge of the distribution of tickets for the hockey game between the Russian squad and the Dunlops at Maple Leaf Gardens on November 19th. Mr. Ballard informed the secretary there would be a limited number of tickets for this district and the disposition of these tickets will be discussed at the meeting on Wednesday evening.

CARDS OF THANKS

In the midst of our sorrow we wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown to us during the illness and passing of our husband, father and brother, Richard Wilson. Especially do we wish to thank Rev. Daniel, Dr. Ross and Dr. Bell, the beautiful floral offerings, the pall bearers and the Thrasher Funeral Home, for their kind and efficient management.—Mrs. Wilson and family.—Hoskin family.

Lakeland Gas Ready to Start Laying Pipe

Lakeland Natural Gas is ready to start installation of service lines through various parts of the city.

This was revealed at a city council last night in a letter from city engineer Charles Mott.

Plans of the company appear to be to install the lines under streets and roadways close to the curbs, following which they agree to restore all road surfaces and other services.

Alderman Douglas Moxam questioned if the lines could not be placed at the property line but Mr. Mott advised, He said this would save tearing up streets except at intersections and he felt it could be done cheaper.

The city engineer will be directed to look this matter up with the gas company.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market stretched its decline into a fourth straight session today as industrials led the market lower in light morning trading.

The industrial index lost more than two points in the first hour. Base metals and western oils lost each lost one-half point and touched new indexed lows for the year. Golds were one-quarter of a point easier.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 597,000 shares compared with 533,000 at the same time Monday.

Industrial losses ranged to more than a point with Lakeland Natural Gas leading, off 1½ points at 10½.

International Nickel led senior base metals lower with a ¾-point loss to a new low of 72⅜. Hollinger was off ⅞ to 29½, a 1957 low, among senior golds. Giant Yellowknife was up 30 cents to $4.85 among lower-priced mines but the general trend was to the downside.

Western oils were down in a solid line, featured by Prairie Oil's 70-cent loss to $5, a 1957 low.

Second day speakers will be Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Premier Frost and Solicitor-General Leon Balcer.

First Major Gas Pipeline Ready for Use

By ERWIN FRICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — The first major natural gas pipeline to be built in Canada opened officially today.

Premier Bennett, by turning a valve installed in a ballroom of the Hotel Vancouver, will send Peace River natural gas flowing into distribution lines throughout British Columbia.

The turn — on ceremony will climax nearly 20 years of planning and the construction of construction work on Westcoast Transmission Company Limited's $200,000,000 pipeline project.

Westcoast says the opening ceremony will be attended by the greatest concentration of investment men and bankers ever gathered in Western Canada.

ALSO IN U.S.

Buyers of the gas are Inland Natural Gas Company Limited, for communities in the B.C. interior; the B.C. Electric Company for the lower mainland; and Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation, for United States Pacific Coast states.

In its initial operating phase, the 650-mile Westcoast line will deliver 400,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day. When additional compressor stations are added, its capacity will be raised to 660,000,000 cubic feet a day.

Frank, Friendly Talks Underway Concerning Trade

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States today took a fresh look at some of the irritants, largely of American origin, which beset economic relations between the two countries.

A four-man cabinet committee from Ottawa, led by Finance Minister Donald Fleming, sat down with State Secretary Dulles and three other U.S. cabinet secretaries to exchange views on what can be done to solve the problem.

The talks behind closed doors at the state department will continue through today.

Fleming told reporters after Monday's sessions that the discussions were conducted "with the utmost frankness on both sides and in the friendliest possible spirit." He declined to indicate what specific subjects were considered but said "we covered a lot of ground."

A state department announcement said the talks are regarded as of "great importance" because they provide a chance "for fuller understanding and speedier progress toward the solution of economic problems affecting Canada and the United States."

The Canadian agenda appeared to be Canada's complaint that U.S. methods of disposing of surplus farm products are undermining Canadian wheat markets.

U.S. sources said the Canadians formally launched their complaint on this score Monday. Both sides were expected to have a better understanding of the respective positions after the five-hour meetings.

J. Earl McQueen Tugboat Skipper Dies in Windsor

WINDSOR (CP)—Capt. J. Earl McQueen of Amherstburg, marine contractor and one of the most colorful tugboat skippers on the Great Lakes, died in hospital today.

In January 1956, he disposed of his marine contracting business, McQueen Marine Ltd. He remained director of the firm after it was taken over by new owners.

He was master of the 600-ton Atomic, which carried off top honors in the international tugboat race several times since the event was founded in 1950.

Capt. McQueen got his early training as salvage in the Royal Navy.

The captain was born in Kingsville, Ont. His mother, who lives at a Windsor nursing home, was the last May. She is the former Ida McCormick, direct descendant of William McCormick, first owner of Pelee Island.

After overseas service in the First World War, Capt. McQueen returned to Canada in 1921 and became associated with the Canada Steamship Lines. For a number of years he made his home in Belleville.

Surviving is his wife. There are no children.

Editor's note: Mr. McQueen was well known in the city during the late 20's and early 30's. While a resident in the city he was attached to the Provincial Police headquarters as a sergeant.

B of M Wins Socrates Award For Best Ad

MONTREAL — Rating first among Canadian banks for its advertising during the past 12 months, the Bank of Montreal has again won the Socrates Award for the "best ad of the month" and earned the third highest score for North America in the "Bank Ad-views" survey of financial advertising covering the United States and Canada.

With the exception of one year, the B of M has had the top advertising rating for Canada for the past 12 years. In 1945, 1946 and 1954—it took first place on the continent.

In the latest issue of "Bank Ad-views" published by Vincent Edwards & Co., New York, covering the final survey scoring, announcement is made of the Socrates Award going to the B of M for an institutional piece published by the bank in London, Ont., titled "He brought the first friendly banking London had known."

The ad tells the story of the arrival of the B of M's representative in the community by stagecoach in 1844 when the present Western Ontario metropolis was "a small town of only 3,500 souls, surrounded by thick forests, abounding with game," and relates the development of London and its first bank up to the present time.

Former Forests Minister Fails To Appear

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert E. Sommers, former forests minister for British Columbia, did not appear Monday for pre-trial examination in a slander suit before Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes of the B.C. Supreme Court.

The former Social Credit cabinet minister started the suit against David Sturdy, Vancouver lawyer, 21 months ago. He charged he had been slandered by Mr. Sturdy in a statement made before the Sloan Royal Commission of Enquiry.

It was Mr. Sommers' second non-appearance. On Sept. 23 his counsel presented a medical certificate, claiming Mr. Sommers suffered from a nervous condition. Mr. Justice McInnes had set Monday as the date for the hearing.

Mr. Sturdy issued a statement in which he said the defence is willing to waive examination for discovery and proceed with the trial.

Mr. Sommers, who retained his seat in the legislature after his resignation from the cabinet Feb. 17, 1956, was reported ill some weeks ago. His whereabouts have been kept a secret by his family and his immediate friends.

Mr. Justice McInnes has said the trial should proceed without delay. He set Oct. 21 as the trial date.

Ontario Liberal Leader May Quit

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Star says Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver is thinking of resigning.

The story says Mr. Oliver is faced with a move to replace him organized by at least two of the 11 Liberal members of the provincial legislature.

It says William Bendickson, federal member for Kenora-Rainy River, is reported to have received a letter Saturday from a prominent Liberal member of the legislature, urging him to announce his candidacy for the Ontario leadership.

The Star says Mr. Bendickson, urged in vain in the past to run for the Ontario leadership, said in Ottawa: "I haven't given it any consideration."

The story says Mr. Oliver said he has known for some time of efforts to unseat him by one Liberal member in the legislature. It adds that the letter to Mr. Bendickson was written by another member.

Butter, Cheese Production Up Over Last Year

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario creamery butter production totalled 88,892 pounds in August exceeding almost three per cent higher than the 8,646,200 pounds during the same period last year, the department of agriculture reports.

Cumulative output of the same product for the first eight months this year amounted to 53,687,900 pounds, as against 58,807,100 during the first eight months of 1956.

Cheese factories turned out 8,282,400 pounds of cheddar cheese during August, as compared to 7,613,100 pounds in the same month last year.

Output of cheddar cheese during the first eight months of this year, 42,295,500 pounds, bettered by eight-per-cent the 39,185,300 pounds in the corresponding eight months last year.

Frills Erased From Canadian Coat of Arms

OTTAWA (CP)—The frills have been erased from the Canadian coat of arms.

A reproduction of the simplified design of the coat of arms now is in place at the main entrance of Parliament's centre block at the foot of the Peace Tower.

The reproduction is part of Parliament Hill's decorations for the four-day visit of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip which begins Saturday.

The government has authorized use of the new design for all government purposes, such as on productions on stationery, medals, insignia and buildings, the state department said Monday.

A simplified design of the shield surmounted by the crown, used as an alternative to reproduction of the entire coat of arms, also was authorized.

NEATER LOOK

Generally, removing unnecessary frills makes the coat not heraldic elements—from the coat of arms has given it a neater, clearer appearance. It retains all the heraldic elements assigned by a 1921 proclamation, which describes the coat of arms in heraldic terms.

For instance, the harp represented in the shield of the coat of arms was previously given in the form of a woman. Now it's just a harp.

The major change is use of the St. Edward's Crown rather than the Tudor Crown. The former is depressed at the top; the Tudor Crown rises to a slight peak.

FIRED AT CORONATION

Shortly after her accession to the throne Queen Elizabeth made known that she would approve representations of the Royal Crown to be of the St. Edward's Crown with which she was crowned.

Among changes in the new coat of arms design is the color of the maple leaves used in the lower third of the shield. Now they're shown as one bunch of green.

Colors of the mantling behind the crest were changed from red and white—now are white lined with red in keeping with the proclamation.

NOTED NAME

LONDON (CP)—A new block in the Fleet Street district has been named "Clem Attlee," after the former Labor prime minister. Earl Attlee was present at the formal opening.

Real Estate Prices on Mars Still Going Up

TOKYO (AP) — The price of real estate on Mars has jumped five - fold in Japan since the Soviet satellite started its whizzing through space.

The Japan Space Travel Association, founded last year to whip up interest in outer space, says it has already sold more than 40,000 acres of Mars land, most of it for 200 yen (55 cents) an acre.

"Since the satellite boom, land on Mars is selling for 1,000 yen ($2.70) an acre," Toraji Kishida, the association's secretary, said today.

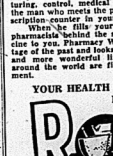
Find Teamster Election Papers In Incinerator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets investigators say they hope to establish Wednesday how many teamsters union election documents have been salvaged from a hotel incinerator.

James R. Hoffa, newly elected president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, told Monday he understood all the papers have been found and forwarded here.

However, Robert F. Kennedy, counsel of the rackets committee, said a union lawyer told him he knew some of the documents "were gone" but didn't know how many were missing.

The documents were subpoenaed by the committee immediately after Hoffa's election at the union's convention last Friday in a sequel to charges that the balloting had been rigged to assure his victory in the face of corruption charges against him.



PRODUCE DOCUMENTS

The subpoena was served on Joe Konowe, secretary of the convention credentials committee. It was directed him to produce all documents relating to the seating of delegates and the election of officers.

Senator John McClellan, chairman of the Senate committee, issued a statement Monday saying a teamster lawyer reported that a hotel maid threw the documents in a hotel incinerator.

McClellan said that when Senate investigators requested the name of the maid so that she might be interviewed, they were told she had died of a heart attack.

In Miami, the Eden Roc Hotel, the convention headquarters, said a day maid who had worked in the teamsters Eden Roc office died of a heart attack Oct. 3. The woman, stricken while off duty, was identified as Mrs. Jane Lockhart, 52.

FIRE PROTECTION WEEK

Have you ever seen the charred, blackened remains of a human being who met death while sleeping in the supposed security of his own home? Maybe you have seen the destructive power of flames as they raced through a private home or office building.

Those sights are horrible. Yet each of them might be seen in Belleville if we do not take time out from the television set to inspect minutely all electrical appliances, sockets and outlets in the house. We should also check space heaters, oil and coal-burning furnaces and any other apparatus that can cause fire.

Piles of newspapers and magazines should be removed from the house; a general clean-up of the attic and basement is in order at this time. Put inflammable wastes in a covered container and let the sanitation department dispose of them.

This week - - October 6 - 12 - - is Fire Prevention Week, a week in which we all get together and conduct major clean-up operations.

Two people died in Belleville by fire since last year's recognition of Fire Prevention Week. Thousands of dollars of damage has been done. Several people have been left homeless.

Each time the alarm rings in the city's fire halls, teams of expert firefighters speed to the scene. And every time a reel leaves those halls, loaded with firemen, danger winks an eye at them and everyone along their route.

Let us all resolve that we will not be the indirect cause of fire starting in our homes or offices. This week let us all pitch in and remove all fire hazards in our city and district.

TWO VIEWPOINTS

Sometimes we are inclined to forget that in foreign trade, even more than in some other fields, one man's meat is often another man's poison.

Monday a new round of talks between Canadian and United States officials opened at Washington an economic relationships between the two countries. The conference, of the joint Canada-U.S. committee on trade and economic affairs which was first organized in 1953 and which last met in September of 1955, will deal largely, it is predicted "with Canada's perennial complaint that U.S. trade policies, particularly in the sale of surpluses of wheat and other farm products, are undermining Canadian markets abroad."

Any reminder were needed that what appears a most alarming situation to Canadian delegates may strike their U.S. colleagues as a highly desirable achievement, this was provided by another despatch from Washington the same day, this time a report by the International Wheat Council. The Council said that since August 1 the U.S. has succeeded in selling about 29 per cent of its quota under the International Wheat Agreement for the present marketing year, while Canada's sales have amounted to only 18 per cent of her quota.

This gives Canadian delegates to the trade talks up-to-the-minute figures on which to base their protests.

The Americans, however, may be something less than shocked by this situation. American officials in Washington say that their country is merely seeking its share of world markets.

PERTINENT COMMENT

Canadian troops, returning home from Egypt where they have been serving with the United Nations Emergency Force, are reported to have expressed feelings of frustration over the manner in which the Force operated in many situations.

Part of this feeling of frustration is said to have been caused by "the actions of senior civilian administrators at UNEF headquarters who have little or no military background."

It would be desirable, of course, if the cause of such frustration were removed in the event of any future similar UN police action. But the comment of Major Stan Tait of New Westminster, B.C., commanding officer of the RCEME at Rafah, appears to best sum up the situation.

"Sure, we've all had problems and frustrations, but I'd sooner go through a dozen UNEF's than have to take part in another shooting war."

All of us should be able to say "Amen" to that.

THE WISE MAN

You must have met the man who knows
To always know it all;
Who knows just why his friends succeed
And knows just why they fail;
Who knows why Brown divorced his wife
And just what caused the blow;
He always seems to know so much
That really isn't so.

He knows who slugged Bill Patterson,
He knows the age of Ann;
He knows how much his neighbor earns
And tells it where he can.
He knows what caused the Frisco quake,
Why airplanes will not go,
It's wonderful how much he knows
That really isn't so.

He's always busy night and day
Distributing the news.
No matter what you're talking of,
This man you cannot lose.
He knows it all; without a doubt,
And this he'll plainly show;
It is remarkable the things
He knows that are not so.

Letter To The Editor

Thinks Narrow Road Cause of Accident

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

A tragedy occurred on Saturday that should appall all the citizens in this district.

I refer to the terrible accident on Highway 2 at the point where the road is too narrow for the traffic it carries. Deep ditches lie on both sides of the road and, therefore, no effective shoulders exist.

City children going to public school have to travel this road each day. The school children have a bus to take them to school. High school youngsters from both city and township walk along this road to school.

It is my considered opinion that this inadequate road was wholly the cause of the fatal accident on Saturday, for I am suggesting it was conceivably a contributing factor.

Belleville is governed by a mayor and a council of four-teen, with Thurlow township by a reeve, deputy reeve and three councilmen. To all these men and women, who share the honor and privilege of controlling the municipal affairs of these two municipalities, must also accept the grave responsibility that goes with their positions. Can any member say that he or she has done all in their power to bring about the correction of this death trap? Can they say that they have exercised without doubt or without a quiver in their hearts? Both councils have been approached by their citizens requesting that College St. be widened, not just here but many, many times; not just recently, but over a period of five or six years. Both councils have talked at their meetings about this deadly road. Both councils have had the property owners approached regarding the acquiring of land with a view to widening the road. But, over the period of these years, both councils have done nothing positive to correct this condition.

The mayor of the city says the boundary line is on the south side of the road and the responsibility is largely the township's. The township officials suggest it is the city that is delaying correction of this condition, since it has the power to enter agreement with all the property owners to acquire the necessary land on the south side of the road. It has further been suggested that it has been delayed so that when the job is done, storm sewers and the like can be put in and laid in.

Tossing the ball back and forth does not in any way lessen the responsibility of each of these councils. The failure of the councils to correct this dangerous road is their responsibility, but, in a sense, our responsibility as well. We, as citizens, used every means at our disposal to make our council aware of the fact that we made it as much an issue as we "should have" in the newspaper editorially ever assumed its responsibility and expressed an opinion on any civic issue, for that matter, does it ever express its opinion on any civic controversial municipal matter? Each member of these two councils should realize that they have been derelict in their duty. It has been said that a child would be run down anything was done on College Street. Let each member of council look at this or her child and make as much haste as if their lives were at stake.

The sacrifice has been made. Let the councils prove that with the blood and widen this road before the price is paid again.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
October 8th., 1937

From our file copy at this time in 1937: Mr. A. C. Mott has arrived here from Hamilton and is stopping at Hotel Quinte. Mr. Mott will take over the management of the old St. George's Hotel on Front Street in the near future.

Miss Mary Adams spent yesterday in Toronto.

Mrs. Charles Wilson and daughter, Phyllis, have returned home after spending six weeks at Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia.

Mr. H. Gray of Irvine, Scotland, has arrived here on a visit to his son, Mr. Hugh Gray, 4th. concession of Sidney township.

Mr. C. D. Sulman and Mrs. Sulman of Chatham, have been the guests of the former's uncle, Mr. Charles N. Sulman, East Bridge Street.

The opening of Albert College Manse House was the occasion of a charmingly - arranged reception at which five hundred residents of the city were present yesterday afternoon and evening. The guests who were received by Mrs. Bert Howard, Miss Jessie B. Yates, president, women, and Mrs. E. N. Baker, had the opportunity to inspect the lovely old home which is perfectly adapted to its new use as a residence for the young ladies attending the college.

30 YEARS AGO
October 8th., 1927

Mr. F. Fitchett and his sister, Mrs. Post of Canniton, are spending a few days with relatives in Flint, Mich.

Lieut. Col. David Barrow, principal of Queen Mary School is resigning at the end of this month, owing to ill health. He has taught in Belleville schools for 35 years and was a highly efficient and popular teacher.

Mrs. H. Rattery of Long Beach, California, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Stephen Burrows, East Bridge Street.

50 YEARS AGO
October 8th., 1917

The Canadian Club in Chicago, of which Mr. William Robertson, formerly of this city, president, is holding a big drive for new members and hopes to equal or surpass the large membership of the New York City Canadian Club.

Lieut. E. A. Geen and Gerald Jenkins are spending a few days at Wellington on leave.

The city council has decided to place before the electors at the next election the matter of a civic coal yard.

They Just Had To Be Clever

Vancouver Sun

It's now obvious that the world needs bigger and dirtier streets for ticker-tape parades in fall-out. If we understand the peculiar scientific logic of the British professor who says "these explosions may have caused an upsurge in children's intelligence," who even consider banning the bomb? We need them more intelligent children.

It is, however, most likely that Professor Blackett already has a few bombs would wipe out the entire population in a few minutes, children have just had to be born with superior intellect. Just as Nature provides protective coloration so that certain animals are camouflaged against their enemies, so she may have decided that children need better intellectual equipment to meet the murderous tendencies of adults too low for natural selection to generate for total disarmament.

This Briton has said that tests on 5,000 of these "strontium 90 kids" show "intelligence beyond their years." Brothers, they'll need it!

Stork Stance To Be Probed

Hamilton Spectator

Scientists have noticed that Australian aborigines, like flamingoes, cranes and storks (except when in flight and looking for the world's bassinets) stand on one leg to rest.

Why?

That's a question which an expedition bound for the South Alligator River in the Northern Territory of Australia hopes to answer. An orthopaedic surgeon then will train a group of white volunteers—perhaps golf-pro-cricket players—to copy the one-legged stance, while their colleagues record on cine-film the muscle movements to be checked to measure the repose value.

Have the naked aborigines a preference for preferring not to sit down on the hot, stony desert, even as Canadians are seen at rest about the repose value of sitting down on a hot stove or standing on two?

If the expedition returns with good answers—then possibly we'll be seeing people chatting vivaciously at street corners, balancing parcels in two hands and themselves on one leg—and trying to keep the other out of the way of passers-by.

But if the journey is a failure, then the Australian aborigines —on generous expense accounts and well supplied with travellers' cheques — may equip a delegation to send out from their native land in an attempt to discover just why on earth we stand on two.

Strength for The Day

LIFE OUT OF DEATH

Jesus, in His sojourn on the earth, set forth many seemingly strange doctrines. On one occasion He said, "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abides alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit."

How as a fact of agriculture, this is true beyond all possibility of argument. The grain for as the King James Version has it, the "corn" of wheat falls into the ground and dies, and, as a result, produces a wheat stalk with a head containing many grains of wheat. And from this simple fact of the growing world, Jesus deduced a spiritual principle. "He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal."

In other words, said Jesus, the only way you can be fruitful in the spiritual world is the way a seed is fruitful in the physical world. You must die. Not dying the death which will result in your burial, but dying that inner death of selfishness and egotism in order that you may experience the wonderful and resurrected life which comes to those who have yielded their wills and their souls in obedience to God.

We are spiritual beings. This makes life very wonderful to us because a conflict goes on continually between the flesh and the spirit. But it also makes life glorious. Out of struggle — yes, out of death — comes life.

Highway 2 Toll Is High

Peterborough Examiner

The crash that killed six Italians on Highway No. 2 west of Brighton is a tragic repetition of what has become almost commonplace along that notorious stretch of road. Since January 1, 1956 there have been 12 fatal accidents causing 18 deaths on the road between Cobourg and Trenton. To our discredit we have grown inured to the reports of them and to the winding, hilly road that partly causes them.

So, apparently, has the Department of Highways. These 33 miles will continue to claim lives — 10 more at the present rate — for at least another year before the final contracts for construction of the new Highway No. 401 in this area are let. In the meantime, stretches around Belleville, Kingston and Trenton proper will be completed. Volume of traffic, it seems, takes precedence over the number of fatalities when it comes to building a new road.

No one will ever be known for certain what caused these accidents; much less particularly who to blame be attributed entirely to the road. But if the toll of 18 lives in 20 months is not sufficient to jolt Department officials into reconsidering their work schedule, when the 19th is claimed, but not useless to remind them that a different road, No. 401 or not, might have saved seven lives in the past summer alone. A few "minor" scuffs on the new road could have an equal number.

One of the ironies surrounding this latest accident is the announcement only a few days earlier by Highways Minister Leslie Gordiefellow (through whose riding much of this stretch of highway passes) that final contracts for the Newcastle-Brighton section of Highway No. 401 would be let by the end of September 1958. The Brighton to Trenton section will probably be done by that time. The young Italians came to Canada a year too soon, and not soon enough to have learned of the hazards of this particular highway. One cannot help wondering what outcry would have been raised if the dead had been a record of Cobourg or Trenton football players, instead of comparatively unknown newcomers.

Amnesty Criticized

Ottawa Journal

The Minister of Justice has announced that four inmates of the Queen's visit all prisoners in Canada will be entitled to remission of one month's sentence for the period of their sentences.

The Journal wonders whether the time for the Queen, Kings and Queens came and went, often as a part of a political or military revolution, amnesty used to be granted much as a kind of political patronage. Nowadays, often the sovereign's prisoner was the next sovereign's hero and heroine.

In latter centuries the practice has been less flagrantly abused, but it is difficult to see why it seems rather absurd to say that a prisoner in custody for his sentence reduced because the Queen has come. What of the prisoners who were released, say, last month? Were they more worthy than the Queen? And will those who enter jail the week after the Queen's visit be more deserving of full sentence than the present lot?

And what about prisoners? If the Queen's coming should be taken as an occasion for clemency in council, should the government reduce our income tax by one-tenth, and should the government municipal governments likewise? Should our city taxes be clipped by the Queen's honor? May we all be just a little careless of the law for a month or so after a Year?

The righteous or the law abiding or the responsible portion of our citizenry should be prepared to share in whatever Royal favors may be conferred in the idea of a Royal visit extended to the wrongdoer makes little sense to us.

Besides, what has happened in Canadian courts, or Ottawa courts for that matter, in recent years argues that what makes us feel sentences should be thus reduced, leniency has been in full flower in our land.

One thing more: the Queen is expected to see the St. Lawrence Waterway system in the Spring of 1959. Will that mean another one-twelfth off the penalties which we have put upon our transgressors?

Jag Legs

"Relative has been an alcoholic for forty years. During that time he would drink anything that was obtainable, from the cheapest wine . . . Today the muscles in his legs have collapsed and he has what is commonly known as jag legs. He has been spending our money going from one doctor to another and I know he is not truthful with them. Are we wasting our money on him as he continues to drink, or is there a cure for jag legs? (W.L.H.)"

It is a familiar sign of beri-beri, multiple neuritis, alcoholic paresis (partial paralysis.)

An early and characteristic sign of beri-beri, multiple neuritis, alcoholic neuritis or paresis (partial paralysis, which may become complete paralysis if the drinking continues), is flunking the squatting test. That is to say the individual is unable to rise from squatting on his or her heels without using the hands. Flunking the squatting test actually indicates vitamin B deficiency — but beri-beri and the paresis or partial paralysis of alcoholism are due to severe, prolonged or habitual lack of vitamin B.

In answer to W.L.H.'s question is yes, you are wasting your money or worse, allowing the alcoholic to waste it going from one doctor to another and lying to the doctors.

For God's sake and for the alcoholic's sake you should have the man committed to a state or private hospital for care and treatment. It may not be, before even now, if you can fail to do this, you are not kind or considerate, you are negligent.

His near or next of kin applies to a court (county or higher court) to name a commission of medical examiners who are qualified to determine the man's incompetence. Upon the commission's findings, the court commits the man for care and treatment. When and if you make up your mind to do the best you can for the man, put the matter in your attorney's hands.

Whether you act now or procrastinate, try to get the man to eat whole wheat instead of refined wheat products, organ fresh wheat germ and wheat bran.

Anyone who flunks the squatting test indicates other signs of B deficiency should supplement his diet with a good daily ration of vitamin B complex. This is particularly important when the individual skips meals or eats little because he has poor appetite.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ACCEPTANCE

One of the great rules for the creation of a happy and courageous life is to learn the gospel of acceptance. And by this I mean to take every day in its stride, to take the bitter with the sweet, the unpleasant with the unpleasant. Basic human nature is the same the world over. We feel and have emotions that are an inheritance of millions.

No matter what sort of a personal problem we may be called upon to solve let us set ourselves to the task and handle it without complaint. When I think of the courageous people who are doing this every day I am heartened, but often I am ashamed of my own efforts along this line and I turn to others for inspired guidance.

How often there is none about us to give us a helping hand except God, who is everywhere. But how seldom do we call upon Him! Readiness is something that should go with the acceptance that we are so often called upon to meet on our own. If we fight against what is best for us how can we expect to gain peace and relaxation?

There is a solution for every problem without exception. If this were not true how is it that we have been able gladly — or reluctantly — to meet and overcome? For example, that bridge you figured you had to cross but when you came to it gladly — for it wasn't there at all and never was.

William James once wrote that each one of us should do something each day that we rather not do — just for the pure discipline of the act. Thus, also, should we give ourselves to the acceptance of whatever comes our way, and be gladly — glad for the will and means of mind to do bravely and gracefully!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

By far the biggest event of the present century is not the automobile nor the airplane, nor radio — not, at any rate, the two world wars nor the rise of Russia. The biggest event of the present century is the liberation of the brown, black, yellow and other races from the domination of the white race.

If I were an American, the thing that would scare me stiff in the present crisis over integration and Little Rock would be the refusal of the white man to long been used, should now refuse integration.

Suppose the negro were to say: "We don't want to be integrated with the white race. We demand equality. We want separate but technical schools and universities on an absolute par with those at present in agriculture, industry, public utilities, public health and numerous other fields, in all communities throughout the nation. Since individual state governments show little intention of aiding us in our struggle to liberate ourselves from the domination of the white race, we demand that the federal government, which has as equals in citizenship with the white race, provide us every opportunity educational, social and economic, to prepare our people for the modern era which is emerging in Asia, Africa and elsewhere. In view of the great responsibility that is ours in this distant future, we now prefer to be separate. We decline integration."

In the United States there are 15 million negroes. South American countries, Cuba and the West Indies, mainly negro, and Africa are estimated to be 150 millions. That is a very considerable number to have made race conscious. There are two processes by which race consciousness is made. One is by pride. When we see eight little black children, with incomparable courage, braving the gauntlet of hundreds of howling, jeering, threatening, brick-throwing white adults, we cannot help but know that seeds of pride have now been planted. It is getting better to be a negro. It is not quite so comfortable being white.

98th Birthday Greatly Enjoyed By Mrs. J. Barry

TRENTON (Special) — Guests from Toronto, Hamilton, Cobourg, Colborne, Belleville, Trenton and Frankford attended the dinner party given at the Dutch Mill Inn, Trenton on Saturday for Mrs. John Barry, of Frankford, who celebrated her 98th birthday on that day.

Her son, Frank Barry, who is a familiar figure in real estate business in both Trenton and Belleville, was host to his mother on the occasion. Bronze chrysanthemums decorated the table where Mrs. Barry sat, surrounded by her family, and the huge cake, with "Happy Birthday, Mother" written in icing expressed the wishes of all.

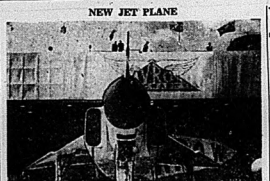
Telegrams were received from Rochester and St. Catharines, conveying birthday wishes from friends and relatives. Mrs. Barry, who is quite a member of the family, is "as bright as a silver dollar", enjoyed every minute of her party. Another party was also given in Frankford for Mrs. Barry by her daughter, Mrs. J. J. Regan. Among those present at the Trenton party were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barry, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Regan, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Barry, Mrs. Joe Barry, Mr. and Mrs. V. Canary, Mrs. James Regan and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Follwell.

FIVE BAPTIZED

Rev. Kenneth F. Blachford, Rector of St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, baptized five children on Sunday afternoon at St. George's. They were Wendy Lou Workman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Workman; Bruce Courtenay Amm, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Amm; Paul Arthur Ebinga, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Ebinga; Randall John Thomas Peake, and Penelope Martha Anne Peake, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peake.

SECTIONAL RALLY HELD

Members of Grace United Church Women's Missionary Society and affiliated members, together with other W. M. S. representatives from Belleville, Selem, Stirling and other points, met at Stone Church in the 4th concession at Sidney Township last Friday for an all-day Sectional rally. Chester during the morning session, which was opened by Mrs. M. Carlisle, was Mrs. G. McMullen, who spoke on Japan, and reviewed books and pamphlets on the subject.



Bayside Auxiliary took the morning offering, and reports were given by the various secretaries and treasurers.

Members then saw films depicting the training of the CGIT girls' groups, showing how the training helped the girls to find their vocation in life.

Following a delicious dinner served by the Stone Church Auxiliary in the church hall, the afternoon session began, which was organized by Salem Church Auxiliary. The afternoon speaker was Miss Violet Saunders, a returned missionary from the Japanese field, who has spent many years as a public and high school teacher in that country. Miss Saunders, who was introduced by Mrs. J. Holmes, said that in 1959 Japan will be celebrating her 10th year of Christianity. The Japanese people were seeking a Christian faith, said Miss Saunders and told her hearers that they should do what they could to help them to find it.

Seventeen members of the Stone Church Mission Band then sang two musical items. Miss Spafford, Stirling, spoke on how leaders are trained at the school for leadership in Whitby. Most films on Jananese life, which included shots of rice fields, farms and even a Japanese supermarket were eagerly watched by an interested audience. Rev. W. McMullen of Stone church closed the meeting with prayer.

NEW JET PLANE

This is a nose-on view of the CF-105 supersonic Arrow unveiled at the Avro Aircraft Ltd. plant in Toronto. The plane, which has not yet flown, is said to have a speed of 1,200 miles an hour and will be capable of carrying a hydrogen bomb. Because of its enormous thirst for fuel, however, it will be able to remain in the air for only 20 to 30 minutes. (CP Photo.)

More Sightings May Speed Fix On 'Moon's' Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports of additional sightings of Russia's earth satellite raised hopes today that Western scientists might speed up the computing of its precise orbit.

The latest observations showed the satellite is circling the globe right on schedule at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour, although one conflicting set of unofficial calculations showed its speed had dropped to 15,500 possibly indicating the ball might drop from its orbit.

Radio reception from the satellite was interrupted at times Monday night. The Russian globe is dubbed "Sputnik" by Soviet authorities.

Information had been expected from data fed into a giant electronic computer at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass.

However, Monday night, Dr. Fred L. Whipple, observatory director, said the machine did not come up with the expected material because of insufficient or inaccurate data.

FAIRLY CLOSE

The results still were close enough, he said, to track the orbit within one minute and one degree.

The electronic calculations were based on sightings in Alaska and Australia. These were reported by persons co-operating in Moon Watch, a visual system originally set up to observe U.S. satellites when they are fired. All Moon Watch data are being assembled at the Cambridge observatory.

In Washington, officials reported two excellent sightings—both of them over Alaska Monday.

The report that the baby moon appeared to be slowing down came from scientists at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Monday night. Dr. Robert Fleischer, head of the observatory at Troy, N.Y., said calculations there showed the satellite was taking 100 minutes to circle the earth—about four minutes longer than before.

AGAIN PICKED UP

But that report was largely discounted by other late information, including a report that the satellite's pulsating radio signal had been picked up at Blossom Point, Md., at about 11:32 p.m. EDT Monday night.

Washington said that put the satellite right on schedule.

The problem of visual observation is complicated by the fact that actually there are two satellites—the regular sphere and the rocket used to launch the globe into its orbit. They are about 620 miles apart.

The radio signals have perplexed many U.S. observers. A joint statement that the "beeps" might be transmitting temperatures was the first Russian statement which offered any clarification of variations in the radio signal.

In Alaska, U.S. naval officers reported watching the sphere for 10 minutes, and said it appeared to change color, from red to yellow to white. They said it had the brilliance of a second magnitude star.

CANADIANS FOUND DEAD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles County coroner's office reports an autopsy failed to show the cause of death of two Canadians whose bodies were found Thursday on a canyon road north of Los Angeles. The bodies were in an advanced state of decomposition. The men were identified as John Radicet, 58, and his brother, Joseph, 63, of Ottawa.

West Prepares To Put Arms Plan Before UN Body

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Western delegates of some 21 countries today planned to seek speedy discussion of their new disarmament plan as the UN General Assembly's chief political committee moved into action.

With the political committee holding its organization meeting this morning, the Western delegates put finishing touches on a resolution based on the West's general arms plan outlined at the recent London talks.

The Western delegates were expected to put the resolution before the committee Wednesday and to seek immediate discussion of it.

Indian delegate V. K. Krishna Menon meanwhile delayed unveiling his own rival arms plan, which it had been expected would be outlined in policy speech today to the assembly. An Indian spokesman said Menon's resolution had been held back until Wednesday. He added that Indian delegates were to confer tonight with U.S. disarmament negotiator Harold E. Stassen in an attempt to bring the U.S. and Indian arms views closer together.

WANTS SUSPENSION

The Indian proposal, like companion plans put forth by Russia and Japan, calls for suspension of all nuclear tests subject to inspection but prior to actual disarmament.

The Western plan specifies suspension of nuclear tests only after agreement is reached to stop using atomic material for weapons, reduce armed forces and evolve a comprehensive system of inspection.

The Western proposals include setting up an inspection system to ensure that sending rockets through outer space would be for peaceful and scientific purposes only.

The United States acknowledged it is studying what possible effect the launching of the Soviet space satellite will have on the disarmament picture and said it no doubt will have some proposals to make on that score in the future.

Panmure House Donated to Club By Roy Thomson

EDINBURGH (CP) — Panmure House, an historic building on the royal mile, Sunday was handed over to a Scottish boys' club by its Canadian owner, Roy Thomson.

The Princess Royal, the Duke of Hamilton and Grant, and a group of churchmen also participated in the ceremony of dedicating the building as club headquarters.

Panmure House once was the residence of the earls of that name, and of Adam Smith, the famous free trader. Thomson took it over along with other property when he acquired The Scotsman newspaper.

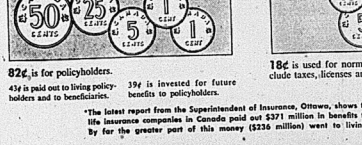
What do Life Insurance Companies Do with all the money?

Life insurance companies must report their financial operations to the Superintendent of Insurance.* According to the latest official figures here are the facts about the Life Insurance Dollar:



Where each Dollar comes from:

74¢ comes from premiums paid by policyholders for insurance to protect their wives and families . . . and for security in their own old age.

26¢ comes from earnings on policyholders' funds. These funds are invested under Government supervision and help to develop Canada.

What happens to each Dollar:

82¢ is for policyholders.

43¢ is paid out to living policyholders and to beneficiaries.

39¢ is invested for future benefits to policyholders.

18¢ is used for normal operating expenses which include taxes, licenses and fees paid to Governments.

*The latest report from the Superintendent of Insurance, Ottawa, shows that in 1956 the life insurance companies in Canada paid out $371 million in benefits to policyholders. By far the greater part of this money ($236 million) went to living policyholders.

Weddings

JOHNSTON — NOLAN

A quiet, but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 5, in Eastminster United Church, Belleville, by the Reverend Alexander McDowell, when Leona Mary, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. A. Harrigan, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Leo W. Nolan, became the bride of Maxwell Kingston Johnston, of Glen Miller, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnston.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her step-father, Mr. A. Harrigan, was becomingly attired in a princess styled suit in beige tone, with yellow accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Richard Byrd, sister of the bridegroom, who also wore a beige-tone ensemble, and a corsage of white carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. Richard Byrd.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the immediate families and friends in the church hall with approximately 25 attending.

For travelling to points north, the happy couple left amid best wishes, the result of their wedding ensemble. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside in Glen Miller.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored by a shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smith, of Belleville, when she received many lovely and useful gifts.

JENKINS — ROBERTS

Lovely baskets of pastel-tinted gladioli adorned the sanctuary and altar on Saturday, September 28th, at St. James' Church, Belleville, for a very pretty autumn wedding when Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church, united in a double-ring ceremony Jacqueline Burns Roberts, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Roberts of Belleville, to James Robert Morris Jenkins, son of Mrs. Morris (Judy) Jenkins, of Belleville, and Church, Mr. Morris Jenkins.

Mr. J. B. Herdman, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music.
